Dad a TV Newsman, Kids Not Impressed

The kids weren't really impressed when their dad, Arlington Heights resident Jim Ruddle, became a member of the Park-Ruddle television news team 10 months ago.

"When Blake (5) heard I was going back on television, he told me he'd open the bottom of the set to let me out. I don't know what was going on in his mind, but he wasn't impressed," said Ruddle, 1805 N. Wilshire Ave.

"Kathryn (6) was a little embarrassed at first," added Ruddle's attractive wife Ann. "But after he appeared in the Garfield Goose show she overcame that. She seems pleased to have him on TV now."

RUDDLE (James F.) and Gary Park appear nightly on WGN-TV, Channel 9, in a punchy news format in the style of the Huntley-Brinkley Reports.

The Ruddles moved to Arlington Heights from Tampa, Fla., when WGN revamped its television news programming last March. They have three children: Kathryn, who's enrolled at the Betsy Ross School in Prospect Heights District 23; Blake, who's beginning nursery school, and Valerie, 2½. The pet end of the family is held down by Max, a poodle acquired shortly before Kathryn's birth.

More than 150 volunteers will keep phones jangling Saturday to remind voters of the High School District 214 bond referendum.

Polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday at 28 different sites in the school district. Voters will be asked to approve—or disapprove—construction of a sixth District 214 high school and purchase of an additional school site.

The total price tag on the referendum is $6.8 million — $300,000 to be used for purchase of the additional site and the other $6.5 million to build and equip a high school proposed for a 38-acre location north of Willow Road (Thomas Street) just a quarter mile east of Rand Road in Prospect Heights.

THE 86 MEMBERS of a Citizens Committee, aided by other interested persons, are urging a "Yes" vote on the referendum. They point to the fact that by 1968 — the year the new high school would open — the district will have an estimated 14,000 high school students. Capacity of the district's present schools is 12,500.

They recommended using the Willow Road site, rather than others held by District 214, so the new school could take the pressure off Arlington, Prospect and Wheeling High Schools — the three expected to get the bulk of the student increase.

The proposed school on Willow Road is planned for a student capacity of 2,750, including 2,500 in a standard high school program and another 250 in an expanded vocational training section. Inclusion of the expanded vocational area was recommended by the Citizens group and also by a special committee of area industrialists asked to survey the problem.

ARCHITECTS' drawings for the proposed school call for it to be air conditioned in areas other than those used for physical education and shop work. Citizens committee members approved this feature, too, calling it a savings rather than a frill. The air conditioning makes it possible for the building to have a more compact design, they pointed out.

The additional school site which District 214 is asking permission to purchase is located a quarter mile north of Camp McDonald Road and a quarter mile east of Wheeling Road in the fast-growing River Trails elementary district. The site, 40 acres in size, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Ozmun.

CALL FOR RESULTS

Early results of Saturday's referendum for a sixth high school in District 214 will be available from Paddock Publications' telephone news service at about 8 p.m. Saturday.

Dial 392-2100 Saturday night or all day Sunday for a brief recorded message of the results.

Results of two area basketball games — Arlington at Hinsdale and De LaSalle at St. Viator — will be added to the message as final scores become available, about 11 p.m.

WHILE THE SIZE of this bond issue — $6.8 million — is largest proposed yet by the district, school officials say they think it is a bargain. They say the increased cost of the proposed school, $6.5 million as compared to a $5.3 million price tag for the soon-to-be-opened Elk Grove High School, was due in great part to an estimated 10 per cent rise in construction costs in the two year period.

The taxpayer, school officials say, can take comfort in the fact that the District 214's assessed valuation is climbing too. Because of this, the proposed new $6.5 million school will mean a $3.57 tax boost for the owner of a $20,000 home compared to a $4.43 tax increase for the same homeowner for financing of the $5.3 million Elk Grove school.

CONCENTRATION REQUIRED — Two of the volunteers working on the District 214 bond referendum balloting Saturday go over precinct lists to be used in getting the vote out. They are Mrs. George Czarny, 18 S. Maple Lane, Prospect Heights, and Mrs. Donald Elston, 103 Drake, Prospect Heights.

2 Downtown Projects Face Trustees Monday

A legal start on two downtown renewal programs will be considered on the Arlington Heights Village Board agenda Monday.

At a committee of the whole session Tuesday night, it was agreed to add to the board's agenda:

1) Consideration of condemnation proceedings against two structures immediately south of the Arlington Theater, and

2) An administration suggestion that the village file for hearings before the Illinois Commerce Commission on depression of the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks in Arlington Heights.

VILLAGE MGR. L. A. Hanson is to contact the owner of the two buildings at 105 and 109 N. Evergreen to see if he will agree to have them removed within a reasonable period of time.

Unless he gets a written commitment that they will be demolished, the board Monday will consider a resolution calling them a public nuisance and define the period of time within which they should be removed.

If nothing is done within that period, the village attorney will be instructed to file a suit to have them condemned on a nuisance basis.

Village Manager Hanson has contacted downtown property owners to offer suggestions about potential use of their property in downtown renewal. Consideration of condemnation proceedings Monday would be the first use of the village's coercive power.

IN THE OTHER item placed on the agenda, the village administration will ask that the village attorney be authorized to take the first legal steps toward getting Illinois Commerce Commission hearings on the depression of the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks.

Village Pres. John G. Woods said the village attorney should be authorized to file for the hearings but not before village officials have had a chance to meet again with Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the board of the Chicago and North Western Railway, and Robert Ballin, vice president in charge of real estate.

PLANS FOR depressing the Chicago and North Western tracks through Arlington Heights at an estimated cost of $22.5 million were presented to village officials in August by village consulting engineers Consoer, Townsend and Associates. An alternate, shorter track depression was estimated to cost $16 million.

At the proposed hearings, the village would seek Illinois Commerce Commission approval for the plan.

Cowen May Get Nod For Committeeman

Richard Cowen, 124 N. Gibbons Ave., Arlington Heights, may be the next Wheeling Township GOP committeeman.

Thomas Houser, present committeeman, is not likely to run for re-election due to more pressing duties as campaign manager for Charles H. Percy, Republican standard bearer for senator opposing U.S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas.

Houser has not made a statement on his township plans. However it is generally accepted by active Wheeling Township Republicans that Houser will not run.

IT IS THOUGHT he will be too busy with the campaign to handle the township and that should Percy win the election, Houser will undoubtedly go to Washington in some capacity.

The names of Thomas Hanlon and Thomas Novotny, two prominent precinct captains recently fired by Houser, have been entered into the unofficial race for committeeman as has that of State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, (R-Arlington Heights). Cowen has been considered a coalition candidate.

He has been active in Republican circles for the past several years.

A Loop attorney, Cowen was elected to a county GOP post in 1962, at the age of 27, when he was named chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans.

When asked about his candidacy he said, "Why, there's been nothing official on that." Pressed, he admitted he had done a great deal of thinking about the possibilities, and admitted he had considered "all angles."

SCHLICKMAN SAID, "Any statement at this time is premature until Tom (Houser) makes known what he intends to do."

Houser declined comment on his plans at this time.

One to Run, One Unsure On College

Board member Richard L. Johnson has decided to run for re-election to the District 301 Junior College Board in April, while Paul O'Dea has yet to make a decision.

Johnson, a resident of Arlington Heights, and O'Dea, a resident of Hoffman Estates, both drew the short straws when the junior college board was organized last year and members selected staggered terms of one, two, or three years.

Johnson and O'Dea expressed their intents while the board was adopting a resolution announcing the availability of nominating petitions at the junior college offices at 34 W. Palatine Road, Palatine.

O'Dea said afterwards that he will not reach a decision until mid-February.

Common Sense

The District 214 High School Board has presented a convincing case for approval of a bond issue to finance the sixth high school. Voting is scheduled for Saturday.

The board has continued to rely on the help of a large citizens committee, representing all parts of the district. This committee has worked with the board in drawing up plans for the school, and joins the board in urging voter approval.

The new school will cost more than previous ones, although increased assessed valuation within the district will make this building only one-fourth as costly per home as Prospect High School.

The citizens committee decided the district should expand its vocational facilities, so the new building will provide for 250 vocational students in addition to the normal enrollment of 2,500 pupils.

Because of economical new construction techniques, including interior classrooms, air conditioning will be provided in the academic and office wings. Air conditioning is normal in most stores, offices, and factories and is justifiable in a new school building, especially since District 214 intends to concentrate summer school programs at the new school.

District 214 is offering a common-sense proposal for a school which is a must to keep up with growing enrollment and to maintain our valuable reputation for providing first-class education.

Happy Anniversary To Garbagemen

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

This is by way of a belated anniversary wish for the garbagemen of Arlington Heights.

No one, apparently, noticed when your first anniversary passed quietly by last Dec. 1. On that noteworthy day in 1964 you became The Man at the Back Door.

BAUMANN

You used to pick up garbage either at the curb or at the back door, but you charged more for back door service. Then came a beautification committee, and they decided it was unsightly to have our cans sitting out at curbside twice a week.

The village board went along—for what was supposed to be a trial period—and a uniform back door service and rate were installed.

Now people in Arlington Heights don't complain loudly or often. So the few complaints that were expressed probably made you, Man at the Back Door, the cause celebre of 1965—possibly even of the decade.

A couple squawked so loudly even the Chicago press took notice and wrote humorous stories about their plight.

You were even debated in the spring elections.

After the election, the winners said they heard more complaints about you than any other municipal servant. I thought that was real news, since I've heard fewer complaints about you than on almost any other municipal servant.

The objections to your back door pickup still haven't settled. A few weeks ago I had a call from a lady who insisted fully one-third of the residents still haul their cans to the curb while paying for the posh back door service. She wanted to enlist our editorial support in a back-to-the-curb movement.

Through the hubbub, you trudged your rounds. Every Wednesday and Saturday you stopped at our back door, hauled away our stinking garbage. Rain, snow or bitter cold.

Tell me, did H. W. Laseke conduct a general service last Dec. 1? Did you observe it alone with a moment of silent thought?

Or did your anniversary slip by you like it did the rest of us?

Girl, 16, Hurt In 4-Car Pileup

A 16-year-old Arlington Heights girl was injured in a four-car pileup at Wilke Road and Grove Street shortly before 4 p.m. Saturday.

She is Patricia Schuetz, passenger in a car driven by Henry J. Schuetz, 44, of 1723 N. Verde Ave. She was treated at Northwest Community Hospital for head and knee injuries.

Other drivers involved in the series of rear-end collisions were Jane M. Johann, 19, of 103 N. Pine Ave., Betty J. Harold, of 150 Thacker, Roselle, and Joseph A. McGovern, 65, of 2909 Wilke Road, Rolling Meadows. (A

Suspect in $19 Robbery Tells of 'Money Problems'

"Money problems" were cited by a man arrested Monday in connection with the robbery of Len and Jim's Food Store, 15 E. Eastman St., Arlington Heights.

The man, Frank James Dean, 20, living at the Red Gable Motel, Palatine, got $19 in the robbery, according to police, and hung onto it for about five minutes before his arrest.

Dean told police he was driving on Northwest Highway shortly after noon Monday, thinking about money problems he had been having. He said he thought of getting money at the food store, where he had been previously. He parked in the Arlington Theatre lot and went into the store.

INSIDE, HE said, he drank a pop while waiting for several customers to leave. While waiting, Dean told police, he decided to return to his car to scribble the note he later gave Leonard H. Weidner, co-owner of the store:

"Deposit your money in sack except change—I've got a gun and will kill you if you do not cooperate."

Police said Dean then returned to the store, held up Weidner and walked back to his car. He was unarmed.

Weidner called police with a description. Officer George Ekblad, cruising in the area, spotted Dean crossing Wing Street headed for the theater. Officers Daryl Stille and Mike Schenkel, in a second squad, saw him enter his rented car.

They followed it and curbed it at Wing and Arlington Heights Road. They found loose change scattered over the floor of his car.

DEAN SAID he had been employed as a stable boy on occasion. He gave his permanent address as Hot Springs, Ark. Police said they learned he had taken a television set from the Bel Aire Motel in Palatine and charged him with theft as well as robbery.

A hearing has been set at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Arlington Heights Felony Court. Dean was held after he failed to raise $5,000 bond set by Judge Harold Sullivan. (A

Month-Long 'Opening' Slated by Schneller

A month-long grand opening will be celebrated during February at Schneller Furniture Co., 32 S. Evergreen Avenue, Arlington Heights.

The block-long structure between Evergreen and Dunton Avenues was recently remodeled to house the Schneller traditional furniture store and Colonial Shoppe.

SPECIAL SALE prices will be offered on Drexel and Ethan Allen lines, and a free G.E. electric blanket will be given away with each Englander mattress and box spring set.

During the month there will be a display of eight antique paintings purchased by Joseph Schneller, firm president, in Europe last fall. An oil painting by a contemporary artist also will be given away during the month. Residents may visit the store and sign up for the drawing without obligation.

Water Fee Is Settled For $3,100

Arlington Heights will settle for a $3,100 payment from Realty Corporation of America (Realcoa) for tapping into the village water system.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson met with representatives of the Arlington Heights Gardens Homeowners Association last week to discuss the agreement. The homeowners group had sought the village's help in requiring a connection fee of Realcoa for its new Airy Trace subdivision south of Arlington Gardens.

Residents of the Gardens subdivision currently are paying $10.25 a month on their water bills to pay for the old Citizens water utility; the village acquired the system when the subdivision was annexed, and each lot in Arlington Gardens was assessed $800 to pay for the system.

THE HOMEOWNERS group had sought an equal assessment against Airy Trace lots, totaling $9,000, since the new subdivision is connected to the village water supply through former Citizens lines. Hanson demurred. He said the $3,100 represents the cost Realcoa would have had to pay for a separate connection to village water supplies.

Hanson said he did not know what effect the $3,100 payment will have on payments by Gardens homeowners. He said he expects a similar arrangement to be made when another adjacent tract is subdivided.

The village had not issued occupancy permits for Airy Trace homes; Hanson said they now will be issued when applied for.

Hearing Set March 10 on Belmont Paving

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) will hold a formal public hearing on the paving of Belmont Avenue between Oakton and Olive Streets at 8 p.m. March 10 in the village hall.

A resolution calling for the hearing was approved at Thursday's BOLI meeting.

Village consulting engineers Consoer, Townsend and Associates estimated the cost of paving the Belmont Avenue section at $31,113 to $33,342, depending on the materials used.

Chamber to Install At Dinner Feb. 12

Immediate Past Pres. W. C. Wolf will install new officers and directors when the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce holds its installation dinner and dance Feb. 12 at Old Orchard Country Club.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. affair, may be obtained from the chamber office and are $15 a couple.

Wolf will install incoming Pres. Robert Walters, Vice Pres. Alan Peters and Treas. John Janszen.

THE OUTGOING president assumes the post of chairman of the board of directors. He will also install newly-elected chamber directors H. G. Holmes, Mrs. Helen Schmidt, Tom Novotny, Guy Anderson, James Warriner, Herb Carl and Ed Hardy.

Happy Anniversary To Garbagemen

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

This is by way of a belated anniversary wish for the garbagemen of Arlington Heights.

No one, apparently, noticed when your first anniversary passed quietly by last Dec. 1. On that noteworthy day in 1964 you became The Man at the Back Door.

BAUMANN

You used to pick up garbage either at the curb or at the back door, but you charged more for back door service. Then came a beautification committee, and they decided it was unsightly to have our cans sitting out at curbside twice a week.

The village board went along—for what was supposed to be a trial period—and a uniform back door service and rate were installed.

Now people in Arlington Heights don't complain loudly or often. So the few complaints that were expressed probably made you, Man at the Back Door, the cause celebre of 1965—possibly even of the decade.

A couple squawked so loudly even the Chicago press took notice and wrote humorous stories about their plight.

You were even debated in the spring elections.

After the election, the winners said they heard more complaints about you than any other municipal servant. I thought that was real news, since I've heard fewer complaints about you than on almost any other municipal servant.

The objections to your back door pickup still haven't settled. A few weeks ago I had a call from a lady who insisted fully one-third of the residents still haul their cans to the curb while paying for the posh back door service. She wanted to enlist our editorial support in a back-to-the-curb movement.

Through the hubbub, you trudged your rounds. Every Wednesday and Saturday you stopped at our back door, hauled away our stinking garbage. Rain, snow or bitter cold.

Tell me, did H. W. Laseke conduct a general service last Dec. 1? Did you observe it alone with a moment of silent thought?

Or did your anniversary slip by you like it did the rest of us?

Girl, 16, Hurt In 4-Car Pileup

A 16-year-old Arlington Heights girl was injured in a four-car pileup at Wilke Road and Grove Street shortly before 4 p.m. Saturday.

She is Patricia Schuetz, passenger in a car driven by Henry J. Schuetz, 44, of 1723 N. Verde Ave. She was treated at Northwest Community Hospital for head and knee injuries.

Other drivers involved in the series of rear-end collisions were Jane M. Johann, 19, of 103 N. Pine Ave., Betty J. Harold, of 150 Thacker, Roselle, and Joseph A. McGovern, 65, of 2909 Wilke Road, Rolling Meadows. (A MUGGED — Frank James Dean is photographed by Edward Guenther in the Arlington Heights police department shortly after his arrest Monday on charges of robbing Len and Jim's Food Store, 15 E. Eastman St., of $19. Dean was nabbed within minutes after the robbery was reported. (A

"Money problems" were cited by a man arrested Monday in connection with the robbery of Len and Jim's Food Store, 15 E. Eastman St., Arlington Heights.

The man, Frank James Dean, 20, living at the Red Gable Motel, Palatine, got $19 in the robbery, according to police, and hung onto it for about five minutes before his arrest.

Dean told police he was driving on Northwest Highway shortly after noon Monday, thinking about money problems he had been having. He said he thought of getting money at the food store, where he had been previously. He parked in the Arlington Theatre lot and went into the store.

INSIDE, HE said, he drank a pop while waiting for several customers to leave. While waiting, Dean told police, he decided to return to his car to scribble the note he later gave Leonard H. Weidner, co-owner of the store:

"Deposit your money in sack except change—I've got a gun and will kill you if you do not cooperate."

Police said Dean then returned to the store, held up Weidner and walked back to his car. He was unarmed.

Weidner called police with a description. Officer George Ekblad, cruising in the area, spotted Dean crossing Wing Street headed for the theater. Officers Daryl Stille and Mike Schenkel, in a second squad, saw him enter his rented car.

They followed it and curbed it at Wing and Arlington Heights Road. They found loose change scattered over the floor of his car.

DEAN SAID he had been employed as a stable boy on occasion. He gave his permanent address as Hot Springs, Ark. Police said they learned he had taken a television set from the Bel Aire Motel in Palatine and charged him with theft as well as robbery.

A hearing has been set at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Arlington Heights Felony Court. Dean was held after he failed to raise $5,000 bond set by Judge Harold Sullivan. (A

Month-Long 'Opening' Slated by Schneller

A month-long grand opening will be celebrated during February at Schneller Furniture Co., 32 S. Evergreen Avenue, Arlington Heights.

The block-long structure between Evergreen and Dunton Avenues was recently remodeled to house the Schneller traditional furniture store and Colonial Shoppe.

SPECIAL SALE prices will be offered on Drexel and Ethan Allen lines, and a free G.E. electric blanket will be given away with each Englander mattress and box spring set.

During the month there will be a display of eight antique paintings purchased by Joseph Schneller, firm president, in Europe last fall. An oil painting by a contemporary artist also will be given away during the month. Residents may visit the store and sign up for the drawing without obligation.

Water Fee Is Settled For $3,100

Arlington Heights will settle for a $3,100 payment from Realty Corporation of America (Realcoa) for tapping into the village water system.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson met with representatives of the Arlington Heights Gardens Homeowners Association last week to discuss the agreement. The homeowners group had sought the village's help in requiring a connection fee of Realcoa for its new Airy Trace subdivision south of Arlington Gardens.

Residents of the Gardens subdivision currently are paying $10.25 a month on their water bills to pay for the old Citizens water utility; the village acquired the system when the subdivision was annexed, and each lot in Arlington Gardens was assessed $800 to pay for the system.

THE HOMEOWNERS group had sought an equal assessment against Airy Trace lots, totaling $9,000, since the new subdivision is connected to the village water supply through former Citizens lines. Hanson demurred. He said the $3,100 represents the cost Realcoa would have had to pay for a separate connection to village water supplies.

Hanson said he did not know what effect the $3,100 payment will have on payments by Gardens homeowners. He said he expects a similar arrangement to be made when another adjacent tract is subdivided.

The village had not issued occupancy permits for Airy Trace homes; Hanson said they now will be issued when applied for.

Hearing Set March 10 on Belmont Paving

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) will hold a formal public hearing on the paving of Belmont Avenue between Oakton and Olive Streets at 8 p.m. March 10 in the village hall.

A resolution calling for the hearing was approved at Thursday's BOLI meeting.

Village consulting engineers Consoer, Townsend and Associates estimated the cost of paving the Belmont Avenue section at $31,113 to $33,342, depending on the materials used.

Chamber to Install At Dinner Feb. 12

Immediate Past Pres. W. C. Wolf will install new officers and directors when the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce holds its installation dinner and dance Feb. 12 at Old Orchard Country Club.

THE OUTGOING president assumes the post of chairman of the board of directors. He will also install newly-elected chamber directors H. G. Holmes, Mrs. Helen Schmidt, Tom Novotny, Guy Anderson, James Warriner, Herb Carl and Ed Hardy.

Invocation at the ceremonies will be offered by the Rev. Eugene O. Ongna, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church. Honored guests will be Airman 1/C Harvey Burnette of the 45th Artillery Brigade, named Missileman of 1965, and Sgt. 1/C Hale Ethridge of the 755th Air Squadron, named Airman of 1965. Both are at the Arlington Heights Nike base.

Dance music will be provided by the Warren Rogers Aristocrats. (A

Tudor Mansion Houses Classes in England

BY GENE NOJEK
Staff Writer

REX PERSCHBACHER

When Rex Perschbacher, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Perschbacher, 310 N. Derbyshire Lane, Arlington Heights, signed up for two quarters at Stanford University's branch campus in England, he did not figure on a 365-room Tudor mansion with no central heating, and mutton for supper.

These, along with professors from Cambridge and field trips to Paris and Denmark, are all part of Perschbacher's six months at Harlaxton Manor, located in the Lincolnshire countryside, 100 miles from London. He is one of 80 Stanford students attending the newest of Stanford's five permanent European campuses, a huge mansion leased from the Jesuits.

Other Stanford European campuses are in Germany, France, Italy and Austria. The university's program for overseas study is unique in that European campuses are actually branches of Stanford, with courses taught by Stanford teachers and geared to the university's curriculum. Students take a full 16-credit hour course load with the emphasis on humanities and languages.

A SOPHOMORE at Stanford, Perschbacher graduated from Arlington Heigh School in 1964. He started in a B.S. program in chemistry but switched to the broader math degree program to enable him to attend the overseas branch.

He studied Russian in high school and thus didn't have the language background to attend one of the branches on the continent.

The accelerated courses he took at Arlington High School were a great help in getting him into the overseas study program. He was able to satisfy many Stanford course requirements by examination, giving him enough leeway in a math program for more humanities courses.

PERSCHBACHER'S first letters home described the hardships endured by a Midwestern innocent on his first trip abroad.

"He's mostly cold and hungry," said his mother.

Rex complained that his wing is divided into 12 cubicles separated by room dividers.

There is no central heating, and what heat there is all goes up to the ceiling. He said the room temperatures are below 50 degrees in the morning so almost everyone has a cold.

"He's been spoiled by the easy life here," said his mother. "A typical Midwesterner, he's used to steak and beef. There, his first dinner was kidney pie."

OUTWEIGHING the physical discomforts are the great cultural and educational advantages of the program. At Harlaxton Manor, students have classes only four days a week so they can spend the other three days mingling with the people. In many classes they hear British professors lecture and they also have the chance to take courses at Cambridge.

Perhaps the best part of the Stanford overseas program as far as parents are concerned is the cost: students pay their regular Stanford tuition and room and board plus the cost of field trips. Stanford provides a charter plane to England, but students must pay their own way back because they don't leave together. (A

Palatine Board Okays The Cellar

An ordinance to allow the Cellar, a teenage dance hall, in Palatine was approved in the first of two readings Monday by the village board.

Site for the Cellar is the former Life building on Northwest Highway, just south of the cloverleaf being constructed for the Route 53 interchange.

The ordinance rezones the site from residential to business and allows via special use the operation of a dance hall.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Arlington Crest Home Owners Association appeared to protest the Cellar, now located in Arlington Heights.

Gerald Ahlenius, president of the association, asked that any decision be delayed for a couple of weeks.

He said the home owners wish time to discuss the rezoning and operation of the dance hall. It was explained by village officials that first reading of the ordinance does not mean final approval. The home owners were told they had until Monday when a special village board meeting would be held to consider the second reading. (A

Hurt in Wreck

An Arlington Heights man was treated for face injuries at Northwest Community Hospital Sunday after an accident at Belmont Avenue and Frederick Street.

He is John W. Bodle, 21, of 1124 N. Beverly. Police said he was driving north on Belmont when his car collided with one driven east by William W. Shaw, 17, of 1004 N. Harvard Ave.

Bodle was charged with driving too fast for conditions, Shaw with failure to yield. (A

Traffic Charges Against Dentist

An Arlington Heights man was charged with failure to stop at a red light and leaving the scene of an accident Friday at Northwest Highway and Vail Avenue.

He is Dr. Clarence D. Craig, 304 N. Haddow Ave., a dentist with offices in Arlington Heights. Police had stopped him near Evergreen and Eastman for another violation when a motorist appeared and said the doctor had been involved in the accident moments before. Driver of the second car involved in the accident was Clark L. Morehead, 1304 W. Northwest Hwy. (A

Police Take Administration Classes

THREE "E's" OF TRAFFIC SAFETY, engineering, education and enforcement, were explained by Detective Sgt. Maurice J. English in Monday's class on traffic supervision, 10th in a series on municipal police administration. Analysis of accident reports shows which aspect to stress for different locations to improve traffic safety, he said.

EARS PERK UP as Detective Sgt. English tells police officers how a non-intentional violator of traffic regulations is in more need of law enforcement than the intentional violator. The non-intentional violator, he explained, is unaware of the dangers of his violation, while the intentional violator is aware that he is taking a calculated risk. He is thus observant of the hazards, including the risk of being caught. "The non-intentional violator may speed right through a stop sign," he said, "but the intentional violator will slow down and look both ways." (Staff Photos)

Contributing to the increased efficiency of the Arlington Heights Police Department is a series of 14 classes on municipal police administration prepared by the International City Manager's Association and taught by Detective Sgt. Maurice J. English at the department.

With instruction on topics from police organization and management to vice control, investigation, juveniles and patrol function, the classes are designed to train police officers in all facets of police administration and give them an overall view of police work.

"Patrolmen often do not understand the problems of police management," said Sergeant English. "Through these courses they are familiarized with the problems of the department and why certain procedures and policies have been established. This improves the relationship between the administration and line officers, and contributes to the efficiency of the department."

THE COURSES also assist participating officers in preparing for a future role as administrator or supervisor.

Some 20 Arlington Heights police officers attend the classes on Monday afternoons at the station. Participation is voluntary and the cost of educational materials is met by the village.

"We're enthused by the interest of the officers taking the course," said Police Chief L. W. Calderwood. "When you have this kind of spirit, you can't help getting a better department." (A

Policemen Spot Flying Objects

Arlington Heights and Palatine policemen spotted unidentified flying objects last Thursday night, according to Palatine Chief Robert Centner.

The police were parked in the Zayre's department store parking lot at 7 p.m. when the objects, round-shaped and flying fast in a V-formation, appeared.

The objects were flying southeasterly. According to a Palatine police report, the two objects at the rear of the formation flitted at right angles and criss-crossed.

"No comment," was Centner's comment when asked what he thought. "Only that other policemen in past years have spotted such things," he said.

Fathers Join Girls At Camp Fire Banquet

A Camp Fire father-daughter banquet, including all Camp Fire groups from the south side of Arlington Heights, was held last Monday evening at Faith Lutheran Church. The 186 who attended were served a roast beef dinner by ladies of the church.

Each Camp Fire group was responsible for making a centerpiece for one of the tables. Five fathers, who were chosen as judges, selected the centerpiece made by the sixth grade Wani-Katas as the best.

June Selk, Council camping director, showed slides of Camp Tiyalaka, the resident camp at Westfield Wis. A question-and-answer period followed her presentation.

The district representative to the Camp Tiyalaka committee, Lawrence Kunkel, urged interested families to participate in family work week-ends at the camp. Several families volunteered for this worthwhile activity.

FOUR GIRLS from the Tawa-Alan ninth grade Horizon Club, Sue Kendall, Eileen Rodig, Lynn Kirchhoff, and Gail Conway, were among those attending the banquet. They are finishing their eighth year in Camp Fire, having started as Blue Birds in the second grade.

Mrs. Harry Johnston, chairman of the banquet, gave special recognition to Walter A. Glander, who has four daughters in the Camp Fire program. They are Terrie, a fourth grade Camp Fire Girl; Laurie, a member of the fifth grade Bo-Wi-Cans; Jean, a seventh grade Chee-Wah-Ca, and Debbie, a member of the Tawa-Alan ninth grade Horizon Club.

Mrs. Johnston reported that over 200 reservations have been received for the north side banquet on Monday, Jan. 31.

Father-daughter Blue Bird banquets are being planned for later in February. (A Bid Accepted For Paving Gap On Douglas Ave.

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) Thursday accepted Mayer Paving and Asphalt Co.'s low bid of $1,092 for paving an 82½-foot section of Douglas Avenue located between Oakton and Olive Streets.

Other bidders were Allied Asphalt Paving Co., $1,298 and Rock Road Construction Co., $1,398.

The 82½ foot section of Douglas St. was assessed separately because the owner of the abutting property decided not to go along when other Douglas Avenue owners joined together in getting a private contractor to pave the entire block.

It is estimated that the extra legal and engineering costs involved in levying the special assessment increased the cost of paving the 82½ foot section by 30 per cent. (A

Walnut Ave. Paving On March 10 Agenda

A resolution calling for formal public hearings on the paving of Walnut Avenue in the Northwest Highlands subdivision of Arlington Heights will be voted on by the board of local improvements (BOLI) March 10.

BOLI members Thursday decided to put the resolution on their March 10 agenda to get legal machinery for special assessments on Walnut into motion. They were prompted by Pres. Sam Rudder's report that revised thoroughfare plans indicating the future designation of Walnut Avenue have not yet been received from Tec Search, Inc., municipal planning consultants.

UNLESS VILLAGE trustees notify BOLI to the contrary, it will proceed with hearings on the basis of the 1959 master plan, in which Walnut Avenue in Northwest Highlands is designated a collector street with a width of 36 feet.

Special assessments on that section of Walnut Avenue have been held up because its status and width have not been determined.

BOLI consideration of the project bogged down last year.

—Abutting property owners in the subdivision prefer to have it only 30 feet wide;

—The plan commission has been working on a revised thoroughfare plan with Tec Search, Inc., and may change the old designation.

BOLI has no authority to determine width of streets and referred the matter to the village board, which in turn asked the plan commission for a ruling. But the plan commission can have no word on Walnut until it receives the revised thoroughfare plan from Tec Search.

BOLI MEMBERS decided to go ahead with the hearing after special commissioner Robert Bishop advised them that if they intended to get Walnut paved this year, they would have to begin legal proceedings on the basis of the present thoroughfare plan rather than wait for the plan commission to accept and the village board approve the revised one.

Bishop said that if necessary, the plans could be changed anytime before confirmation by the Circuit Court. (A

Walnut Ave. Paving On March 10 Agenda

A resolution calling for formal public hearings on the paving of Walnut Avenue in the Northwest Highlands subdivision of Arlington Heights will be voted on by the board of local improvements (BOLI) March 10.

BOLI members Thursday decided to put the resolution on their March 10 agenda to get legal machinery for special assessments on Walnut into motion. They were prompted by Pres. Sam Rudder's report that revised thoroughfare plans indicating the future designation of Walnut Avenue have not yet been received from Tec Search, Inc., municipal planning consultants.

UNLESS VILLAGE trustees notify BOLI to the contrary, it will proceed with hearings on the basis of the 1959 master plan, in which Walnut Avenue in Northwest Highlands is designated a collector street with a width of 36 feet.

Special assessments on that section of Walnut Avenue have been held up because its status and width have not been determined.

BOLI consideration of the project bogged down last year.

—Abutting property owners in the subdivision prefer to have it only 30 feet wide;

—The plan commission has been working on a revised thoroughfare plan with Tec Search, Inc., and may change the old designation.

BOLI has no authority to determine width of streets and referred the matter to the village board, which in turn asked the plan commission for a ruling. But the plan commission can have no word on Walnut until it receives the revised thoroughfare plan from Tec Search.

BOLI MEMBERS decided to go ahead with the hearing after special commissioner Robert Bishop advised them that if they intended to get Walnut paved this year, they would have to begin legal proceedings on the basis of the present thoroughfare plan rather than wait for the plan commission to accept and the village board approve the revised one.

Bishop said that if necessary, the plans could be changed anytime before confirmation by the Circuit Court. (A

Teen Theatre Club to Meet Tuesday Nights

Teens in the Arlington Heights area with an interest in theater should plan to attend the Arlington Heights Park District's Teen Theatre Club's first meeting of the second semester.

Mrs. Ann Hume, director of the group, has requested an election of officers to begin the new semester's schedule.

Youth with ideas regarding performances, production procedures and techniques are invited to attend at Recreation Park Fieldhouse, 500 E. Miner St. The group will meet on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. throughout the semester.

Students should come to announce their preference for plays to be cast within the next month and produced this spring. Performances in children's plays, musicals, comedies and dramas will be discussed. Additional suggestions are encouraged.

Bid Accepted For Paving Gap On Douglas Ave.

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) Thursday accepted Mayer Paving and Asphalt Co.'s low bid of $1,092 for paving an 82½-foot section of Douglas Avenue located between Oakton and Olive Streets.

The 82½ foot section of Douglas St. was assessed separately because the owner of the abutting property decided not to go along when other Douglas Avenue owners joined together in getting a private contractor to pave the entire block.

It is estimated that the extra legal and engineering costs involved in levying the special assessment increased the cost of paving the 82½ foot section by 30 per cent. (A

Budget Projections To Be Given Trustees

Administration budget projections—aimed at maintaining the current tax rate for village services—were to be handed to the village board finance committee Thursday (tonight) by Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

Hanson said Monday the administration budget requests would include new staff for the fire and police departments and probably an addition to the public works department garage.

THE POLICE and fire additions—three men in each department—would be the normal increase in staff resulting from population growth. That follows the pattern of previous growth in those departments.

Currently, the police department has 44 employes, including 28 patrolmen. The fire department has 17 full-time employes and 17 volunteers.

Hanson said he would probably ask an addition for maintenance work at the garage, 222 N. Ridge Ave. Major repairs are performed there for 70 village-owned pieces of equipment, ranging from police squads to street sweepers.

The present repair section has only two bays, and Hanson said that is inadequate.

THE MANAGER said the finance committee would begin its months-long work with worksheets prepared by the village administration. The new budget covers the fiscal year beginning May 1, and Hanson said the village will attempt to keep its tax rate about the same level as this year's.

One factor likely to change the over-all village rate is the library expansion program. It is expected to add about 7 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to the library levy collected in 1967.

Historians Seeking Village Birth Date

Wheeling Historical Society has asked one of its members to write to Washington in an attempt to determine the founding date of the village.

Wheeling was incorporated June 19, 1894, but a village existed long before that. Dorothy Forke, historical society secretary, will write to the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C. to learn when mail was first delivered to the village and when the village post office was opened under the name of Wheeling.

The Historical Society has been discussing celebration of the incorporation of the village and wishes to obtain all available information from organizations and village commissions to compile a complete historical record.

MEMBERS ALSO have decided to work with the Wheeling Park District to assure that the Green Belt program would include historical landmarks of significance to the community.

They suggested that those parts of the park be called "A Walk Through History."

A committee consisting of Merle Willis, John Koeppen, and Fred Moeller has been appointed to adopt plans for converting the old village hall into a museum. (W

School May Lease Vending Machines

Wheeling - Buffalo Grove School District 21 will attempt to gain reimbursement on milk purchased by students at Jack London Junior High School without giving up the vending machines used in the school.

To do this, the board will probably be required to lease the machines and buy the products vended.

The machines, which provide soup, sandwiches, fruit, hot meals, and snacks, take the place of a class one hot lunch program at the school.

But Assistant School Supt. John Barger told District 21 board members last Thursday that a change in the present program was necessary for the school to continue to be reimbursed for milk.

The school does not presently lease the machines, nor does it purchase vended items.

The school board hopes to avert losing milk reimbursement by changing the procedure. If the plan fails, cost of milk to children will probably double.

The vending machines, which are used by some 150 students regularly, are serviced daily. (W search for a newscaster last year. After reviewing video tapes and holding auditions, the station decided to create the Park-Ruddle team. Park, who lives in Chicago, had been working in Sacramento, Calif.

A NATIVE of Oklahoma, Ruddle received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Tulsa. He was working as an instructor at the University of South Florida when he decided to join the staff of the Tampa-St. Petersburg television station in 1964.

When they came to Chicago, he and his wife picked Arlington Heights because of the availability of commuter trains and rental housing. They live in the Sugarbrook duplex subdivision.

"We've found it pleasant," said Mrs. Ruddle. "Our neighbors are congenial, and there are many children in the area."

THE FRAMEWORK for the show, which is markedly different from other Chicago news telecasting, was developed by WGN, according to Ruddle.

"We do our own writing. It's better for us because when we're on the air we're doing what we've already written. We're familiar with it. And the phrasing is ours."

Park-Ruddle have a 10-minute show at 5:45 p.m. and a 15-minute spot at 10 p.m. Each day, they review national and international news, local material and visuals available to them. They organize the show and write it.

"I ENJOY it because you're working with new material all the time . . . things are happening and you get interested in following them."

Park-Ruddle end their show with a humorous tidbit and a chuckle. Occasionally viewers will send in a suggestion, but it is usually gleaned from wire service news reports, according to Ruddle.

"Sometimes that's the biggest job of the day."

Bristol Fund Benefit Set

The opening night performance Feb. 24 of Arlington High School's winter play production, "The Fantasticks," will benefit the Helene Bristol Memorial Scholarship Fund.

This is the first time in High School District 214 history that a regular school play performance will be presented as a benefit.

Announcement of the benefit was made this week by Bruno W. Waara, principal of Arlington High School, and Lyovonne M. Trad, director.

ALL PROCEEDS will be given to the scholarship fund established as a memorial to the late Helene Bristol, education editor of Paddock Publications suburban newspapers who died Dec. 31.

"Arlington's drama staff feels that this would be a most appropriate tribute to Mrs. Bristol, whose enthusiasm for the educational well-being of our youth touched every phase of school life," said Miss Trad.

She also noted that District 214 board of education at its Jan. 10 meeting adopted a resolution dedicating its efforts to the memory of Mrs. Bristol.

Tickets at $1 each may be purchased for the benefit by calling CL 3-0200, Ext. 32. Tickets will also be available at the box office the night of the performance.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

THE PLAY WILL also be presented Feb. 25 and 26 at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre.

Described as a parable about love, "The Fantasticks" features book and lyrics by Tom Jones and music by Harvey Schmidt.

Since its successful opening in New York in 1960, it has rapidly become a near-classic of American musical theatre.

Among hit songs from the show are "Try to Remember" and "Soon It's Gonna Rain."

Assisting Miss Trad is Vernell Doyle, technical director.

The cast includes Douglas Olipra, Joanne Mayer, Mark Faro, Bruce Elliott, Douglas McDonald, Steve Clark, Curt Wilson, Robert Kinder, and Cindy Flodin.

At the twin pianos will be Kathleen Manatt and Linda Piepenbrink. (B10

Sidewalk Survey Report Put Off

The sidewalk committee of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) has deferred until Feb. 10 their report on gaps in village sidewalks.

The committee consists of BOLI members Harold Klingner, Ellwood Huff, Ben Chaps and Russell Colvin.

Klingner and Huff were to canvass the north half of the village while Chaps and Colvin covered the south half. They were to report at last Thursday's meeting all important gaps in sidewalks.

The report was delayed because Colvin said that his committee had not met yet.

Classes Set In Bowling

A bowling program for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 13 will be sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District this winter.

The activity is planned to give the correct beginning to bowling. Beverly Bowling Lanes will be the site with professional instructors Les Zikes and John Miller doing the teaching.

THE PROGRAM will run for eight weeks, beginning Friday, Feb. 11, at 4 p.m. The cost is 80 cents per week, which includes instruction, bowling, shoes and tournament trophies.

To enroll in the bowling activity, call CL 3-0620 or contact the park district office.

Open Housing Group to Talk With Trustees

In addition to setting a referendum date for a new municipal building, Buffalo Grove trustees tonight (Thursday) will play host to a Freedom of Residence group from Evanston and also decide whether to hold a special census.

The Freedom of Residence group, based in Evanston, requested and received permission to attend a board meeting. It had originally planned a motorcade through the village but canceled those plans.

THE GROUP has visited several neighboring villages in an attempt to encourage open occupancy.

The finance committee of the village board will report on the feasibility of holding a census in the village this year.

The village board meets at 8 p.m. in the park and recreation building at 150 N. Raupp Drive. (BG

Area News Roundup

WHEELING AND ELK GROVE TOWNSHIPS—Residents will vote Saturday on a $6.8 million proposal for construction of a sixth high school and purchase of a new site for High School District 214. The school, planned for a 38-acre location north of Willow Road (Thomas Street) a quarter mile east of Rand Road in Prospect Heights, is expected to cost $6.5 million. The 40-acre site is located one-fourth mile north of Camp McDonald Road and one-fourth mile east of Wheeling Road in the River Trails elementary district.

BENSENVILLE—Voters in Bensenville and Wood Dale, in Fenton High School District 100, also will go to the polls Saturday. They've been asked to approve a 21-cent increase in the education fund tax rate, now $1 per $100 assessed valuation. A large turnout—estimated at 3,500—is anticipated, due to an intensive information campaign. Curtailment of student activities has been planned if the tax boost is not approved, although such action would threaten the school's accreditation.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP—The contest for township Democratic committeeman, to be elected in the June primary, will be a lively race. John Rafferty of Rolling Meadows, an attorney who lost out to Oliver Dilks in 1962, this week announced he will challenge Dilks for the post. Also in the running is Richard Mugalian, attorney for the Village of Palatine.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP—In Wheeling Township, Richard Cowen of Arlington Heights is considered the likely "coalition" choice to replace Thomas Houser as Republican committeeman. Although Houser has not announced definitely that he will not run again, he is expected to be too busy as campaign manager for Charles Percy in his race against U.S. Senator Paul H. Douglas. Cowen indicated he has been considering seeking the post.

ADDISON—Long-delayed plans for the first movie theater in Addison are nearing reality, with financing almost completed. Opening of the $750,000 theatre, to seat 1,300 persons, is slated for June or July.

ROLLING MEADOWS—With the announcement that the city and developer Kimball Hill have dropped plans for a community civic center project, Rolling Meadows' Cycle (community youth center-library expansion) committee faces a decision. The group will meet Monday to decide whether it should simply compile a report on the city's needs, or continue a study toward recommendations on action to meet the needs.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE—The Elk Grove Village police and fire commission Wednesday dismissed police Sgt. Robert Syre from the village police department. The commission ruling was based on charges that Syre drank liquor with another on-duty sergeant and then accompanied and failed to prevent the sergeant from unlawfully setting fire to an abandoned barn in Elk Grove Village. Syre had been acting chief during that time.

Sidewalk Survey Report Put Off

The sidewalk committee of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) has deferred until Feb. 10 their report on gaps in village sidewalks.

The committee consists of BOLI members Harold Klingner, Ellwood Huff, Ben Chaps and Russell Colvin.

Klingner and Huff were to canvass the north half of the village while Chaps and Colvin covered the south half. They were to report at last Thursday's meeting all important gaps in sidewalks.

The report was delayed because Colvin said that his committee had not met yet.

Classes Set In Bowling

A bowling program for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 13 will be sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District this winter.

The activity is planned to give the correct beginning to bowling. Beverly Bowling Lanes will be the site with professional instructors Les Zikes and John Miller doing the teaching.

THE PROGRAM will run for eight weeks, beginning Friday, Feb. 11, at 4 p.m. The cost is 80 cents per week, which includes instruction, bowling, shoes and tournament trophies.

To enroll in the bowling activity, call CL 3-0620 or contact the park district office.

Open Housing Group to Talk With Trustees

In addition to setting a referendum date for a new municipal building, Buffalo Grove trustees tonight (Thursday) will play host to a Freedom of Residence group from Evanston and also decide whether to hold a special census.

The Freedom of Residence group, based in Evanston, requested and received permission to attend a board meeting. It had originally planned a motorcade through the village but canceled those plans.

THE GROUP has visited several neighboring villages in an attempt to encourage open occupancy.

The finance committee of the village board will report on the feasibility of holding a census in the village this year.

The village board meets at 8 p.m. in the park and recreation building at 150 N. Raupp Drive. (BG

Area News Roundup

WHEELING AND ELK GROVE TOWNSHIPS—Residents will vote Saturday on a $6.8 million proposal for construction of a sixth high school and purchase of a new site for High School District 214. The school, planned for a 38-acre location north of Willow Road (Thomas Street) a quarter mile east of Rand Road in Prospect Heights, is expected to cost $6.5 million. The 40-acre site is located one-fourth mile north of Camp McDonald Road and one-fourth mile east of Wheeling Road in the River Trails elementary district.

BENSENVILLE—Voters in Bensenville and Wood Dale, in Fenton High School District 100, also will go to the polls Saturday. They've been asked to approve a 21-cent increase in the education fund tax rate, now $1 per $100 assessed valuation. A large turnout—estimated at 3,500—is anticipated, due to an intensive information campaign. Curtailment of student activities has been planned if the tax boost is not approved, although such action would threaten the school's accreditation.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP—The contest for township Democratic committeeman, to be elected in the June primary, will be a lively race. John Rafferty of Rolling Meadows, an attorney who lost out to Oliver Dilks in 1962, this week announced he will challenge Dilks for the post. Also in the running is Richard Mugalian, attorney for the Village of Palatine.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP—In Wheeling Township, Richard Cowen of Arlington Heights is considered the likely "coalition" choice to replace Thomas Houser as Republican committeeman. Although Houser has not announced definitely that he will not run again, he is expected to be too busy as campaign manager for Charles Percy in his race against U.S. Senator Paul H. Douglas. Cowen indicated he has been considering seeking the post.

ADDISON—Long-delayed plans for the first movie theater in Addison are nearing reality, with financing almost completed. Opening of the $750,000 theatre, to seat 1,300 persons, is slated for June or July.

ROLLING MEADOWS—With the announcement that the city and developer Kimball Hill have dropped plans for a community civic center project, Rolling Meadows' Cycle (community youth center-library expansion) committee faces a decision. The group will meet Monday to decide whether it should simply compile a report on the city's needs, or continue a study toward recommendations on action to meet the needs.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE—The Elk Grove Village police and fire commission Wednesday dismissed police Sgt. Robert Syre from the village police department. The commission ruling was based on charges that Syre drank liquor with another on-duty sergeant and then accompanied and failed to prevent the sergeant from unlawfully setting fire to an abandoned barn in Elk Grove Village. Syre had been acting chief during that time.

Hasbrook Questions On School Answered

A junior high student with his own idea of what a high school should include was one of the questioners Sunday at a Hasbrook Civic Association program on the proposed District 214 school up for a vote on Saturday.

"Will we be able to have indoor track?" he asked — and was assured they would.

The youth had little difficulty getting his question in. He was one of just 14 persons who braved the -15 degree weather to attend the 2:30 p.m. program at Patton School.

Other questioners included George C. (Bud) Beacham, a former village trustee and past president of the civic association; George Cannell, a Hasbrookite interested in the lack of windows in the building, and Mrs. Dean Jacobsen, who expressed concern about book rental arrangements in the district.

THEIR QUESTIONS were answered by a panel that included Scott Kelley of Champaign, architect for the proposed new school; Dr. Edward H. Gilbert, assistant superintendent of District 214, and Jack Martin, who has coordinated the high school district's referendum efforts.

Also on hand were Dr. Frank Smith, a member of the board of education, and Thomas Montgomery, who serves on the Citizens Committee backing the Saturday referendum. Both are Hasbrook residents.

Beacham urged the school district to try to get a traffic light installed at Rand and Thomas. His other questions were concerned primarily with the building's cost.

The proposed new school, the group was told by Kelley, will include a large vocational training section — about twice the size of vocational training areas in the district's present high schools. It will be "partially air conditioned," he said, with the air conditioning not being used in gymnasiums, dressing rooms and some shops. The physical education facilities will cover 69,000 square feet, some 12,000 square feet less than asked by athletic P.E. staff but still equivalant to that built a the Wheeling and Elk Grove schools.

Because of the air conditioning, about half of the classrooms will be "indoors" — that is, without windows — the architect said.

BEACHAM ASKED Kelley to pinpoint reasons for the higher cost of this referendum and elaborate on savings in construction because of the air conditioning.

The higher cost of this school referendum — $6.5 million as compared to $5.3 million for Elk Grove High School — Kelley said was caused by a 10 per cent rise in the cost of living and construction differences required to make the buildings conform to Life Safety Code standards.

The Life Safety Code would have added five per cent to the building's cost, Kelley stated. By going to air conditioning — and a more compact building plan, he said, the district could save 2½ per cent — and use that money to pay for their conditioning required. (A

Vatican Council Study Scheduled for Feb. 27

Arlington Heights will see in February one result of the ecumenical attitude which is expected of all members of the Catholic Church in these post-Vatican Council II days.

St. James Church will sponsor a "Report on Renewal," a seminar on the church of tomorrow, for all residents of the northwest suburban area on the first Sunday of Lent, Feb. 27.

THREE Chicago church scholars will discuss the main areas of study at Vatican II: ecumenism, the reform of the liturgy, and the church in the modern world.

Monsignor Daniel Cantwell, chaplain of the Catholic Adult Education Center, will give the keynote address on "the Church and Ecumenism" at 2 p.m. in the St. James Junior High auditorium.

The second speaker will be Dr. Russell Barta, chairman of the political science department of Mundelein College and editor of New City Magazine.

He will discuss the renewal of the liturgy, explaining how the laity exercise their common priesthood in the liturgy and the relationship of the liturgy to everyday life.

A FORMER priest of the parish, the Rev. Robert Reicher, chaplain of the Catholic Council on Working Life and professor of sociology at St. Mary of the Lake Seminary College Department, will point out the implications of the council in the relations of the church to the modern world, and investigation of the so-called Schema 13, at 8 p.m. After this session there will be a social hour for participants.

The Rev. Robert Strzelecki, who has been assistant pastor at St. James Church since his ordination in April 1965, will be chairman of the study day. He will be assisted by members of the parish societies who will organize publicity and encourage ticket sales.

Tickets for the study day will be $3 per couple, $2 for a single ticket and $1 for a single lecture.

Board to Review Valve Repair Bids

Bids on water valve repair work in downtown Arlington Heights will be reviewed Monday by the village board.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson will propose a maintenance program to include "a minimum of 10 old valves I know are inoperative." Hanson said he stipulated in advertising for bids that the work be done between midnight and 6 a.m., to minimize the effect on business.

The board will also consider a package of recommended steps for preservation of the MacDonald Creek bed and development of a parkway along the creek. The plan commission approved the development in concept after extended study.

OTHER ITEMS on the board's Monday agenda include:

—Consideration of the final plat and planned development layout for the Eberhardy subdivision, Arlington Highlands. The 17-acre subdivision, which includes some apartment zoning, is north of Arlington Knolls subdivision, south of Palatine Road and east of Wilson School.

—Consideration of the eight-lot Vaccaro subdivision plat between Belmont and Arlington Heights Road, north of Oakton.

—Action on the final subdivision plat for the last unit of Greenbrier subdivision.

—A recommendation that parking be banned on one side of Olive street. A section of the street is to be paved. Hanson said since it will not be 36 feet wide, a parking ban on one side is needed to obtain motor fuel tax funds for the job. (A

Trade Tour Slated for Bronwell

Richard L. Bronwell, 1117 Burgoyne Road, Arlington Heights, has been appointed by Commerce Secy. John P. Connor to serve on a U.S. trade mission to Saudi Arabia.

Bronwell is chief of the international trade division, Chicago field office, U. S. Commerce Department. The mission will be the first official U. S. trade mission to Saudi Arabia where, he explained, American trade is growing rapidly.

THE MISSION will also visit the three Trucial States — Bahrein, Qatar and Dubai — independent states on the Arabian Gulf. Bronwell and the rest of the delegation will discuss with businessmen and government officials of these areas the potentials of further trade expansions with the U. S.

The two government men and five businessmen on the trip will also meet with Saudi Arabia's King Faisel. Bronwell was to leave today (Thursday) on the mission. (A

Arlington Masons Are New Medinah Officers

Arlington Heights is the home of two of the Medinah Temple officers who will lead the Chicago area's 22,000 Shriners during the coming year.

G. William Sullivan, 415 S. Windsor Drive, was named chief rabban, which according to Shrine tradition, means that he next year will succeed Potentate Albin R. Anderson in the top post to which the latter was named at the same election last Friday.

The other local resident is Walter M. Dill, 526 S. Evergreen Ave., who was elected oriental guide, the first elective post on the ladder which ultimately leads to the potentate's office.

Sullivan, who has been a member of Medinah Temple for about 30 years, is a member of the law firm of Kaiser, Dodge, Dorbaugh and Sullivan, Chicago. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, where his degrees included doctor of jurisprudence. He is a member of the corporation law committee of the Chicago Bar Association.

PRIOR TO becoming an officer of Medinah Temple, he served on its hospitality and legal committees and was a member of its marching unit, the Arab Patrol, for 10 years.

Like his father, grandfather and brother, he is a past master of a Masonic lodge, having headed what is now Onward-Concord Lodge No. 864, Ancient Free & Accepted Masons, in 1943. He is also a member of the Scottish Rite, Knights Templar, the Royal Order of Jesters and El Hajj, which he headed several years ago.

He was formerly president of the Arlington Heights Teacher-Parent Council and of the Stonegate Association. He also served as president of the first caucus to select candidates for School District 25. Mrs. Clara Sullivan has served on the board of the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital.

Dill is chairman of the board of Clitherow and Co., management consultants at 19 S. Bothwell St., Palatine. He and his wife Frances are the parents of three daughters, Mrs. Barbara Switek, Deborah and Kathleen.

HE HAS BEEN secretary of the board of governors of the Chicago Unit, Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, for a number of years, past director of the Royal Order of Jesters and until his appointment as an officer of Medinah last year was first vice-president of the Shrine Chanters Association of North America. For some 19 years he sang with Medinah's Chanters.

Masonically, he is a member of Arlington Heights Lodge No. 1162, Ancient Free & Accepted Masons, Knights Templar and Scottish Rite. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania with a degree in Business Administration. (A

by the Arlington Heights Fire Department

Fire takes its toll of lives and property in most communities, and the often tragic results are forgotten almost as soon as the debris and rubble of the disaster is removed.

Worth pondering carefully is the 1965 report of the National Fire Protection Association which shows the loss of 12,000 lives, 30 per cent of them children. Not since 1954 when 12,100 fatalities were recorded has the death toll gone so high.

It is true that there are more people and many more homes than in 1954. But it is equally true that many more dollars have been devoted to the financing of fire prevention programs. More and more communities are putting teeth into fire codes and fire inspections, demanding that builders in particular meet minimum safety requirements.

The loss of nearly 1,000 lives in a month offers dramatic proof of the tragic consequences of fire. There is no assurance that any particular community is immune to disaster by fire. Why not check to see how much or how little fire protection you have.

YOUR HEART IS AN AUTOMATIC PUMP

It works 24 hours a day pumping blood through the circulatory system to the countless cells in your body. It delivers oxygen, picks up the waste product, carbon dioxide, forces the impure blood to the kidneys for purification and from there to the lungs for a renewed supply of oxygen. Then it brings your blood back to the heart again for another trip to the cells.

YOUR HEART IS A "MIRACLE IN ACTION"

It beats 70 to 80 times a minute and must never stop. It completely circulates your approximately 11 pints of blood about every minute. It is only about the size of a closed fist, but it pushes from five to ten tons of blood through your blood vessels each day.

SOMETIMES YOUR HEART NEEDS HELP

When sickness invades your body the heart works extra hard to overcome it. Continued emotional stress makes it beat faster. Excess weight adds a burden. So do improper living habits.

CHECK YOUR HEART REGULARLY

We have many important new medicines your physician can prescribe which can help most heart problems. The odds are you will live longer if you follow your physician's advice about taking good care of your heart.

Friendship of Three Weeks Ends With Death of Youth

by JACK NEUKOM
Staff Writer

A three-week-old friendship erupted into death Saturday night in Mount Prospect.

Robert E. Hedwick, 18, of 111 S. Weller Lane, Mount Prospect, was killed by a single bullet from a gun held by his friend of three weeks, John L. Sylvester, 18, of 1116 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect.

The shooting took place in the Sylvester home about 11 p.m.

In his third statement to Sgt. Ralph Doney of the Mount Prospect police, Sylvester said the shooting was "an accident," and that he had pulled the trigger thinking the gun was unloaded.

Hedwick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Hedwick, said the two youths had first met about three weeks ago when their son picked up the hitchhiking Sylvester near the Ampex Corp. plant in Elk Grove Village. They both had applied for jobs at the plant and were hired the same day.

SATURDAY afternoon was the first time Mr. and Mrs. Hedwick had met Sylvester, and when learning that his parents had left for California, leaving him alone, they invited him to stay for dinner. He accepted.

Mrs. Hedwick said her son each day drove out of his way to pick up Sylvester and take him to their job in Elk Grove Village — "And for what?" she asked.

Sylvester was still in the Cook County jail Wednesday, held under $5,000 bond. He is tentatively scheduled to appear in Niles Court on March 1 on a charge of voluntary manslaughter on a complaint signed by Sgt. Doney.

A coroner's jury is scheduled to convene for an inquest Feb. 15 at 10:30 a.m. in the Cook County morgue, Polk and Wood Streets, Chicago, and could bind Sylvester over to the grand jury under a direct indictment, county officials said.

Hedwick was shot in the chest, the bullet passing through the heart and left lung. The shooting took place in a bedroom in the home.

UNDER QUESTIONING Sylvester told police he had shot Hedwick by accident, not knowing that the gun was loaded. He had earlier said Hedwick had the gun and was killed as he drew back when Sylvester reached over to take it away.

Sylvester said he was going to show Hedwick the gun, a hammerless .380 automatic pistol, police said. Sylvester said he took the gun from underneath the mattress. It apparently was in a green cloth bag along with a clip full of shells, according to police.

Sylvester told police he handed the gun to Hedwick without the clip inserted. When Hedwick returned the weapon, Sylvester said he inserted the gun back into the bag, and then with his right hand ejected the shells from the clip until he felt the clip was empty. This was all done in the bag, out of sight, Sylvester said.

He then put the clip in the pistol and pulled back the slide, still thinking the gun was empty, he said. There apparently was one round of ammunition left in the clip which was injected into the chamber when the slide was pulled back, police said.

THE ACTUAL shooting took place while Sylvester was talking on the phone to a young Rolling Meadows girl, police said.

Sylvester told police that Hedwick was kneeling or sitting on the bed about five feet away, and in jest he pointed the weapon at Hedwick and pulled the trigger.

Hedwick staggered from the bedroom and collapsed in the hallway. Sylvester said he carried the body into the dining room with the intention of taking Hedwick to a breezeway where he thought the cool air might revive him.

The girl Sylvester was talking to on the telephone told police she heard a loud noise over the phone and then Sylvester came back on shortly and said, "I think I hurt Bob."

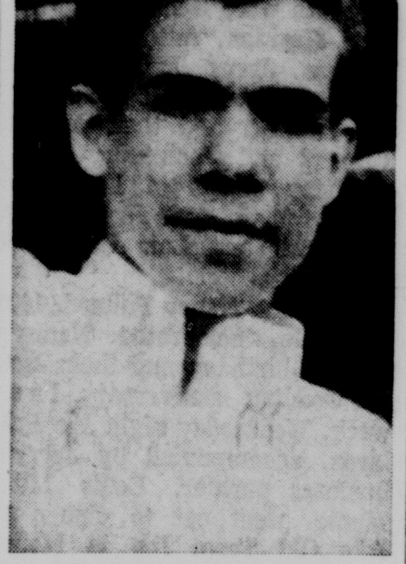
LT. JOHN Homola was the first to arrive at the Sylvester home after Sylvester had called and reported the accident. Patrolman Ray Lessner also responded to the call.

Lt. Homola reported Sylvester had said, "He shot himself," and said Hedwick had taken the gun from under the bed and wanted to go outside and shoot it.

Tuesday, Hedwick's father said his son would never have touched the gun, for "he was deathly afraid of guns of all kinds." "He was mechanically inclined, not a scholar," Mr. Hedwick said. "He was to be promoted to the position of tool room attendant at the Ampex plant, and was really looking forward to the new position," he said.

Young Hedwick had attended Forest View High School during his freshman year and was transferred to Prospect High School for his sophomore year, prior to dropping out of school. Sylvester also was a school drop-out, it was learned.

TWO YEARS AGO Hedwick suffered a broken leg and still carried pins in the leg, his parents said. The injury gave him a 4-F draft classification. Sylvester is reportedly classified 1-Y, according to people who know him.



ROBERT E. HEDWICK

Sylvester has been in trouble with police before, and was placed on two-year adult probation by the county for auto theft, according to police.

His parents were on their way to California at the time of the shooting, police said, and were notified of the incident in or near Galesburg. They returned immediately.

SYLVESTER made a signed statement in the presence of his father, Sgt. Doney and Det. Eugene Eccker of the Cook County sheriff's police, who assisted Doney and Det. Joe Bopp of Mount Prospect in the investigation.

Asst. State's Atty. Art Zimmerman is handling the case for the county.

Hedwick is survived by his parents and one sister, Janet, 11. He was a member of St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect. He had been employed at Doyno Motors in Mount Prospect prior to going to work at the Ampex plant.

Youth Sunday Noted At Church of Cross

"Youth Sunday" was observed Jan. 31 at the Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 S. Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights.

Youth of the church participated in the morning worship service by singing, ushering and reading the scripture lessons. The Luther Leaguers also sponsored an evening program for their parents to emphasize the youth-parent relationship.

The evening began with a pot luck supper, followed by a play, "The Monsters," written by Pastor Larry D. Cartford, pointing out youth-parent frictions.

ARLO VANDE VEGTE, Tom Browne, Nancy Falldin, Jim Olmon, LaDonna Damphier and Chuck Teske were the characters. Following the play, parents and youth paired off for contests. The evening concluded with devotions led by Joy Erickson, Doug Olson, Steve Schmid, Camille Curry and Nannette Holfeld.

The Lutheran Church of the Cross sponsors two youth leagues. The Junior League is operation.

Friendship of Three Weeks Ends With Death of Youth

by JACK NEUKOM
Staff Writer

A three-week-old friendship erupted into death Saturday night in Mount Prospect.

Robert E. Hedwick, 18, of 111 S. Weller Lane, Mount Prospect, was killed by a single bullet from a gun held by his friend of three weeks, John L. Sylvester, 18, of 1116 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect.

The shooting took place in the Sylvester home about 11 p.m.

In his third statement to Sgt. Ralph Doney of the Mount Prospect police, Sylvester said the shooting was "an accident," and that he had pulled the trigger thinking the gun was unloaded.

Hedwick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Hedwick, said the two youths had first met about three weeks ago when their son picked up the hitchhiking Sylvester near the Ampex Corp. plant in Elk Grove Village. They both had applied for jobs at the plant and were hired the same day.

SATURDAY afternoon was the first time Mr. and Mrs. Hedwick had met Sylvester, and when learning that his parents had left for California, leaving him alone, they invited him to stay for dinner. He accepted.

Mrs. Hedwick said her son each day drove out of his way to pick up Sylvester and take him to their job in Elk Grove Village — "And for what?" she asked.

Sylvester was still in the Cook County jail Wednesday, held under $5,000 bond. He is tentatively scheduled to appear in Niles Court on March 1 on a charge of voluntary manslaughter on a complaint signed by Sgt. Doney.

A coroner's jury is scheduled to convene for an inquest Feb. 15 at 10:30 a.m. in the Cook County morgue, Polk and Wood Streets, Chicago, and could bind Sylvester over to the grand jury under a direct indictment, county officials said.

Hedwick was shot in the chest, the bullet passing through the heart and left lung. The shooting took place in a bedroom in the home.

UNDER QUESTIONING Sylvester told police he had shot Hedwick by accident, not knowing that the gun was loaded. He had earlier said Hedwick had the gun and was killed as he drew back when Sylvester reached over to take it away.

Sylvester said he was going to show Hedwick the gun, a hammerless .380 automatic pistol, police said. Sylvester said he took the gun from underneath the mattress. It apparently was in a green cloth bag along with a clip full of shells, according to police.

Sylvester told police he handed the gun to Hedwick without the clip inserted. When Hedwick returned the weapon, Sylvester said he inserted the gun back into the bag, and then with his right hand ejected the shells from the clip until he felt the clip was empty. This was all done in the bag, out of sight, Sylvester said.

He then put the clip in the pistol and pulled back the slide, still thinking the gun was empty, he said. There apparently was one round of ammunition left in the clip which was injected into the chamber when the slide was pulled back, police said.

THE ACTUAL shooting took place while Sylvester was talking on the phone to a young Rolling Meadows girl, police said.

Sylvester told police that Hedwick was kneeling or sitting on the bed about five feet away, and in jest he pointed the weapon at Hedwick and pulled the trigger.

Hedwick staggered from the bedroom and collapsed in the hallway. Sylvester said he carried the body into the dining room with the intention of taking Hedwick to a breezeway where he thought the cool air might revive him.

The girl Sylvester was talking to on the telephone told police she heard a loud noise over the phone and then Sylvester came back on shortly and said, "I think I hurt Bob."

LT. JOHN Homola was the first to arrive at the Sylvester home after Sylvester had called and reported the accident. Patrolman Ray Lessner also responded to the call.

Lt. Homola reported Sylvester had said, "He shot himself," and said Hedwick had taken the gun from under the bed and wanted to go outside and shoot it.

Tuesday, Hedwick's father said his son would never have touched the gun, for "he was deathly afraid of guns of all kinds." "He was mechanically inclined, not a scholar," Mr. Hedwick said. "He was to be promoted to the position of tool room attendant at the Ampex plant, and was really looking forward to the new position," he said.

Young Hedwick had attended Forest View High School during his freshman year and was transferred to Prospect High School for his sophomore year, prior to dropping out of school. Sylvester also was a school drop-out, it was learned.

TWO YEARS AGO Hedwick suffered a broken leg and still carried pins in the leg, his parents said. The injury gave him a 4-F draft classification. Sylvester is reportedly classified 1-Y, according to people who know him.

ROBERT E. HEDWICK

Sylvester has been in trouble with police before, and was placed on two-year adult probation by the county for auto theft, according to police.

His parents were on their way to California at the time of the shooting, police said, and were notified of the incident in or near Galesburg. They returned immediately.

SYLVESTER made a signed statement in the presence of his father, Sgt. Doney and Det. Eugene Eccker of the Cook County sheriff's police, who assisted Doney and Det. Joe Bopp of Mount Prospect in the investigation.

Asst. State's Atty. Art Zimmerman is handling the case for the county.

Hedwick is survived by his parents and one sister, Janet, 11. He was a member of St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect. He had been employed at Doyno Motors in Mount Prospect prior to going to work at the Ampex plant.

"Youth Sunday" was observed Jan. 31 at the Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 S. Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights.

Youth of the church participated in the morning worship service by singing, ushering and reading the scripture lessons. The Luther Leaguers also sponsored an evening program for their parents to emphasize the youth-parent relationship.

The evening began with a pot luck supper, followed by a play, "The Monsters," written by Pastor Larry D. Cartford, pointing out youth-parent frictions.

ARLO VANDE VEGTE, Tom Browne, Nancy Falldin, Jim Olmon, LaDonna Damphier and Chuck Teske were the characters. Following the play, parents and youth paired off for contests. The evening concluded with devotions led by Joy Erickson, Doug Olson, Steve Schmid, Camille Curry and Nannette Holfeld.

The Lutheran Church of the Cross sponsors two youth leagues. The Junior League is for youth in confirmation. Miss Dawn Kinney is counselor. The Hi League is for confirmed youth. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baardsen and Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Campagna are counselors. (AM

10-Year Salute To LWV Planned

League of Women Voters members, interested observers at many governmental meetings, will have an extra reason for attending the Arlington Heights Village Board meeting next Monday.

The board plans to pass a resolution saluting the League for 10 years of service to the community.

The local LWV now numbering 100 members, became a full-fledged League of Women Voters group in February, 1956. The letter notifying league members that their organization had successfully completed its provisional or trial period was received in mid-February by Mrs. Fredric L. Marks, first president.

MRS. MARKS and the current president, Mrs. Frank Moore, will be among leaguers who will attend the board meeting Monday. Mrs. Moore is a regular visitor to the council chamber, serving as the LWV observer at plan commission meetings.

The village board and plan commission are only two of the local governmental agencies to which the League of Women Voters regularly sends observers.

Mrs. John R. Hoppe is the official league observer at meetings of the High School District 214 board and Mrs. Robert Grabitz represents the LWV at meetings of the Community College District 301 board of education.

A host of other board meetings — in Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Elk Grove Village as well as Arlington Heights — regularly have league visitors.

Contest Announced By Druggist

Joseph Lohr, of Lohr's Rexall Drug Store, Arlington Heights, announces the start of the Rexall Super Plenamins "You're A Winner" Sweepstakes. According to Lohr, everyone who brings in the Rexall Super Plenamins "You're a Winner" Sweepstakes magazine ad will receive a prize.

First prize in the sweepstakes is a 1966 Oldsmobile Toronado and $2,500 in cash. Other prizes include 1966 Oldsmobile F-85 Cutlass Supremes (4-door hardtop convertibles), Honda "50" motorcycles, boy's or girls' Roadmaster bicycles, TYCO road racing sets and Rexal coupon books worth up to $11.10 on nationally known Rexall products.

LOHR explained that each Rexall magazine ad contains a number and that the customer need only to compare the number in the Rexall ad with the prize number on a Super Plenamins display card to find out which prize he had won.

"We feel that this is one of the most exciting promotions we've ever run," said Lohr. The sweepstakes closes April 10, 1966. (A

Burglaries Double, Police Report Shows

Residential burglaries in Arlington Heights in 1965 more than doubled the 1964 total, according to the police year-end activity report.

There were 69 residential burglaries in the village in 1965, compared to 30 in 1964. Commerical burglaries also doubled, from 16 in 1964 to 33 last year.

Complaints as a whole showed an increase as the total number of incidents handled by police totaled 4548—up 434 from the 1964 total of 4114.

There were startling increases in several other areas: reported narcotics cases jumped from one in 1964 to five in 1965; arson, from seven to 16; AWOL, four to 11, and disorderly conduct, 16 to 35.

INCIDENCE of criminal damage to property (vandalism) also followed a general upturn: during the year, police handled 372 cases compared to the 318 reported in 1964.

Other significant increases in police activity over 1964 were reported as follows (1964 figures given first):

Aggravated assault, 4-6; larceny, over $50, 83-117; under $50, 192-238; auto theft, 35-41; sex offenses, 17-25; weapons, 13-17; nuisance complaints, 286-313; missing persons, 46-57; sudden deaths, 23-38; suicides and attempts, 19-21; and suspicious persons, 177-195.

That the social order is not being broken down may be indicated by the fact that during 1965 there were no cases of criminal homicide, rape, prostitution and vice, residential robbery or vagrancy while commerical robbery and gambling with one each remained the same as 1964.

DESPITE THE population increase in the village, some categories showed decreases.

Bicycle thefts declined from 335 in 1964 to 322 in 1965; family and children complaints went from 148 to 134, neighbor disputes, from 20 to 18; public intoxication, 15 to 13; broken windows, 16-11; casualties, 302-186; fire calls, 145-122; runaways, 9-5; and counterfeit and forgery, 6-3.

The juvenile report for last year listed 458 incidents but gave no figures for 1964.

Arlington Heights had 878 motor vehicle accidents resulting in 107 injuries and three fatalities during 1965. This compares with 656 accidents, 79 injuries and two fatalities during the previous year.

POLICE accident prevention activity remained at about the same level as during 1964.

Accident prevention activity is broken down into two broad categories: hazardous arrests (stop light violations, speeding, reckless driving, etc.) and other violations (parking, license plates, etc.)

During 1965, police made 4010 hazardous arrests resulting in 3336 convictions while in the previous year, there were 4171 arrests with 3314 convictions.

In other violations, there were 4618 arrests last year upheld by 3711 convictions, slightly less than the 4788 arrests and 3699 convictions for 1964. A total of 11,597 parking tickets were issued in 1965.

The animal welfare report listed 186 animal bites, seven more than the 1964 total.

A family party was given Jan. 23, with grandparents, aunt, uncles and cousins from his mother's side of the family attending; on Sunday, relatives of Bobby's father honored him at a third celebration.

WEEKEND GUESTS of John and Muriel Fenzel, 1328 N. Yale, were Muriel's sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Balleaw of Yakima, Wash., who are in Chicago this week while the doctor attends a medical meeting. The Balleaws will spend next weekend with the Fenzels before returning to Washington.

Visiting Bill and Freya Jones, 1227 N. Illinois, on Jan. 20 was ex-Terrace resident, J. L. Maustakis. The Maustakis family moved to Alaska recently; Mr. Maustakis was on his way to Detroit on business. Also visiting the Joneses that night were neighbors, the Edward Nielsens.

Last Sunday the Joneses went to Milwaukee to attend a dog show. A friend of Mara's, Liz Walters, accompanied them.

A recent houseguest of Lee and Lena Duss, 1322 N. Race, was Lee's mother, Mrs. Lee Duss Sr. of Jefferson City, Mo. She spent five days with her son and wife.

Bill Ziegler, son of the Bill Zieglers, 1243 N. Chicago, was 9 Jan. 26. He celebrated with his family that day and was honored at a party on the 29th. Attending were Billy Hutching, Ronnie Roberts, Dean Schafer, Jim Kilby, Mike Reilly, and Bill's brothers and sisters, Frank, John, Don, June and Jane. The party goers attended a movie at the Rolling Meadows Theatre and then returned to Zieglers' for games and refreshments.

BILLY AND JIMMY Gibbons, sons of the Bill Gibbonses, 1448 N. Yale, were honored at a birthday party on Saturday; Billy was 6 Jan. 27 and Jimmy will be 7 Feb. 13. Helping them celebrate were Kenny Sadowski, Ford Harmon, Andy and Amy Chodera, Jerry Milligan, Jeff Martincin, the boys' uncle, Steven Sadlicki and their sisters, Tammy and Janice.

Sunday guests of Leo and Kathy Martin, 1107 N. Wilke, were Bill and Lois Ottens of Mount Prospect.

Jerry and Nancy Pollard, 1400 N. Yale, celebrated Nancy's Jan. 26 birthday and their Jan. 27 wedding anniversary last week. Wednesday night the Pollards, accompanied by Jerry's business partner, Louis Mucciante, went out to dinner at Al's Old Town Inn in Mount Prospect. Friday night the Pollards, with Jerry's parents, the John Pollards, and friends, the W. Davidsons, dined at Weller's Steak House in Morton Grove.

Surprise visitors last weekend of Dean and Virginia Arnold, 1410 N. Race, were Virginia's brother, John W. Stoner, and Bill Davenport of Avilla, Ind.

Spending Friday and Saturday in Joliet, visiting their son and family, the Ron Beckers, were Werner and Leona Becker, 1440 N. Race.

Diane Stanley, daughter of the Leonard Stanleys, 1408 Oakton, was 8 Jan. 28. The day before her birthday, Diane's mother took her and a friend, Cathy Weber, out to eat. On her birthday, her aunt and uncle, the Leonard Marshalls of Chicago, joined Diane, her parents, and brothers, Ronnie and Tim, for a family celebration. (A

10-Year Salute To LWV Planned

League of Women Voters members, interested observers at many governmental meetings, will have an extra reason for attending the Arlington Heights Village Board meeting next Monday.

The board plans to pass a resolution saluting the League for 10 years of service to the community.

The local LWV now numbering 100 members, became a full-fledged League of Women Voters group in February, 1956. The letter notifying league members that their organization had successfully completed its provisional or trial period was received in mid-February by Mrs. Fredric L. Marks, first president.

MRS. MARKS and the current president, Mrs. Frank Moore, will be among leaguers who will attend the board meeting Monday. Mrs. Moore is a regular visitor to the council chamber, serving as the LWV observer at plan commission meetings.

The village board and plan commission are only two of the local governmental agencies to which the League of Women Voters regularly sends observers.

Mrs. John R. Hoppe is the official league observer at meetings of the High School District 214 board and Mrs. Robert Grabitz represents the LWV at meetings of the Community College District 301 board of education.

A host of other board meetings — in Mount Prospect, Wheeling and Elk Grove Village as well as Arlington Heights — regularly have league visitors.

Contest Announced By Druggist

Joseph Lohr, of Lohr's Rexall Drug Store, Arlington Heights, announces the start of the Rexall Super Plenamins "You're A Winner" Sweepstakes. According to Lohr, everyone who brings in the Rexall Super Plenamins "You're a Winner" Sweepstakes magazine ad will receive a prize.

First prize in the sweepstakes is a 1966 Oldsmobile Toronado and $2,500 in cash. Other prizes include 1966 Oldsmobile F-85 Cutlass Supremes (4-door hardtop convertibles), Honda "50" motorcycles, boy's or girls' Roadmaster bicycles, TYCO road racing sets and Rexal coupon books worth up to $11.10 on nationally known Rexall products.

LOHR explained that each Rexall magazine ad contains a number and that the customer need only to compare the number in the Rexall ad with the prize number on a Super Plenamins display card to find out which prize he had won.

"We feel that this is one of the most exciting promotions we've ever run," said Lohr. The sweepstakes closes April 10, 1966. (A

Burglaries Double, Police Report Shows

Residential burglaries in Arlington Heights in 1965 more than doubled the 1964 total, according to the police year-end activity report.

There were 69 residential burglaries in the village in 1965, compared to 30 in 1964. Commerical burglaries also doubled, from 16 in 1964 to 33 last year.

Complaints as a whole showed an increase as the total number of incidents handled by police totaled 4548—up 434 from the 1964 total of 4114.

There were startling increases in several other areas: reported narcotics cases jumped from one in 1964 to five in 1965; arson, from seven to 16; AWOL, four to 11, and disorderly conduct, 16 to 35.

INCIDENCE of criminal damage to property (vandalism) also followed a general upturn: during the year, police handled 372 cases compared to the 318 reported in 1964.

Other significant increases in police activity over 1964 were reported as follows (1964 figures given first):

Aggravated assault, 4-6; larceny, over $50, 83-117; under $50, 192-238; auto theft, 35-41; sex offenses, 17-25; weapons, 13-17; nuisance complaints, 286-313; missing persons, 46-57; sudden deaths, 23-38; suicides and attempts, 19-21; and suspicious persons, 177-195.

That the social order is not being broken down may be indicated by the fact that during 1965 there were no cases of criminal homicide, rape, prostitution and vice, residential robbery or vagrancy while commerical robbery and gambling with one each remained the same as 1964.

DESPITE THE population increase in the village, some categories showed decreases.

Bicycle thefts declined from 335 in 1964 to 322 in 1965; family and children complaints went from 148 to 134, neighbor disputes, from 20 to 18; public intoxication, 15 to 13; broken windows, 16-11; casualties, 302-186; fire calls, 145-122; runaways, 9-5; and counterfeit and forgery, 6-3.

The juvenile report for last year listed 458 incidents but gave no figures for 1964.

Arlington Heights had 878 motor vehicle accidents resulting in 107 injuries and three fatalities during 1965. This compares with 656 accidents, 79 injuries and two fatalities during the previous year.

POLICE accident prevention activity remained at about the same level as during 1964.

Accident prevention activity is broken down into two broad categories: hazardous arrests (stop light violations, speeding, reckless driving, etc.) and other violations (parking, license plates, etc.)

During 1965, police made 4010 hazardous arrests resulting in 3336 convictions while in the previous year, there were 4171 arrests with 3314 convictions.

In other violations, there were 4618 arrests last year upheld by 3711 convictions, slightly less than the 4788 arrests and 3699 convictions for 1964. A total of 11,597 parking tickets were issued in 1965.

The animal welfare report listed 186 animal bites, seven more than the 1964 total.

Promised Junior College Aid Delayed

Board Debates Bond Amount

by Bob Setlik
Staff Writer

Voters, who once were told that a $2-$2.5 million local commitment would be sufficient to open a junior college, may face an $8-$10 million bond issue in March.

Board members representing Junior College District 301, which serves Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, and Palatine Townships, appear ready to concede that their original hopes may not come true soon enough to assure opening of a junior college within the next two years.

When the state higher education act was passed, it stipulated that the state and federal government would pay up to 75 per cent of the construction costs of class I junior colleges.

But more colleges were formed than anticipated and it appears that sufficient funds are not available for the state to make good on its promises this biennium.

"THE STATE says have faith," College Pres. Robert Lahti told board members last week, "I think we'll have to set our sights lower."

Some $24.5 million was made available for class I junior colleges in the current biennium, and only the $4.5 million alloted by the federal government has been released so far.

Already five colleges applied for the federal funds at the first cutoff date, Jan. 15, and Lahti expects another five to apply for whatever is left at the second cutoff date, March 15.

District 301 now is amassing the necessary raw data required in the applications and expects to meet the March 15 cutoff date.

LAHTI EXPECTS all 10 colleges to be in competition for the state funds, meaning that if the money is evenly distributed each district will receive about $2.4 million. If District 301 were to propose a $10 million construction program for the first stage of its campus, the state aid would fall almost $5 million short of the 75 per cent originally expected.

A second complication is that the junior colleges in the City of Chicago might have made the necessary changes to qualify as class I institutions by March and thus nearly double the number of institutions seeking state aid.

Based on these suppositions, sentiment on the District 301 board points toward a sizeable bond issue sometime in March, one that would be much larger than earlier public pronouncements have led the taxpayers to believe.

At the last board meeting members Richard Johnson and Bud Bernstein both argued that the community should now expect to assure payment of 100 per cent of the cost of the first phase of the college development.

THEY ARGUED that it would be better to request residents to approve the entire amount and then if aid were received to apply it toward earlier payment of bonds.

Board Pres. John Haas said the college might "never get off the ground" if it depends on state aid for financing the first stage.

A fourth board member, James Hamill, argued that the bond referendum should anticipate some state aid although the amount would be nowhere near the 75 per cent which it originally antcipated.

A close observer of the state junior college board was not as pessimistic as District 301 representatives and suggested that patience may be the necessary requirement at this time.

JAMES BROMAN, director of educational affairs for the State Chamber of Commerce, Monday said the sentiment on the state junior college board is to coordinate the allocation of funds with the progress of the college building programs.

The board might require each district to file a long-range plan with the state and then guarantee allocation of the 75 per cent state aid allotment according to the scheduling of the plan.

While the colleges would not immediately receive their 75 per cent, they would get it when it was needed to complete each phase of the construction program.

The proposal would rescue the state from its currently embarrassing situation because all the aid would no longer have to be distributed during this biennium, but over the entire length of the master plans.

And, it would allow each college district to adopt bond issues which would require local financing of only 25 per cent of the total construction costs.

BROMAN expects the junior college board to decide by April how to allocate the state aid. He said it still fully intends that each college will receive the 75 per cent which it originally was led to expect from the state.

If the state board does not adopt this plan it probably will request the calling of a special session of the legislature to make up the deficiencies in the present appropriation, Broman said.

Lahti said he was aware of the two potential solutions and considered both acceptable to District 301's present dilemma. However he questions if the district can wait for decisions which it has no assurance will be made.

"We can't hold back too long on the bond issue or it means holding back on the college opening. If we wait much longer than the end of March to hold the bond referendum it will push the opening date back from the fall of 1968 to the fall of 1969," Lahti said.

Tuesday night the board set a March 26 date for the referendum.

"EVERY YEAR means so many more students from our communities who cannot find room in existing state institutions."

He said that in the next two months the District 301 board will make a thorough study to realistically determine what it can expect from the state.

He shares neither Bernstein's or Johnson's pessimism nor Broman's optimism.

"I think we'll get some money but whether it will be a significant amount will be another question," he said.

Lahti will meet in Houston Feb. 10-11 with the district's educational consultants and its architects to analyze the raw data which they have been collecting. It will help him and the school board to decide the size of the student body, the scheduling of the construction program, and the opening date for which it must plan.

A FEW DAYS afterward he expects that the junior college board will decide the amount of the bond issue which it will ask residents to approve.

Although residents had been led to believe that a much smaller allotment of local funds was required, board members are optimistic that they will receive support for an $8-$10 million referendum.

Mrs. Fred Nicklas, board secretary, said that in the campaign for formation of the college district residents were told that a college could be built even without state help.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights), chief sponsor of the higher education act, pointed out that the act commits the state to financing an amount "not exceeding 75 per cent of the cost of the project."

But, she added, it was the intent of the state to finance the full 75 per cent for the local communities, including equipping as well as building the school. She, like Broman, feels that the state will meet its commitment and suggests that the local college districts show some patience. (B10

Bernstein Suggests Silence on Site For Jr. College

A proposal that the junior college site not be disclosed until after the public approves a bond issue for construction of the campus was criticized by District 301 board members last week.

Although board member Bud Bernstein denied that his intent in making the suggestion was to withhold information from the public, another board member questioned him on those grounds.

"If the board has made up its mind on a site, then it should let the public know it as soon as the negotiations are completed," said Milton Hansen.

"WE HAVE TO a substantial extent identified our preferred site. Why should we now say that we'll look elsewhere?" asked Paul O'Dea.

Bernstein said he wished to delay announcing the site to prevent "local politics from dominating the discussion of the bond issue."

He said he wanted to separate the bond issue from a site selection and to do so meant not making a definite site selection before the referendum.

Board Pres. John Haas said to avoid making a decision would invite public disfavor and also prevent the architects from planning ahead for site development.

Atcher had complained that the site would deprive his community of prime industrial land.

DURING THE discussion board member James Hamill denied that he intended to gag board members when he proposed a policy Jan. 6 which would have prevented board members from speaking individually on matters affecting the junior college.

"I wasn't trying to restrain board members; I've always believed in free and open discussion," he said, defending himself from newspaper criticism of his proposal.

Northern California

Jr. College Tour Impresses Board

After a tour of northern California junior colleges, District 301 junior college board members were "impressed by the scope of planning" and "bemused by the differences in educational philosophies," according to a report given last week by member Paul O'Dea.

Five board members, Pres. Robert Lahti, and an architect's representative toured Foothills, San Mateo, and Chabot Junior Colleges Jan. 13-16.

Foothills was described as being "almost like a country club" and deliberately planned to produce an orderly, neat atmosphere. "The president assured us that he didn't have problems with student demonstrations," said board member James Hamill.

Foothills doesn't offer vocational courses because the president believes that a college's job is to offer a liberal arts education, O'Dea reported.

THE CAMPUS at San Mateo offers vocational training without requiring students to take general education courses, participates in government rehabilatation retraining programs, and its president considers Foothills "to be snobbish," according to O'Dea.

The San Mateo architecture is modern — glass and concrete — and the Foothills president describes it as "reflecting the tensions of modern society," a board member said.

The Chabot campus, located in Hayward, was the newest of the schools and like San Mateo it offered both vocational and general education courses.

Its president had the most liberal attitude toward the students, for example refusing to institute security measures in the library.

"HIS PHILOSOPHY is to let them steal the books," said O'Dea. "He said that tight security has never prevented the kids from stealing books."

"He believes that if you produce a proper atmosphere in the library the students will be more likely to keep the books there."

O'Dea said the board members were impressed with the Chabot library and considered it better than the libraries at the other two schools.

"If I came back with anything, it's that we'be been thinking too small," added board member James Hamill. "We shouldn't restrict our planning to just 10 years from now but we should look toward the year 2,000." (B10

March 26 Date Set for Vote

Junior College District 301 Tuesday set Saturday, March 26 for its referendum date on junior college construction.

The board will not decide on the amount of the referendum until late February. It committed itself to holding a referendum to cover the entire first phase of the junior college. Its consultants will gather information on the anticipated enrollment for the junior college and estimates of cost of construction. The architects will be preparing sketches.

Board member Jesslyn Nicklas will begin contacting people who might be interested in serving on a citizens committee for the referendum.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE BOARD anticipates speaking engagements to explain the referendum. It also will distribute a brochure showing an artist's rendering of the college facility and a financial breakdown.

The junior college board Tuesday also hired as financial consultants, Municipal Research Associates of Kenilworth. The firm will formulate a bond prospectus, a compilation of financial figures and tax needed.

It will provide the district with data for other bond issues, provide general financial background, bond schedules, and advertise for the sale of bonds and investment of funds from their sale.

THE FIRM WILL GET $5,000 contingent on successful passage of the referendum.

Municipal Research Associates were one of two firms interviewed by the board. Eight firms were considered initially.

Prospect Splits Frosh Cage Tilts

One win and one loss were the result of Prospect frosh cage action against Maine West last Saturday.

On the A level there was a 40-26 defeat for the Knights, who saw their record slip to 4-6 under coach Earl Benoche. A 51-42 margin gave the B's a hoop victory making their record 7-2 for headman Larry Chapman.

In A action Prospect was behind 4-1 after one quarter and 13-5 at the half. Maine kept building its margin and the Knights never came close. High scorer for Prospect was Bruce Timko with 12 points.

The Knights were behind 14-8 after one period of B play. Prospect rallied for an 18-11 period two margin and 26-25 lead at the half. In the third quarter the Knights topped Maine West 13-10 and finished with a 12-7 bulge in the last period to set final totals. Dan Willis was high for the winners with 16 points.

OFTEN MISUSED

The word ALIBI properly means the plea that when the alleged act took place, the accused person was elsewhere than at the alleged place. ALIBI should not be used loosely to mean any excuse.

Avoid such expressions as "Equally as good," "Equally as capable," etc. "Equally" is sufficient. Or, still better, say, "This wine is just as good as that." "The boy is quite (or, fully) as capable as his father."

Do not use such expressions as "all the farther" and "all the higher," in the sense of "as far as" and "as high as."

Do not say, "You will find that most everybody agrees to this." Say, "ALMOST everybody."

College Board Picks Site; Atcher Promises Opposition

Condemnation proceedings for a 186 acre college site in Schaumburg were begun Tuesday night by the District 301 junior college board in face of opposition from Village Pres. Robert Atcher.

The board directed Atty. Frank Hines to start condemnation on land located adjacent to the northwest corner of Golf and Meacham Roads.

It will offer to pay $9,000 an acre for the land, which is presently undeveloped and under cultivation but zoned for industrial use by the village of Schaumburg.

THE CHOICE OF a site culminates a long search by the board, which hoped to build a college on forest preserve land in Elk Grove Township until the Cook County Board of Commissioners refused it permission.

The site is in the heart of an undeveloped 3,200 acre area earmarked for industrial development. Just east of the site is 245 acres which are zoned for a Sears-Roebuck and Co. shopping center.

Atcher commented Wednesday that he would lead an organized effort to oppose the bond referendum.

"IF THE PEOPLE of the district know the real story, they won't vote for the referendum," he said.

"I'm certainly disappointed with this lack of foresight on part of the board and its lack of consideration for the entire district in taking a valuable piece of land which should be used to support and not house the college."

Atcher's attitude was not mirrored by Roy Jenkins, president of the neighboring village of Hoffman Estates. Jenkins commented Wednesday that:

"Even in the face of losing the assessed valuation, the value of having a junior college located in the general area of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg would bring a considerable commercial advantage which may equal or exceed the valuation that we will lose.

ATCHER SAID HE would contact heads of service organizations in the four township area and present his case to them.

He believes that developing a college at Golf and Meacham will impede the development of the whole 3,200 acre industrial area. He said contacts with industrial firms has shown that they are reluctant to build near a college because of traffic problems.

"We had three firms ready to go and this will stymie them," he said. "If we had some other area for our indistrial development, I would not be so unhappy, but we have no place else to go."

HE ADDED that removing the 186 acres from the tax rolls would deprive the area of $30-$50 million in assessed valuation if the site were allowed to develop industrially.

"I voted in favor of the college," he said at one time last month "and would like to have it in Schaumburg, but not in prime industrial or commercial land which is expensive and can be better used to support the facility than to house it."

Atcher then stated that the land should remain on the tax rolls where it provides a firm basis of support not only for the college, but also for the grade school and high school districts.

HE CLAIMED THAT other sites are available near the middle of the district which would cost much less and be just as accessible to the college students.

He had suggested a site on some land located west of the Lexington Fields subdivision, bounded by Higgins, Meacham, and Schaumburg Roads.

HE NOTED THAT Route 53 is to become Interstate 90 and a cloverleaf will be installed at Higgins Road, according to state plans. To have a college located near the cloverleaf, where his suggested site lies, would make it more accessible than have it located in the middle of an industrial-commercial area on Golf Road, he argued. He said the land would be available for $6,000 an acre.

Atcher said he pointed to the potential alternatives and met with little enthusiasm.

"They said they would prefer to build the college elsewhere but that time was getting short and that engineering reports had ruled out other locations."

HE SAID BOARD members promised to look at other locations but didn't seem too excited about the prospects.

At last week's board meeting some members suggested that Atcher's statements were politically-motivated but otherwise did not comment on his remarks.

"They know that they have power and now that someone has seen fit to challenge that power they're determined to exercise it no matter what the cost," he commented Wednesday. (B10

Junior College Crossroad: Image or Valued Education

By BOB SETLIK
Staff Writer

When a concern about its "image" starts to dominate a group's thinking, some important values usually are forgotten. While attending a District 301 junior college board meeting last week, I noticed a tendency in that direction.

The college president proposed constructing a temporary campus which would provide "a better image" and "a little more dignity" than use of existing high school facilities for temporary quarters.

The temporary classrooms would cost in excess of $250,000, the high school facilities considerly less, but no board member asked the president to justify the expenditure on practical or educational grounds.

SETLIK

He did suggest that it would be easier to recruit a good staff if the college could begin on a day schedule in its own quarters rather than on an evening schedule in borrowed quarters. But I wonder if a dedicated instructor would mind teaching on a temporary basis in a high school (which admittedly won't be carpeted or air-conditioned) if he were aware that a campus was under construction and due for completion in two years.

MY CONCERN isn't that the junior college board will try to spring a shabby product on the public. I do worry that it might create such a glossy and slick product that its magnificence would become its primary justification.

Something like this happens when corporations throw up 50-story buildings in the middle of downtown for purposes of self-advertisement and show no concern for the health of the city or for the quality of life which goes on inside the building.

Something like this has happened on my campus at the University of Illinois. The administration has built a 13-story dormitory which impresses visitors but is planned so monotonously on the inside that its real accomplishment has not been to shelter its inhabitants but to dehumanize and demoralize them.

At the same board meeting one member reported touring a northern California junior college, which he described as deliberately planned to produce a certain kind of student reaction.

HE DESCRIBED the campus as resembling a country club. It was orderly, neat, and contained garden-type walks and small gathering places dispersed randomly throughout the campus. "So we don't have problems with student demonstrations here," he quoted the college president as stating.

I find the implications of that attitude frightening; more so because it is close to home.

I hope that the junior college board will resist producing a suburban campus which will incorporate the most negative qualities of the suburbs: the tendency for everything to be done here for some end outside the community and the resultant defeat of any chance for real communities to develop.

FOR EXAMPLE, schools in the suburbs aren't really concerned about educating people. In grade school one is prepared for high school, in high school one is prepared to gain admission to college, and in college one is trained to fit into society.

Even such academic disciplines as English, sociology, and psychology are more often on a college level concerned with producing professionals than critics, sociologists, or psychologists.

A college should serve both needs: it should concern itself with people and their development as well as concern itself with making them into finished products for use in socially accepted pursuits (and its unfinished products and its critics are often society's most valuable members).

Few colleges concern themselves with both functions, and thus on many campuses students take matters into their own hands and start subcurriculums and demonstrate for their rights as human beings. These demonstrations make college presidents uneasy. They should. Every demonstration is a criticism of his and his college's failure to do its job.

THE BOARD also discussed a northern California junior college which was developed around a central plaza. The president was described as considering it more important to build a good and habitable library than to worry about instituting security measures to prevent stealing of books. He believed that a proper atmosphere for scholarship was the best security against theft.

I think he had the correct attitude: that the first concern of a college is to create a proper environment for education and that a proper environment won't exist unless the campus plan allows a college community to develop. Neatness, orderliness, and a passive student body have no place on a college campus. What one should demand is a campus which encourages human interaction, which creates the potential for vitality, creativity, and criticism.

Vitality and creativity of course don't always help a college's "image." They tend to be translated into student concern about his role in society and into action. But why do so many people fear concern and action? I would welcome it: that is how a person uses his education.

The junior college district will get the type of faculty which its campus plan attracts. If it makes its "image" into a primary value it will get capable, professional academic types who will teach well but rarely stimulate any inner human workings.

IF IT PLACES priority on developing a college community concerned with ideas and human potential, it will attract some instructors who may not be slick and professional but who can reach people.

The junior college board has acted encouragingly in some areas and one of them is its commitment to developing both a vocational and a general education program. It has yet to decide whether and to what extent it wishes to integrate the programs.

I would think that to force vocational training students to take liberal arts courses would be foolish unless the courses are concerned with educating people as well as making the college student into a distinct professional class whose home is in the classroom and not the world. Otherwise I don't see how the courses can have much value for the vocational student—whose home is in the world.

The result will be resistance—submission but not interest—on the part of the vocational student.

The District 301 college president seems to incorporate most of the professional skills which are necessary for the college's success as an institution. His skills lie in a knowledge of the college's financial resources, its relations to the public: in short he incorporates the skills associated with an administrator.

AN ADMINISTRATOR is crucial: building and managing a college is too complex a task to do without this type of person. But he should not set the dominant tone for the educational and human values in a college community. I hope that the search for an academic dean produces a person who is vitally concerned with those things that an administrator often ignores.

I hope it produces a person who sees a college as more than a place to produce professionals and who is concerned with education as a vital, human process.

A college could become a real source of health for the suburbs.

It could transform suburban culture—which now often seems to be the last refuge of the educated and the sensitive—into a life-fulfilling and value-creating process.

It could, by its example, loosen up the present institutionalized concept of education in suburban grade schools and high schools and show that education can concern itself with growth as well as training, that it can involve contacting and not avoiding the world.

IT COULD BE a means of turning the suburbs toward the city and ending the estrangement which has produced sterile suburbs and dying cities.

A sociology course might be offered which would concern itself with the interaction between the city and the suburbs. The vocational program could encourage exchanges between students in city and suburban schools where complimentary or specialized facilities exist in one school and not the other.

Or, it could bask in the middle of a field and like the suburbs become a deliberate exile from the hopes and pains of American life. (A15

Promised Junior College Aid Delayed

Board Debates Bond Amount

by Bob Setlik
Staff Writer

Voters, who once were told that a $2-$2.5 million local commitment would be sufficient to open a junior college, may face an $8-$10 million bond issue in March.

Board members representing Junior College District 301, which serves Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, and Palatine Townships, appear ready to concede that their original hopes may not come true soon enough to assure opening of a junior college within the next two years.

When the state higher education act was passed, it stipulated that the state and federal government would pay up to 75 per cent of the construction costs of class I junior colleges.

But more colleges were formed than anticipated and it appears that sufficient funds are not available for the state to make good on its promises this biennium.

"THE STATE says have faith," College Pres. Robert Lahti told board members last week, "I think we'll have to set our sights lower."

Some $24.5 million was made available for class I junior colleges in the current biennium, and only the $4.5 million alloted by the federal government has been released so far.

Already five colleges applied for the federal funds at the first cutoff date, Jan. 15, and Lahti expects another five to apply for whatever is left at the second cutoff date, March 15.

District 301 now is amassing the necessary raw data required in the applications and expects to meet the March 15 cutoff date.

LAHTI EXPECTS all 10 colleges to be in competition for the state funds, meaning that if the money is evenly distributed each district will receive about $2.4 million. If District 301 were to propose a $10 million construction program for the first stage of its campus, the state aid would fall almost $5 million short of the 75 per cent originally expected.

A second complication is that the junior colleges in the City of Chicago might have made the necessary changes to qualify as class I institutions by March and thus nearly double the number of institutions seeking state aid.

Based on these suppositions, sentiment on the District 301 board points toward a sizeable bond issue sometime in March, one that would be much larger than earlier public pronouncements have led the taxpayers to believe.

At the last board meeting members Richard Johnson and Bud Bernstein both argued that the community should now expect to assure payment of 100 per cent of the cost of the first phase of the college development.

THEY ARGUED that it would be better to request residents to approve the entire amount and then if aid were received to apply it toward earlier payment of bonds.

Board Pres. John Haas said the college might "never get off the ground" if it depends on state aid for financing the first stage.

A fourth board member, James Hamill, argued that the bond referendum should anticipate some state aid although the amount would be nowhere near the 75 per cent which it originally antcipated.

A close observer of the state junior college board was not as pessimistic as District 301 representatives and suggested that patience may be the necessary requirement at this time.

JAMES BROMAN, director of educational affairs for the State Chamber of Commerce, Monday said the sentiment on the state junior college board is to coordinate the allocation of funds with the progress of the college building programs.

The board might require each district to file a long-range plan with the state and then guarantee allocation of the 75 per cent state aid allotment according to the scheduling of the plan.

While the colleges would not immediately receive their 75 per cent, they would get it when it was needed to complete each phase of the construction program.

The proposal would rescue the state from its currently embarrassing situation because all the aid would no longer have to be distributed during this biennium, but over the entire length of the master plans.

And, it would allow each college district to adopt bond issues which would require local financing of only 25 per cent of the total construction costs.

BROMAN expects the junior college board to decide by April how to allocate the state aid. He said it still fully intends that each college will receive the 75 per cent which it originally was led to expect from the state.

If the state board does not adopt this plan it probably will request the calling of a special session of the legislature to make up the deficiencies in the present appropriation, Broman said.

Lahti said he was aware of the two potential solutions and considered both acceptable to District 301's present dilemma. However he questions if the district can wait for decisions which it has no assurance will be made.

"We can't hold back too long on the bond issue or it means holding back on the college opening. If we wait much longer than the end of March to hold the bond referendum it will push the opening date back from the fall of 1968 to the fall of 1969," Lahti said.

Tuesday night the board set a March 26 date for the referendum.

"EVERY YEAR means so many more students from our communities who cannot find room in existing state institutions."

He said that in the next two months the District 301 board will make a thorough study to realistically determine what it can expect from the state.

He shares neither Bernstein's or Johnson's pessimism nor Broman's optimism.

"I think we'll get some money but whether it will be a significant amount will be another question," he said.

Lahti will meet in Houston Feb. 10-11 with the district's educational consultants and its architects to analyze the raw data which they have been collecting. It will help him and the school board to decide the size of the student body, the scheduling of the construction program, and the opening date for which it must plan.

A FEW DAYS afterward he expects that the junior college board will decide the amount of the bond issue which it will ask residents to approve.

Although residents had been led to believe that a much smaller allotment of local funds was required, board members are optimistic that they will receive support for an $8-$10 million referendum.

Mrs. Fred Nicklas, board secretary, said that in the campaign for formation of the college district residents were told that a college could be built even without state help.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights), chief sponsor of the higher education act, pointed out that the act commits the state to financing an amount "not exceeding 75 per cent of the cost of the project."

But, she added, it was the intent of the state to finance the full 75 per cent for the local communities, including equipping as well as building the school. She, like Broman, feels that the state will meet its commitment and suggests that the local college districts show some patience. (B10

A proposal that the junior college site not be disclosed until after the public approves a bond issue for construction of the campus was criticized by District 301 board members last week.

Although board member Bud Bernstein denied that his intent in making the suggestion was to withhold information from the public, another board member questioned him on those grounds.

"If the board has made up its mind on a site, then it should let the public know it as soon as the negotiations are completed," said Milton Hansen.

"WE HAVE TO a substantial extent identified our preferred site. Why should we now say that we'll look elsewhere?" asked Paul O'Dea.

Bernstein said he wished to delay announcing the site to prevent "local politics from dominating the discussion of the bond issue."

He said he wanted to separate the bond issue from a site selection and to do so meant not making a definite site selection before the referendum.

Board Pres. John Haas said to avoid making a decision would invite public disfavor and also prevent the architects from planning ahead for site development.

Atcher had complained that the site would deprive his community of prime industrial land.

DURING THE discussion board member James Hamill denied that he intended to gag board members when he proposed a policy Jan. 6 which would have prevented board members from speaking individually on matters affecting the junior college.

"I wasn't trying to restrain board members; I've always believed in free and open discussion," he said, defending himself from newspaper criticism of his proposal.

Northern California

Jr. College Tour Impresses Board

After a tour of northern California junior colleges, District 301 junior college board members were "impressed by the scope of planning" and "bemused by the differences in educational philosophies," according to a report given last week by member Paul O'Dea.

Five board members, Pres. Robert Lahti, and an architect's representative toured Foothills, San Mateo, and Chabot Junior Colleges Jan. 13-16.

Foothills was described as being "almost like a country club" and deliberately planned to produce an orderly, neat atmosphere. "The president assured us that he didn't have problems with student demonstrations," said board member James Hamill.

Foothills doesn't offer vocational courses because the president believes that a college's job is to offer a liberal arts education, O'Dea reported.

THE CAMPUS at San Mateo offers vocational training without requiring students to take general education courses, participates in government rehabilatation retraining programs, and its president considers Foothills "to be snobbish," according to O'Dea.

The San Mateo architecture is modern — glass and concrete — and the Foothills president describes it as "reflecting the tensions of modern society," a board member said.

The Chabot campus, located in Hayward, was the newest of the schools and like San Mateo it offered both vocational and general education courses.

Its president had the most liberal attitude toward the students, for example refusing to institute security measures in the library.

"HIS PHILOSOPHY is to let them steal the books," said O'Dea. "He said that tight security has never prevented the kids from stealing books."

"He believes that if you produce a proper atmosphere in the library the students will be more likely to keep the books there."

O'Dea said the board members were impressed with the Chabot library and considered it better than the libraries at the other two schools.

"If I came back with anything, it's that we'be been thinking too small," added board member James Hamill. "We shouldn't restrict our planning to just 10 years from now but we should look toward the year 2,000." (B10

March 26 Date Set for Vote

Junior College District 301 Tuesday set Saturday, March 26 for its referendum date on junior college construction.

The board will not decide on the amount of the referendum until late February. It committed itself to holding a referendum to cover the entire first phase of the junior college. Its consultants will gather information on the anticipated enrollment for the junior college and estimates of cost of construction. The architects will be preparing sketches.

Board member Jesslyn Nicklas will begin contacting people who might be interested in serving on a citizens committee for the referendum.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE BOARD anticipates speaking engagements to explain the referendum. It also will distribute a brochure showing an artist's rendering of the college facility and a financial breakdown.

The junior college board Tuesday also hired as financial consultants, Municipal Research Associates of Kenilworth. The firm will formulate a bond prospectus, a compilation of financial figures and tax needed.

It will provide the district with data for other bond issues, provide general financial background, bond schedules, and advertise for the sale of bonds and investment of funds from their sale.

THE FIRM WILL GET $5,000 contingent on successful passage of the referendum.

Municipal Research Associates were one of two firms interviewed by the board. Eight firms were considered initially.

Prospect Splits Frosh Cage Tilts

One win and one loss were the result of Prospect frosh cage action against Maine West last Saturday.

On the A level there was a 40-26 defeat for the Knights, who saw their record slip to 4-6 under coach Earl Benoche. A 51-42 margin gave the B's a hoop victory making their record 7-2 for headman Larry Chapman.

In A action Prospect was behind 4-1 after one quarter and 13-5 at the half. Maine kept building its margin and the Knights never came close. High scorer for Prospect was Bruce Timko with 12 points.

The Knights were behind 14-8 after one period of B play. Prospect rallied for an 18-11 period two margin and 26-25 lead at the half. In the third quarter the Knights topped Maine West 13-10 and finished with a 12-7 bulge in the last period to set final totals. Dan Willis was high for the winners with 16 points.

OFTEN MISUSED

The word ALIBI properly means the plea that when the alleged act took place, the accused person was elsewhere than at the alleged place. ALIBI should not be used loosely to mean any excuse.

Avoid such expressions as "Equally as good," "Equally as capable," etc. "Equally" is sufficient. Or, still better, say, "This wine is just as good as that." "The boy is quite (or, fully) as capable as his father."

Do not use such expressions as "all the farther" and "all the higher," in the sense of "as far as" and "as high as."

Do not say, "You will find that most everybody agrees to this." Say, "ALMOST everybody."

College Board Picks Site; Atcher Promises Opposition

Condemnation proceedings for a 186 acre college site in Schaumburg were begun Tuesday night by the District 301 junior college board in face of opposition from Village Pres. Robert Atcher.

The board directed Atty. Frank Hines to start condemnation on land located adjacent to the northwest corner of Golf and Meacham Roads.

It will offer to pay $9,000 an acre for the land, which is presently undeveloped and under cultivation but zoned for industrial use by the village of Schaumburg.

THE CHOICE OF a site culminates a long search by the board, which hoped to build a college on forest preserve land in Elk Grove Township until the Cook County Board of Commissioners refused it permission.

The site is in the heart of an undeveloped 3,200 acre area earmarked for industrial development. Just east of the site is 245 acres which are zoned for a Sears-Roebuck and Co. shopping center.

Atcher commented Wednesday that he would lead an organized effort to oppose the bond referendum.

"IF THE PEOPLE of the district know the real story, they won't vote for the referendum," he said.

"I'm certainly disappointed with this lack of foresight on part of the board and its lack of consideration for the entire district in taking a valuable piece of land which should be used to support and not house the college."

Atcher's attitude was not mirrored by Roy Jenkins, president of the neighboring village of Hoffman Estates. Jenkins commented Wednesday that:

"Even in the face of losing the assessed valuation, the value of having a junior college located in the general area of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg would bring a considerable commercial advantage which may equal or exceed the valuation that we will lose.

ATCHER SAID HE would contact heads of service organizations in the four township area and present his case to them.

He believes that developing a college at Golf and Meacham will impede the development of the whole 3,200 acre industrial area. He said contacts with industrial firms has shown that they are reluctant to build near a college because of traffic problems.

"We had three firms ready to go and this will stymie them," he said. "If we had some other area for our indistrial development, I would not be so unhappy, but we have no place else to go."

HE ADDED that removing the 186 acres from the tax rolls would deprive the area of $30-$50 million in assessed valuation if the site were allowed to develop industrially.

"I voted in favor of the college," he said at one time last month "and would like to have it in Schaumburg, but not in prime industrial or commercial land which is expensive and can be better used to support the facility than to house it."

Atcher then stated that the land should remain on the tax rolls where it provides a firm basis of support not only for the college, but also for the grade school and high school districts.

HE CLAIMED THAT other sites are available near the middle of the district which would cost much less and be just as accessible to the college students.

He had suggested a site on some land located west of the Lexington Fields subdivision, bounded by Higgins, Meacham, and Schaumburg Roads.

HE NOTED THAT Route 53 is to become Interstate 90 and a cloverleaf will be installed at Higgins Road, according to state plans. To have a college located near the cloverleaf, where his suggested site lies, would make it more accessible than have it located in the middle of an industrial-commercial area on Golf Road, he argued. He said the land would be available for $6,000 an acre.

Atcher said he pointed to the potential alternatives and met with little enthusiasm.

"They said they would prefer to build the college elsewhere but that time was getting short and that engineering reports had ruled out other locations."

HE SAID BOARD members promised to look at other locations but didn't seem too excited about the prospects.

At last week's board meeting some members suggested that Atcher's statements were politically-motivated but otherwise did not comment on his remarks.

"They know that they have power and now that someone has seen fit to challenge that power they're determined to exercise it no matter what the cost," he commented Wednesday. (B10

Junior College Crossroad: Image or Valued Education

By BOB SETLIK
Staff Writer

When a concern about its "image" starts to dominate a group's thinking, some important values usually are forgotten. While attending a District 301 junior college board meeting last week, I noticed a tendency in that direction.

The college president proposed constructing a temporary campus which would provide "a better image" and "a little more dignity" than use of existing high school facilities for temporary quarters.

The temporary classrooms would cost in excess of $250,000, the high school facilities considerly less, but no board member asked the president to justify the expenditure on practical or educational grounds.

SETLIK

He did suggest that it would be easier to recruit a good staff if the college could begin on a day schedule in its own quarters rather than on an evening schedule in borrowed quarters. But I wonder if a dedicated instructor would mind teaching on a temporary basis in a high school (which admittedly won't be carpeted or air-conditioned) if he were aware that a campus was under construction and due for completion in two years.

MY CONCERN isn't that the junior college board will try to spring a shabby product on the public. I do worry that it might create such a glossy and slick product that its magnificence would become its primary justification.

Something like this happens when corporations throw up 50-story buildings in the middle of downtown for purposes of self-advertisement and show no concern for the health of the city or for the quality of life which goes on inside the building.

Something like this has happened on my campus at the University of Illinois. The administration has built a 13-story dormitory which impresses visitors but is planned so monotonously on the inside that its real accomplishment has not been to shelter its inhabitants but to dehumanize and demoralize them.

At the same board meeting one member reported touring a northern California junior college, which he described as deliberately planned to produce a certain kind of student reaction.

HE DESCRIBED the campus as resembling a country club. It was orderly, neat, and contained garden-type walks and small gathering places dispersed randomly throughout the campus. "So we don't have problems with student demonstrations here," he quoted the college president as stating.

I find the implications of that attitude frightening; more so because it is close to home.

I hope that the junior college board will resist producing a suburban campus which will incorporate the most negative qualities of the suburbs: the tendency for everything to be done here for some end outside the community and the resultant defeat of any chance for real communities to develop.

FOR EXAMPLE, schools in the suburbs aren't really concerned about educating people. In grade school one is prepared for high school, in high school one is prepared to gain admission to college, and in college one is trained to fit into society.

Even such academic disciplines as English, sociology, and psychology are more often on a college level concerned with producing professionals than critics, sociologists, or psychologists.

A college should serve both needs: it should concern itself with people and their development as well as concern itself with making them into finished products for use in socially accepted pursuits (and its unfinished products and its critics are often society's most valuable members).

Few colleges concern themselves with both functions, and thus on many campuses students take matters into their own hands and start subcurriculums and demonstrate for their rights as human beings. These demonstrations make college presidents uneasy. They should. Every demonstration is a criticism of his and his college's failure to do its job.

THE BOARD also discussed a northern California junior college which was developed around a central plaza. The president was described as considering it more important to build a good and habitable library than to worry about instituting security measures to prevent stealing of books. He believed that a proper atmosphere for scholarship was the best security against theft.

I think he had the correct attitude: that the first concern of a college is to create a proper environment for education and that a proper environment won't exist unless the campus plan allows a college community to develop. Neatness, orderliness, and a passive student body have no place on a college campus. What one should demand is a campus which encourages human interaction, which creates the potential for vitality, creativity, and criticism.

Vitality and creativity of course don't always help a college's "image." They tend to be translated into student concern about his role in society and into action. But why do so many people fear concern and action? I would welcome it: that is how a person uses his education.

I would think that to force vocational training students to take liberal arts courses would be foolish unless the courses are concerned with educating people as well as making the -college student into a distinct professional class whose home is in the classroom and not the world. Otherwise I don't see how the courses can have much value for the vocational student—whose home is in the world.

The District 301 college president seems to incorporate most of the professional skills which are necessary for the college's success as an institution. SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

Once there was a local square dance club that had a cake social and this reporter thought, "If only they'd had pie instead of cake I could get clever as all getout, relating the words 'pie' and 'square' to the mathematical formula 'pi r2.' " Now, finally, a square dance club is having a pie social — and I can't think of anything except, "pie are not square, pie are round." Oh well.

Fortunately for pie-loving square dancers nobody has to get clever as all getout to have fun and simultaneously give a fiscal boost to families of victims of the Thanksgiving Eve explosion in Keokuk, Iowa. Elmhurst's Square Wheels are inviting everyone to join 'em tomorrow night when the proceeds of a pie auction will go to the Keokuk benefit fund. Each lady is asked to bring a pie big enough for two — each gentleman will bid for the pie of his choice and be royally served same by the lady who brought it — Keokuk disaster victims will know they haven't been forgotten by their fellow square dancers in the Paddock Publications area.

Dancing will begin at 8:30 to the calls of Jim Smith who takes the mike immediately following a half-hour round dance session conducted by Jerry and Dot Daniels teaching the round-of-the-month. The place to head for is the American Legion Hall, Butterfield Rd. at Spring, in Elmhurst. Don't forget your pie.

Full information about tomorrow night's session or any Square Wheels activity may be had by calling club presidents, the Robert Lichtys — 832-9080, or Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rogers — 833-7125.

BRONCO SQUARES

With a "Howdy pardner, it's round-up time again," the Barrington club invites all area dancers to amble over to its corral, sometimes known as the Grove Avenue Grade School. Paul "Foggy" Thompson will be doing the yellin', commencing at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, right after the Sanders' 7:30 round dance workshop.

SLOWPOKES

Mount Prospect's club has started out the new year with lots of activity on the banner front, stealing, losing and retrieving in rapid succession. At Slowpokes' last dance a group of Naper Squares came in from Naperville to reclaim their pennant and another batch of banner-snatchers from the Country Corners Club of Mundelein made off with the host club's pennant. In the words of a club reporter, "...it was a real blast." In addition to all the banner rustling going on, there was a full schedule of good dancing with a full force of good dancers to match. Recent graduates of Slowpokes' beginners' class joined club members and guests to create 12 squaresful.

Club retrievers (two squares of veterans and one of recent graduates) raided Mundelein's Country Corners last Friday night and reclaimed the Slowpokes' banner. At last report, each club had its own banner back in the proper place.

Hop over to Euclid School in Mount Prospect tomorrow night to see if the club banner is where it belongs. Incidentally you'll have a fine evening of dancing to the calls of Gene Tidwell who'll square 'em up at 8:30, immediately following a half-hour of round dance instruction by Art and Ruth Youwer.

A sorrowful post script to this week's report acknowledges the club's sense of loss in the death Jan. 20 of Stanley "Lee" Kogut, recently elected vice president of Slowpokes. Kogut's co-officers say, "We'll surely miss Lee, one of our real 'spark plugs.' " We join the Slowpokes in extending sincere sympathy to Lee's widow and children.

BRAVES AND MAIDS

Harry "The Heart Throb" Glass, Roselle's swingin' square dance caller and maestro for the Hiawatha Braves and Maids of Chicago, joins his club in its open invitation to a Valentine Dance, coming a week from Monday. That's Feb. 14, a dandy date for a Valentine Party. The club's usual refreshments will be heart-shaped, Harry will be all heart and dancers will be expected to be heartfelt in their response to his calls.

Hiawatha Braves and Maids dance the first, second and third Monday nights of every month (the fifth Monday, too, when there is one) in Hiawatha Park Fieldhouse, 8016 W. Cornelia, Chicago. Harry squares 'em up at 8 o'clock and the fun goes on until 10:30. The evening ends over a cuppacoffee and homemade "goodies." There'll be special treats for the Valentine Party.

Braves and Maids say that their welcome mat is always out... all you have to do is use it. Try it soon?

PALATINE SQUARES

Palatine club is issuing its last call for last-half-of-the-season memberships, and urges everyone to hurry-hurry. It's time, too, to register for the club's refresher course, running Monday — nightly at 8 o'clock in Fremd High School on Quentins Road, Palatine. Teacher-caller Bob Kim and helpers from the Palatine club promise that you'll have fun while you refresh your square dancing memory. Call Lil Langerock, C 3-7229 for registration facts and-or membership details.

Everyone's welcome to have fun with the club at its next regularly scheduled dance, Feb. 12, in Pleasant Hill School, with Art Mathews calling and Jerry and Dot Daniels leading the rounds. Square-'em-up time is 8:30. Everybody come! (A-15

Three Suburb Reps At Health Meeting

Three northwest area representatives of Cook Ciunty Health Improvement Association attended the 14th annual meeting of the Illinois group Jan. 26-27 in Springfield.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Busse, 690 Bel-Aire Lane, Mount Prospect, and Henry Homeier, N. Roselle Road, Palatine.

More than 400 health leaders from throughout the state attended the conference to hear speakers outline programs for further advances in community health standards as well as helpful details on the new government Medicare program.

Speaking at length on Medicare, Bill S. Byrd, chief, professional relations staff, Bureau of Health Insurance, U. S. Dept. Health Education and Welfare, discussed the opportunities it presents and the effect it will have on health care of the aged.

Byrd stressed the importance of all people over 65 signing up for both Parts A and B of Medicare, whether they have been under Social Security during their working years or not.

"Unlike all other previous Social Security benefits," said Byrd, "Medicare is available to all persons who apply, who will be 65 on July 1, 1966. That's why it is so important that people understand the Medicare program and sign up for it, while they can."

Unity Is New State GOP 'Battle Cry'

No Deadlock On Treasurer

By T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

Unity was the keyword of the Republican state convention in Springfield last weekend.

The expected deadlock on selection of a state treasurer candidate to carry the party's banner for the state treasurer's post next fall failed to develop.

However, the unified front did not develop until early Saturday morning, a scant 10 hours before balloting for the post began.

When delegates started pouring into the frigid, central Illinois Capitol, four individuals were actively seeking support for the nomination, and each of the four carried about equal support.

And then the politicking began.

TWO OF THE candidates, Robert Dwyer of Winnetka and Sen. Robert Hatch of Chicago, were from Cook County, while the others, Arthur Falls and Harris Rowe, bore downstate hopes.

On-the-Scene

The Republican endorsing convention in Springfield was covered in-depth this weekend by T. William Swinford, news editor of the Hoffman Herald and staff writer for Paddock Publications 15 other suburban newspapers. Prior to joining the Paddock staff in 1963, Swinford was a reporter for the Springfield, Ill., daily newspapers. (A15

Dwyer had been considered by some in Cook County to be "also-running," until they left the Chicago area and noted billboards the length of Route 66 proclaiming Dwyer's name.

Springfield, a town where political billboards aren't rated a second look was saturated with the signs. The lobby and rooms of the St. Nicholas Hotel, convention headquarters, were plastered with Dwyer signs.

Conversations with delegates, as well as Dwyer and his rooters, soon changed the complexion of the consideration.

ACCORDING TO party faithfuls considered in the "know," Dwyer was leading the race. He appeared confident. He left his bed about midnight Thursday night after receiving a telephone call and returned about 2 a.m., telling supporters he was confident now of victory. However, he declined to discuss the meeting.

The complexion changed radically, however, when Timothy Sheehan, Cook County Central Committee Chairman and head of Chicago's 41st ward, pledged his delegation to Rowe.

The tide changed rapidly. Prior to that hour (shortly after midnight) Wheeling Township was considered in Dwyer's pocket, along with Hanover and Palatine Townships. Elk Grove Township delegates were circulating throughout the many "hospitality suites" being extremely non-committal. Schaumburg Township was pledged to Hatch.

About 2 a.m., Hatch withdrew from the race, throwing his support to Rowe. The withdrawal was made known about 10 a.m., and announced to the convention by Hatch about noon.

THE NEXT STEP in securing a unified front for the party was for Dwyer to reverse a position he took in a pre-convention news conference.

At that time he refused to say he would support a candidate chosen by the convention delegates. One of the many topics of conversation the rest of Friday and that night was his position.

He clarified that position for Paddock Publications by explaining that under the unit rule of voting a candidate could be nominated by the conference without having a majority of the support. His statement obviously left open the possibility he would run without support if he felt the nominee did not receive a true majority.

Dwyer released a statement Saturday morning saying he was quoted correctly by newsmen, but that he had changed his mind and "will support the action of this conference."

HE, AS WELL as Hatch and others, said they had come to the conference with doubts about the sageness of such a meeting. But, he said "I have watched this conference work and I have talked to hundreds of delegates.

"In every case, in a unanimity which is surprising and very gratifying, I find a drive here which can be nothing but good for the Republican Party.

"For weeks I have been expounding the very same principles which you as delegates have brought to this conference. So it is, after these observations and this heartening experience . . . I say that I do and will support the action of this conference."

Tom Houser, Wheeling Township GOP Committeeman, said his delegation would pass the first ballot on treasurer, and vote 11 delegates for Rowe in the second.

Houser is campaign manager for Charles Percy, the party's endorsee for U.S. senator against incumbent Paul Douglas (D-Ill.).

Had his delegation voted on the first ballot, although eighth from last on the roll call, it could have been interpreted as an endorsement by Percy.

Elk Grove Township cast its ballots for Rowe, while Hanover and Palatine Townships went for Dwyer. Schaumburg Township, rather than switch to Rowe as asked by Hatch, balloted for Dwyer.

AT THE END of the first ballot, Rowe led with 955 votes while 783 were needed for nomination. Dwyer polled 284 to Falls' 62. At this time, Wheeling Township cast 11 votes for Rowe.

The vote was made unanimous upon a motion by Dwyer seconded by Falls.

Falls based his campaign upon Scott's record. Falls has been the assistant treasurer although his official title is chief administrative assistant.

Two of the principal Dwyer supporters were Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights Village trustee and a member of the Wheeling Township delegation, and Rep. Eugene Schlickman, (R-Arlington Heights). (A15

Was Percy Pushed into Race? GOP Delegates Are Disagreed

Feelings are mixed among downstate Republicans about Kenilworth industrialist Charles Percy, the party's choice to face Sen. Paul H. Douglas, (D-Ill.), next fall.

The belief that Percy was "pushed" into the senatorial campaign was advanced by those who feel there is a power struggle in the state GOP between State Treas. William J. Scott and Percy.

Percy has said he felt the best interests of the party are served by his running against Douglas. Scott is generally seen as a major contender for the 1968 GOP gubernatorial nomination.

ONE DELEGATE to last weekend's GOP state convention said, "Percy is a blue nose. He looks down his nose at downstate Illinois."

However, the delegate a Sangamon County supervisor and a former state house electrician who asked that his name not be used, predicted "We will band together and carry Sangamon County by a large plurality for him."

He said he felt certain Percy was forced into the race for senator against Douglas, traditionally tough opposition for the GOP, "to get rid of him."

A Morgan County delegate disagreed however, saying he felt Percy was the best man to make the race of all in the Illinois GOP.

HE PLEDGED that Morgan County would carry "big" for Percy and confided "Percy will do more for the state than Douglas ever thought about doing."

However, a delegate from far southern Illinois stated flatly that he did not like Percy.

Pressed for reasons, the delegate said, "In the last primary election Percy called our county chairman and told him 'you've got 30 minutes to deliver your county.'

He explained this meant the position of that county was not decided by then, whether it would go for William J. Scott, state treasurer challenging Percy for the right to go against incumbent Otto Kerner for governor, or for Percy.

COMMENTED the delegate, "That rankled several of us and I don't think we've gotten over it."

In the spirit of unity, however, the delegate said he felt his area would go for Percy over Douglas in the elections this year.

Another Sangamon County delegate corroborated his colleague's remarks about Percy, saying "He irritated many people in this county with his manner."

At the time of the last election, Percy was often criticized for not knowing how to play the political game. He declined cocktails, didn't spend a lot on liquor to win votes; refused to make deals, and was not favored for his stand on patronage jobs.

From the looks of Springfield this year, however, it appears Percy is attempting to learn the rules about politics.

HE WAS IN evidence at gatherings throughout the city, including hospitality suites. His own hospitality suite at the Hotel St. Nicholas opened at 3 p.m., closed for an hour for dinner, re-opened and closed again about midnight.

Other delegates questioned by Paddock Publications showed a general feeling that he was the best choice for the task of defeating Douglas.

The sampling was about evenly split between those who felt the election would get rid of Percy permanently and those who felt he was a power with which to reckon.

Those who believed the election would eliminate him from the scene said that Washington would keep him busy if elected, and a defeat would ruin him politically. (A15

New Hopeful For Governor

Republicans left Springfield last weekend in a pink cloud of unity—not realizing or caring that events are already shaping for a bitter primary fight two years hence

Twenty-four hours before the "conference" (although leaders often slipped and termed the meeting a convention) ended, a fourth hat had been thrown into the 1968 ring for GOP gubernatorial nominee.

Rep. Ralph Smith, (R-Alton), told Paddock Publications in an exclusive interview, that he intends to run for governor on the GOP ticket.

The announcement came during a discussion with Smith of party chances this year and on future elections.

The names of John Henry Altorfer, Peoria; William Scott, present state treasurer; and Richard Ogilvie, Cook County Sheriff, were being discussed as gubernatorial hopefuls.

Speculation was advanced that Scott and Ogilvie would split their support, and Altorfer would walk away with the nomination.

Smith offered, "I'll take some of that support because I intend to run for the office."

Altorfer is a Peoria businessman who was unsuccessful in 1964 in his race for lieutenant goversor on the GOP ticket.

Alton is near East St. Louis, generally considered a Democratic stronghold second only to Chicago.

However, Smith ventured that "Percy and the rest of the ticket will carry our area by a wide margin."

To Stump for Percy

Sen. Dirksen Pledges 'Vigorous Campaign'

By T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

Tradition was thrown to the winds last weekend in Springfield when U. S. Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen indicated he would stump Illinois to elect Charles H. Percy to the senate.

Percy was nominated unanimously during a unique GOP state convention to select candidates for the U. S. Senate, state treasurer and state superintendent of public instruction.

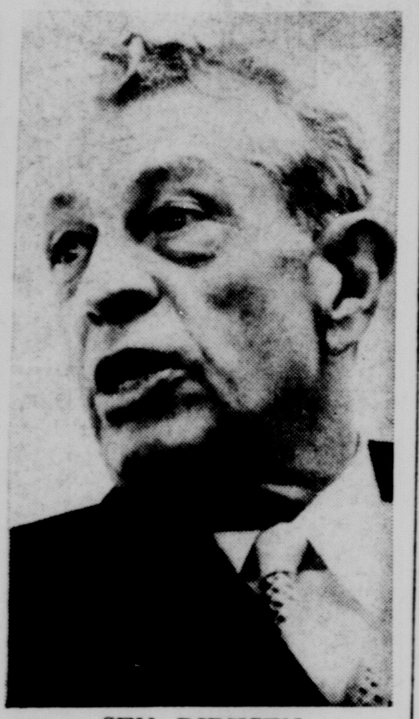
Incumbent Ray Page received the latter nod and Harris Rowe of Jacksonville was nominated for the treasurer's post now held by William J. Scott, Republican.

IN PAST senate elections, Douglas has not been actively opposed by a senator from another party. This has been because of the so-called "fraternity of the Senate."

However, Dirksen, calling Douglas a "flaming liberal, afraid of the people and astride a white horse," said of Percy's nomination, "You did a good job."

He added later, while commenting on the possibility that he and Percy may not always agree, "Suppose we disagreed on some issues. Would you rather have a senator with whom I may disagree or a flaming liberal with whom I disagree on nearly everything?"

CHARLES PERCY



SEN. DIRKSEN

To indicate he plans to stump Illinois in favor of Percy and to actively oppose Douglas, Dirksen likened the coming election campaign to speeches he made in Texas supporting Sen. John Tower, (R-Texas).

He commented that Pres. Lyndon Baines Johnson had telephoned him one evening before he went to Texas to speak in Tower's favor and said "Hello Ev? This is Lyndon."

Dirksen said, "I replied 'Lyndon who?' "

THE TELEPHONE call, Dirksen explained, was to find out what Dirksen planned to do in Texas. Dirksen said, "I replied, 'Lyndon, I'm the best friend you've got. I'm going to save you from yourself.' "

The President invited Dirksen to his ranch and Dirksen refused, saying he was busy and that the last time he had been to the ranch, Johnson had promised to deliver a calf to the senator.

"I still haven't got the calf. And I'll come to your ranch after you've butchered the calf, frozen it, and it is safe in my deep-freeze."

Dirksen told the more than 1,300 delegates in attendance in a smoke-free room (the hotel management had asked that no one smoke because the air-conditioning could not handle the smoke from that many people), "Percy will make a great senator."

HE ALSO explained the Republican Party must build like the pyramids or the Eiffel Tower. He noted that both structures have good foundations and likened the foundations to the local and county officers elected.

The next step, Dirksen said, is to elect a GOP majority in the House of Representatives. This should be followed by the GOP election of state officials.

The next step was to elect a GOP senator this year and follow it with a GOP president in 1968.

Dirksen also hailed Percy as "My good friend, Chuck," and pledged "This campaign isn't going to be fought with sponges." (A15

Meet Capt. Don, Percy's 'Good-Humored' Opponent

What kind of man is Don DuMont, the man who hopes to capture the GOP nomination for U.S. senator from Charles H. Percy, convention endorsed candidate?

Who knows? The press has done an admirable job of avoiding him. And, he is not the easiest man to find.

DuMont, a veteran Good Humor ice cream salesman and provider of "Goldwater," a soft drink from the 1964 campaign, is a 1924 graduate of Renssalaer Polytechnic Institute.

A GREY-FRINGED, bald, mustaschioed portly man in his 60's, DuMont addressed the Republican nominating convention delegates last weekend in Springfield, although the qualifications committee reported him "not-qualified."

DuMont tugged Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's coatsleeve as the latter approached the podium Saturday, presumably to tell him that although he hadn't captured a single convention vote, he intended to make the race and provide Sen. Dirksen with a conservative Senate partner next fall.

DuMont says in his brochures he is a "true conservative." He disagrees with what he terms Percy's "basic liberalism," although he is running as a Progressive Conservative, the same tag Percy used unsuccessfully two years ago.

He is a brother of Dr. Allen DuMont who is generally known as the father of commercial television. He is married, the father of three and has two grandchildren.

In his address to the delegates, DuMont said he is a conservative, praised the delegates, apologized for not having met them all, pledged to lay down a program of Christian action and asked for their vote.

He garnered not a one.

HE DESCRIBES himself in his brochure as a:

"Re-born seafaring native American Methodical Baptist Christian father; marine, mechanical, spiritual, fire-protection, financial and human relations safety engineer; and much pressed, much-traveled small businessman, amateur politician, truck driver and lay preacher called after 20 years from the marine business and operation of boats to be an unselfish apostle of Jesus Christ and help to rejuvenate this American Republic in accordance with its Constitution through a thoroughly practical, peaceful, moral and spiritual re-awakening of its citizens individually, and its organizations collectively, with faith in Almighty God."

He signs it "Capt. 'Don' DuMont, D.H.-M.E. The New Londoner."

He urges potential supporters to "Use Captain Don's soft drinks at precinct level as door-openers, meetings, dinners and picnics. Help its commercial distribution in stores, etc. as profits are dedicated to this campaign."

And that is Capt. Don, Percy's opposition. (A15

Dirksen Reaffirms 'One Vote' Protest

U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), last week defended his views on the Supreme Court reapportionment issue before delegates to the Illinois state GOP conference in Springfield.

He said George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, "will let 14-B stand to keep us from amending the constitution" to circumvent the Supreme Court decision on reapportionment generally referred to as one man-one vote.

Dirksen revealed that he has talked to business leaders throughout the nation pointing out the ruling is "the greatest constitutional crisis in 100 years."

HE SAID MEANY is fighting the move so the unions can gain control of all state legislatures. He said they desire this because "state legislators have so much authority — power to create and destroy — (that if they gain control) they can change the structure to control all delegations to the national conventions.

"I won't take Reynolds vs Sims (the case name for the one man-one vote decision) lying down." Comparing the situation to Abraham Lincoln's views following the Dred Scott decision, Dirksen commented, "Abe Lincoln didn't take it lying down. And if it stands, strike the words 'We the people' from the federal Constitution and strike the words 'We the people' from the state constitution.

"Can you imagine Paul Douglas arguing adroitly around the point, analyzing the situation, discussing how few participate in a statewide referendum and saying a state referendum is weak, a man who is afraid of the people, setting himself on a white horse as a flaming liberal."

Dirksen said "the power of the state legislatures has been underrated. It is the essential core of state sovereignty."

THE SENATOR also discussed his disagreement with the Supreme Court's ruling on prayer in the schools. He said "I have no quarrel with our state supreme court, just at the federal level."

The state supreme court is predominantly Republican.

Dirksen said of the court's ruling that voluntary prayer in school is wrong because the children are captives and can't really exercise judgment at a tender age. "It is amazing what statements can come out of a hole in a Supreme Court justice's head."

Commenting briefly on Chief Justice Earl Warren, Dirksen said "Sometimes when I talk to my grandchildren, I talk like Justice Warren. And my grandchildren don't understand a d--n word I say."

He hailed the convention as a great resurgence of party unity, strength, and spirit and said "as in the alphabet, U comes before V. Unity comes before victory."

He concluded his speech by utilizing the Civil Rights battle cry, "We shall overcome."

Rev. Fowler Presides at Conference

The Reverend Dorothea Fowler, minister of Unity Northwest, 1801 E. Palatine Road, Arlington Heights, is president of the Great Lakes Unity Regional Conference which meets at Indianapolis, Ind. Feb. 7, 8 and 9.

She will address the conference at a public meeting Feb. 7. At this same meeting, the Rev. Johnny Colemon, minister of Christ Unity Temple, Chicago, and member of the executive board of Unity School, will speak.

Great Lakes area ministers from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Michigan convene yearly — this year, in the new $125,000 addition to Unity of Indianapolis.

The Rev. Charles Roth hosts the conference.

This month Unity Northwest celebrates its sixth year in Arlington Heights and its first year in the present location. Meetings are now in a former residence purchased January, 1965; future plans include a church to be erected on the vacant site adjacent to the property. Dorothea Fowler was ordained by Unity School in 1964 and is one of eight women ministers in the Chicago area. (A Republicans left Springfield last weekend in a pink cloud of unity—not realizing or caring that events are already shaping for a bitter primary fight two years hence.

Twenty-four hours before the "conference" (although leaders often slipped and termed the meeting a convention) ended, a fourth hat had been thrown into the 1968 ring for GOP gubernatorial nominee.

Rep. Ralph Smith, (R-Alton), told Paddock Publications in an exclusive interview, that he intends to run for governor on the GOP ticket.

The announcement came during a discussion with Smith of party chances this year and on future elections.

The names of John Henry Altorfer, Peoria; William Scott, present state treasurer; and Richard Ogilvie, Cook County Sheriff, were being discussed as gubernatorial hopefuls.

Speculation was advanced that Scott and Ogilvie would split their support, and Altorfer would walk away with the nomination.

Smith offered, "I'll take some of that support because I intend to run for the office."

Altorfer is a Peoria businessman who was unsuccessful in 1964 in his race for lieutenant goversor on the GOP ticket.

Alton is near East St. Louis, generally considered a Democratic stronghold second only to Chicago.

However, Smith ventured that "Percy and the rest of the ticket will carry our area by a wide margin."

To Stump for Percy

Sen. Dirksen Pledges 'Vigorous Campaign'

By T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

Tradition was thrown to the winds last weekend in Springfield when U. S. Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen indicated he would stump Illinois to elect Charles H. Percy to the senate.

Percy was nominated unanimously during a unique GOP state convention to select candidates for the U. S. Senate, state treasurer and state superintendent of public instruction.

Incumbent Ray Page received the latter nod and Harris Rowe of Jacksonville was nominated for the treasurer's post now held by William J. Scott, Republican.

IN PAST senate elections, Douglas has not been actively opposed by a senator from another party. This has been because of the so-called "fraternity of the Senate."

However, Dirksen, calling Douglas a "flaming liberal, afraid of the people and astride a white horse," said of Percy's nomination, "You did a good job."

He added later, while commenting on the possibility that he and Percy may not always agree, "Suppose we disagreed on some issues. Would you rather have a senator with whom I may disagree or a flaming liberal with whom I disagree on nearly everything?"

CHARLES PERCY

SEN. DIRKSEN

To indicate he plans to stump Illinois in favor of Percy and to actively oppose Douglas, Dirksen likened the coming election campaign to speeches he made in Texas supporting Sen. John Tower, (R-Texas).

He commented that Pres. Lyndon Baines Johnson had telephoned him one evening before he went to Texas to speak in Tower's favor and said "Hello Ev? This is Lyndon."

Dirksen said, "I replied 'Lyndon who?' "

THE TELEPHONE call, Dirksen explained, was to find out what Dirksen planned to do in Texas. Dirksen said, "I replied, 'Lyndon, I'm the best friend you've got. I'm going to save you from yourself.' "

The President invited Dirksen to his ranch and Dirksen refused, saying he was busy and that the last time he had been to the ranch, Johnson had promised to deliver a calf to the senator.

"I still haven't got the calf. And I'll come to your ranch after you've butchered the calf, frozen it, and it is safe in my deep-freeze."

Dirksen told the more than 1,300 delegates in attendance in a smoke-free room (the hotel management had asked that no one smoke because the air-conditioning could not handle the smoke from that many people), "Percy will make a great senator."

HE ALSO explained the Republican Party must build like the pyramids or the Eiffel Tower. He noted that both structures have good foundations and likened the foundations to the local and county officers elected.

The next step, Dirksen said, is to elect a GOP majority in the House of Representatives. This should be followed by the GOP election of state officials.

The next step was to elect a GOP senator this year and follow it with a GOP president in 1968.

Dirksen also hailed Percy as "My good friend, Chuck," and pledged "This campaign isn't going to be fought with sponges." (A15

Meet Capt. Don, Percy's 'Good-Humored' Opponent

What kind of man is Don DuMont, the man who hopes to capture the GOP nomination for U.S. senator from Charles H. Percy, convention endorsed candidate?

Who knows? The press has done an admirable job of avoiding him. And, he is not the easiest man to find.

DuMont, a veteran Good Humor ice cream salesman and provider of "Goldwater," a soft drink from the 1964 campaign, is a 1924 graduate of Renssalaer Polytechnic Institute.

A GREY-FRINGED, bald, mustaschioed portly man in his 60's, DuMont addressed the Republican nominating convention delegates last weekend in Springfield, although the qualifications committee reported him "not-qualified."

DuMont tugged Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's coatsleeve as the latter approached the podium Saturday, presumably to tell him that although he hadn't captured a single convention vote, he intended to make the race and provide Sen. Dirksen with a conservative Senate partner next fall.

DuMont says in his brochures he is a "true conservative." He disagrees with what he terms Percy's "basic liberalism," although he is running as a Progressive Conservative, the same tag Percy used unsuccessfully two years ago.

He is a brother of Dr. Allen DuMont who is generally known as the father of commercial television. He is married, the father of three and has two grandchildren.

In his address to the delegates, DuMont said he is a conservative, praised the delegates, apologized for not having met them all, pledged to lay down a program of Christian action and asked for their vote.

He garnered not a one.

HE DESCRIBES himself in his brochure as a:

"Re-born seafaring native American Methodical Baptist Christian father; marine, mechanical, spiritual, fire-protection, financial and human relations safety engineer; and much pressed, much-traveled small businessman, amateur politician, truck driver and lay preacher called after 20 years from the marine business and operation of boats to be an unselfish apostle of Jesus Christ and help to rejuvenate this American Republic in accordance with its Constitution through a thoroughly practical, peaceful, moral and spiritual re-awakening of its citizens individually, and its organizations collectively, with faith in Almighty God."

He signs it "Capt. 'Don' DuMont, D.H.-M.E. The New Londoner."

He urges potential supporters to "Use Captain Don's soft drinks at precinct level as door-openers, meetings, dinners and picnics. Help its commercial distribution in stores, etc. as profits are dedicated to this campaign."

And that is Capt. Don, Percy's opposition. (A15

Dirksen Reaffirms 'One Vote' Protest

U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), last week defended his views on the Supreme Court reapportionment issue before delegates to the Illinois state GOP conference in Springfield.

He said George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, "will let 14-B stand to keep us from amending the constitution" to circumvent the Supreme Court decision on reapportionment generally referred to as one man-one vote.

Dirksen revealed that he has talked to business leaders throughout the nation pointing out the ruling is "the greatest constitutional crisis in 100 years."

HE SAID MEANY is fighting the move so the unions can gain control of all state legislatures. He said they desire this because "state legislators have so much authority — power to create and destroy — (that if they gain control) they can change the structure to control all delegations to the national conventions.

"I won't take Reynolds vs Sims (the case name for the one man-one vote decision) lying down." Comparing the situation to Abraham Lincoln's views following the Dred Scott decision, Dirksen commented, "Abe Lincoln didn't take it lying down. And if it stands, strike the words 'We the people' from the federal Constitution and strike the words 'We the people' from the state constitution.

"Can you imagine Paul Douglas arguing adroitly around the point, analyzing the situation, discussing how few participate in a statewide referendum and saying a state referendum is weak, a man who is afraid of the people, setting himself on a white horse as a flaming liberal."

Dirksen said "the power of the state legislatures has been underrated. It is the essential core of state sovereignty."

THE SENATOR also discussed his disagreement with the Supreme Court's ruling on prayer in the schools. He said "I have no quarrel with our state supreme court, just at the federal level."

The state supreme court is predominantly Republican.

Dirksen said of the court's ruling that voluntary prayer in school is wrong because the children are captives and can't really exercise judgment at a tender age. "It is amazing what statements can come out of a hole in a Supreme Court justice's head."

Commenting briefly on Chief Justice Earl Warren, Dirksen said "Sometimes when I talk to my grandchildren, I talk like Justice Warren. And my grandchildren don't understand a d--n word I say."

He hailed the convention as a great resurgence of party unity, strength, and spirit and said "as in the alphabet, U comes before V. Unity comes before victory."

He concluded his speech by utilizing the Civil Rights battle cry, "We shall overcome."

Rev. Fowler Presides at Conference

The Reverend Dorothea Fowler, minister of Unity Northwest, 1801 E. Palatine Road, Arlington Heights, is president of the Great Lakes Unity Regional Conference which meets at Indianapolis, Ind. Feb. 7, 8 and 9.

She will address the conference at a public meeting Feb. 7. At this same meeting, the Rev. Johnny Colemon, minister of Christ Unity Temple, Chicago, and member of the executive board of Unity School, will speak.

Great Lakes area ministers from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Michigan convene yearly — this year, in the new $125,000 addition to Unity of Indianapolis.

The Rev. Charles Roth hosts the conference.

This month Unity Northwest celebrates its sixth year in Arlington Heights and its first year in the present location. Meetings are now in a former residence purchased January, 1965; future plans include a church to be erected on the vacant site adjacent to the property. Dorothea Fowler was ordained by Unity School in 1964 and is one of eight women ministers in the Chicago area. (A

Counselor Attends Rollins Conference

EXAMINING OUTLINE of proposed curriculum change at Rollins College are Leotta Hampton, college counselor at Arlington High School, and Tully J. Waggoner, assistant director of admissions of Rollins College.

Leotta Hampton, college counselor at Arlington High School, returned Tuesday from Winter Park, Fla., where she attended a four-day Rollins College Guidance Conference.

Miss Hampton, 550 N. Walnut Ave., Arlington Heights, was one of nearly 50 counselors from preparatory schools and high schools who participated in the seventh annual meeting. Conferees represented 20 states and Washington, D.C., according to Spencer Lane, dean of admissions.

The counselors heard a comprehensive outline of proposed new curriculum at Rollins, a discussion on "Change and Ferment in Student Life" led by student deans, a report on work of Associated Mid-Florida Colleges from its executive director. and a review of Rollins' Honors Degree program.

CONFERENCE highlight was a banquet on campus featuring Sidney Sulkin, senior editor of "Changing Times" magazine.

The award-winning education writer exploded some of the myths that have been circulating in his field. He said that talk of the high dropout rate in colleges and universities is "something of a semantic myth" because the figure has to do with students who do not graduate in four years from institutions they enter.

Sulkin claimed that despite increase in college enrollments, the dropout rate has not risen in 40 years. Of those who leave college, more than half are likely to return and graduate.

ON THE subject of standards, Sulkin declared that quality is not being lowered but conversely, as demands increase in education so do standards.

Rollins College is Florida's oldest institution of higher learning offering a four-year liberal arts degree. This year, 38 states and 10 foreign countries are represented in its student body, including many from Illinois. (ACM

Most folks don't give much thought to their television antenna unless the wind blows it down. And then they will register surprise at the clear and sharp picture they receive with new antenna equipment.

The reason is that antennas have improved greatly in the past five years. Also, many antennas move out of position over the years and become weather-worn to a point that very weak signals come through to the TV receiver.

If your antenna is five or more years old, you could improve your television receiving by antenna service. Phone CLearbrook 5-0700 and let LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, evaluate your antenna. We do many insurance jobs after windstorms, too, and would like to give you estimates for guaranteed, satisfied replacement.

Court Fines Turned Back To Villages

Fines totaling $399,829 were collected during 1965 in the north suburban second Municipal District of the Circuit Court of Cook County.

This represented an increase over the $388,304 received in 1964, the first full year of operations for Cook County's unified, modernized court system, as provided by the Blue Ballot Judicial Amendment.

Grand total for all five suburban districts of the court during 1965 was $2,320,387, an increase over 1964's total of $2,036,596.

The figures, including the amounts collected in the 19 municipalities and two park districts making up the second district, were listed by Circuit Court Clerk Joseph J. McDonough in his monthly report to John S. Boyle, Chief Judge of the Circuit Court.

Sums received are turned back to the municipalities by the Circuit Court.

TOTAL COLLECTION of $45.904 in the district during December represented an increase over the $35,976 received during November.

Skokie ranked first for December with $10,172 in fines. Inverness was last with only $30 collected.

Ranking in order behind Skokie in December fines are Evanston with $8,159; Arlington Heights with $5,221; Palatine with $4,138; and Morton Grove with $2,634.

Most of the fines were the result of traffic offenses.

'Boy Scout Week' Is Observed in Suburbs

With an all-time high of 13,540 boys in its ranks, the Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts of America next week celebrates the 56th anniversary of the movement's founding.

The theme "Breakthrough for Youth" will highlight this year's observance of Boy Scout Week — February 7 to 13 — by the council's 343 Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops and Explorer posts, according to Russell E. Larsen, Park Ridge, president.

"Purpose of the theme," Larstn said, "is to give every Scout unit an opportunity to dramatize its own goals in providing a quality program for more boys in its own neighborhood. We estimate that there are almost 50,000 boys in the council's area of Scouting age."

LARSEN POINTED out that expansion of the Scout program in this area would depend on the establishment of more Scout units by local churches, schools and PTAs, service clubs and other organizations interested in youth welfare.

"Boy Scout Week gives us an opportunity to blow our horn, so to speak," he went on. "It's a once-a-year occasion when the general public gets a chance to see Scouting in action."

The council through its seven operating districts serves 36 communities running in an L-shaped pattern from Skokie and Moron Grove west to Park Ridge and Des Plaines and northwest to Barrington and Lake Zurich.

Paddock circulation area communities served by the council, which maintains headquarters at 2500 Dempster Street, Des Plaines, are Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Feehanville, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine. Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

MOST OF THE local Scout units will hold some kind of openhouse meeting during the anniversary week, or sometime this month. Many will set up special window displays in store windows or put on live demonstrations.

Observance of Scout Sabbath, February 11 and 12, and Scout Sunday, February 13, is a traditional feature of Boy Scout Week. So is Uniform Day, scheduled for Tuesday, February 8, when Cub and Boy Scouts attend their school in uniform. Also that day many Scout units will gather to take part in rededicating themselves to the Cub Scout Promise, Boy Scout Oath or Explorer Code. (B10

Fulle Describes Vastness Of Cook County Government

by JACK NEUKOM
Staff Writer

Cook County's role in enacting legislation covering three million people outside the city of Chicago was explained by GOP County Commissioner Floyd Fulle at last Wednesday's annual Northwest Suburban Conference dinner-meeting at the Old Orchard Country Club.

"Cook County is one of the largest in the world," Fulle said in his "sales talk" before 200 members and guests, the largest attendance of any conference meeting. "It has a population of 5½ million people with 3 million living outside the city of Chicago"...yet, only "five of the 15-member board of commissioners are elected from outside Chicago."

Although billed as a "nonpartisan" talk, Fulle several times struck out at the Democrats. "The 10 men on the board elected from Chicago have a vote on all county matters, but do not have to stand for election in the county," he said. He pointed out that the only way this can be changed is by referendum or by a two-thirds vote of the state legislature, "and this isn't very likely." (The majority of the board members are Democrats elected from Chicago.)

The county is larger in population than 40 states and has more people than 45 member nations of the United Nations, he said. Covering 956 square miles in total, the unincorporated area takes in 318 square miles, the 126 suburbs total some 411 square miles and the city of Chicago 227 square miles.

The board of commissioners is the only legislative body at the county level, and budgets all money and enacts all legislation for Cook County, he said.

This year's budget is $102 million and there "will be an additional $350 million to Cook County for which the county board is responsible," Fulle said.

"This comes to $1½ million day for 365 days a year. This is big business," the commissioner said.

Fulle then pointed out the areas under direct control of the board: Civil Defense, traffic safety office, the Audy Home, Herrick House, liquor control commission, Oak Forest Hospital, "the world's largest hospital for the chronically ill;" and the "much publicized" County Hospital, which "served 630,000 people in 1965 and handled approximately 14,000 guests, patients and workers every day of the year."

The county's "unique" and "much copied" forest preserve district was also mentioned, as was the county highway department that covers "603 miles of roads," according to Fulle's statistics.

Listed as the "biggest business in the county" by Fulle, was the Department of Public Aid, which in 1965 cost U. S. taxpayers between "$14 and $19 million per month."

"And recently there has been added an Office of Economic Opportunity — more familiarly known as the war on poverty, but I won't dwell on this." said Fulle.

But he did, by saying: "Some $250,000 has been appropriated" to study and possibly eliminate poverty in the suburbs, with offices opened in downtown Chicago at 130 N. Wells St.

He then pointed out that $14,000 of the $250,000 is being paid an administrator; $12,000 goes to each of four assistants, and 20 others in the office get from $650 to $805 a month.

"However, the program is attempting to progress, and I can't close my eyes and think that the war on poverty is going to go away," he said. "But it's absolutely mandatory that city and village officials should make certain that every dollar is spent to alleviate poverty."

After pointing out how the unincorporated area of the county has gradually dwindled over the years through annexations, Fulle told the village officials present that "every municipality should have a voice in county zoning matters, for whatever happens in the unincorporated areas is going to be inherited by you in the future."

Prior to Fulle's speech, John G. Woods, Arlington Heights village president, was reelected president of the Northwest Municipal Conference, with David Yeats, Palatine village president, elected vice president, and L. A. Hanson, village manager of Arlington Heights, elected secretary-treasurer.

Woods was first elected to head the conference at a special election last April. As conference president, he will also serve as the group's representative to the Chicago Area Transit Study (CATS) which has been set up to coordinate proposed federal road projects.

Chairman of the nominating committee was John Blanke, Barrington village president, assisted by Mayor Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines and Village Mgr. George Majoros of Elk Grove Village.

Village Pres. Dan Congreve of Mount Prospect was chairman of the hospitality committee, which also consisted of Hanson of Arlington Heights and John J. Woods, who recently resigned as mayor of Rolling Meadows.

Other officials present were Jack Pahl, village president of Elk Grove Village; Albin M. Piekarski, acting mayor of Rolling Meadows; Ben Hemmeter, Mount Prospect acting village manager; and Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg village president, a guest at the dinner.

Guests included State Rep. John Carroll (R) of Park Ridge, State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D) and Rep. Gene Schlickman (R), both of Arlington Heights; A. R. McIntyre, past president of Wheeling; Howard Olsen, past president of Palatine and Northwest Municipal Conference president in 1958; C. O. Schlaver, past village president of Mount Prospect and conference president in 1963 and Robert Ducharme, assistant director of the Northeastern Metropolitan Planning Commission. (B-10

Parting Shot At County

District 301 Junior College Board member Bud Bernstein took a parting shot last week at the Cook County Board of Commissioners and the Forest Preserve Commission for failing to allow use of county land for a college site.

"I not only expressed strong dissatisfaction with their decision but also with their refusal to tell me when they were meeting to reach a decision."

"I WANTED to appear before them and they conveniently ignored the request," said Bernstein.

The board received a letter from County Forest Preserve Supt. Arthur Janura confirming the Jan. 12 decision of the county board. (B10

Workshop In Math Scheduled

A state-sponsored workshop in elementary mathematics for Cook County will be held at Sandburg School, Palatine, beginning Thursday, Feb. 10 from 4 to 6 p.m.

It will be directed by Mrs. Phyllis Ferrell, mathematics consultant for Elk Grove District 59.

The workshop is part of the Illinois plan for improvement of mathematics instruction under the National Defense Education Act Title III program.

IT IS EXPECTED TO provide an overview of the "modern approach" to fundamental concepts of mathematics, to provide teachers with background materials, to suggest ways to integrate these concepts into the total program, and to insure continuity and closer articulation of curriculum content between grade levels, explained Mrs. Ferrell.

The class will meet for a two-hour session each week for eight weeks. (B10

Jury Case Backlog Reduced During '65

Significant gains were made in reducing the backlog of Cook County jury cases during 1965, John W. Freels, director of the administrative office for Illinois courts, said this week.

The law division of the Circuit Court of Cook County disposed of nearly 4,000 old cases, most of them personal injury suits, during the year, he said.

This was a record high for any year in the court's history.

FREELS CREDITED the "concerted efforts" of Judge Harold G. Ward, head of the Circuit Court's law division, as being instrumental in attacking the backlog problem.

Freels said an intensive program of pre-trial conferences disposed of more than 1,000 cases during the summer months. He also said the addition of new judges to the law division made further inroads in reducing the backlog.

The number of cases pending at the end of the year was 48,754.

JOHN S. BOYLE, chief judge of the Circuit Court, plans to intensify the war on the backlog by adding even more judges to the law division, where 39 presently sit. Boyle said he hopes to reach 50 as more courtrooms become available in the new Civic Center.

Freels and his assistant director, Carl H. Rolewick, took issue with the impression that Cook County is worse off in terms of court backlog than other large metropolitan areas.

They pointed out: "The statistics in most states do not add cases to the so-called 'backlog' until they have actually been declared 'ready for trial'—after the pleadings, the depositions, and all other preliminaries have been concluded. Such cases may have been on file two years or more before they are added to the 'Backlog.' "

IN COOK COUNTY, said Freels, a case is added to the statistics as soon as it is filed.

He said: 1) Of the pending Cook County cases, 83 per cent are not older than three years. 2) Ten per cent have been filed since Labor Day. 3) Many cannot go to trial yet because some defendants have not yet been served or plaintiffs still are hospitalized with injuries.

4) Only 753 pending cases were filed before 1960, and most of them have been tried and returned for new trials by the Appellate and Supreme Courts. (B10

Blue Echo Blue Birds, third graders from Park and Our Lady of the Wayside Schools, have been busy working on their service project, "Let's Make Friends." They started this project in the fall and hope to continue it indefinitely.

Each girl earned money by helping her parents so she could buy a present for a girl of her own age at Maryville Academy. After several months of hard work and saving, each girl bought the present which she thought the girl she was to meet would like. Some chose knee socks, perfume, writing paper, and one girl even bought a sweater.

In early December, with all the presents gaily wrapped, the girls and a few interested guests went to Maryville to meet their friends. After they had opened the presents, they all enjoyed some singing, with each group in turn teaching the other group new songs. They said "goodbye" after an hour, but are looking forward to seeing each other again. The girls are now happily planning other activities with their Maryville friends.

GIRLS IN THE group are Carolyn Casey, Anne Cooper, Linda Dal Compo, Katherine Farr, Debra Hutter, Maryan Loris, Patty Mandele, Anna Lisa McDonnell, Linda Pohlman, Cathy Schoepke, Karen Schweitzler Carole Wilson, and Barbara Wright.

Mrs. Robert Wilson is group leader, assisted by Mrs. William Farr.

Blue Wagon Blue Birds, second graders from Dryden School, worked on a skit called "Bus Trip" which they presented at a talent show held on Friday, January 28, at the Lutheran Home. They are also planning an ice skating and sledding party for Saturday, February 5, and a trip to the Haeger Pottery Factory on March 11.

This group includes Liane Burningam, Valerie Deisel, Jane Eysznc, Debbie Farley, Kathrene Frautschy, Terry Funk, Sallie Gorch, Laura Hookom, Karen Kellogg, Bonnie Rodig, and Renee Roobaart.

The group is led by Mrs. R. L. Funk, assisted by Mrs. Norman Kellogg.

PALATINE

The Elutakata group of Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls started the new year off with a bang by visiting Chinatown on January 23rd during the Chinese New Year.

In Chinatown they watched the parade which was led by a dragon. The parade stopped at the stores along the route to the temple and shot off many fire crackers to ward off the evil spirits and the dragon performed a dance to insure the proprietors a prosperous year.

After watching the parade they went to a Chinese restaurant where they had lunch and sampled many different varieties of Chinese cooking. Many of the girls learned how to use chop sticks and were accomplished enough to eat their meal with them. After a dessert of fortune cookies and almond cookies the girls were given fans as a souvenir.

Then all the girls visited several of the gift and curio shops where they saw some lovely Chinese art and also purchased some mementos.

The members of the group are Martha Clark, Terrill Doggett, Cheryl Koehler, Faith Olson, Cathy Cottingham, Karen Manz, Julianne Otto, Debra Rosendahl, Kathy Healey, Lenore Velovich, Pat Hochmuth. They were accompanied on this trip by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hochmuth and Mr. and Mrs. James Manz.

The first monthly all-district meeting of Palatine Camp Fire Girls of the new year was an Ice Skating Party held at the Palatine Community Park on Jan. 13. Although chillier prevailed, the girls warmed it up with their enthusiasm. (B10

Parting Shot At County

District 301 Junior College Board member Bud Bernstein took a parting shot last week at the Cook County Board of Commissioners and the Forest Preserve Commission for failing to allow use of county land for a college site.

"I not only expressed strong dissatisfaction with their decision but also with their refusal to tell me when they were meeting to reach a decision."

"I WANTED to appear before them and they conveniently ignored the request," said Bernstein.

The board received a letter from County Forest Preserve Supt. Arthur Janura confirming the Jan. 12 decision of the county board. (B10

Workshop In Math Scheduled

A state-sponsored workshop in elementary mathematics for Cook County will be held at Sandburg School, Palatine, beginning Thursday, Feb. 10 from 4 to 6 p.m.

It will be directed by Mrs. Phyllis Ferrell, mathematics consultant for Elk Grove District 59.

The workshop is part of the Illinois plan for improvement of mathematics instruction under the National Defense Education Act Title III program.

IT IS EXPECTED TO provide an overview of the "modern approach" to fundamental concepts of mathematics, to provide teachers with background materials, to suggest ways to integrate these concepts into the total program, and to insure continuity and closer articulation of curriculum content between grade levels, explained Mrs. Ferrell.

The class will meet for a two-hour session each week for eight weeks. (B10

Fifth Wheelers To Hear Lecture On Re-Marriage

"Re-marriage" is the theme of a lecture to be given by the Rev. E. A. Zeile at the bi-monthly meeting of the Fifth Wheelers at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines.

Rev. Zeile is pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Mount Prospect and also editor of the Northern Illinois Messenger, a supplement to the Lutheran Witness.

THE FIFTH WHEELERS is a northwest suburban organization open to men and women who are single by reason of death, divorce or legal separation. The organization hopes to promote mutual understanding and companionship, ease of loneliness, and provide opportunities for children to see and share with other parents faced with bringing up children alone.

Future activities include open bowling at Thunderbird Lanes this Saturday, Feb. 5, at 8:30 p.m., an adult Valentine party, and a toboggan and sledding party for the children. (A-15

Navy Seeking Nurse Officers

Nurse Corps officers, both men and women, are needed by the U. S. Navy.

Successful applicants may be commissioned as ensign, lieutenant junior grade, or lieutenant, depending upon qualifications for a minimum two-year active duty period.

DUTY ASSIGNMENTS may be requested at one of the 16 naval hospitals in the continental United States, overseas hospitals or dispensaries, aboard military sea transportation service ships, or hospital corps schools.

For further information contact the Navy Office, 110 S. Grove Ave., Elgin, phone 742-4863. (A15

Jury Case Backlog Reduced During '65

Significant gains were made in reducing the backlog of Cook County jury cases during 1965, John W. Freels, director of the administrative office for Illinois courts, said this week.

The law division of the Circuit Court of Cook County disposed of nearly 4,000 old cases, most of them personal injury suits, during the year, he said.

This was a record high for any year in the court's history.

FREELS CREDITED the "concerted efforts" of Judge Harold G. Ward, head of the Circuit Court's law division, as being instrumental in attacking the backlog problem.

Freels said an intensive program of pre-trial conferences disposed of more than 1,000 cases during the summer months. He also said the addition of new judges to the law division made further inroads in reducing the backlog.

The number of cases pending at the end of the year was 48,754.

JOHN S. BOYLE, chief judge of the Circuit Court, plans to intensify the war on the backlog by adding even more judges to the law division, where 39 presently sit. Boyle said he hopes to reach 50 as more courtrooms become available in the new Civic Center.

Freels and his assistant director, Carl H. Rolewick, took issue with the impression that Cook County is worse off in terms of court backlog than other large metropolitan areas.

They pointed out: "The statistics in most states do not add cases to the so-called 'backlog' until they have actually been declared 'ready for trial'—after the pleadings, the depositions, and all other preliminaries have been concluded. Such cases may have been on file two years or more before they are added to the 'Backlog.'"

IN COOK COUNTY, said Freels, a case is added to the statistics as soon as it is filed.

He said: 1) Of the pending Cook County cases, 83 per cent are not older than three years. 2) Ten per cent have been filed since Labor Day. 3) Many cannot go to trial yet because some defendants have not yet been served or plaintiffs still are hospitalized with injuries.

4) Only 753 pending cases were filed before 1960, and most of them have been tried and returned for new trials by the Appellate and Supreme Courts. (B10

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

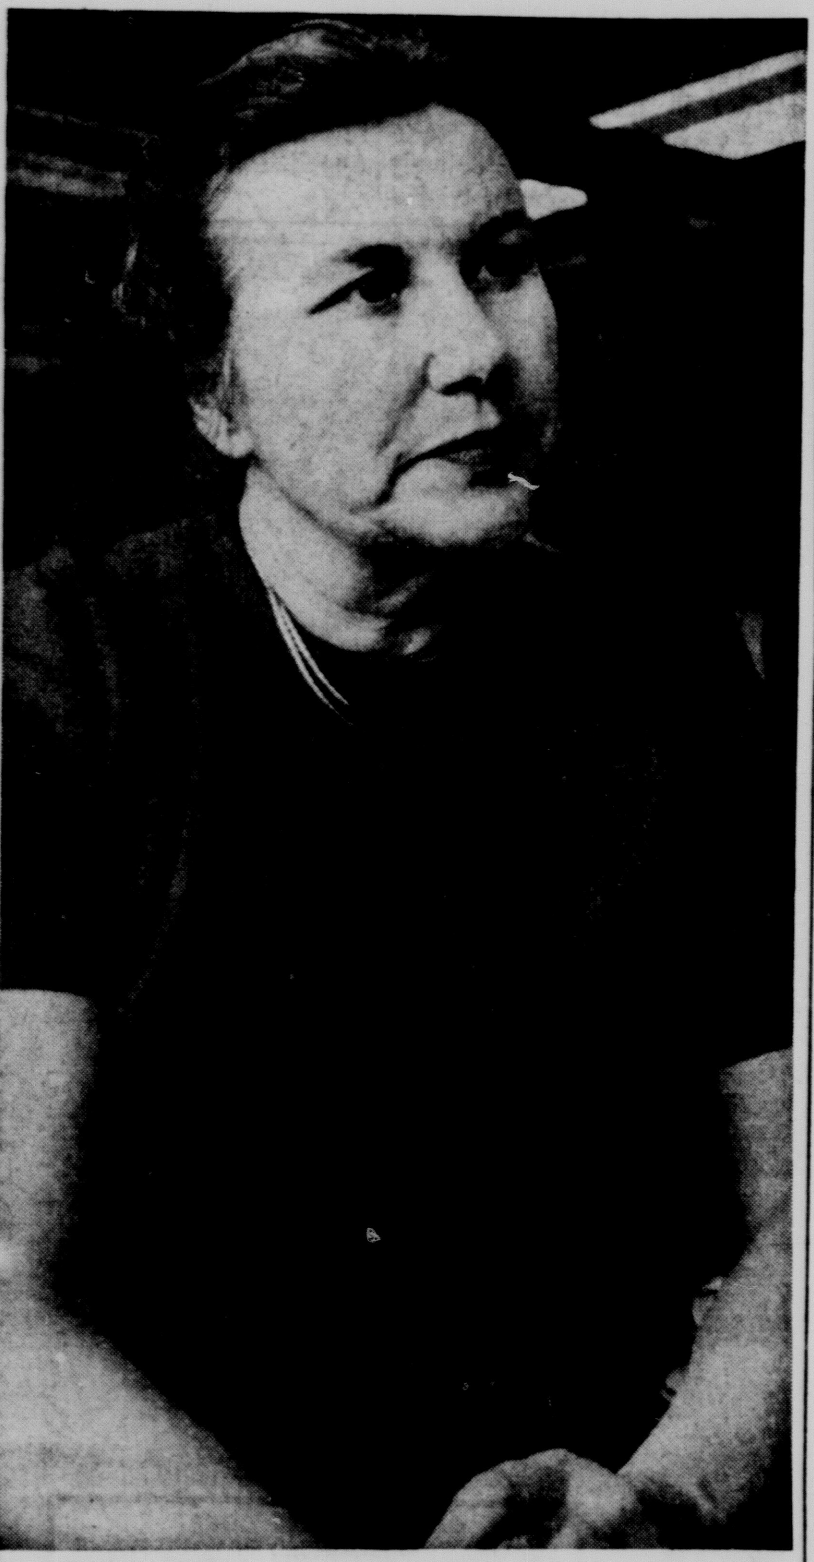
Teacher Group Warned of Complacency

New Officer Speaks Out

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

Newly elected officer Marjorie Olson says the Illinois Education Association cannot be complacent if it wants to keep its entrenched position in the suburbs. The organization must be more militant and progressive, she declares.

Elected to the board of directors for a three-year term, Mrs. Olson fits the image of the northwest suburban professional—aware and willing to take positions on issues. Mrs. Olson characterizes herself as a person who is not willing to sit back and let others do the speaking for her.



MARJORIE OLSON, Forest View High School teacher and new Illinois Education Association director, believes it will take her a year to learn the ropes and be effective in her new position.

Some teachers have no interest or appetite for this role, she admitted. They want to stay in the classroom.

Division head of the language department for the new Elk Grove High School and present teacher at Forest View High School, Mrs. Olson cites professional salary negotiations and federal aid as two subjects where the IEA already has begun to assert itself.

She would acknowledge that the time is propitious for a more active role for the IEA. Teachers are becoming more active in their community and other organizations.

The IEA can list as advances the progress made in professional negotiation in many school districts. A stronger code of ethics helping teachers police their own members is an IEA accomplishment.

The welfare and ethics committee of the IEA has helped teachers in disagreements with school districts.

But IEA can be more aggressive and imaginative, Mrs. Olson declares. It cannot afford to wait until something is done and react to that.

IN ADVOCATING increased militancy by the Illinois Education Association, Mrs. Olson does not endorse teacher strikes. "Teachers are public servants," she explains. "They should not do anything to disrupt the school; and if the teacher is not there, children cannot be educated." She would prefer to use pressure through use of the mass media. Sanctions against a school district would be the last weapon.

The mother of two sees as future projects to concern the IEA: insuring the planning time for teachers, getting certain released time for teachers to attend particular professional meetings, and guarantee of practice of the law requiring half an hour free lunch period.

Mrs. Olson is vehemently opposed to the requirement of a loyalty oath when other occupations do not require it. She remembers refusing to sign a loyalty oath for three weeks while her school district in the central part of the state withheld her salary.

IN THE LEGISLATIVE area, Mrs. Olson considers the association "quite effective." She believes the legislature's and governor's attitude to increased state aid for schools was strengthened by IEA endorsement of the bill.

Both the Lake Shore and the Northwest sections of IEA make a practice of entertaining the legislators in their district. When the legislature is in session, they arrange to meet to exchange information and viewpoints on issues affecting education.

Mrs. Olson would favor the Illinois association's shouldering some of the responsibility for placing some of the displaced southern teachers.

In - service teacher institutes play a smaller part as a service the IEA provides, Mrs. Olson said. Many teachers are taking extension college courses offered in the area high schools. The IEA, however, sponsors highly effective workshops on subjects like teacher salary negotiation.

MRS. OLSON sees the IEA differing from a teachers union in its long range viewpoint. A lesser concern with particular local problems might give the IEA less appeal to its teacher membership.

The criticism that IEA is administration oriented is not fair, Mrs. Olson said. Any teacher can work his way up in the organization. She points to her case. She was a building representative at Prospect High School, a delegate, alternate delegate, and then first president of the Northwest Suburban Division. She then ran for the state board.

Mrs. Olson's background of going to school in southern Illinois, teaching in the central part of the state, and now teaching in the northwest suburbs probably has contributed to her known name, the easily smiling teacher said.

A state office in the IEA is not the only thing that keeps Mrs. [illegible]usy. Besides teaching, she will take three college courses next semester. She also makes time for her husband and two daughters, an 11-year-old and a college freshman both headed for teaching. (B10

YMCA 'Secretaries' Are 'Directors' Now

YMCA personnel will no longer use the word "secretary" in their titles, according to Charles McClellan, who has been addressed as executive secretary of Northwest Suburban YMCA.

The term "secretary" was adopted early in the YMCA development for staff personnel, since the laymen were always referred to as chairmen, or presidents, of the various committees or boards on which they served. The staff then worked as their aids.

IN RECENT YEARS, however, the title was more and more confusing to the general public, and a recent vote in the YMCA National Council changed the title to "director."

Professional staff at Northwest Suburban YMCA will now have the following titles: Charles McClellan, executive director; Clifford Lothery, program director; Helen Coryell, women and girls program director; Dale Messerle, aquatic director, and Stephen Klaus, club director.

The relationship of staff and laymen will remain the same in spite of the new title. (B10

Auto Seat Belts

Nearly 30 per cent of America's cars are now equipped with seat belts. In 1963 only 9 per cent had belts.

A Marital Choice

A choice between monogamy and polygamy is part of the marriage code in Mali, new African nation.

Farming Investment

The aggregate investment in farming, from 1950 to 1965, increased 75 per cent in the United States.

Addison Church Clings to German Services

by David J. Hanks
Staff Writer

In a bygone era many churches in the older suburban communities of Roselle, Arlington Heights, Addison, Mount Prospect and Schaumburg held German services.

But with the great migration to the suburbs in the past 15 years the number of these services has dwindled. Shortly after the turn of the century it was a rarity to have service in English, but now this is true of the German service.

About the only church which still holds German services regularly is St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Addison.

St. Peter's in Arlington Heights, canceled its German services about four years ago, and now if requested holds weddings or funerals in German.

Mount Prospect's St. Paul's Lutheran cut its German speaking services about 10 years ago, and Trinity Lutheran in Roselle hasn't had them about two years.

ST. PETER'S in Schaumburg holds German services four times yearly, Pastor John R. Sternberg says. One will be held in February, a second in April, a third in September and the fourth around Christmas.

"We feel we can best serve our German people by an occasional service, rather than a regular one," he said.

At St. Paul's in Addison the German service is held at 11:45 a.m. each Sunday. Pastor Harland Wendler said "The only purpose in having German services is for those who cannot understand English or who learned their religion in German."

Only about 60 of the church's congregation of 2,700 attend the service, he said.

ATTENDING the service recently this writer noticed only three young couples with children. The others were mostly older persons, who seemed to know the readings, prayers and songs by heart.

Perhaps this is a sign that the era of German services in the northwest suburbs will deminish soon.

Rev. Wendler says there is usually one baptism a year and one wedding in German. One child was baptized at the Jan. 23 service.

WHY DO THEY still hold the service?

The Rev. Gotthold Elbert, who conducts the services said, "The old people just enjoy services in the mother tongue." Most who attend are older people who learned the German language first, he added.

The church's elders say it's a carryover from when German was the only language that was taught in Lutheran Schools in Addison.

English services started at St. Paul's in the late 20s. Rev. Elbert said the influx of new people to Addison and the two World Wars hurried the adoption of English services.

The German services are similar to the English ones. Some of the music is interchangeable between English and German, Pastor Wendler said. Perhaps one of the few differences is that the minister "chants" some parts of the service in the German ones, but this is never done in English.

Many of those who attend can speak English, said Rev. Elbert.

REV. ELBERT looked back a few years. In the 30s he said the ratio of German - English services was about half and half. A majority of funerals in that era were conducted in German, he added.

Until recently the one German service was held at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday, but because of the huge crowds which attended the 11:45 a.m. English service, Rev. Wendler felt it was necessary for the change.

He said the change of time had not lowered the number that attended the German service. (A15

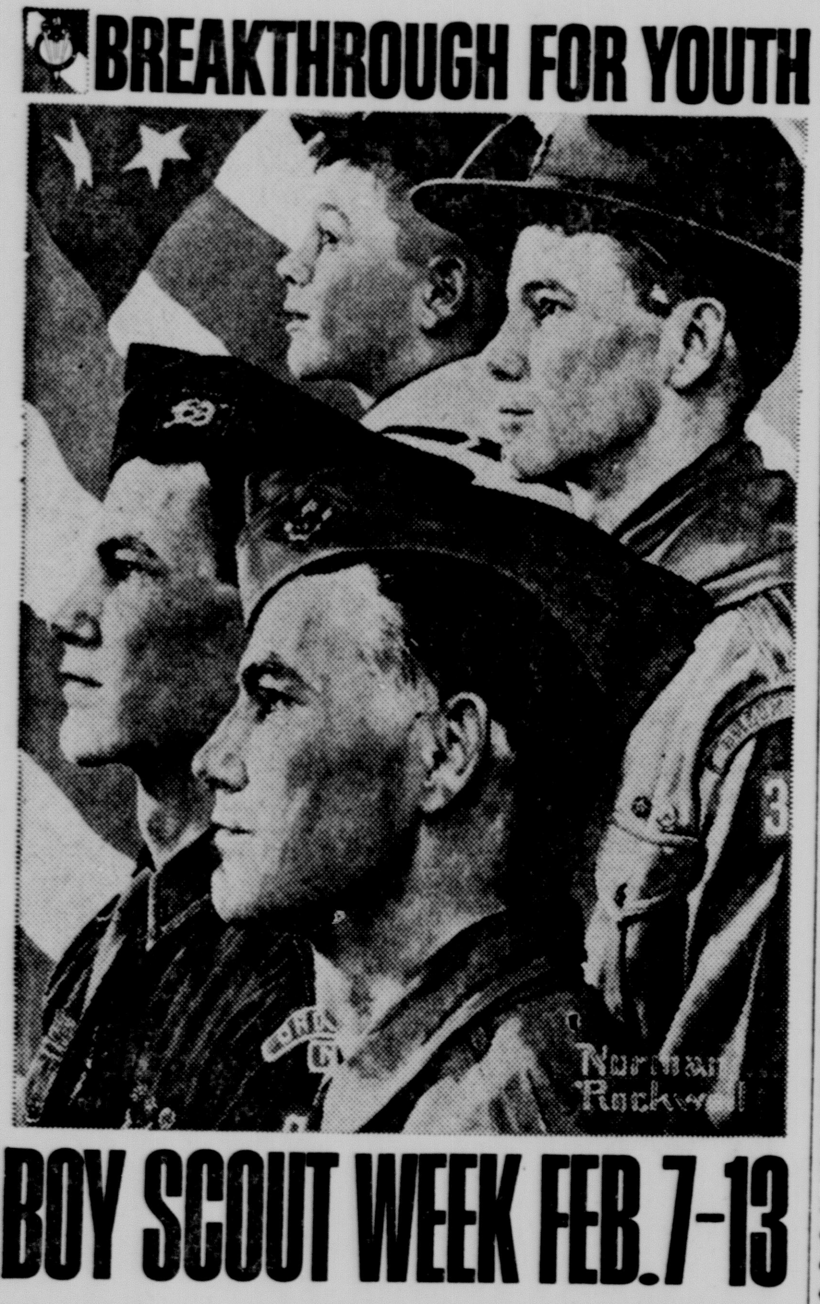
350 Units to Take Part In Boy Scout Celebration



Norman Rockwell's painting, "Growth of a Leader," symbolizes the 56th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Over 5½ million members will celebrate with the theme "Breakthrough for Youth."

Celebration of Boy Scout Week from Feb. 7 to 13 will see members of some 350 Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout Troops, and Explorer posts in the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America, gathering with their parents and special guests for Cub Scout blue-and-gold banquets, open-house meetings, or parents' nights.

A special feature for the 56th anniversary observance will be an invitation to former Scouts and leaders to attend the special affairs as "honored alumni."

The slogan, "Once a Scout Always a Scout," is expected to bring back to their former Scout units many men who are not now active in Scouting—many with families including Scout sons of their own.

THE CUB SCOUT blue-and-gold banquet, which is held at the pack meeting nearest to Boy Scout Week, will have Strong for America as its program theme.

The Boy Scout parents' night and open house will follow the program theme of "February's Patriots" and will dramatize events in the lives of such men as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas A. Edison, and Lord Baden-Powell who founded Scouting in England in 1908. Explorer anniversary banquets will include parents and friends of the Explorers and will feature a review of Explorer post activities during the past year and plans for the future.

Window displays and live Scout demonstrations are the basis for a contest being conducted as part of Boy Scout Week, February 7 to 13, by the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America.

THE WINDOW displays and the demonstrations will be judged by a committee in each District. The awards will consist of Scout Week Ribbons.

A gigantic live demonstration is now scheduled to be held at the Randhurst Center in Mount Prospect on Saturday, Feb. 12, with 1,000 boys participating.

Window displays will be featured throughout the entire council.

Uniform Day is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 8, when Scouts will attend school in uniform and be prepared to tell about their participation in the Scout program. Most Scout units will also take part in the traditional rededication to the Cub Scout Promise, Boy Scout Oath, or Explorer Code at 8:15 p.m., on Feb. 8. (B-10

Addison Church Clings to German Services

by David J. Hanks
Staff Writer

In a bygone era many churches in the older suburban communities of Roselle, Arlington Heights, Addison, Mount Prospect and Schaumburg held German services.

But with the great migration to the suburbs in the past 15 years the number of these services has dwindled. Shortly after the turn of the century it was a rarity to have service in English, but now this is true of the German service.

About the only church which still holds German services regularly is St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Addison.

St. Peter's in Arlington Heights, canceled its German services about four years ago, and now if requested holds weddings or funerals in German.

Mount Prospect's St. Paul's Lutheran cut its German speaking services about 10 years ago, and Trinity Lutheran in Roselle hasn't had them about two years.

ST. PETER'S in Schaumburg holds German services four times yearly, Pastor John R. Sternberg says. One will be held in February, a second in April, a third in September and the fourth around Christmas.

"We feel we can best serve our German people by an occasional service, rather than a regular one," he said.

At St. Paul's in Addison the German service is held at 11:45 a.m. each Sunday. Pastor Harland Wendler said "The only purpose in having German services is for those who cannot understand English or who learned their religion in German."

Only about 60 of the church's congregation of 2,700 attend the service, he said.

ATTENDING the service recently this writer noticed only three young couples with children. The others were mostly older persons, who seemed to know the readings, prayers and songs by heart.

Perhaps this is a sign that the era of German services in the northwest suburbs will deminish soon.

Rev. Wendler says there is usually one baptism a year and one wedding in German. One child was baptized at the Jan. 23 service.

WHY DO THEY still hold the service?

The Rev. Gotthold Elbert, who conducts the services said, "The old people just enjoy services in the mother tongue." Most who attend are older people who learned the German language first, he added.

The church's elders say it's a carryover from when German was the only language that was taught in Lutheran Schools in Addison.

English services started at St. Paul's in the late 20s. Rev. Elbert said the influx of new people to Addison and the two World Wars hurried the adoption of English services.

The German services are similar to the English ones. Some of the music is interchangeable between English and German, Pastor Wendler said. Perhaps one of the few differences is that the minister "chants" some parts of the service in the German ones, but this is never done in English.

Many of those who attend can speak English, said Rev. Elbert.

REV. ELBERT looked back a few years. In the 30s he said the ratio of German - English services was about half and half. A majority of funerals in that era were conducted in German, he added.

Until recently the one German service was held at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday, but because of the huge crowds which attended the 11:45 a.m. English service, Rev. Wendler felt it was necessary for the change.

He said the change of time had not lowered the number that attended the German service. (A15

Chose Career Because 'I Was Hungry'

Young Chef Heads Big Hotel Food Operation

by Eugene Nojek
Staff Writer

Head of a small army which prepares some 12,000 meals a week. That is how Horst Latzel, 205 S. School Lane, Prospect Heights, describes his job.

Latzel is executive chef at Chicago's LaSalle Hotel and in his charges are 30 to 40 chefs who cook for the hotel's six public dining rooms, grand ballroom and at least 30 private dining rooms.

A face-to-face encounter with a real life chef of Latzel's stature is disarming. Contrary to the conjured stereotype of the cocky, temperamental and mustachioed spaghetti can labels, Latzel is a polite and urbane man with a young, almost boyish face.

HIS REALM is not one kitchen but three — main kitchen, banquet kitchen and coffee shop kitchen — with so many stoves that it takes a full-time fireman to keep them all going.

The volume of food handled is so great that his cooks work in specialties: soup chef, broiler chef, pastry chef, pantry chef, cold meats chef, vegetable chef, baker, butcher. . .But his description of their functions taxes the imagination because in the food profession, the terminology is still French — even in the union contract.

Chef's life is hard and hectic. Latzel works a six-day week, 8:30 a.m. until 7, 8 or 10 p.m. "In the food line," he said, "you don't go by the time clock. You're a part of the house. When the kitchen closes, then you go home."

As executive chef, Latzel is more overseer than cook. In the morning, he first checks out arrangements for breakfast parties, whose attendance may number up to 500 persons. He then checks inventories and orders meat for one week ahead. The meat is always cut a day ahead by the hotel butcher.

IN THE MEANTIME, Latzel makes preparations for banquets. On any one day there may be from three to 15 banquets going on, each having from 50 to 600 people.

He still finds time to cook, usually during the busy dinner hours when he makes the more difficult special dishes. "I have to work with the cooks," he remarked, "or they won't work with me. Years ago, an executive chef was just an overseer. But now if you want to be a big shot, the other chefs won't work with you."

At the end of his hectic days, Latzel relaxes at home with a glass of wine and his hobbies, gardening and caring for his fish. A large rubber plant and four tanks of killifish with their soft gurgle of air bubbles and silently drifting forms give his living room a serene contrast to the hubbub of the hotel.

TV? "A nuisance," said his wife, Gertrude. "We relax watching the fish gliding in their own peaceful world. On TV there is too much action."

How does one choose a career as a chef? "I was hungry," said Latzel simply, "and I just had to get a job."

But the story goes deeper than that.

He was born in a small German town east of the Oder-Neisse line. When the area became Polish territory at the end of World War II, he was moved to Leipzig, East Germany, and in 1947 he managed to get across to the West.

In 1948, Latzel began his chef's apprenticeship at the Carlton Hotel in Frankfurt. During the three year period, he worked for subsistence wages at the hotel and in return they trained him. "Times were hard then and I was lucky to get the job," he asserted.

After his apprenticeship, he began to move around. "A young cook must get out and travel to get experience in different ways of cooking because every place does it different," he said.

Thus he went to Switzerland in 1952, back to Germany in 1954, to Stockholm in 1955 and to Germany in 1956.

Finally, in 1957, he accepted an offer from the Conrad Hilton Hotels to work in Chicago.

Considering the recent disillusionment of White House Chef Rene Verdon, why would a young chef come to he U.S.? "In the U. S. you don't learn much food-wise." Latzel said. "But you can learn business-wise. American business methods are the best."

Here, Latzel spent a year at the Conrad Hilton in Chicago (very cost and volume conscious in the kitchen) followed by a stay at the French Lick, Ind., resort (so big they needed a truck to bring the food from the kitchen).

Latzel came to the LaSalle Hotel as a sous chef in 1959 (the year the White Sox won the pennant). When he became executive chef there in 1960, he was 30 years old and acclaimed as the youngest in the country.

In talking about cooking, Latzel frequently came back to the distinctions between cooking here and in Europe.

He commented, "Here a chef doesn't have time to prepare nice dishes. The emphasis is on volume. People eat in a hurry. They don't really care what they eat.

"In Europe people dine more; here, you eat more. There, they put more time into it but eating here is only a side step."

Latzel traces one of the reasons to the comparatively high cost of eating out in the U.S.

"Labor here is so expensive that people can't afford to go out and really eat well."

"In the old country," he explained, "people in the food line work split shifts: between meals they can go home or to a movie. Here, the unions demand eight hours straight time. It's better for the working man, but it's hard on management and it raises labor costs."

Singling out hotel restaurants, he noted that hotel kitchens here must show a profit to justify their existence. "But in the old country, a hotel goes by the prestige of its kitchen. They are willing to break even or even lose money in the kitchen for the sake of the prestige of the house. Here, in the kitchen they think mostly of costs, not of good cooking."

The kitchen at the LaSalle Hotel is an international community, including among its chefs, Americans, Frenchmen, Italians, Canadians, Germans, Mexicans, Puerto Ricans, and Filipinos. No one nationality has a monopoly on culinary talents, but Latzel said most top chefs are European.

The reason? "In European countries there is an apprenticeship training program. Here, there is no large training program for chefs."

But he feels that the European dominance will not continue. "Europeans now don't want to go into the kitchen either," he said. "The hours are too long. In 10 years, Americans may be well represented.

According to Latzel, the future is rosy for aspiring chefs. "In the future they will pay more for cooks because they can't find any now."

There will also have to be training programs for cooks because "there is nobody left anymore."

"The trouble here is that young men who go through training programs don't really want to be cooks. They want to be managers right away without working up to it. Nobody wants to work anymore."

On the gloomy side, he noted, "If wages for cooks go up, you will have to pay more to dine and nobody will want to eat out. Already everybody here wants to chisel down, even on banquets."

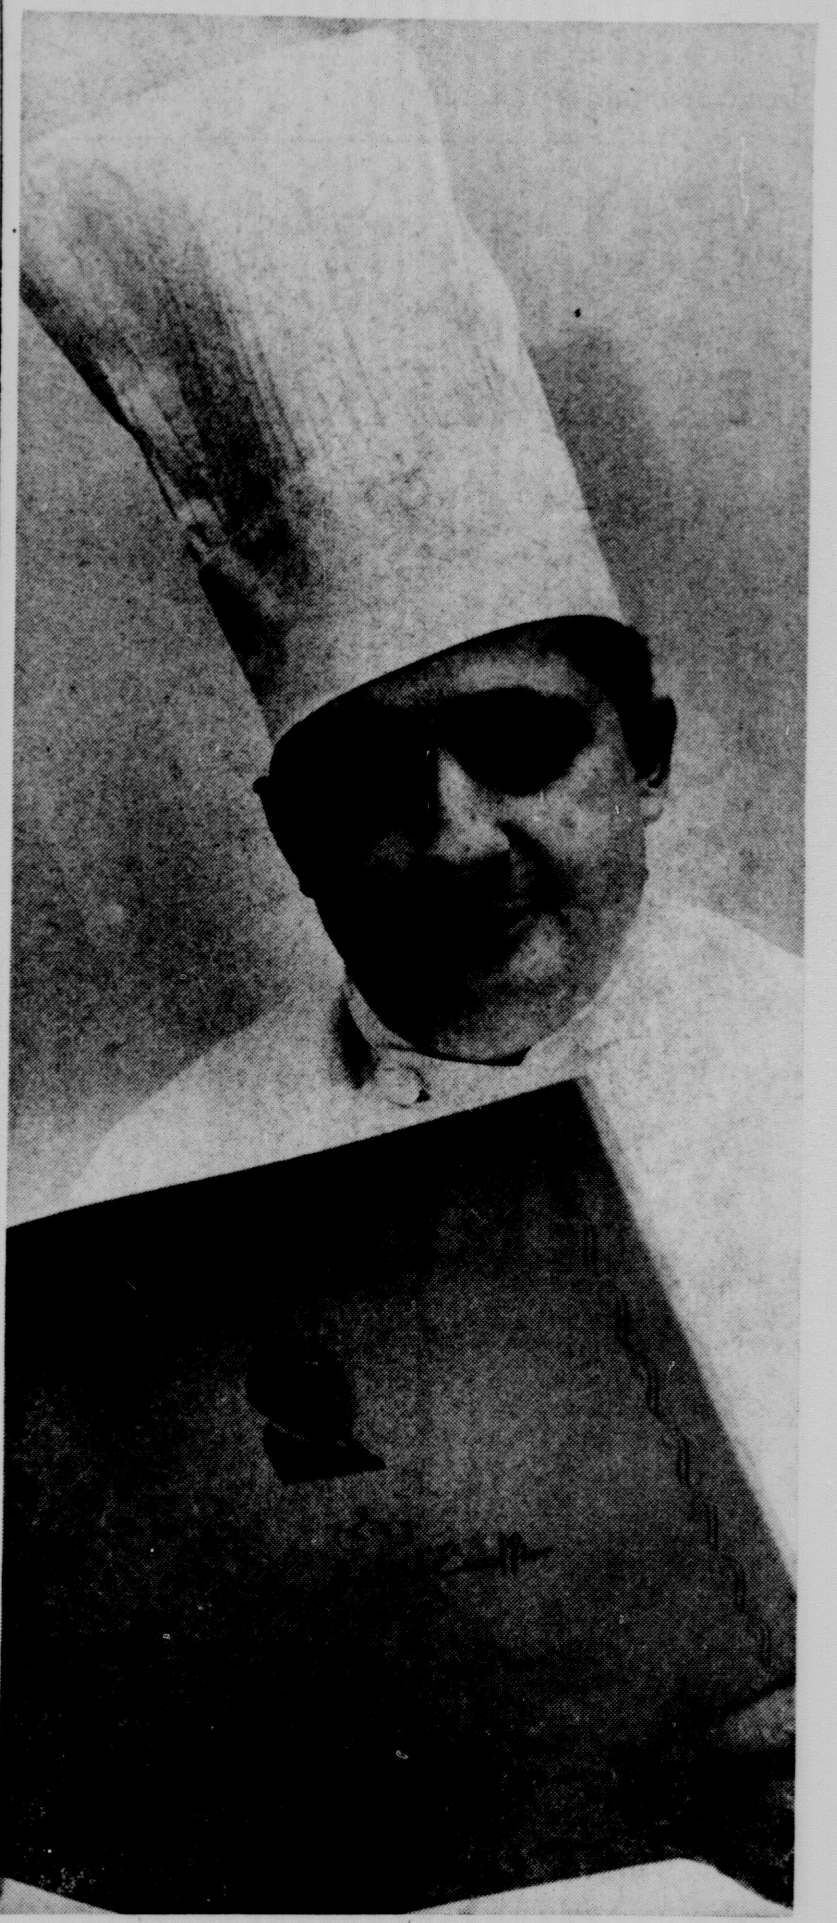
Though Latzel originally came to the U. S. to work for a few years, he is now here to stay. "I did not intend to stay," he said, "but then I met my wife, Gertrude." She is also from Germany. They have two daughters, Mary Lou, 2, and Ellie, 3.

Despite the unenthusiastic approach the natives have toward his profession, he likes his life here. "I give credit to this country. What I really like is if you are willing to work, you can improve yourself and have a nice life.

"Here," he said, "you can own a home. You can't do it as easy in the old country. If I had stayed, what would I have? My peers there must live in a two-room apartment. I think I will stay here."

(A15

AT HOME, Latzel relaxes with his favorite hobby, caring for his collection of killifish. The six tanks in his home give peaceful atmosphere to an otherwise hectic existence. A member of the American Killifish Society, he has been interested in fish since his boyhood days in Germany.



HORST LATZEL explains the menu for last year's dinner of L'Amis d' Escoffier—The Friends of Escoffier. He was chef for the May 17 affair held for 50 of Chicago's top chefs and 50 guests. The society was founded in honor of the renowned French chef, Auguste Escoffier. Its purpose is to keep up the tradition of good fellowship and good food—not "the hamburger." The annual dinner is the high point of the year in a chef's life.

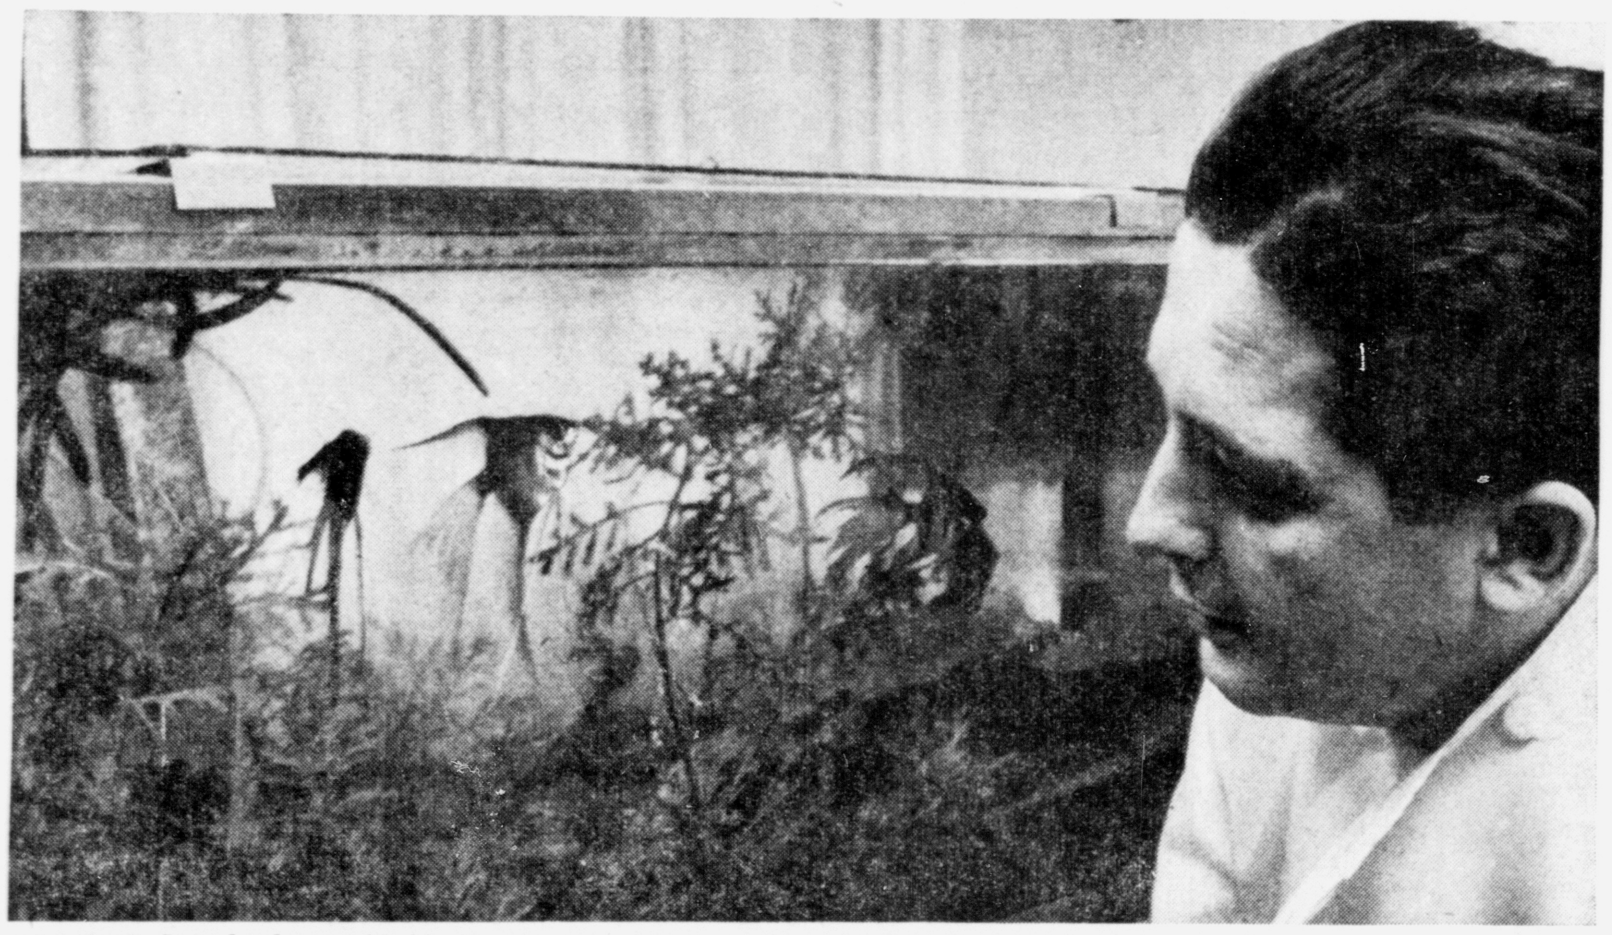
He was born in a small German town east of the Oder-Neisse line. When the area became Polish territory at the end of World War II, he was moved to Leipzig, East Germany, and in 1947 he managed to get across to the West.

In 1948, Latzel began his chef's apprenticeship at the Carlton Hotel in Frankfurt. During the three year period, he worked for subsistence wages at the hotel and in return they trained him. "Times were hard then and I was lucky to get the job," he asserted.

After his apprenticeship, he began to move around. "A young cook must get out and travel to get experience in different ways of cooking because every place does it different," he said.

Thus he went to Switzerland in 1952, back to Germany in 1954, to Stockholm in 1955 and to Germany in 1956.

Finally, in 1957, he accepted an offer from the Conrad Hilton Hotels to work in Chicago.



AT HOME, Latzel relaxes with his favorite hobby, caring for his collection of killifish. The six tanks in his home give peaceful atmosphere to an otherwise hectic existence. A member of the American Killifish Society, he has been interested in fish since his boyhood days in Germany.

Considering the recent disillusionment of White House Chef Rene Verdon, why would a young chef come to he U.S.? "In the U. S. you don't learn much food-wise." Latzel said. "But you can learn business-wise. American business methods are the best."

Here, Latzel spent a year at the Conrad Hilton in Chicago (very cost and volume conscious in the kitchen) followed by a stay at the French Lick, Ind., resort (so big they needed a truck to bring the food from the kitchen).

Latzel came to the LaSalle Hotel as a sous chef in 1959 (the year the White Sox won the pennant). When he became executive chef there in 1960, he was 30 years old and acclaimed as the youngest in the country.

In talking about cooking, Latzel frequently came back to the distinctions between cooking here and in Europe.

He commented, "Here a chef doesn't have time to prepare nice dishes. The emphasis is on volume. People eat in a hurry. They don't really care what they eat.

"In Europe people dine more; here, you eat more. There, they put more time into it but eating here is only a side step."

Latzel traces one of the reasons to the comparatively high cost of eating out in the U.S.

"Labor here is so expensive that people can't afford to go out and really eat well."

"In the old country," he explained, "people in the food line work split shifts: between meals they can go home or to a movie. Here, the unions demand eight hours straight time. It's better for the working man, but it's hard on management and it raises labor costs."

Singling out hotel restaurants, he noted that hotel kitchens here must show a profit to justify their existence. "But in the old country, a hotel goes by the prestige of its kitchen. They are willing to break even or even lose money in the kitchen for the sake of the prestige of the house. Here, in the kitchen they think mostly of costs, not of good cooking."

The kitchen at the LaSalle Hotel is an international community, including among its chefs, Americans, Frenchmen, Italians, Canadians, Germans, Mexicans, Puerto Ricans, and Filipinos. No one nationality has a monopoly on culinary talents, but Latzel said most top chefs are European.

The reason? "In European countries there is an apprenticeship training program. Here, there is no large training program for chefs."

But he feels that the European dominance will not continue. "Europeans now don't want to go into the kitchen either," he said. "The hours are too long. In 10 years, Americans may be well represented.

According to Latzel, the future is rosy for aspiring chefs. "In the future they will pay more for cooks because they can't find any now."

There will also have to be training programs for cooks because "there is nobody left anymore."

"The trouble here is that young men who go through training programs don't really want to be cooks. They want to be managers right away without working up to it. Nobody wants to work anymore."

On the gloomy side, he noted, "If wages for cooks go up, you will have to pay more to dine and nobody will want to eat out. Already everybody here wants to chisel down, even on banquets."

Though Latzel originally came to the U. S. to work for a few years, he is now here to stay. "I did not intend to stay," he said, "but then I met my wife, Gertrude." She is also from Germany. They have two daughters, Mary Lou, 2, and Ellie, 3.

Despite the unenthusiastic approach the natives have toward his profession, he likes his life here. "I give credit to this country. What I really like is if you are willing to work, you can improve yourself and have a nice life.

"Here," he said, "you can own a home. You can't do it as easy in the old country. If I had stayed, what would I have? My peers there must live in a two-room apartment. I think I will stay here."

HORST LATZEL explains the menu for last year's dinner of L'Amis d' Escoffier—The Friends of Escoffier. He was chef for the May 17 affair held for 50 of Chicago's top chefs and 50 guests. The society was founded in honor of the renowned French chef, Auguste Escoffier. Its purpose is to keep up the tradition of good fellowship and good food—not "the hamburger." The annual dinner is the high point of the year in a chef's life.

How could a simple cracker cause so much commotion?
Consider the shape. Nothing fancy there. Consider the taste. Today's most advertised crackers taste like ham or cheese or chicken or pizza. Investment Clubs Teach Market Ins and Outs

Fifty thousand strong and still rising is the general word on investment clubs throughout the United States—a quick indication of the new interest in investment today.

One fifth or approximately 10,000 of these clubs, with over 100,000 members, are members of the National Association of Investment Clubs (NAIC), headquartered in Detroit, Mich.

In 1951 when NAIC was founded in Detroit, four clubs were investing $400 a month. Today, member clubs invest over $3 million a month.

No one seems to know when and where the first club was formed, although legend has it that an A. L. Brooks founded the first one in Texas in 1898.

MORE FACTUAL is that the force behind the entire movement was the Mutual Investment Club of Detroit, founded in 1940, and whose most active member was Tom O'Hara, considered the founder of NAIC, and presently chairman of the board.

Since then investment clubs have not only grown but have diversified to a startling degree. The Midwest, Chicago, Cook County, and the Northwest suburbs are no exception.

And all members are not business executives. Clubs have been formed by groups of former Eagle Scouts, men who were all tool-makers, or by dentists, seamen, soldiers, high school students, and even be persons who have in common a physical defect — deafness.

A Mount Prospect man, J. L. Cregg, of 15 N. Lancaster Ave., is a strong advocate of investment clubs in general and has put in many hours working as treasurer and a director of the Chicago Council of NAIC, all without pay.

CREGG HAS organized two clubs — the Mount Prospect Investment Club (MPI) and the Mid-Rock Investment Club. He's no longer a member of MPI, but is still active in the Mid-Rock group, made up of Prudential Life Insurance Co. employes working in the downtown Prudential Building. Cregg, an accountant, is manager of the cost services division of Prudential.

Witold Sikorski, who recently moved to Palatine, is secretary and also a director of the Chicago council, and a director of the national association, Cregg said.

Members of the Research Investment Club of Mount Prospect all work at the Charles Bruning Co. plant; Edward C. Bialczak of 1 S. Edward St., is secretary.

In Hoffman Estates, the Trader VIP Mutual Investment Club is comprised entirely of housewives, with Mrs. Stephen L. Balogh of 118 Geronimo as secretary. There's the Valley Investment Club of Dundee; the Northwest Investment Club of Prospect Heights; the Gold Coast Clippers of Chicago, one of the larger and more profitable women's clubs, according to Cregg; and the Main Chance Investment Club of Mount Prospect, another women's group of which Mrs. Robert Cowles of 404 S. I-Oka Ave., is president.

"We're making money, but most important, we're learning something," was Mrs. Cowles' comment.

THE CHICAGO council of the NAIC has about 700 member clubs, but Cregg thinks there are more clubs in the Chicago area that are not members.

It takes one person real interested in forming a club to start one. He usually doesn't know much, if anything, about investing, and starts looking about for more information.

He may see an ad of the NAIC's in a newspaper or magazine, or a news article on an upcoming investment forum sponsored by a brokerage firm or the Chicago council of NAIC; or he could get his information by word of mouth, Cregg said.

It isn't as easy as it all sounds. There are tax laws, state regulations and legal angles to think about. Clubs have to register with the secretary of state in Illinois — at a cost of $2. Total membership is limited to 99, and the club is limited to 15 new members in any one year.

MOST CLUBS are partnerships, some are corporations, and others form trusts.

Clubs that join NAIC have a distinct advantage over non-member groups — they not only get counseling through the NAIC "Investment Club Manual", but are sent forms on which stocks can be compared, analyzed, charted and generally "bi-sected" prior to final selection by club members.

There also are monthly and yearly meetings and educational seminars. Brokers speak on stocks they feel are on the rise, bankers tell how financial institutions select stocks, economists tell what the country's economy is doing.

THE CHICAGO Council has had Marvin Chandler, president of Northern Illinois Gas Co., as featured speaker. Others have included J. Clement Stone, president of Combined Insurance Companies and publisher of Success Magazine; the president of Illinois Tool Works, Inc.; and the president of United Life Insurance Co.

The NAIC sets forth certain principles for members, although not all member clubs follow them. The principles are: invest funds regularly, to benefit from dollar cost averaging; reinvest earnings, to take advantage of compounding; and invest only in growth companies until a club portfolio reaches $12,000 or so.

A typical club usually has 12 to 15 members who contribute $10 to $15 a month. But Cregg pointed out that individual contributions can be $5 or lower, or $100 and on up—it all depends on by-laws set up by the club members.

Club members are assigned to a selection committee on a rotating basis, and every month several stocks are presented to be voted on. Voting can be on a one vote per member basis, or according to the number of shares owned. Stocks presented are not always accepted, Cregg said, and sometimes members throw caution to the wind and vote to buy speculative stocks seemingly on the rise.

BROKERAGE FIRMS have gradually come to realize investment clubs can help them in the long run, even though most brokers lose money or just break even buying and selling stocks for clubs.

But after five or six years, members have usually opened private accounts and the brokers start to get a reward for handling the club account.

There have been many clubs reporting successes, according to NAIC records. One of the most spectacular successes was reported by Futures Unlimited of Minneapolis, whose 10 members began early in 1957 to chip in $16.66 a month each, and invested it so shrewdly and luckily that by mid-1961 their $9,000 stake had grown to $131,470.

All clubs, naturally haven't had this rise in fortune. But few have shown a loss. Losses have also occurred through embezzlement, a loss that can be stopped through NAIC membership. For such membership provides a $25,000 surety bond covering all members of the club.

ABOVE ALL ELSE, investment clubs are a major part of our social life today—and are fast becoming an important financial part of society.

Members are learning to investigate before investing—the main axiom of large and small investors across the country, both in and out of investment clubs. (A-15

Veteran Democrat Leader Resigns Township Position

John P. Byrne, "Mr. Democrat" of Maine Township who has voted in every Presidential election except that in 1912, has resigned as treasurer and precinct captain in the Maine Township Regular Democratic Organization.

For the past 15 years, Byrne, of 3000 Curtis in the Orchard Place section of Des Plaines, has served as treasurer—during the time Thomas C. Bradley has held the office of committeeman.

Previously he was vice president and president of the regular Democratic group. During the mid-1930's he was a candidate for the committeeman's post.

IN SUBMITTING his resignation, Byrne, a retired railroad employee, announced his support of Richard C. Wessell, Des Plaines newspaper publisher, for the office of township committeeman in the June 14 primary election.

"There is a breath of something new in the political air of 1966," said Byrne. "The people want a change. We are not satisfied with the usual platitudes. New thinking, new faces are sorely needed. We must have men who can stand back and look at the whole picture, every bit of it, clearly and without prejudice. Wessell will provide the 'breath of something new.' "

Mr. Byrne's two grandfathers came to this country from their native Ireland around 1850 — one from Greghlone, County Monaghan, the other from County Limerick. Both settled in Iowa where Byrne was born and both grandfathers became local office holders and ardent Democrats.

"My uncles, parents, and grandfathers saw to it that I became a staunch Democrat at an early age — about 7," says Byrne.

HIS FIRST political campaigning came in 1896 during the Bryan-McKinley campaign. "I well remember the youngsters in our small town wore caps with silver or gold braid, depending on whether you were for Bryan (silver) or McKinley (gold). My father took me to Jake Doerman's general store to buy a Bryan cap. They were all too big and when Jake suggested I take a McKinley cap to fit my head I rebelled and grabbed a much too small Bryan cap. I wore it all summer."

The long-time Maine Democratic leader took a job with a railroad in Canada during the Summer of 1912 and wasn't able to vote in the Presidential election thereafter except in 1924, "when I supported Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin."

The Byrnes, including his wife, Helen, moved to Maine township in 1925. In 1928 they helped form the first Regular Democratic Organization here in 1928. "That was in a day when precinct captains were called precinct committeemen and they were elected, one for each of the 19 precincts in the township at the time. They, in turn, elected the township district leader."

Mrs. Byrne has been active for many years in local Democratic circles. s (B10

Measles Vaccine Unused As Epidemic Threatens

Illinois faces a major measles epidemic by spring while $100,000 in free state-purchased vaccine goes undemanded, the Illinois Council for Mentally Retarded Children disclosed.

The Illinois Council warned that measles can lead to brain damage and retardation.

Already, an abnormally high number of measles cases — 1,259 — have been reported in Illinois during the first three weeks of January. The disease — which runs in epidemic cycles — is expected to hit its three-year peak by late March or early April.

"We will have a severe epidemic with deaths and encephalitis, one of the most feared complications of any infectious disease, unless there is widespread use of the measles vaccine beginning immediately," Dr. Norman J. Rose, chief of the Bureau of Epidemiology of the state Dept. of Public Health, told the Council.

DR. ROSE said that the state had purchased $180,000 worth of vaccine for free distribution to Illinois children through local health department clinics and private physicians upon request. To date, only $80,000 worth of vaccine or 80,000 doses have been requested. The remaining vaccine, said Dr. Rose, is dated for use by April 29 and will be worthless after that.

Public apathy was blamed for the lagging immunization program. Dr. Rose said that many parents underestimate the dangers of a disease which he called "ten times worse than polio ever was." In addition to mental retardation, measles can lead to pneumonia, ear infections and deafness or severe bronchitis for one in six victims.

Yet it is estimated that 20 million children are susceptible and still unprotected in the United States.

The vaccine was licensed for use in 1962. State statistics since show the extent of public apathy in Illinois: 1963 — 11,800 cases, 11 deaths; 1964 — 16,700 cases, 17 deaths, and 1965 (first 10 months) — 5,028 cases, 6 deaths. (A15

Veteran Democrat Leader Resigns Township Position

John P. Byrne, "Mr. Democrat" of Maine Township who has voted in every Presidential election except that in 1912, has resigned as treasurer and precinct captain in the Maine Township Regular Democratic Organization.

For the past 15 years, Byrne, of 3000 Curtis in the Orchard Place section of Des Plaines, has served as treasurer—during the time Thomas C. Bradley has held the office of committeeman.

Previously he was vice president and president of the regular Democratic group. During the mid-1930's he was a candidate for the committeeman's post.

IN SUBMITTING his resignation, Byrne, a retired railroad employee, announced his support of Richard C. Wessell, Des Plaines newspaper publisher, for the office of township committeeman in the June 14 primary election.

"There is a breath of something new in the political air of 1966," said Byrne. "The people want a change. We are not satisfied with the usual platitudes. New thinking, new faces are sorely needed. We must have men who can stand back and look at the whole picture, every bit of it, clearly and without prejudice. Wessell will provide the 'breath of something new.' "

Mr. Byrne's two grandfathers came to this country from their native Ireland around 1850 — one from Greghlone, County Monaghan, the other from County Limerick. Both settled in Iowa where Byrne was born and both grandfathers became local office holders and ardent Democrats.

"My uncles, parents, and grandfathers saw to it that I became a staunch Democrat at an early age — about 7," says Byrne.

HIS FIRST political campaigning came in 1896 during the Bryan-McKinley campaign. "I well remember the youngsters in our small town wore caps with silver or gold braid, depending on whether you were for Bryan (silver) or McKinley (gold). My father took me to Jake Doerman's general store to buy a Bryan cap. They were all too big and when Jake suggested I take a McKinley cap to fit my head I rebelled and grabbed a much too small Bryan cap. I wore it all summer."

The long-time Maine Democratic leader took a job with a railroad in Canada during the Summer of 1912 and wasn't able to vote in the Presidential election thereafter except in 1924, "when I supported Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin."

Similar Activities, Classes For FV's Lampert Twins

(Twins lead interesting lives, particularly teen-age twins. Here is the second and final installment of High School Highlights' spotlight on spotlight on twins. Featured are twins from Forest View High School and Sacred Heart of Mary High School.)

BY JUDY ARNOLD

Have you ever thought you're seeing double?

Take a walk down the halls of Forest View High School and you may get that feeling. Among almost 2,900 students, there are over 25 sets of twins attending this school.

AMONG THE most active are seniors Bruce and Brian Lampert, sons of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lampert, 415 Westmere, Des Plaines. Both boys are varsity wrestlers in the 165-pound weight division.

Bruce, the "oldest", and Brian also go out for tennis and football. Both boys have lettered and are members of Forest View's Lettermen Club. Brian is also a member of Student Council.

The Lampert boys have the same courses this year, which include botany, zoology, advanced algebra, sociology and English.

Brian commented that they wish to attend the same college, probably Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa.

Bruce and Brian are also active in Young Life. They serve as vice-presidents of this Christian youth organization.

PAT AND Barb Mesics are another set of twins attending Forest View. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mesics of 3208 Oriole Lane in Rolling Meadows.

Barb works at Stuarts while Pat is an employe of Mary Anns, both in Randhurst Shopping Center. Although both girls hold part-time jobs, they participate in other activities.

Their activities include Latin Club (freshman year), GRA and Pep Club. They are also honor students and have worked on class board.

Pat is planning on attending Northern Illinois University, where she will study merchandising. Barb, too, will attend Northern.

SACRED HEART OF MARY HIGH SCHOOL
BY ELIZABETH MYERS

Sacred Heart of Mary High School has two sets of twins and one member of a set of triplets. Identical twins are Sue and Joyce Guilfoil, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Guifoil, 633 S. Burton, Arlington Heights, who enjoy being look-alikes.

Joyce and Sue exhibit their individuality by wearing different clothes and hairstyles. These sophomores have distinct personalities but still share many friends and interests.

One could never tell that juniors Maryanne and Anne De Frier, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Frier, 850 Navajo Drive in Carpentersville, are twins. Anne and Maryanne laughingly agree that "though we are twins, we don't share the same interests."

Anne is very sportsminded, while Maryanne's interests lie in home economics.

"BEING ONE of three has its advantages," says Mary Peterhans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peterhans, 507 N. Maple Lane in Prospect Heights.

Mary has many opportunities to meet new friends through her two brothers, Greg and Louis, who attend St. Viator High School. Naturally Mary's interests differ from those of her brothers, but she enjoys skiing and swimming with them.

Mary's hobbies also include reading and basketball. (Y

Wheeling Team Wins Top Speech Trophies

BY MARYANN KEENEY AND CONNIE ANDREW

Three members of the Wheeling High School speech team, coached by R. A. Panagos, won first place trophies at a speech meet at Homewood-Flossmoor High School on January 8.

Melinda Crabbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Crabbe, 504 E. Knob Hill, Arlington Heights, won a first place trophy in serious reading. Her selection was taken from "The Queen and the Rebels" by Ugo Betti. The reading concerned a small town caught up in a rebellion.

Karen King, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William King, 1706 Hickory Ave., Prospect Heights, took first place in original oration. Her speech topic was a new slant on conformity. She stated that conformity can't be applied to a complex society as ours.

IN ORIGINAL monologue, Bob Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, 116 Rosetree Lane, Prospect Heights, also won a first place. His monologue was about a football coach and his losing team at halftime.

Others at the tournament were Jim Towery, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Towery, 1238 Sarasota Dr., Wheeling, in extemporaneous speaking; Carol Nekimken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elic Nekimken, 137 Meadowbrook, Wheeling, in oratorical declamation; and Sue Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Summers, 204 Landford, Prospect Heights.

These six will represent W.H.S. at the district level of the state tournament on Saturday, March 12, at Lake Forest High School, Lake Forest.

Melinda and Karen will also enter two other categories at this contest; Melinda in verse reading and Karen in prose reading. (10Y

Arlington Seniors Rate Waara Praise

(High School Highlights has asked the principals of our area high schools to comment on the achievements of their respective senior classes as they begin their second and last semester in high school. Following are the comments of Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, in an interview with Highlights correspondent Becky Hollmeyer.)

For 511 Arlington High School students, the second semester of the school year, 1965-1966 will be their last in high school.

These 511 students will graduate in June and will cease to be a unit, as the class of 1966 splits and goes its separate ways.

Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, proudly cites the senior class as the most "unusual class in many respects" that has ever walked in Arlington's hallowed halls. He gives the following reasons for his optimism about the class.

Seven valedictorians will graduate in 1966, if their grades continue to meet the standards they have set in previous years. This number of straight "A" students is the most that any class has ever been graced with.

THE OVERALL grade average of the class is 3.3, which is a point or so above the normal average of an Arlington class.

Parallel to this high scholastic average are the number of scholarship semi-finalists that the class of 1966 boasts. Twelve seniors are National Merit Semi-finalists, while 49 are Illinois State Scholarship semi-finalists.

Other honors in speech, debate, athletics, science, and mathematics are widely received by Arlington seniors. One senior traveled to Spain as an American Field Service foreign exchange student.

THE STUDENT Council is more active this year under the leadership of the class of 1966. They are more involved in the relationship between the student body, the council, and the faculty, and the relationship between the community and the school.

"The class is continuing to lead the school and to follow the many fine things previous classes have accomplished. They are continuing to maintain the standards of Arlington High School," Waara concluded." (10Y

Gaskill Winner Of Essay Contest

By VICKY DeLUDE

William Drew Gaskill, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Gaskill of 181 May St., Bensenville, recently won the essay contest sponsored by Signal, Fenton High School's student paper.

The topic of the essay concerned the February 5 referendum; its purpose was to give the students a chance to express their views.

For his work, Drew received $10 and had his article published in the January 21 edition of Signal.

The following is his essay titled "Why I Think the Referendum Will Pass."

We hear so much of the "American Dream" and its influence on our society that it has prompted me to ask myself, "Just what is the American Dream?" It isn't civil rights, equality, or freedom, because these are not unique to the American way of life.

IT IS RATHER the desire of every parent to see his own child in an intellectual and cultural level higher than his own. In Europe and in the Eastern nations, it is an insult to the father if the son even considers rising above his father's station. In America, the parents labor and sacrifice so that the child might better himself.

Parents have long supported public education financially and by their interest. This is the exalting factor of American education — the concern of the public and its willingness to support it financially.

Booster Club Plans Fund Raising Dance

Batman A Go Go is the name of the fund-raising dance to be co-sponsored by the Arlington High School student newspaper, Boosters's Club and the "A" Club on February 12. It will be held in the boys gym of the school from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Feature attraction of the evening will be "The Males," a combo which has appeared in several area clubs including The Cellar. One of the most popular student combos, "The Questions" (formerly the Gratzmen) will also participate.

AIM OF THE dance is to help raise funds for the school's athletic program for items not provided by regular school funds. In the past the Boosters have paid for a special telephone on which athletes may call home free and have subsidized the pep bus to away games.

The "A" Club is a service organization made up of letter winners, and the Booster's Club is a parent group.

New Choir Is Formed At Fenton

A new choral group the Madrigal choir, has been formed from Fenton High School's A Capella choir, according to James Skomer, choral director. The new choir will concentrate on music from the pre-Renaissance period.

"The Madrigal choir adds another facet to our total music program," Skomer explained. "Music from this period is often overlooked for the more popular selections.

"Our program is designed to take the students through a four-year experience in vocal groups and exposure to as many different types of musical stylings and interpretations as possible."

Altos are Judy Hoch, Victoria Iwanow, Carol Krivanek, Diana Lambert, Cynthia Lauridsen, and Sandra Leveen.

Tenors are Harry Adams, Peter Bliznick, George Stock and Jack Williams. Basses include James Conard, Bruce Croxen, Drew Gaskill, Eugene. Dotulski and Alan Rothmeeler.

Palatine's steadily strengthening sophomore wrestlers kept their grip on first place in the Mid-Suburban League last Friday, whipping Forest View 30-13 in a dual on the Falcons' mats.

By the victory, Arv Herstedt's sophs moved to 3-0 in tht MSL, and 7-2 overall this year. Dave Theesfeld's Falcons, now 0-4 in the MSL, are 7-4 for the season.

THREE PIRATES continued compiling impressive records in the dual. Pat Donahue remained unbeaten in 12 matches at 180 pounds, winning on a pin at 3:40. Don Speer, a 95-pounder, is also unbeaten, having run his standard to 5-0 with a 4-1 decision win. And heavyweight Bob Prochnow, who pinned his opponent in one minute, now has nine falls this season.

Other Palatine victories, all on decisions, were provided by Ken Kuttig (120), Larry Pawlowski (127), Bob Esmail (133), Chuck Goodman (145), and Greg Hoover (165). Palatine's Rick Berthold tied with FV's Chuck McClure at 103.

Winning for the Falcons were Bill Sunbloom, by forfeit at 112; Mike Casey, by decision at 138; and Mark Swanson, by decision at 154.

Fouls Aid 'Cat JVs At Conant

The Wheeling JV basketball team was outscored from the field, but made up for that deficit by garnering a slug of free throws to earn a 54-46 win over the host Conant JVs last Friday night.

Conant scored 16 field goals to the Wildcats 13, but Wheeling made up this difference by outpointing the hosts 28-14 from the charity stripe. Conant had 28 personal fouls and one technical called against it, compared to Wheeling's 17 personals.

WHEELING OUTSCORED Conant in every quarter but the final period to set the pattern for the victory. The Wildcats held a 15 point lead, 45-30, going into the fourth frame, and Conant was not able to make up this margin.

Center Jeff Winterburg turned in a stellar performance by tallying 23 points on five field goals and 13 free throws. Greg Fedyski chipped in with 13 points for the winners.

Conant's top scorers were Larry Robertson and Mike Kennedy with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Seek $123,000 for Project To Tutor Ghildren of Poor

A Northwest Suburban citizens group is seeking $123,000 in federal funds to help tutor some 300 "educationally deficient children" from poverty stricken homes in Palatine, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Wheeling Townships.

The Northwest Cook Opportunity Council (Norwesco) okayed the proposed $150,256.75 project and now hopes to receive formal backing from the school districts to be served by the program.

Norwesco's proposal seeks a $123,146.75 federal grant through the Office of Economic Opportunity. The balance of expenses, $27,110, it is hoped, will be made up in the form of time, space and material provided by the school districts.

However Norwesco chairman Ethan Janove said the program could continue without the support of all the area districts. To date District 54 has pledged its cooperation and District 59 has indicated informal backing.

THE PROJECT is primarily aimed at helping two poverty groups: the migrant Mexican-American families and those of the southern whites from Appalachia, who reside mostly in trailer courts in the area. Most families in these groups have an income of less than $3,000 per year.

Children of these families are classified as "academically deficient" and thus eligible for federal aid because of either insufficient English language experience or the severe mobility of family life, disruptive to the normal educational process.

The program as devised will provide private tutorial sessions, a special summer school program and home counseling.

If approved it will mark a significant turning point in the six-month existence of Norwesco. The group organized last August, evolved from a meeting of local citizens participating in an Operation Head start program in Elk Grove District 59 and members of the Northwest Church Council for Migrant Aid.

NORWESCO'S program is basically one of establishing a bridge between the poor and the community, plus assistance in medical problems, education-tutoring, literacy training, housing and welfare.

To date the group has functioned on strictly a volunteer basis.

Norwesco members have volunteered their time in the fight for better housing for migrant Mexican-American workers, particularly those living on farms in Elk Grove Township; the group hopes to win federal backing to set up suburban clinics to provide medical and dental care for low income families; and members have participated in a local Head Start project, last summer in District 59, to help prepare pre-school children from poor families for kindergarten.

However, the tutorial program, if approved, will be Norwesco's first official, federally recognized project.

SAID CHAIRMAN Janove, the principal of Elk Grove's Brentwood School, "With a paid program to work through, perhaps we can lose the label of 'interfering do-gooders.' School officials and teachers might come to realize that Norwesco is here to help and not hinder. This has been one of our biggest problems."

Norwesco hopes to eventually be recognized as the coordinator for all "poverty projects" in Northwest Cook County, linking together private organizations, local governments and citizen groups in a total effort to combat the problem of health, housing, job training and education.

As set up the project would get under way some time this spring with various local public and non-profit agencies providing tutoring, cultural enrichment and parent involvement programs to families of elementary age children who need basic academic assistance.

"The plight of the poor in the Northwest is particularly critical," said William Urbanek, Norwesco's education committee chairman and principal of District 54's Lakeview School. "This is a middle class suburban area and the educational standards are naturally high. Without special education these kids are academically lost and hopelessly discouraged."

ACCORDING to Urbanek the children will normally be tutored during the school day or after school. If the tutoring is after school hours, then the tutor transports the child home. "The tutor is encouraged to develop a personal acquaintance with the family with hopes of involving them in the effort," he said.

Cay Santiago, of Des Plaines, Norwesco's chairman for community relations, urged that the poor themselves be allowed more participation in planning the program.

"After all this is for them. I think we should find out how they fit in. I'm not being critical but let's not get caught up in the traditional way, of considering these people merely as recipients of service. We must show them how they belong in the community.

"In addition to the tutoring aspect, the program has the potential to help financially," he continued. "Perhaps some of these poor people can be hired as teachers aids, as custodians and as interpreters."

THE PROJECT coordinator would also serve as coordinator for the group's proposed Head Start program. "It is felt that both these programs go hand in hand," said Urbanek. "Head Start prepares a child for kindergarten so he can compete with children with normal background. The tutor project picks up the child when he is in school."

In addition the program calls for hiring a nurse, a psychological consultant and a social worker on a short-term basis.

Norwesco hopes to be able to solicit nearly 100 volunteer tutors from local organizations and civic groups.

A special meeting to review the proposed program before the public will be held Feb. 9.

Similar Activities, Classes For FV's Lampert Twins

(Twins lead interesting lives, particularly teen-age twins. Here is the second and final installment of High School Highlights' spotlight on spotlight on twins. Featured are twins from Forest View High School and Sacred Heart of Mary High School.)

BY JUDY ARNOLD

Have you ever thought you're seeing double?

Take a walk down the halls of Forest View High School and you may get that feeling. Among almost 2,900 students, there are over 25 sets of twins attending this school.

AMONG THE most active are seniors Bruce and Brian Lampert, sons of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lampert, 415 Westmere, Des Plaines. Both boys are varsity wrestlers in the 165-pound weight division.

Bruce, the "oldest", and Brian also go out for tennis and football. Both boys have lettered and are members of Forest View's Lettermen Club. Brian is also a member of Student Council.

The Lampert boys have the same courses this year, which include botany, zoology, advanced algebra, sociology and English.

Brian commented that they wish to attend the same college, probably Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa.

Bruce and Brian are also active in Young Life. They serve as vice-presidents of this Christian youth organization.

PAT AND Barb Mesics are another set of twins attending Forest View. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mesics of 3208 Oriole Lane in Rolling Meadows.

Barb works at Stuarts while Pat is an employe of Mary Anns, both in Randhurst Shopping Center. Although both girls hold part-time jobs, they participate in other activities.

Their activities include Latin Club (freshman year), GRA and Pep Club. They are also honor students and have worked on class board.

Pat is planning on attending Northern Illinois University, where she will study merchandising. Barb, too, will attend Northern.

SACRED HEART OF MARY HIGH SCHOOL

BY ELIZABETH MYERS

Sacred Heart of Mary High School has two sets of twins and one member of a set of triplets. Identical twins are Sue and Joyce Guilfoil, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Guifoil, 633 S. Burton, Arlington Heights, who enjoy being look-alikes.

Joyce and Sue exhibit their individuality by wearing different clothes and hairstyles. These sophomores have distinct personalities but still share many friends and interests.

One could never tell that juniors Maryanne and Anne De Frier, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Frier, 850 Navajo Drive in Carpentersville, are twins. Anne and Maryanne laughingly agree that "though we are twins, we don't share the same interests."

Anne is very sportsminded, while Maryanne's interests lie in home economics.

"BEING ONE of three has its advantages," says Mary Peterhans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peterhans, 507 N. Maple Lane in Prospect Heights.

Mary has many opportunities to meet new friends through her two brothers, Greg and Louis, who attend St. Viator High School. Naturally Mary's interests differ from those of her brothers, but she enjoys skiing and swimming with them.

Mary's hobbies also include reading and basketball. (Y

New Choir Is Formed At Fenton

A new choral group the Madrigal choir, has been formed from Fenton High School's A Capella choir, according to James Skomer, choral director. The new choir will concentrate on music from the pre-Renaissance period.

"The Madrigal choir adds another facet to our total music program," Skomer explained. "Music from this period is often overlooked for the more popular selections.

"Our program is designed to take the students through a four-year experience in vocal groups and exposure to as many different types of musical stylings and interpretations as possible."

Altos are Judy Hoch, Victoria Iwanow, Carol Krivanek, Diana Lambert, Cynthia Lauridsen, and Sandra Leveen.

Tenors are Harry Adams, Peter Bliznick, George Stock and Jack Williams. Basses include James Conard, Bruce Croxen, Drew Gaskill, Eugene Dotulski and Alan Rothmeeler.

Wheeling Team Wins Top Speech Trophies

BY MARYANN KEENEY AND CONNIE ANDREW

Three members of the Wheeling High School speech team, coached by R. A. Panagos, won first place trophies at a speech meet at Homewood-Flossmoor High School on January 8.

Melinda Crabbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Crabbe, 504 E. Knob Hill, Arlington Heights, won a first place trophy in serious reading. Her selection was taken from "The Queen and the Rebels" by Ugo Betti. The reading concerned a small town caught up in a rebellion.

Karen King, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William King, 1706 Hickory Ave., Prospect Heights, took first place in original oration. Her speech topic was a new slant on conformity. She stated that conformity can't be applied to a complex society as ours.

IN ORIGINAL monologue, Bob Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, 116 Rosetree Lane, Prospect Heights, also won a first place. His monologue was about a football coach and his losing team at half-time.

Others at the tournament were Jim Towery, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Towery, 1238 Sarasota Dr., Wheeling, in extemporaneous speaking; Carol Nekimken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elic Nekimken, 137 Meadowbrook, Wheeling, in oratorical declamation; and Sue Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Summers, 204 Landford, Prospect Heights.

These six will represent W.H.S. at the district level of the state tournament on Saturday, March 12, at Lake Forest High School, Lake Forest.

Melinda and Karen will also enter two other categories at this contest; Melinda in verse reading and Karen in prose reading. (10Y

Arlington Seniors Rate Waara Praise

(High School Highlights has asked the principals of our area high schools to comment on the achievements of their respective senior classes as they begin their second and last semester in high school. Following are the comments of Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, in an interview with Highlights correspondent Becky Hollmeyer.)

For 511 Arlington High School students, the second semester of the school year, 1965-1966 will be their last in high school.

These 511 students will graduate in June and will cease to be a unit, as the class of 1966 splits and goes its separate ways.

Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, proudly cites the senior class as the most "unusual class in many respects" that has ever walked in Arlington's hallowed halls. He gives the following reasons for his optimism about the class.

Seven valedictorians will graduate in 1966, if their grades continue to meet the standards they have set in previous years. This number of straight "A" students is the most that any class has ever been graced with.

THE OVERALL grade average of the class is 3.3, which is a point or so above the normal average of an Arlington class.

Parallel to this high scholastic average are the number of scholarship semi-finalists that the class of 1966 boasts. Twelve seniors are National Merit Semi-finalists, while 49 are Illinois State Scholarship semi-finalists.

Other honors in speech, debate, athletics, science, and mathematics are widely received by Arlington seniors. One senior traveled to Spain as an American Field Service foreign exchange student.

THE STUDENT Council is more active this year under the leadership of the class of 1966. They are more involved in the relationship between the student body, the council, and the faculty, and the relationship between the community and the school.

"The class is continuing to lead the school and to follow the many fine things previous classes have accomplished. They are continuing to maintain the standards of Arlington High School," Waara concluded." (10Y

Gaskill Winner Of Essay Contest

By VICKY DeLUDE

William Drew Gaskill, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Gaskill of 181 May St., Bensenville, recently won the essay contest sponsored by Signal, Fenton High School's student paper.

The topic of the essay concerned the February 5 referendum; its purpose was to give the students a chance to express their views.

For his work, Drew received $10 and had his article published in the January 21 edition of Signal.

The following is his essay titled "Why I Think the Referendum Will Pass."

We hear so much of the "American Dream" and its influence on our society that it has prompted me to ask myself, "Just what is the American Dream?" It isn't civil rights, equality, or freedom, because these are not unique to the American way of life.

IT IS RATHER the desire of every parent to see his own child in an intellectual and cultural level higher than his own. In Europe and in the Eastern nations, it is an insult to the father if the son even considers rising above his father's station. In America, the parents labor and sacrifice so that the child might better himself.

Parents have long supported public education financially and by their interest. This is the exalting factor of American education — the concern of the public and its willingness to support it financially.

Booster Club Plans Fund Raising Dance

Batman A Go Go is the name of the fund-raising dance to be co-sponsored by the Arlington High School student newspaper, Boosters's Club and the "A" Club on February 12. It will be held in the boys gym of the school from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Feature attraction of the evening will be "The Males," a combo which has appeared in several area clubs including The Cellar. One of the most popular student combos, "The Questions" (formerly the Gratzmen) will also participate.

AIM OF THE dance is to help raise funds for the school's athletic program for items not provided by regular school funds. In the past the Boosters have paid for a special telephone on which athletes may call home free and have subsidized the pep bus to away games.

The "A" Club is a service organization made up of letter winners, and the Booster's Club is a parent group.

Seek $123,000 for Project To Tutor Ghildren of Poor

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

No startling predictions on what Arlington Heights will look like in 10 years were made by a three-member panel of experts sponsored by the Community Council Monday.

But each offered specific comments on patterns they hope develop, and they seemed in general agreement:

1) Downtown Arlington Heights must be revitalized.

2) A "balanced" community of residences and apartments—mostly luxury class—should be maintained.

3) Light industry, office and research facilities must be attracted to the village to increase the tax base.

Panel members included Paddock Publications Executive Editor Charles E. Hayes; Robert Cagaan, Wheeling Township auditor and director of property development for F-B-K Realtors, and Village Pres. John G. Woods.

NONE OF THE panelists offered a word picture of the Arlington Heights of 1976. All indicated a substantial start towards development of a sound community has been made.

About 35 persons attended the session held at Miner Junior High School.

Noting the industrial areas being developed at the far north and south ends of the village, Cagaan said light industry "certainly can help to lighten the load on our tax base and therefore help our small property owners." He also called for additional "luxury" class apartments because, "they yield a larger tax dollar, with less burden on the schools, and there is a need for them by people whose children are in college and who want to live in Arlington Heights."

Hayes noted that in his 12 years with Paddock Publications there has been "continuing debate" on apartments and industry." There was early antipathy to both, he said, but balanced apartment growth and light industry appear to be accepted now.

HE SUGGESTED the R5 high rise apartment zoning "ring" around the downtown area "makes sense" and cautioned that apartment development elsewhere in the village should not intrude into the character of residential neighborhoods.

Woods said the "consensus" on the desirability of light industry "was arrived at late," when the village had no room for it and room had to be found through annexations. Competition for industry is keener now that industrial land is available in Arlington Heights, he noted.

But he added, "We have interested several developers and built up considerable momentum."

Depression of the railway tracks will be "an extremely long range and difficult project," Woods said. He predicted a "substantial" revitalization of the downtown area by 1976, whether or not the tracks have been depressed by then.

CALLING downtown renewal "a desperate need" that has not "penetrated to the average citizen," Hayes said any tax relief for Elementary School District 25 will have to come from downtown investments. The new industrial lands lie in other school districts.

Citing a survey by Tec Search municipal planners, Hayes said 67 per cent of the shoppers in the central business district live within a two-mile radius and 90 per cent live within a four-mile radius of downtown. No other community was hit harder by the opening of Randhurst than Arlington Heights, Hayes said, again pointing to the study.

He urged community leadership outside the village government in downtown renewal.

THE CITY FORM of government had no adherents on the panel. Most outspoken opponent was President Woods. He said an aldermanic form of government would result in a large unwieldy council.

Aldermen, he asserted, would hold the interests of a single ward foremost, while the present at-large election of trustees permits them to consider the broad village interests.

Population 50,000 by '67: Woods

Based on present growth estimates, Arlington Heights should reach the 50,000 population mark in 1967, Village Pres. John G. Woods told a board committee-of-the-whole Tuesday.

He said the village should then plan on holding its next census in late summer, 1967, while college students are still home to be counted.

For the village, the main advantage of growing up to the 50,000 class will be eligibility for an increased allowance of $5 per head in state motor fuel funds.

ALSO, ONCE THE village reaches 50,000, it will no longer have to elect trustees to four year terms on a staggered basis every two years. They can all be elected to four year terms at the same time, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said.

After sifting through state statutes, Siegel found that the only other benefit accompanying higher status is the right to hire a police matron. He could not explain why.

There will be no changes on civil service or police and fire pension funds, said Siegel. What statutes there are apply only to cities over 50,000, not villages.

At the recent shareholders meeting of the Arlington Heights National Bank, three advancements in position were made among the officers and one new office was created.

Florence Brehm, who has been with the bank since 1941, was advanced from assistant vice president to vice president, and Wayne A. Walter, a more recent addition to the bank's staff who is in charge of installment loans, was advanced from assistant cashier to vice president.

In addition, Miss Lillian Plass, who has been with the bank since 1937, was advanced from assistant cashier to assistant vice president, and Mrs. Clara Germer, employed in the installment loan department, was made an assistant cashier.

THIS MAKES the full slate of officers as follows:

J. T. Dodds, Jr., chairman of the board; Arthur H. Franzen, president; Norman Dewey, vice president and cashier; Douglas W. Dodds, executive vice president; Florence C. Brehm, vice president; Carl H. Ewert, vice president; Wayne A. Walter, vice president; Lillian Plass, assistant vice president, and Clara Germer, assistant cashier.

It was reported to the shareholders that the bank had attained a new high in total assets in 1965 as well as in earnings, and that the management had been able to maintain a liquid position of 77 per cent in cash and U.S. Government obligations. (A

Open House at Faith Church

Faith Lutheran Church of Arlington Heights will hold an open house Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. The church is located at 431 S. Arlington Heights Road.

The open house will give residents of the area an opportunity to inspect the new church and facilities dedicated last Sunday.

Prof. Theodore A. Lams, chairman of the department of church music at Northwestern University, Evanston, will present an organ recital during the open house. Edwin Kirchhoff and Fred Troyke also will serve as guest organists. The 24 rank Moeller organ was dedicated in December, 1960.

IN ADDITION, there will be special music by a group of young people from Arlington High School.

The officers of the congregation and members of the building committee will lead guided tours. They will explain the iconography in the new stained and faceted glass windows. Vistors will have the opportunity to ask questions concerning other symbolism presented in the new church which expresses modern trends in architecture.

Members of the Walther League, youth organization of the congregation, will serve refreshments.

Approximately 1,200 people attended the three dedication services.

Dr. Oswald C. Hoffmann, radio speaker on the Lutheran Hour, preached at the morning service of dedication. Dr. Hoffmann said, "The members of the church today must be missioned-minded Christians in the spirit of the Apostle Paul and his companion Barnabas." The symbols of these two men are represented in the new windows of the church.

DR. ADALBERT R. Kretzmann, liturgical art consultant to the congregation, preached at the afternoon dedicatory choral vespers. Dr. Kretzmann spoke of the rediscovery in recent years of the rich heritage God has given the church in the arts.

The Rev. Wesley H. Wilkie, instructor at Concordia College, River Forest, was the preacher at the 8 a.m. service. Because of the inteense cold the cermony of acceptance was held inside, at the entrance of the building.

Following the afternoon service, the Faith Ladies Society served a buffet supper to the 400 members, visiting clergy and guests present at the occasion. (A

Girl Scouts to Get Awards from Church

The first two God and Community awards presented to scout members of the Disciples of Christ denomination in the northwest suburban area will be given to two Arlington Heights girls in services Sunday at the Christian Church of Arlington Heights.

They are Joan Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barker H. Davis, 318 N. Drury Lane, and Debra Horan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Horan, 1006 W. Frontenac Drive.

The presentations will be made by the Rev. William R. Robertson, pastor of the church.

THE GIRLS were started on the year-long project which won them the award a year ago by the then Pastor Don L. Jones. He mapped out an intensive study program covering the Bible, Biblical characters, history of the Disciples of Christ denomination and past and present problems of the church. They were tested periodically on their progress.

Also included in the program were several projects: the scouts wrote and presented an entire worship service last July at Camp Norwesco, Wis.

During the year they collected, mostly from church members and friends, 3,400 General Mills coupons for the Bonaparte School for mentally retarded in Bensenville. The school will use the coupons as partial payment for a small bus.

MISS HORAN, as another project, helps with physical therapy for a handicapped neighborhood child. And Miss Davis is a junior aide at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, helping to teach swimming to handicapped youngsters.

Both girls come from active scouting families. All four parents are former scouts and scout leaders. Miss Davis, a seventh grader at Miner Junior High, is a member of Troop 294. Miss Horan, in seventh grade at Thomas Junior High, belongs to Troop 899. (A

The Pioneer Hawks of Arlington Heights have ended the regular Midget Hockey League in first place with a 6-3-0 record.

The Braves and Warriors tied for runner-up award with identical 4-4-1 showings. The Redskins were cellar dwellers with a 3-6-0.

The Midget Stanley Cup challenge round will be held this week with the Warriors and Braves meeting in a sudden death semi-final and the winner facing the Hawks in the final best of three series.

The league awards were named at the Pioneer Fieldhouse Monday night. Winners were Top Scorer: Chuck Kenney (Redskins); Top Goalie: John Reitmeyer (Hawks); Top Defenseman: Bob Reno (Redskins); Most Valuable Player: Glen Able (Warriors); All- Star Team—Reitmeyer, Reno, Able, Sayre, Kenney, and Harth.

The Arlington Midget All Stars from Pioneer and Hasbrook are still looking for their first tourney win with losses of 6-0 to Prospect and 8-0 to Park Ridge. The team faces Rolling Meadows and Morton Grove in weekend action.

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

No startling predictions on what Arlington Heights will look like in 10 years were made by a three-member panel of experts sponsored by the Community Council Monday.

But each offered specific comments on patterns they hope develop, and they seemed in general agreement:

1) Downtown Arlington Heights must be revitalized.

2) A "balanced" community of residences and apartments—mostly luxury class—should be maintained.

3) Light industry, office and research facilities must be attracted to the village to increase the tax base.

Panel members included Paddock Publications Executive Editor Charles E. Hayes; Robert Cagaan, Wheeling Township auditor and director of property development for F-B-K Realtors, and Village Pres. John G. Woods.

NONE OF THE panelists offered a word picture of the Arlington Heights of 1976. All indicated a substantial start towards development of a sound community has been made.

About 35 persons attended the session held at Miner Junior High School.

Noting the industrial areas being developed at the far north and south ends of the village, Cagaan said light industry "certainly can help to lighten the load on our tax base and therefore help our small property owners." He also called for additional "luxury" class apartments because, "they yield a larger tax dollar, with less burden on the schools, and there is a need for them by people whose children are in college and who want to live in Arlington Heights."

Hayes noted that in his 12 years with Paddock Publications there has been "continuing debate" on apartments and industry." There was early antipathy to both, he said, but balanced apartment growth and light industry appear to be accepted now.

HE SUGGESTED the R5 high rise apartment zoning "ring" around the downtown area "makes sense" and cautioned that apartment development elsewhere in the village should not intrude into the character of residential neighborhoods.

Woods said the "consensus" on the desirability of light industry "was arrived at late," when the village had no room for it and room had to be found through annexations. Competition for industry is keener now that industrial land is available in Arlington Heights, he noted.

But he added, "We have interested several developers and built up considerable momentum."

Depression of the railway tracks will be "an extremely long range and difficult project," Woods said. He predicted a "substantial" reviltalization of the downtown area by 1976, whether or not the tracks have been depressed by then.

CALLING downtown renewal "a desperate need" that has not "penetrated to the average citizen," Hayes said any tax relief for Elementary School District 25 will have to come from downtown investments. The new industrial lands lie in other school districts.

Citing a survey by Tec Search municipal planners, Hayes said 67 per cent of the shoppers in the central business district live within a two-mile radius and 90 per cent live within a four-mile radius of downtown. No other community was hit harder by the opening of Randhurst than Arlington Heights, Hayes said, again pointing to the study.

He urged community leadership outside the village government in downtown renewal.

THE CITY FORM of government had no adherents on the panel. Most outspoken opponent was President Woods. He said an aldermanic form of government would result in a large unwieldy council.

Aldermen, he asserted, would hold the interests of a single ward foremost, while the present at-large election of trustees permits them to consider the broad village interests.

Population 50,000 by '67: Woods

Based on present growth estimates, Arlington Heights should reach the 50,000 population mark in 1967, Village Pres. John G. Woods told a board committee-of-the-whole Tuesday.

He said the village should then plan on holding its next census in late summer, 1967, while college students are still home to be counted.

For the village, the main advantage of growing up to the 50,000 class will be eligibility for an increased allowance of $5 per head in state motor fuel funds.

ALSO, ONCE THE village reaches 50,000, it will no longer have to elect trustees to four year terms on a staggered basis every two years. They can all be elected to four year terms at the same time, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said.

After sifting through state statutes, Siegel found that the only other benefit accompanying higher status is the right to hire a police matron. He could not explain why.

There will be no changes on civil service or police and fire pension funds, said Siegel. What statutes there are apply only to cities over 50,000, not villages.

Massive Effort Needed Now

Salt Creek Flooding: A Story of Frustration

by Pat Hensel
Staff Writer

In 1958, the State of Illinois had wonderful plans for the Salt Creek basin in Cook and DuPage Counties.

A massive study was published by the state division of waterways.

It contained a detailed plan for flood control and drainage development along the entire length of the creek.

Then people came along and began to buy and sell land, and build homes and industrial firms in the flood plains bordering the waterway.

The more astute builders knew enough to raise the level of the land on which they were building.

Pretty soon, in some areas, there was no place for flood waters to go except into basements of the folks on the lower land.

Some of the flood water rushed into sewer mains, where it would overflow sewer treatment plants and overtax the treatment systems.

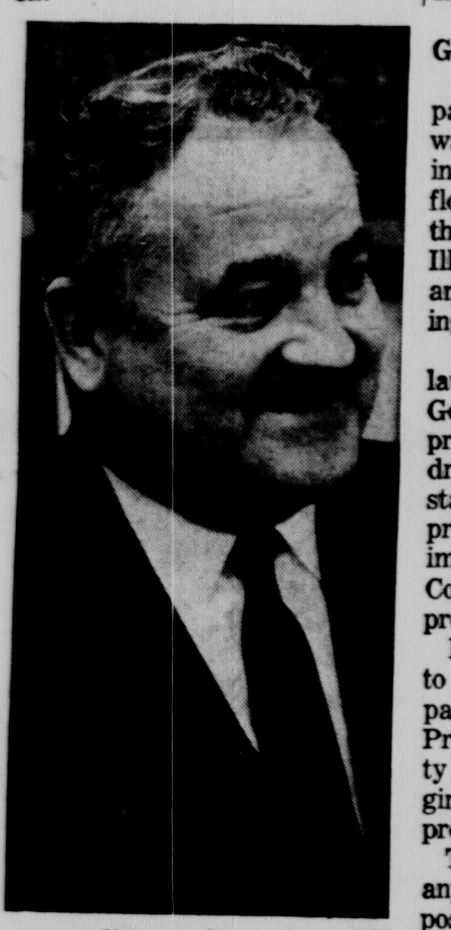
Raw sewage would be returned to the creek after the flooding subsided.

EVERY TIME the state legislature appropriated funds to acquire land for an orderly flood control and drainage development program, a new subdivision or industrial firm would spring up in the very spot needed to proceed with the state program.

Repeated efforts to enlist local municipal or county support in keeping basin land clear, failed.

Now, it may be that the whole drastic situation will fall into the hands of the federal government.

The people just wouldn't listen.



According to State Rep. William Redmond, "Water and transportation are the two greatest problems facing this country.

"This Salt Creek thing was just too big for the county, and even too big for the state to handle.

"It looks now like it will have to be an interstate project.

"After all, what happens in Salt Creek affects the Des Plaines River (into which the creek empties), the Illinois River, the Mississippi River, and, finally, the Gulf of Mexico.

"It affects all the states bordering the Mississippi River—from Minnesota on the north to Louisiana on the south."

REDMOND ADMITTED to being somewhat facetious in pointing an accusing finger just at Salt Creek. But, he warned, every little creek in the midwest added its bit to the tragic flooding of the Mississippi last year.

For this reason, he continued, there might be a good deal of justification for the federal government entering the picture.

Redmond's interest in Chicago-area waterways initiated much of the legislation enacted over the years to solve Salt Creek's problems.

The basin is an average of five miles wide from just north of the Cook-Lake County line to the creek's entry into the Des Plaines River near Brookfield in south Cook County.

The width of the basin is determined largely by the many tributaries, most of which s stretch to the west. The main waterway runs roughly north and south, about midway between Routes 53 and 83, until it cuts sharply to the east near Hinsdale.

IN 1961, Redmond wrote to Gov. Otto Kerner:

"In the fall of 1957, municipal officials in the Salt Creek watershed, becoming increasingly alarmed at the frequent flooding of Salt Creek, enlisted the cooperation of the State of Illinois, Division of Waterways, and of the legislators representing the area concerned.

"As a direct consequence, a law was enacted in the 71st General Assembly. . .which appropriated $1,200,000 and addressed itself to the first three stages of the necessary improvement. This section of the improvement passed through Cook County Forest Preserve property."

Redmond went on to explain to the Governor how, after the passage of the bill, the Forest Preserve District of Cook County undertook an independent engineering study of the flood problems of the creek.

The study did not provide for any channel changes, but proposed the construction of a reservoir just north of the Cook DuPage County line, in Busse Woods Forest Preserve.

Redmond urged the Governor to consider further appropriations to construct a flood control reservoir as proposed by the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

THAT WAS the year of the 72nd General Assembly—a year of deep political changes throughout the state and the nation.

Both the federal and the state administrations had changed from Republican to Democratic hands. There was a great deal of indecision as to how federal and state monies ought to be spent.

No one really could get too worried about Salt Creek.

Meanwhile, the creek began to flood more during wet seasons, and pollution became obnoxious in dry seasons.

In 1963, during the 73rd General Assembly, Redmond renewed his efforts with far more vigor than ever before.

Municipalities along the way had begun to take matters into their own hands. Village officials were fighting over who was dumping what into the waterway.

SALT CREEK no longer was a nuisance. It was a hazard.

Largely through Redmond's efforts, the state legislature okayed an appropriation of $250,000 to acquire right-of-way for making improvements in Salt Creek on the DuPage County side.

In a letter to the Governor, dated July 3, 1963, he advised Kerner to approve the measure—even if funds had to be doled out piecemeal.

He said charges were being made that any such appropriation for a Republican county would be vetoed.

Kerner agreed that this would not be good for his public image.

Approximately one-third of the creek's drainage area is in Cook County. Branches extend to serve Arlington Heights, Palatine, Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows.

So, Redmond also asked for enough money to construct a retention basin in Busse Woods. The Cook County forest preserve district lobbied successfully to kill it.

Commissioners couldn't figure out how to get rid of two million yards of dirt.

BY THE TIME the hassle was over, the money appropriated in the 73rd General Assembly for the DuPage section didn't go very far.

The Salt Creek basin had become a popular spot for builders. Right-of-way acquistion in some areas had become improbable, if not financially impossible.

A frustrated letter must have gone to Kerner from Redmond in August, 1964, imploring further top-level action on Salt Creek.

The Governor replied:

"I have asked Francis Lorenz, Director of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, to meet with you to develop more adequate coordination of our flood control procedure in DuPage County.

"I am sure we are all in agreement that while funds are certainly not being wasted under present conditions, it is more than probable that a better use of limited state monies will develop from adequate coordination of both the planning and construction work."

The letter was addressed to "Dear Bill" and signed "Sincerely, Otto."

THERE RESULTED real action in the 74th Illinois General Assembly in 1965.

The legislature passed an appropriation of $1.5 million for Salt Creek improvements in DuPage County. In December, Kerner released funds as needed to widen the creek bed and develop flood plains downstream from Addison.

It was the first time Salt Creek improvements were provided for on an orderly basis. Redmond was author and sponsor of the legislation.

Meanwhile, legislators in North Cook County grew impatient with the federal application for improvements to Salt Creek's watershed.

State Sen. John A. Graham of Barrington and Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights sponsored bills in their respective houses, asking $520,000 for widening and deepening Salt Creek and enlarging culverts in Northwest Cook. The work would not have included the Busse Woods retention lake.

The bills were vetoed by the Governor.

KERNER FOLLOWED his veto in July with approval of the $5 million federal application for the Salt Creek Watershed project. Now it must be approved in Washington by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The proposed improvements would involve some 72,960 acres from one end of Salt Creek to the other. It would overlap, to some extent, the $1.5 million appropriation approved for the DuPage section last year.

As everyone who lives near Salt Creek is fully aware, flooding is not the only problem on the waterway.

Any resemblance to a waterway during dry spells is strictly a figure of speech. Then, the only flow through the creek bed is effluent discharged from sewage treatment plants.

Both Redmond and the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission are inclined to see it more as a sewage treatment trough to the Des Plaines River than as a conservation or recreation area.

THIS POINT of view was thrust upon them by the continuing urbanization of the basin.

To this end, the DuPage County public works department is negotiating for sewer plant sites along the creek, following in the footsteps of similar proposals made by Cook County on the north.

Northwest Cook hasn't given up the idea of a retention basin, of course. Negotiations are under way to try to sell the fill dug from the ground to the state or federal highway departments for use in raising highway levels.

Redmond is convinced "it's better to hold water back upstream than collect it downstream."

THE SALT Creek Watershed Application, subject to federal action under Public Law 566, was sponsored in 1964 by the Cook County Forest Preserve District, the DuPage County Forest Preserve District, the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Kane-DuPage Soil and Water Conservation District.

As with most public laws these days, the application will not be subject to final action until it is proved the sponsoring groups have and will continue to work with local governing bodies.

The rigmarole continues until everyone has had his say, until alternate proposals are studied, and until someone finally says one or another plan is best for the most.

PROBABLY THE greatest good that will be accomplished is that municipalities and other governing bodies along the waterway will be forced to adopt ordinances limiting or banning new construction on flood plains.

Another benefit probably will be the eventual dictum that certain right-of-way on both sides of any waterway must be acquired and maintained in its natural condition.

As Redmond puts it, "When nature's flood plains are filled in and built upon, nature is deprived of her storage facilities.

"When this happens, it's up to us to provide an alternate man-made reservoir to do nature's work." (A15

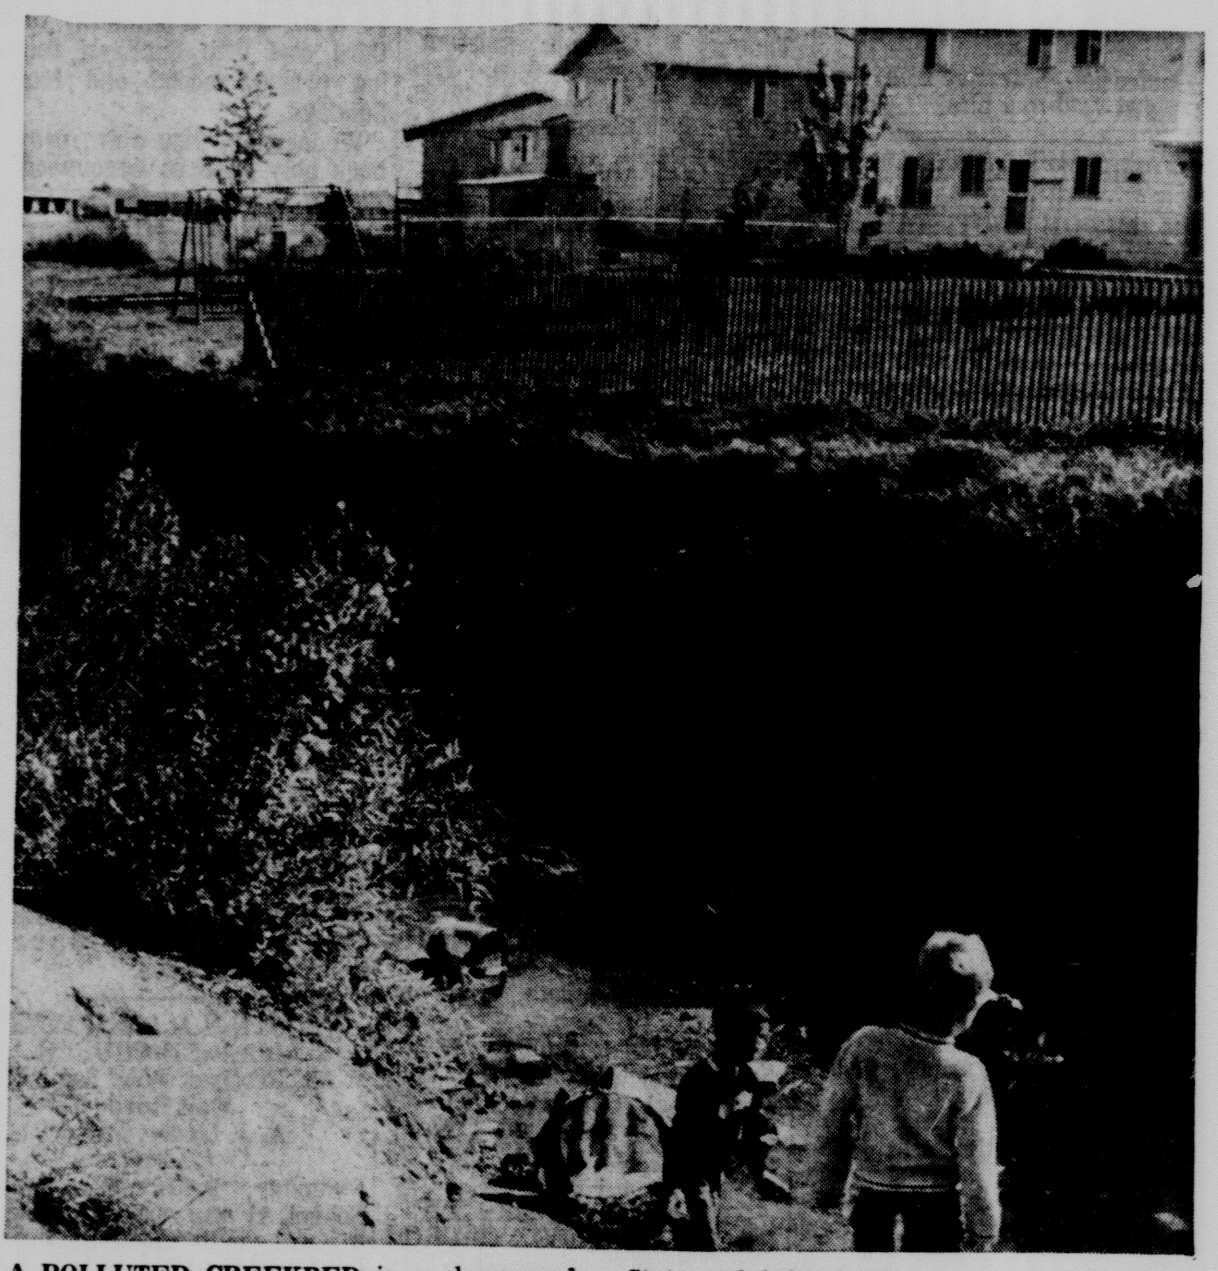
(A15



A POLLUTED CREEKBED is a playground for busy Palatine youngsters during summer's dry spells. The clutter in Salt Creek last year, as every year, creates a breeding place for bacteria, vermin and mosquitoes, State and federal officials would like a comprehensive plan for the creek, so that flood waters can be stored during wet weather, and a steady stream can be released through the creekbed during dry weather.

Booming Palwaukee Airport Counts 800 Daily Flights

by Nancy Anderson
Staff Writer

One of George Priester's favorite stories may well be about the time he suggested to the president of the Chicago and North Western that the railroad should buy an airplane.

Priester since 1953 has been owner of Palwaukee Airport, at Milwaukee Avenue and Palatine Road south of Wheeling. But prior to that, he worked for the Chicago and North Western.

He joined the railroad in 1923; he started flying in 1927. And over the years he noticed where this "new-fangled" challenge to the railroad's command of the transportation world might in fact be of benefit.

"The company had hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of equipment stored here in Chicago," Priester recalls. "They'd have a train stalled because of a mechanical problem, and they'd have to send back and have a part sent out. This could take hours — and meanwhile the train, and valuable freight, just sat there. Besides, they'd have all this money invested in parts, and better parts could have been invented while they were sitting there waiting to be used."

SO HE WROTE a letter to the president of the railway. "I offered to fly free for them for one year, to prove that an airplane could move things faster and save them money. The latest parts could be picked up, and the necessary mechanics could go along as well."

But, he says, "I never heard from him — and it was only about two years ago that the North Western finally got an airplane, a turboprop."

Eventual purchase of that airplane by the railway illustrates the attitude taken by more and more businesses over the past few years: "expensive" airplanes can be economical.

The savings in time is an obvious factor. "Many companies just can't do without their own planes," Priester says. Corporate aircraft cut down time-consuming travel by car, train or even commercial airliners, which must meet regular schedules at regular stops. With its own plane, a company can send its men at almost any time from a nearby small airport to any of the countless other small airports across the country, right at the point of destination.

PRIVATE AIR travel provides greatest utilization of employes' time. "We hear all the time that there aren't enough engineers, chemists, other specialists to go around," Priester points out. "With their own planes, companies can keep moving these men around, to completely utilize their time and services."

As an example, he cites Pioneer Astro Industries, Inc., a Chicago firm with a plane based at Palwaukee. The company officials didn't really like air planes, Priester says, "but it's an engineering firm, dealing in space contracts. To meet the competition, it had to be able to move its people quickly from one place to another."

Corporate aircraft also provide an added enticement for top personnel, he says.

"You get up in the individual tax bracket, and even the really good men, after taxes, don't clear more than $100,000. The best in transportation is an attraction for them."

TAXES MAY also affect a company's decision to purchase a plane.

According to Priester, "A company that can afford an airplane is usually in a tax bracket where the government, in effect, subsidizes the purchase — it's a tax write-off."

For the past few years, Priester has been hoping for his own tax write-off, a federal control tower to govern traffic at Palwaukee, second in the Chicago area only to O'Hare in the volume of daily traffic.

When he took over the airport, it consisted of 109 acres, with no pavement or blacktop, and no permanent lights. Now it takes in 250 acres, with five surfaced runways, and at the last official count averaged about 800 take-offs or landings per day, Priester says.

A GOOD SHARE of the traffic comes from the corporate aircraft based at the field, some 200 in number. These include two executive jets; King Korn Stamps and American Photo Copy both have eight-seaters. Four more jets are on order.

The majority of the other company planes are five-seaters, Priester said. "However, Continental Coffee has a D-C 3, which seats 21 to 28 people, and they're talking about going to a 52-seat Convair."

Among the other firms with planes based at Palwaukee, giving some idea of the variety of companies using them, are American Packing Co., McDonald's, Gus K. Neuberg (builder of the Chicago Civic Center), Blackhawk Plumbing and Heating, Swift and Co.

Estimates Priester, about one-third of the firms with their own planes hire pilots for each trip; another third have employes who fly in addition to other jobs; and a third have their own full-time pilots.

HE ATTRIBUTES much of Palwaukee's success with corporate flying to its location.

"Most of the executives in Chicago live on the north and northwest side. It's most convenient for them to fly from Palwaukee," he says.

"Most of the area around Midway in Chicago is industrial, not residential. There are even a lot of companies with their planes coming out of Midway to pick up their people here," he says, noting Civil Air Patrol [illegible] ternational Mining, for example.

The federal government also has some influence here. "The growing number of corporate planes run into problems with safety, approach speeds, and time at municipal airports, with regularly scheduled flights," Priester explains. Because of this, the government has been encouraging companies to move their planes to private fields such as Palwaukee. (A15

Federal School Aid Critic Cheered by Elk Grove GOP

Dr. David Hanna, a last minute addition to the program, received a prolonged ovation from Elk Grove Regular Republican Organization members Monday for his condenmnation of federal aid to schools.

Hanna, "lame duck" president of the Mount Prospect Elementary School Board, had particularly harsh words for Public Law 89-10, the elementary education act passed at the last session of Congress.

He was one of four speakers appearing at the Mount Prospect Country Club to discuss the federal aid to education issue. The others were Arthur F. Aronson, High School District 214 school board president; William F. Griffith, a District 214 board member, and John Haas, president of the junior college board.

ELK GROVE GOP club members also heard Carl Hansen, township committeeman, give an account of activities at the last weekend's state nominating convention in Springfield.

Hansen called the convention "one of the finest displays of GOP unity and spirit that I've seen," and predicted that the real test of the convention system—first in the state in 50 or 60 years—would come in 1968 when the Republicans will have to nominate candidates for both Senator and governor.

Griffith, too, spoke against federal aid to schools, charging such programs would lead to federal control as well. He quoted at length from an article by Mrs. Elaine Exton, National Association of School Boards writer who took the anti-federal aid side here last fall in a public forum sponsored by the high school board.

Perhaps because both their boards have referenda pending, Aronson and Haas—asked to represent the pro-federal aid opinion—took what seemed to observers to be a deliberately unprovocative approach to the issue of federal aid.

HAAS, IN his presentation, read a long list of federal programs available to junior college districts—many of which, he said, had not even been discussed by his board.

Haas said, "We understand that the State Board of Higher Education is contemplating a regulation that we as a junior college be required to apply for federal funds first," in order to be eligible for state aid. He said the regulation had not been adopted, and that he was not sure whether it would be, but that there would probably be objections from some of the junior college board members if it were.

Aronson told the group, "I have a feeling that I'm supposed to be talking in favor of federal aid and I don't know that I'm in favor of it. I'm against federal aid personally. I'm scared to death of controls that might come with it."

He has supported his own high school district applications for federal money because, Aronson said, he believes the programs necessary and is "personally convinced" that taxpayers will not stand for the tax increases needed to finance the programs locally.

To replace federal aid received by the high schools last year would have cost the average taxpayer $6.00 in additional property taxes, if the money had been provided locally instead, Aronson stated.

ONE QUESTIONER, Earl Lewis, had scathing remarks for Title III of the elementary education act, a title which District 214 feeder districts will utilize in setting up a materials preparation center, as a demonstration project, in Elk Grove high school.

Lewis said he considered Title III "the most dangerous thing to come out of the last Congress' and asked advice on how to stop the high school from getting the money.

Hanna suggested that concerned citizens go to their elementary boards and urge them not to participate. "District 214 cannot stand alone on this," he said. "They must have the feeder districts, too." (ACM-E

Massive Effort Needed Now

Salt Creek Flooding: A Story of Frustration

by Pat Hensel
Staff Writer

In 1958, the State of Illinois had wonderful plans for the Salt Creek basin in Cook and DuPage Counties.

A massive study was published by the state division of waterways.

It contained a detailed plan for flood control and drainage development along the entire length of the creek.

Then people came along and began to buy and sell land, and build homes and industrial firms in the flood plains bordering the waterway.

The more astute builders knew enough to raise the level of the land on which they were building.

Pretty soon, in some areas, there was no place for flood waters to go except into basements of the folks on the lower land.

Some of the flood water rushed into sewer mains, where it would overflow sewer treatment plants and overtax the [illegible] treatment systems.

Raw sewage would be returned to the creek after the flooding subsided.

EVERY TIME the state legislature appropriated funds to acquire land for an orderly flood control and drainage development program, a new subdivision or industrial firm would spring up in the very spot needed to proceed with the state program.

Repeated efforts to enlist local municipal or county support in keeping basin land clear, failed.

Now, it may be that the whole drastic situation will fall into the hands of the federal government.

The people just wouldn't listen.

According to State Rep. William Redmond, "Water and transportation are the two greatest problems facing this country.

"This Salt Creek thing was just too big for the county, and even too big for the state to handle.

"It looks now like it will have to be an interstate project.

"After all, what happens in Salt Creek affects the Des Plaines River (into which the creek empties), the Illinois River, the Mississippi River, and, finally, the Gulf of Mexico.

"It affects all the states bordering the Mississippi River—from Minnesota on the north to Louisiana on the south."

REDMOND ADMITTED to being somewhat facetious in pointing an accusing finger just at Salt Creek. But, he warned, every little creek in the midwest added its bit to the tragic flooding of the Mississippi last year.

For this reason, he continued, [illegible] there might be a good deal of justification for the federal government entering the picture.

Redmond's interest in Chicago-area waterways initiated much of the legislation enacted over the years to solve Salt Creek's problems.

The basin is an average of five miles wide from just north of the Cook-Lake County line to the creek's entry into the Des Plaines River near Brookfield in south Cook County.

The width of the basin is determined largely by the many tributaries, most of which s stretch to the west. The main waterway runs roughly north and south, about midway between Routes 53 and 83, until it cuts sharply to the east near Hinsdale.

IN 1961, Redmond wrote to Gov. Otto Kerner:

"In the fall of 1957, municipal officials in the Salt Creek watershed, becoming increasingly alarmed at the frequent flooding of Salt Creek, enlisted the cooperation of the State of Illinois, Division of Waterways, and of the legislators representing the area concerned.

"As a direct consequence, a law was enacted in the 71st General Assembly. . .which appropriated $1,200,000 and addressed itself to the first three stages of the necessary improvement. This section of the improvement passed through Cook County Forest Preserve property."

Redmond went on to explain to the Governor how, after the passage of the bill, the Forest Preserve District of Cook County undertook an independent engineering study of the flood problems of the creek.

The study did not provide for any channel changes, but proposed the construction of a reservoir just north of the Cook DuPage County line, in Busse Woods Forest Preserve.

Redmond urged the Governor to consider further appropriations to construct a flood control reservoir as proposed by the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

THAT WAS the year of the 72nd General Assembly—a year of deep political changes throughout the state and the nation.

Both the federal and the state administrations had changed from Republican to Democratic hands. There was a great deal of indecision as to how federal and state monies ought to be spent.

No one really could get too worried about Salt Creek.

Meanwhile, the creek began to flood more during wet seasons, and pollution became obnoxious in dry seasons.

In 1963, during the 73rd General Assembly, Redmond renewed his efforts with far more vigor than ever before.

Municipalities along the way had begun to take matters into their own hands. Village officials were fighting over who was dumping what into the waterway.

SALT CREEK no longer was a nuisance. It was a hazard.

Largely through Redmond's efforts, the state legislature okayed an appropriation of $250,000 to acquire right-of-way for making improvements in Salt Creek on the DuPage County side.

In a letter to the Governor, dated July 3, 1963, he advised Kerner to approve the measure—even if funds had to be doled out piecemeal.

He said charges were being made that any such appropriation for a Republican county would be vetoed.

Kerner agreed that this would not be good for his public image.

Approximately one-third of the creek's drainage area is in Cook County. Branches extend to serve Arlington Heights, Palatine, Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows.

So, Redmond also asked for enough money to construct a retention basin in Busse Woods. The Cook County forest preserve district lobbied successfully to kill it.

Commissioners couldn't figure out how to get rid of two million yards of dirt.

BY THE TIME the hassle was over, the money appropriated in the 73rd General Assembly for the DuPage section didn't go very far.

The Salt Creek basin had become a popular spot for builders. Right-of-way acquistion in some areas had become improbable, if not financially impossible.

A frustrated letter must have gone to Kerner from Redmond in August, 1964, imploring further top-level action on Salt Creek.

The Governor replied:

"I have asked Francis Lorenz, Director of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, to meet with you to develop more adequate coordination of our flood control procedure in DuPage County.

"I am sure we are all in agreement that while funds are certainly not being wasted under present conditions, it is more than probable that a better use of limited state monies will develop from adequate coordination of both the planning and construction work."

The letter was addressed to "Dear Bill" and signed "Sincerely, Otto."

THERE RESULTED real action in the 74th Illinois General Assembly in 1965.

The legislature passed an appropriation of $1.5 million for Salt Creek improvements in DuPage County. In December, Kerner released funds as needed to widen the creek bed and develop flood plains downstream from Addison.

It was the first time Salt Creek improvements were provided for on an orderly basis. Redmond was author and sponsor of the legislation.

Meanwhile, legislators in North Cook County grew impa- [illegible] tient with the federal application for improvements to Salt Creek's watershed.

State Sen. John A. Graham of Barrington and Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights sponsored bills in their respective houses, asking $520,000 for widening and deepening Salt Creek and enlarging culverts in Northwest Cook. The work would not have included the Busse Woods retention lake.

The bills were vetoed by the Governor.

KERNER FOLLOWED his veto in July with approval of the $5 million federal application for the Salt Creek Watershed project. Now it must be approved in Washington by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The proposed improvements would involve some 72,960 acres from one end of Salt Creek to the other. It would overlap, to some extent, the $1.5 million appropriation approved for the DuPage section last year.

As everyone who lives near Salt Creek is fully aware, flooding is not the only problem on the waterway.

Any resemblance to a waterway during dry spells is strictly a figure of speech. Then, the only flow through the creek bed is effluent discharged from sewage treatment plants.

Both Redmond and the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission are inclined to see it more as a sewage treatment trough to the Des Plaines River than as a conservation or recreation area.

THIS POINT of view was thrust upon them by the continuing urbanization of the basin.

To this end, the DuPage County public works department is negotiating for sewer plant sites along the creek, following in the footsteps of similar proposals made by Cook County on the north.

Northwest Cook hasn't given up the idea of a retention basin, of course. Negotiations are under way to try to sell the fill dug from the ground to the state or federal highway departments for use in raising highway levels.

Redmond is convinced "it's better to hold water back upstream than collect it downstream."

THE SALT Creek Watershed Application, subject to federal action under Public Law 566, was sponsored in 1964 by the Cook County Forest Preserve District, the DuPage County Forest Preserve District, the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Kane-DuPage Soil and Water Conservation District.

As with most public laws these days, the application will not be subject to final action until it is proved the sponsoring groups have and will continue to work with local governing bodies.

The rigmarole continues until everyone has had his say, until alternate proposals are studied, and until someone finally says one or another plan is best for the most.

PROBABLY THE greatest good that will be accomplished is that municipalities and other governing bodies along the waterway will be forced to adopt ordinances limiting or banning new construction on flood plains.

Another benefit probably will be the eventual dictum that certain right-of-way on both sides of any waterway must be acquired and maintained in its natural condition.

As Redmond puts it, "When nature's flood plains are filled in and built upon, nature is deprived of her storage facilities.

"When this happens, it's up to us to provide an alternate man-made reservoir to do nature's work."

(A15

A POLLUTED CREEKBED is a playground for busy Palatine youngsters during summer's dry spells. The clutter in Salt Creek last year, as every year, creates a breeding place for bacteria, vermin and mosquitoes. State and federal officials would like a comprehensive plan for the creek, so that flood waters can be stored during wet weather, and a steady stream can be released through the creekbed during dry weather.

Booming Palwaukee Airport Counts 800 Daily Flights

by Nancy Anderson
Staff Writer

One of George Priester's favorite stories may well be about the time he suggested to the president of the Chicago and North Western that the railroad should buy an airplane.

Priester since 1953 has been owner of Palwaukee Airport, at Milwaukee Avenue and Palatine Road south of Wheeling. But prior to that, he worked for the Chicago and North Western.

He joined the railroad in 1923; he started flying in 1927. And over the years he noticed where this "new-fangled" challenge to the railroad's command of the transportation world might in fact be of benefit.

"The company had hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of equipment stored here in Chicago," Priester recalls. "They'd have a train stalled because of a mechanical problem, and they'd have to send back and have a part sent out. This could take hours — and meanwhile the train, and valuable freight, just sat there. Besides, they'd have all this money invested in parts, and better parts could have been invented while they were sitting there waiting to be used."

SO HE WROTE a letter to the president of the railway. "I offered to fly free for them for one year, to prove that an airplane could move things faster and save them money. The latest parts could be picked up, and the necessary mechanics could go along as well."

But, he says, "I never heard from him — and it was only about two years ago that the North Western finally got an airplane, a turboprop."

Eventual purchase of that airplane by the railway illustrates the attitude taken by more and more businesses over the past few years: "expensive" airplanes can be economical.

The savings in time is an obvious factor. "Many companies just can't do without their own planes," Priester says. Corporate aircraft cut down time-consuming travel by car, train or even commercial airliners, which must meet regular schedules at regular stops. With its own plane, a company can send its men at almost any time from a nearby small airport to any of the countless other small airports across the country, right at the point of destination.

PRIVATE AIR travel provides greatest utilization of employes' time. "We hear all the time that there aren't enough engineers, chemists, other specialists to go around," Priester points out. "With their own planes, companies can keep moving these men around, to completely utilize their time and services."

As an example, he cites Pioneer Astro Industries, Inc., a Chicago firm with a plane based at Palwaukee. The company officials didn't really like airplanes, Priester says, "but it's an engineering firm, dealing in space contracts. To meet the competition, it had to be able to move its people quickly from one place to another."

Corporate aircraft also provide an added enticement for top personnel, he says.

"You get up in the individual tax bracket, and even the really good men, after taxes, don't clear more than $100,000. The best in transportation is an attraction for them."

TAXES MAY also affect a company's decision to purchase a plane.

According to Priester, "A company that can afford an airplane is usually in a tax bracket where the government, in effect, subsidizes the purchase — it's a tax write-off."

For the past few years, Priester has been hoping for his own tax write-off, a federal control tower to govern traffic at Palwaukee, second in the Chicago area only to O'Hare in the volume of daily traffic.

Among the other firms with planes based at Palwaukee, giving some idea of the variety of companies using them, are American Packing Co., McDonald's, Gus K. Neuberg (builder of the Chicago Civic Center), Blackhawk Plumbing and Heating, Swift and Co.

Estimates Priester, about one-third of the firms with their own planes hire pilots for each trip; another third have employes who fly in addition to other jobs; and a third have their own full-time pilots.

HE ATTRIBUTES much of Palwaukee's success with corporate flying to its location.

"Most of the executives in Chicago live on the north and northwest side. It's most convenient for them to fly from Palwaukee," he says.

"Most of the area around Midway in Chicago is industrial, not residential. There are even a lot of companies with their planes coming out of Midway to pick up their people here," he says, noting Civil Air Patrol [illegible]ternational Mining, for example.

The federal government also has some influence here. "The growing number of corporate planes run into problems with safety, approach speeds, and time at municipal airports, with regularly scheduled flights," Priester explains. Because of this, the government has been encouraging companies to move their planes to private fields such as Palwaukee.

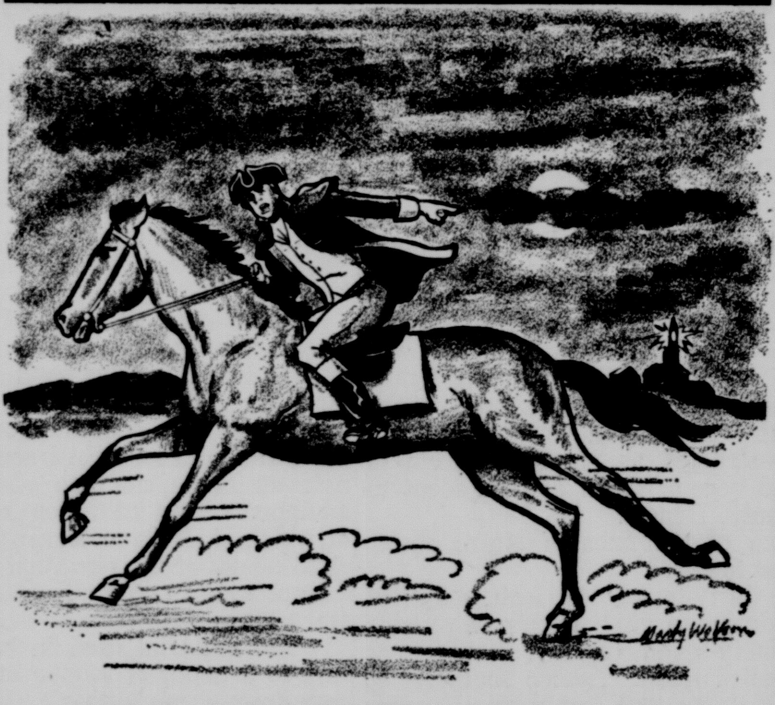
Greatest Events In American History— No. 5



PAUL REVERE RIDES AND OUR FREEDOM FOLLOWS

On the evening of Apr. 18, 1775, America was still part of the British Empire. However, in Boston that night, things began to happen that were to change the destiny of America—and the world—forevermore.

First, there were rumors that British troops were going to nearby Concord and Lexington to destroy American arms and to capture two men who had been advocating American independence, Sam Adams and John Hancock.

But William Dawes and Paul Revere went to spread the alarm. We remember Revere today, and not Dawes, because of Longfellow's famous poem: "Listen my children and you shall hear, of the midnight ride of Paul Revere."

By dawn the British came. The Americans were ready. A new era in world history had begun. The Revolutionary War started and America was on its way to becoming an independent country.

They said it couldn't be done. It couldn't.

We tried. Lord knows we tried. But no amount of pivoting or faking could squeeze the Philadelphia 76ers' Wilt Chamberlain into the front seat of a Volkswagen.

So if you're 7'1" tall like Wilt, our car is not for you.

But maybe you're a mere 6'7". In which case, you're small enough to appreciate what a big thing we've made of the VW.

There's more headroom than you'd expect. (Over 37½" from seat to roof.) And more legroom in front than you'd get in a limousine. Because the engine's tucked over the rear wheels where it's out of the way (and where it can give the most traction).

You can put 2 medium-sized suitcases up front (where the engine isn't), and 3 fair-sized kids in the back seat. And you can sleep an enormous infant in back of the back seat.

Actually, there's only one part of a VW that you can't put much into:

The gas tank.

But you can get about 29 miles per gallon out of it.

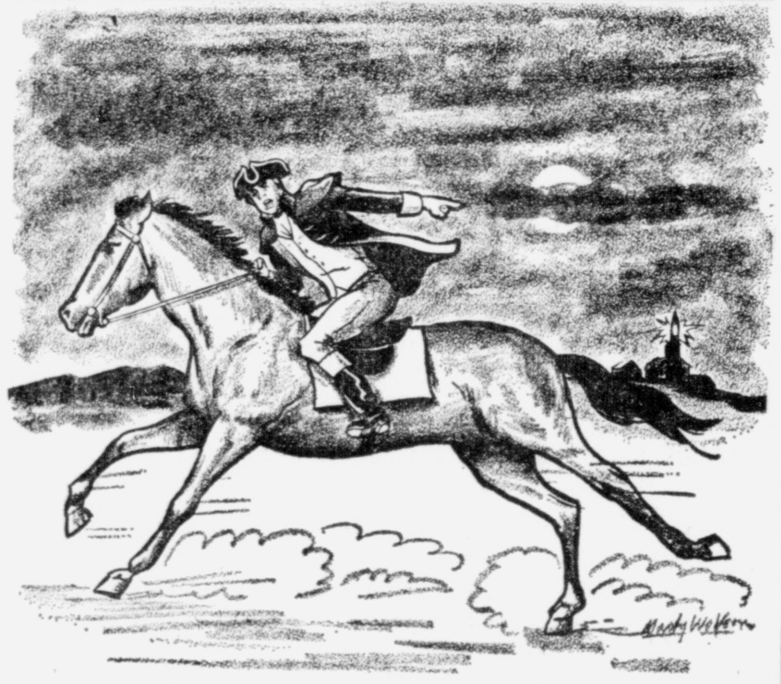
Greatest Events In American History— No. 5



PAUL REVERE RIDES AND OUR FREEDOM FOLLOWS

On the evening of Apr. 18, 1775, America was still part of the British Empire. However, in Boston that night, things began to happen that were to change the destiny of America—and the world—forevermore.

First, there were rumors that British troops were going to nearby Concord and Lexington to destroy American arms and to capture two men who had been advocating American independence, Sam Adams and John Hancock.

But William Dawes and Paul Revere went to spread the alarm. We remember Revere today, and not Dawes, because of Longfellow's famous poem: "Listen my children and you shall hear, of the midnight ride of Paul Revere."

By dawn the British came. The Americans were ready. A new era in world history had begun. The Revolutionary War started and America was on its way to becoming an independent country.

Sewers and Appurtenances

Sewers shall be constructed of Reinforced Concrete Sewer Pipe conforming to the following specifications and in accordance with detailed Plans attached hereto.

Description

The reinforced concrete sewer pipe shall be made in sections of not less than eight (8) feet in length and so formed that when the sections are laid together and joints filled with joint material they shall make a continuous and uniform line of pipe with a smooth and regular interior surface, and strength test requirements for the different strength classifications as shown on the following table. All pipes shall be marked with the date of their manufacture and no pipe shall be laid that is not at least fourteen (14) days old.

Design Requirements

The strength test requirements in pounds per linear foot of pipe under the three-edge bearing method shall be either the D-load (test load expressed in pounds per linear foot per foot of horizontal diameter) to produce a 0.01 inch crack or the D-loads to produce the 0.01 inch crack and the ultimate load as specified below, multiplied by the internal diameter of the pipe in feet.

	D-load to produce a 0.01 inch crack	D-load to produce the ultimate load
Class I	800	1,200
Class II	1,000	1,500
Class III	1,350	2,000
Class IV	2,000	3,000
Class V	3,000	3,750

Materials

The reinforced concrete shall consist of portland cement, mineral aggregates and water, in which steel has been embedded in such manner that the steel and the concrete act together. The aggregates shall be so sized and so graded and proportioned and thoroughly mixed in a batch mixer with such proportions of cement and water as will produce a homogeneous concrete mixture of such quality that the pipe will conform to the design requirements, enumerated heretofore. The mixture shall contain not less than six U.S. Standard bags (94 pounds) per cubic yard of concrete. The minimum compressive strength of the concrete at the time of acceptance shall be as follows:

Class I	4,000 pounds per square inch
Class II	4,000 pounds per square inch
Class III	4,000 pounds per square inch
Class IV	5,000 pounds per square inch
Class V	6,000 pounds per square inch

Cause for Rejection of Pipe

Pipe shall be subject to rejection on account of failure to meet any of the specification requirements or on account of any of the following imperfections:

1. Fractures or cracks passing through the shell, except that a single end crack that does not exceed the depth of the joint shall not be cause for rejection. If a single end crack that does not exceed the depth of the joint exists in more than 10% of the pipe inspected; however, the defective pipe will be rejected.
2. Defects which indicate imperfect mixing and molding.
3. Surface defects indicating honeycombed or open texture.
4. Spales deeper than one-half the depth of the joint or extending more than four (4) inches around the circumference exist in more than 10% of the pipe; however, the defective pipe shall be rejected.
5. Exposure of the circumferential reinforcement indicating misplacement of the reinforcement.

Inspection

All materials, manufacture of and finished pipe shall be subject to inspection at the factory, at the site plant, at the trench or other points of delivery by the Engineer for specification conformance.

Rejected pipe will be plainly marked by the Engineer and shall be replaced by the Contractor with pipe which will meet the requirements of these specifications without additional cost to the Owner.

Joints shall be made of the best quality tarred manila yarn (jute) and portland cement mortar composed of one (1) part portland cement and two (2) parts of clean graded torpedo sand.

Joints shall be of the tongue and groove type. Recesses shall not be less than ½ inch deeper than tongue. Pipe shall be so fitted together and matched that when laid a smooth and uniform invert will be obtained. The joints shall be of such design that when jointed they will reduce leakage and infiltration to a minimum, as well as to prevent any appreciable irregularity in the flow line of the sewer. No joints shall be accepted where the finished work is not plainly visible for inspection. Types of joint shall be of a kind proven to be reliable in other installations and shall be approved by the Engineer.

Manholes

Manholes shall be constructed of reinforced concrete in conformance with types 1, 2 and 3 as shown on the Plans. The upper part of said manholes shall be drawn in cone shape to an internal diameter of two (2) feet at the top by the use of concentric concrete rings or monolithic concrete construction, all as detailed on the attached Plans. All sewers entering a manhole shall terminate at the inside face of the manhole. All manholes shall be equipped with a cast iron frame and cover, the combined weight of which shall be as shown on the Plans. The tops of the covers shall be set at the elevation of the surface of the adjacent ground, except where noted otherwise on the attached Plans.

Backfilling

The material used in backfilling the trench around the pipe and to a depth of twelve (12) inches over the top of it shall be free from large stones. The backfilling shall be tamped in six (6) inch layers up to twelve (12) inches above the top of the pipe.

Trench Backfill

As directed by the Engineer, the Contractor shall backfill trenches caused by the construction of sewers and manholes which fall beneath or within existing street pavement, sidewalks, curbs and driveways with sand, screenings, pit run gravel, crushed stone or pea gravel from the spring line of the pipe to the finished subgrade. The trench backfill shall be thoroughly "jetted" in a manner and with equipment satisfactory to the Engineer.

Sheeting and Bracing Left in Place

In locations indicated on the Drawings attached hereto, or as ordered by the Engineer in writing during actual construction, for purposes of safety, wood sheeting and bracing shall be left in place. Such sheeting and bracing shall be of sound timber.

Existing Sidewalks, Curbs, Driveway and Street Pavement

The existing concrete sidewalks, curbs and pavement, gravel and/or bituminous driveways and street pavement shall be removed from the line of the sewer to facilitate the construction of said sewer. The waste material so produced shall be removed from and disposed of off the site. The sidewalks, curbs, driveways and street pavement so removed shall be replaced with materials equivalent to the original material and to the same width and thickness.

Trench Refill

At the direction of the Engineer and after the trench is opened, if warranted by the soil condition, the trench shall be over excavated and refilled with granular materials.

Concrete for Cradle

At the direction of the Engineer and after the trench is opened, if warranted by the soil condition, the proposed sewer shall be laid on a concrete cradle in accordance with the Plans.

Reinforced Concrete Headwall

A reinforced concrete headwall shall be constructed in accordance with the details on the plans at the 60" sewer outlet into Salt Creek.

Concrete

Concrete shall equal or exceed the Portland Cement Association Specifications for Plain and Reinforced Concrete. Concrete for all structures except cradle, shall be made of the proper proportions of Portland Cement, fine and coarse aggregate and water to produce a concrete having a minimum 28-day strength of 3,800 pounds per square inch. The mixture shall contain five gallons of water per sack of cement and a minimum of 6½ bags of cement per cubic yard of concrete.

Concrete for cradle shall have a minimum 28-day strength of 1,800 pounds per square inch. The mixture shall contain eight gallons of water per sack of cement and a minimum of 4½ bags of cement per cubic yard of concrete.

Relocation and/or Adjustment of Water Mains

Where necessary, existing water mains shall be raised or lowered. The material necessary for such adjustment or relocation shall be equivalent to that used in the original construction of said service pipes or water mains.

All materials of every kind and character to be used in the construction of this improvement shall be of first class quality, suitable for the purpose for which they are to be used and subject to the inspection and approval of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois.

All of said work shall be constructed in a workmanlike manner under the superintendence of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois.

Village Datum for the purpose of this improvement is hereby established as a level plane seven hundred thirty-five and fifty-six hundredths (735.56) feet below the spike in Power Pole on west side of Hicks Road and south side of southerly drive to Orenda Building.

The elevations of the various parts of the improvement herein specified to be constructed shall be as shown on the attached Plans.

AN ORDINANCE
PROVIDING FOR THE MAKING OF A LOCAL IMPROVEMENT IN AND FOR THE VILLAGE OF PALATINE, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois:

SECTION 1: That a local improvement shall be made in the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois, the nature, character, locality and description of which improvement is as follows:

A system of storm sewers, with the necessary manholes, headwalls, and all necessary appurtenances, all as shown on the Plans and Details attached hereto and made a part hereof, and as herein described, shall be constructed as provided herein to serve the sewer district described herein within and adjacent to the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois.

Thence southeasterly along said line drawn parallel to and one hundred fifty-nine (159) feet southwesterly of the northeasterly right-of-way line of the Chicago and North Western Railway, a distance of twelve hundred forty-six (1246) feet, more or less, to the Arlington Heights Branch of Salt Creek.

Sewers and Appurtenances

Sewers shall be constructed of Reinforced Concrete Sewer Pipe conforming to the following specifications and in accordance with detailed Plans attached hereto.

Description

The reinforced concrete sewer pipe shall be made in sections of not less than eight (8) feet in length and so formed that when the sections are laid together and joints filled with joint material they shall make a continuous and uniform line of pipe with a smooth and regular interior surface, and strength test requirements for the different strength classifications as shown on the following table. All pipes shall be marked with the date of their manufacture and no pipe shall be laid that is not at least fourteen (14) days old.

Design Requirements

The strength test requirements in pounds per linear foot of pipe under the three-edge bearing method shall be either the D-load (test load expressed in pounds per linear foot per foot of horizontal diameter) to produce a 0.01 inch crack or the D-loads to produce the 0.01 inch crack and the ultimate load as specified below, multiplied by the internal diameter of the pipe in feet.

	D-load to produce a 0.01 inch crack	D-load to produce the ultimate load
Class I	800	1,200
Class II	1,000	1,500
Class III	1,350	2,000
Class IV	2,000	3,000
Class V	3,000	3,750

Materials

The reinforced concrete shall consist of portland cement, mineral aggregates and water, in which steel has been embedded in such manner that the steel and the concrete act together. The aggregates shall be so sized and so graded and proportioned and thoroughly mixed in a batch mixer with such proportions of cement and water as will produce a homogeneous concrete mixture of such quality that the pipe will conform to the design requirements, enumerated heretofore. The mixture shall contain not less than six U.S. Standard bags (94 pounds) per cubic yard of concrete. The minimum compressive strength of the concrete at the time of acceptance shall be as follows:

Class I	4,000 pounds per square inch
Class II	4,000 pounds per square inch
Class III	4,000 pounds per square inch
Class IV	5,000 pounds per square inch
Class V	6,000 pounds per square inch

Cause for Rejection of Pipe

Pipe shall be subject to rejection on account of failure to meet any of the specification requirements or on account of any of the following imperfections:

1. Fractures or cracks passing through the shell, except that a single end crack that does not exceed the depth of the joint shall not be cause for rejection. If a single end crack that does not exceed the depth of the joint exists in more than 10% of the pipe inspected; however, the defective pipe will be rejected.
2. Defects which indicate imperfect mixing and molding.
3. Surface defects indicating honeycombed or open texture.
4. Spales deeper than one-half the depth of the joint or extending more than four (4) inches around the circumference exist in more than 10% of the pipe; however, the defective pipe shall be rejected.
5. Exposure of the circumferential reinforcement indicating misplacement of the reinforcement.

Inspection

All materials, manufacture of and finished pipe shall be subject to inspection at the factory, at the site plant, at the trench or other points of delivery by the Engineer for specification conformance.

Rejected pipe will be plainly marked by the Engineer and shall be replaced by the Contractor with pipe which will meet the requirements of these specifications without additional cost to the Owner.

Joints shall be made of the best quality tarred manila yarn (jute) and portland cement mortar composed of one (1) part portland cement and two (2) parts of clean graded torpedo sand.

Joints shall be of the tongue and groove type. Recesses shall not be less than ½ inch deeper than tongue. Pipe shall be so fitted together and matched that when laid a smooth and uniform invert will be obtained. The joints shall be of such design that when jointed they will reduce leakage and infiltration to a minimum, as well as to prevent any appreciable irregularity in the flow line of the sewer. No joints shall be accepted where the finished work is not plainly visible for inspection. Types of joint shall be of a kind proven to be reliable in other installations and shall be approved by the Engineer.

Manholes

Manholes shall be constructed of reinforced concrete in conformance with types 1, 2 and 3 as shown on the Plans. The upper part of said manholes shall be drawn in cone shape to an internal diameter of two (2) feet at the top by the use of concentric concrete rings or monolithic concrete construction, all as detailed on the attached Plans. All sewers entering a manhole shall terminate at the inside face of the manhole. All manholes shall be equipped with a cast iron frame and cover, the combined weight of which shall be as shown on the Plans. The tops of the covers shall be set at the elevation of the surface of the adjacent ground, except where noted otherwise on the attached Plans.

Backfilling

The material used in backfilling the trench around the pipe and to a depth of twelve (12) inches over the top of it shall be free from large stones. The backfilling shall be tamped in six (6) inch layers up to twelve (12) inches above the top of the pipe.

Trench Backfill

As directed by the Engineer, the Contractor shall backfill trenches caused by the construction of sewers and manholes which fall beneath or within existing street pavement, sidewalks, curbs and driveways with sand, screenings, pit run gravel, crushed stone or pea gravel from the spring line of the pipe to the finished subgrade. The trench backfill shall be thoroughly "jetted" in a manner and with equipment satisfactory to the Engineer.

Sheeting and Bracing Left in Place

In locations indicated on the Drawings attached hereto, or as ordered by the Engineer in writing during actual construction, for purposes of safety, wood sheeting and bracing shall be left in place. Such sheeting and bracing shall be of sound timber.

Existing Sidewalks, Curbs, Driveway and Street Pavement

The existing concrete sidewalks, curbs and pavement, gravel and/or bituminous driveways and street pavement shall be removed from the line of the sewer to facilitate the construction of said sewer. The waste material so produced shall be removed from and disposed of off the site. The sidewalks, curbs, driveways and street pavement so removed shall be replaced with materials equivalent to the original material and to the same width and thickness.

Trench Refill

At the direction of the Engineer and after the trench is opened, if warranted by the soil condition, the trench shall be over excavated and refilled with granular materials.

Concrete for Cradle

At the direction of the Engineer and after the trench is opened, if warranted by the soil condition, the proposed sewer shall be laid on a concrete cradle in accordance with the Plans.

Reinforced Concrete Headwall

A reinforced concrete headwall shall be constructed in accordance with the details on the plans at the 60" sewer outlet into Salt Creek.

Concrete

Concrete shall equal or exceed the Portland Cement Association Specifications for Plain and Reinforced Concrete. Concrete for all structures except cradle, shall be made of the proper proportions of Portland Cement, fine and coarse aggregate and water to produce a concrete having a minimum 28-day strength of 3,800 pounds per square inch. The mixture shall contain five gallons of water per sack of cement and a minimum of 6½ bags of cement per cubic yard of concrete.

Concrete for cradle shall have a minimum 28-day strength of 1,800 pounds per square inch. The mixture shall contain eight gallons of water per sack of cement and a minimum of 4½ bags of cement per cubic yard of concrete.

Relocation and/or Adjustment of Water Mains

Where necessary, existing water mains shall be raised or lowered. The material necessary for such adjustment or relocation shall be equivalent to that used in the original construction of said service pipes or water mains.

All materials of every kind and character to be used in the construction of this improvement shall be of first class quality, suitable for the purpose for which they are to be used and subject to the inspection and approval of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois.

All of said work shall be constructed in a workmanlike manner under the superintendence of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, Illinois.

Village Datum for the purpose of this improvement is hereby established as a level plane seven hundred thirty-five and fifty-six hundredths (735.56) feet below the spike in Power Pole on west side of Hicks Road and south side of southerly drive to Orenda Building.

The elevations of the various parts of the improvement herein specified to be constructed shall be as shown on the attached Plans.

'Temporary Campus' Would Cost $250,000

A "temporary campus" which would cost in excess of $250,000 was proposed to the District 301 Junior College Board last week as a means of starting college operations on a sound basis.

College Pres. Robert Lahti suggested that installing prefabricated classrooms would give the junior college "a better image" and "a little more dignity" than using existing high schools for temporary facilities.

The temporary classes would be constructed on the college site and serve as the campus until the regular campus is completed. No indication was given as to what use they might be put afterwards.

Lahti told the board that classroom space may be available at Elk Grove High School if the college were to begin temporary operations in the fall of 1967.

He said some temporary facilities such as faculty offices and a library would have to be worked into the Elk Grove building but that the necessary 30 or 40 classrooms would be available for a 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. college day.

"IF WE ARE discussing the classes on a financial basis, we will use the high school," Lahti said. But, he added, starting college operations in the evening would involve "many compromises."

He said the temporary classrooms would be "very nice facilities, carpeted and air conditioned," and would make it easier to recruit a good staff than opening college operations in the evening in a high school building.

Lahti said 30 temporary classrooms could be constructed at a cost of $150,000, six laboratories at a cost of $60,000, and that additional facilities such as washrooms and a library would bring the total construction cost to over $250,000.

THE BOARD deferred a decision until it decides on an opening date and an opening enrollment for the college. It expects to soon receive a report from its educational consultants and then make a decision sometime in March.

Lahti told the board that he had not received a definite commitment from District 214 on use of Elk Grove High School but that the initial reaction was favorable. (B10

Atcher Says Support 'Coming in Very Good'

Support for the idea of running Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher for state senator from the new 3rd Senatorial distruct reportedly is snowballing.

Atcher, however, is still not actively involved in the seeking, he said this wek.

The district is currently represented by Sen. John Graham (R-Barrington). As reapportioned, the district includes Schaumburg, Barrington, Hanover, Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, as well as a portion of Northfield and Maine Townships.

The "old" district includes Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine Townships.

Atcher said "support is coming in very good. The enthusiasm for the idea throughout the district seems to be very high.

"Everyone we've talked to has pledged support personally and some have offered financial support."

He declined to name the support "because if this thing doesn't come about we don't want any of them tucked away as being anti- some other candidate."

"Personally," said Atcher, "I'm not seeking support beyond talking with people for counsel. This is still, as far as I'm concerned, a group of facts and figures being compiled on which the decision will be based."

He added, "I have been actually amazed at the general enthusiasm, and pleased too, of course."

A meeting is planned for this week of committeemen from the townships to discuss party backing for the senate seat and two representative seats.

It is generally felt that Graham would get the support since the party is striving to maintain a semblance of unity throughout the state.

Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) already has unofficial support for the House seat. Alex MacArthur, Palatine Township GOP committeeman, said last weekend he plans to submit the name of a Palatine man for the other House post.

He declined to name the individual, but said he would not back Atcher. Other committeemen have been non-committal on the subject. (B-10

Graham to Be Out Of Hospital Soon

State Sen. John A. Graham (R-Barrington) expected to learn yesterday (Wednesday) when he will be released from Sherman Hospital in Elgin, where he has been since suffering a slight stroke the beginning of the year.

"It will probably be a week or 10 days," Graham reported this week. It had been expected that he would have been released by the end of last week, "but with this weather, the doctors decided I should stay a little longer. I've been getting along so swell that there's no reason to push my luck."

The senator said doctors are "predicting a complete recovery without any problem. Physically, I'll be in better shape when I leave here, than when I came."

If a special session of the legislature is called, "they're expecting that I will be in perfect condition to attend. And I'll be able to campaign without any problems."

Graham said he had been pretty much out of contact with political activity — "they told me to turn off my wheels, so I turned them off."

Asked his reaction to the possibility that Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert Atcher might challenge him for his post, he said: "Mr. Atcher and I have been friends for a long, long time. I would think he'd personally talk to me."

Graham plans to take a short vacation for a week or two aft-

'Temporary Campus' Would Cost $250,000

A "temporary campus" which would cost in excess of $250,000 was proposed to the District 301 Junior College Board last week as a means of starting college operations on a sound basis.

College Pres. Robert Lahti suggested that installing prefabricated classrooms would give the junior college "a better image" and "a little more dignity" than using existing high schools for temporary facilities.

The temporary classes would be constructed on the college site and serve as the campus until the regular campus is completed. No indication was given as to what use they might be put afterwards.

Lahti told the board that classroom space may be available at Elk Grove High School if the college were to begin temporary operations in the fall of 1967.

He said some temporary facilities such as faculty offices and a library would have to be worked into the Elk Grove building but that the necessary 30 or 40 classrooms would be available for a 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. college day.

"IF WE ARE discussing the classes on a financial basis, we will use the high school," Lahti said. But, he added, starting college operations in the evening would involve "many compromises."

He said the temporary classrooms would be "very nice facilities, carpeted and air conditioned," and would make it easier to recruit a good staff than opening college operations in the evening in a high school building.

Lahti said 30 temporary classrooms could be constructed at a cost of $150,000, six laboratories at a cost of $60,000, and that additional facilities such as washrooms and a library would bring the total construction cost to over $250,000.

THE BOARD deferred a decision until it decides on an opening date and an opening enrollment for the college. It expects to soon receive a report from its educational consultants and then make a decision sometime in March.

Lahti told the board that he had not received a definite commitment from District 214 on use of Elk Grove High School but that the initial reaction was favorable. (B10

Atcher Says Support 'Coming in Very Good'

Support for the idea of running Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher for state senator from the new 3rd Senatorial distruct reportedly is snowballing.

Atcher, however, is still not actively involved in the seeking, he said this wek.

The district is currently represented by Sen. John Graham (R-Barrington). As reapportioned, the district includes Schaumburg, Barrington, Hanover, Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, as well as a portion of Northfield and Maine Townships.

The "old" district includes Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine Townships.

Atcher said "support is coming in very good. The enthusiasm for the idea throughout the district seems to be very high.

"Everyone we've talked to has pledged support personally and some have offered financial support."

He declined to name the support "because if this thing doesn't come about we don't want any of them tucked away as being anti- some other candidate."

"Personally," said Atcher, "I'm not seeking support beyond talking with people for counsel. This is still, as far as I'm concerned, a group of facts and figures being compiled on which the decision will be based."

He added, "I have been actually amazed at the general enthusiasm, and pleased too, of course."

A meeting is planned for this week of committeemen from the townships to discuss party backing for the senate seat and two representative seats.

It is generally felt that Graham would get the support since the party is striving to maintain a semblance of unity throughout the state.

Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) already has unofficial support for the House seat. Alex MacArthur, Palatine Township GOP committeeman, said last weekend he plans to submit the name of a Palatine man for the other House post.

He declined to name the individual, but said he would not back Atcher. Other committeemen have been non-committal on the subject. (B-10

Graham to Be Out Of Hospital Soon

State Sen. John A. Graham (R-Barrington) expected to learn yesterday (Wednesday) when he will be released from Sherman Hospital in Elgin, where he has been since suffering a slight stroke the beginning of the year.

"It will probably be a week or 10 days," Graham reported this week. It had been expected that he would have been released by the end of last week, "but with this weather, the doctors decided I should stay a little longer. I've been getting along so swell that there's no reason to push my luck."

The senator said doctors are "predicting a complete recovery without any problem. Physically, I'll be in better shape when I leave here, than when I came."

If a special session of the legislature is called, "they're expecting that I will be in perfect condition to attend. And I'll be able to campaign without any problems."

Graham said he had been pretty much out of contact with political activity — "they told me to turn off my wheels, so I turned them off."

Asked his reaction to the possibility that Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert Atcher might challenge him for his post, he said: "Mr. Atcher and I have been friends for a long, long time. I would think he'd personally talk to me."

Graham plans to take a short vacation for a week or two after leaving the hospital, and "the first thing will be to tie my business back together."

Teachers Urge 'Yes' For New Building

School problems caused by overcrowding were cited by Alfred A. Umberger, president of the District 214 Teachers Association, in urging a "Yes" vote on the District 214 bond referendum Saturday.

Umberger, who represents the high school district's 474 teachers, is head of the mathemtics department at Forest View High School — a school which is itself operating at overcapacity at the present time. Designed for 2,500 students Forest View has 2,880 students this year, pending opening in the fall of the new Elk Grove High.

HIS STATEMENT said:

"The members of the Teachers Association of High School District 214 feel that passage of the Feb. 5 bond referendum is essential to the continuation of high quality education in the district.

"Delay of this building would cause overcrowding in all existing schools. Overcrowded conditions, of necessity, reduce the quality of the educational program. We teachers would have to work with larger classes, cutting the amount of direct pupil contact. We would have less time to work with students as individuals, answering their questions and guiding their work.

"Overcrowded conditions affect student and teacher morale. In the overcrowded situation the student tends to get lost in the crowd. Students tend to lose the feeling of individual importance essential to their normal development.

"The morale of teachers working under overcrowded conditions drops. They develop a feeling that they are not doing a good job. They find it difficult, if not impossible, to meet the needs of the individual student. They are overworked and hence lose some of humor and patience so necessary to good teaching.

"We who teach in District 214 have become accustomed to excellent schools and excellent community support. We are grateful for and proud of this backing. We are among the best good will ambassadors for High School District 214. Many of our excellent teacher recruits come to the district through our encouragement.

"Let's continue to provide an excellent educational program for our youth. To assure this, we teachers urge the passage of the Feb. 5 bond referendum."

Umberger, who was elected president of the teachers' group last April, has taught in District 214 since September 1956.

Over 50 Clubs to Talk Fund Division

What each club's fair share of Wheeling Township funds should be next year will have to be determined in the next few weeks by leaders of Over 50 Clubs in Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

Mrs. Ruth Gotshall, president of the Arlington Heights senior citizens group, has appointed a finance committee to plan a budget to cover the next year's expenditures for her group.

She made the appointments last Thursday after members of the club, meeting in Pioneer Park, voted again to seek township excess funds, allotted to senior citizens last year for the first time. The Arlington Heights group received $6,250 of $10,000 voted by township electors last April and has spent some $1,200 of it for major equipment.

HOW MUCH the Wheeling Over 50 Club, organized Nov. 11, will have to spend to cover similar needs for equipment will be learned tonight (Thursday) by William G. Fisher, president, when he attends a Wheeling Park Board meeting.

The Wheeling senior citizens are now meeting in the Masonic Temple but have been promised space in the new Wheeling fieldhouse due to open this summer. Fisher hopes to learn at tonight's meeting what equipment the park board itself will buy for the new building, so the Over 50 Club can supplement — rather than duplicate—those purchases.

Fisher said that the Wheeling Over 50 Club, numbering about 75 members, will vote next Thursday, Feb. 10, whether to ask for a share of township excess funds.

"I have no doubt but what it will pass," he said of next week's motion to seek the township money.

The Wheeling club has received, Fisher said, $1,450 of the township excess funds and another $1,450 is being held for a Buffalo Grove senior citizens club when it is organized.

ASSISTING IN organizing the Buffalo Grove group, as she did with the Wheeling club, is Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, director of the Arlington Heights Over 50 Club. In Buffalo Grove she has been assisted by Mrs. Sandy Navin and other members of the Buffalo Grove Woman's Club.

Mrs. Meyer said that she had been distressed at reports that she had any preference as to whether or not township funds should be sought by the senior citizens group again. "I had many, many phone calls from club members about this," she said. "I told every one of them, 'This is your club, not mine, and your decision. I'm just the director.' "

The finance committee that will draw up next year's budget for the Arlington Heights Over 50 Club wll include Mrs. Gotshall, Mrs. Meyer, the treasurer, Mrs. Jenny McInnes; two club members, Mrs. Marian Douglas and Mrs. Anne Kraehmer.

THE WHEELING club's finance committee will include, Fisher said, their treasurer, Mrs. Myna L. Nielsen; J. L. Grant, Miss Mary J. Dore, himself and W. T. Campbell, who will be chairman.

Possible needs for the proposed Buffalo Grove group and the question of whether larger amounts should go to the clubs not yet equipped must all be taken into account when the senior citizens file their request for a share of the township funds.

By law, that request must be filed at least 20 days before the township annual meeting on April 5. Customarily, such requests are talked over informally with Township Supervisor Albert C. Peters and the township board of auditors before the date for formal filing.

All-Out Membership Drive

Township Organization Goal: 'Challenge Every Republican'

"Every program, every activity, of the Regular Republican Club of Wheeling Township this year will be conceived to be a challenge to every Republican and to allow every Republican to 'sound off' on subjects of interest to him. If we fail we must assume that the average Republican does not want a forum in which to make himself heard," said Thomas W. Novotny, newly-elected president of the club, this week.

"I was quoted by Paddock Publications as having 'no new concepts, no new purposes' for the club, and that is correct," Novotny said. "The purposes of the club are clearly, though perhaps not forcefully enough, stated in the by-laws."

THEY ARE: "to promote the doctrines of the Republican party: (a) By encouraging participation of Republicans in organized activities of the Republican Party; (b) By encouraging participation of its members in civic, community and township affairs; (c) By carrying out educational and social programs; (d) By providing a public forum for candidates for public office."

Novotny said, "The recent lack of participation by the average Republican in the township indicates either that these purposes have not been effectively implemented, or that the average Republican just doesn't give a darn! This year we intend to find out which premise is true."

AS A FIRST step towards a broadened base, the club's board has authorized a far-ranging membership drive aimed at the township's 11,000 Republican primary voters. Edward Welflin of Wheeling has been selected to head this drive as membership chairman.

Encouragement of member participation in civic, community, and township affairs will be the assignment of A. R. McIntyre. The former village president of Wheeling will head the newly-formed community affairs committee. McIntyre will work closely with the board in the formation of a senior Republican committee, designed to focus attention on the views and problems of retired Republicans and to solicit their participation in the party.

"While we all recognize that the Republican party must attract the youth of the nation if the party is to survive and prosper," Novotny said, "we cannot continue to ignore the vast reservoir of time and talent available among our mature citizens. The Young Republican Club in the township is doing an excellent job of appealing to teen-agers and young adults. We intend to take up the slack at the other end of the spectrum."

ANOTHER POST, ways and means chairman, responsible for fund-raising, was given to John Gillen of Arlington Heights by unanimous vote of the board. Gillen was highly critical of Novotny and of the club at its recent annual meeting in January.

"When the day comes that the Republican party cannot welcome and make use of diversity of opinion, we will really have had it as a political force," Novotny commented. The next meeting of the Regular Republican Club will be on Thursday, Feb. 17. The program will be a "surprise," Novotny promised.

Cafeteria Meal to Precede Class Visits

A unique evening is planned by the Teacher-Parent Council of Forest View High School for Tuesday, Feb. 15.

From 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. a regular type school meal will be served for dinner, giving parents an opportunity to see and evaluate the exact kind, quality and amount of food that the students are served under the government subsidized lunch program.

There will be a choice of four entrees, plus salad or vegetable, roll, dessert and beverage. The cost to each parent for the entire meal will be $1.25 per person.

PARENTS ARE urged to call the school for reservations, phone HE 7-4600, as the service will be limited to the first 500. The parents can pay for their tickets that night at the school.

After the dinner, a short business meeting will be held and then from 8 to 9:30 p.m. the parents can visit their children's rooms where the teachers will be on hand to answer questions concerning the students and their class work.

If parents can't make the dinner, all are urged to attend from 7:30 to 9:30 for teacher-parent visitation. (ACM

'No-Cafeteria' Decision Explained to Questioners

A campaign is being mounted in Prospect Heights by Citizens Committee members seeking to minimize effect on Saturday's referendum of the District 214 board's "no cafeteria" decision on the proposed new Willow Road school.

The workers are armed with a three-page explanation issued at the request of School Board Pres. Arthur Aronson. The statement gives reasons for the board's decision to put vending machines — rather than a cafeteria — in the Willow Road School and promises a full hearing to objectors.

The explanation was issued Tuesday to all 86 Citizens Committee backers of the District 214 referendum after school board members received a letter sent by five of the committee — all of them from the Prospect Heights area from which many of the new school's students will be drawn.

The five — Richard F. Vlasak, Mrs. Marion Czarny, Mrs. William Kuhns, Mrs. Stephen Caruso and Mike Rosnick — fired off the letter Sunday night to every board member and Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer.

VLASAK SAYS their letter was prompted by many queries the five had received about the board's "no cafeteria" decision — questions they felt unprepared to answer because the possibility of using vending machines in the new school had not been brought up at any Citizens Committee meeting.

Among those who contacted Vlasak was Richard Morales, 209 Lonsdale, Prospect Heights.

"A lot of people out here in Prospect Heights are all for this new high school but against this canteen business," said Morales. "We think we should have the same rights for our kids — to have the same lunch for the same price."

He said he was familiar with — and unimpressed by — vending machines food. "It'll never be as good as it is from a kitchen," he declared.

THE DISTRICT 214 explanation to Citizens Committee members said, in part:

"The timing of this controversy could not be poorer, since we (and that includes the dissenting voices) are most concerned that Saturday's referendum pass. We have been told that the matter will be brought back to the board by interested citizenry, and they will be heard. We have not yet built the cafeteria. We hope that this letter has done much to explain the proposal which, unfortunately, was not brought to your attention in time for the committee's consideration. We sincerely regret that you did not have an opportunity to share in this decision."

The statement noted that at the present time between 20 and 26 per cent of District 214's students choose the "Type A," hot balanced meal offered in the cafeteria and another 16 to 18 per cent purchase from the a la carte line.

The statement lists five reasons for favoring vending machines:

1) Only one-fourth as much space is needed for vending services as for a regular kitchen.

2) The vending service supplies almost all the equipment, a savings to the district of $70,000 or more.

3) Students have a greater choice of food.

4) Fewer district employees are needed.

5) Disposable dishes and utensils are used.

IN THE UNIVERSITY High School vending machine setup visited by Supt. Slichenmyer and other District 214 officials in January, service was quick and food satisfactory, the material furnished Citizens Committee members said.

The visitors found that of the 623 students at the Normal school, 231 purchased all their lunch at school, 104 purchased only a drink, and 187 purchased a drink and part of their lunch. They learned through a survey that 224 students there spent 10 to 25 cents on lunch, 174 spent 25 to 50 cents and 78 spent more than 50 cents.

700 Pupils to Join for Band and Chorus Festival

Seven hundred teenagers will present a concert Monday at 8 p.m. as the climax of District 214's fourth annual band and chorus festival.

Directing the massed choruses and band in the program at Prospect High School fieldhouse will be two noted music educators, Dr. George C. Wilson of the Interlochen, Mich., national music camp, and Richard D. Hoffland of James Millikin University.

THE HIGH schoolers' program—to include performances by a 200-voice girls' chorus and a 400-voice mixed chorus, backed up by a district-wide band—will follow a Sunday of rehearsals in sections and then together.

Dr. Wilson will direct the festival band in playing "March — II Bersagliere," "Elsa's Procession" from "Lohengrin," Jager's "Second Suite," "Viva Mexico" by Morrisey and the Sousa march, "Fairest of the Fair."

Hoffland, who is director of choral activities at Millikin, will lead the girls chorus in singing Bach's "Unto His Name," "Sing All Ye Lands" by the Russian composer Gretchaninoff, the American folk song "The Water Is Wide," and "One Song," arranged by Ringwald.

THE MIXED chorus of 400 voices will present six selections, among them "He is Watching Over Israel," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and "The Road Not Taken," in which Robert Frost's text has been set to music by Randall Thompson. Both choruses will join the band for a performance of the Pergolesi "Glory to God in the Highest."

Dr. Wilson, as vice president of the Interlochen music camp, supervises all its summer operations.

Critics acclaimed his direction of the Interlochen Arts Academy Symphony Orchestra during performances at Philadeladelphia's Academy of Music, Lincoln Center in New York City, and Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

A campaign is being mounted in Prospect Heights by Citizens Committee members seeking to minimize effect on Saturday's referendum of the District 214 board's "no cafeteria" decision on the proposed new Willow Road school.

The workers are armed with a three-page explanation issued at the request of School Board Pres. Arthur Aronson. The statement gives reasons for the board's decision to put vending machines — rather than a cafeteria — in the Willow Road School and promises a full hearing to objectors.

The explanation was issued Tuesday to all 86 Citizens Committee backers of the District 214 referendum after school board members received a letter sent by five of the committee — all of them from the Prospect Heights area from which many of the new school's students will be drawn.

The five — Richard F. Vlasak, Mrs. Marion Czarny, Mrs. William Kuhns, Mrs. Stephen Caruso and Mike Rosnick — fired off the letter Sunday night to every board member and Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer.

VLASAK SAYS their letter was prompted by many queries the five had received about the board's "no cafeteria" decision — questions they felt unprepared to answer because the possibility of using vending machines in the new school had not been brought up at any Citizens Committee meeting.

Among those who contacted Vlasak was Richard Morales, 209 Lonsdale, Prospect Heights.

"A lot of people out here in Prospect Heights are all for this new high school but against this canteen business," said Morales. "We think we should have the same rights for our kids — to have the same lunch for the same price."

He said he was familiar with — and unimpressed by — vending machines food. "It'll never be as good as it is from a kitchen," he declared.

THE DISTRICT 214 explanation to Citizens Committee members said, in part:

"The timing of this controversy could not be poorer, since we (and that includes the dissenting voices) are most concerned that Saturday's referendum pass. We have been told that the matter will be brought back to the board by interested citizenry, and they will be heard. We have not yet built the cafeteria. We hope that this letter has done much to explain the proposal which, unfortunately, was not brought to your attention in time for the committee's consideration. We sincerely regret that you did not have an opportunity to share in this decision."

The statement noted that at the present time between 20 and 26 per cent of District 214's students choose the "Type A," hot balanced meal offered in the cafeteria and another 16 to 18 per cent purchase from the a la carte line.

The statement lists five reasons for favoring vending machines:

1) Only one-fourth as much space is needed for vending services as for a regular kitchen.

2) The vending service supplies almost all the equipment, a savings to the district of $70,000 or more.

3) Students have a greater choice of food.

4) Fewer district employees are needed.

5) Disposable dishes and utensils are used.

IN THE UNIVERSITY High School vending machine setup visited by Supt. Slichenmyer and other District 214 officials in January, service was quick and food satisfactory, the material furnished Citizens Committee members said.

The visitors found that of the 623 students at the Normal school, 231 purchased all their lunch at school, 104 purchased only a drink, and 187 purchased a drink and part of their lunch. They learned through a survey that 224 students there spent 10 to 25 cents on lunch, 174 spent 25 to 50 cents and 78 spent more than 50 cents.

700 Pupils to Join for Band and Chorus Festival

Seven hundred teenagers will present a concert Monday at 8 p.m. as the climax of District 214's fourth annual band and chorus festival.

Directing the massed choruses and band in the program at Prospect High School fieldhouse will be two noted music educators, Dr. George C. Wilson of the Interlochen, Mich., national music camp, and Richard D. Hoffland of James Millikin University.

THE HIGH schoolers' program—to include performances by a 200-voice girls' chorus and a 400-voice mixed chorus, backed up by a district-wide band—will follow a Sunday of rehearsals in sections and then together.

Dr. Wilson will direct the festival band in playing "March — II Bersagliere," "Elsa's Procession" from "Lohengrin," Jager's "Second Suite," "Viva Mexico" by Morrisey and the Sousa march, "Fairest of the Fair."

Hoffland, who is director of choral activities at Millikin, will lead the girls chorus in singing Bach's "Unto His Name," "Sing All Ye Lands" by the Russian composer Gretchaninoff, the American folk song "The Water Is Wide," and "One Song," arranged by Ringwald.

THE MIXED chorus of 400 voices will present six selections, among them "He is Watching Over Israel," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and "The Road Not Taken," in which Robert Frost's text has been set to music by Randall Thompson. Both choruses will join the band for a performance of the Pergolesi "Glory to God in the Highest."

Dr. Wilson, as vice president of the Interlochen music camp, supervises all its summer operations.

Critics acclaimed his direction of the Interlochen Arts Academy Symphony Orchestra during performances at Philadeladelphia's Academy of Music, Lincoln Center in New York City, and Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

$10,000 Added to Assistance Fund

No one dissented to the transfer Tuesday of $10,000 from the town fund to the general assistance fund of Elk Grove Township.

Township Supervisor William Rohlwing carefully detailed the needs and past expenditures on township relief during the short and uneventful special electors meeting.

The transfer of funds was needed primarily because of greater than anticipated expenses for food and private hospital care.

In making the transfer the township earmarked $5,000 for food, $200 for water (in trailer park area); $800 for household supplies and equipment; $1,600 for private hospitals; $400 for convalescent homes and homemaker services; and $2,000 for contingencies.

DURING THE meeting at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Road, Rohlwing cited the 1964-65 expenditures of about $6,100 for food and budgeted amount of $9,500 this year. The township ran short in this category partially as a result of the rainy weather this fall when field workers could not work, he said.

In 1964-65 the township spent $2,000 for hospital care and increased its budget for 1965-66 to $4,000. However, by January the township had spent $3,400, a great portion going to pay for two cases.

The transfer of funds is deemed sufficient until the new budget is approved in April at the annual town meeting.

David J. Regner, auditor, acted as moderator for the meeting.

Regardless of where it started, we have seen from our own experience how a combination of a large site and the open greenery of acres of golf course provides a most distinctive and exclusive setting for the fine custom-built residence.

If you are seeking a close-in yet still rural setting and desire to build or buy a home in the general area of $75,000, we invite your inspection of our acre or larger home-sites in varying degree of proximity to the fairways and greens of the Long Grove Country Club.

Members of Arlington Heights School District 25 board, staff, PTA and PTA Council Monday saw an impressive demonstration of the versatility of Miner Junior High School's closed circuit television system.

Some 75 persons watched on classroom TV sets as science teachers H. James Montgomery, William Simonsen and Glenn Elms gave a one-hour presentation which included the dissection of a frog, techniques of geometric constructions, history and development of numeration and computation, and a program on computers.

For the demonstration, two TV cameras in a projection room transmitted via closed circuit to receivers set up in four classrooms.

MOST VIVID example of the use of television for visual magnification and demonstration in the classroom was Elms' dissection of a frog. Normally, such a dissection would be done with 35 students clustered around a lab table.

In the demonstration, the camera was placed close to the table so the frog was magnified to cover a large part of the screen. As the dissection proceeded, Elms could point out the organs which were clearly visable to TV viewers. When the telecast originates in the classroom, the teacher can stop to answer questions and review details.

In the classrooms, TV can show enlarged views of small life animals, fossils, map details, meter readings and plant structures to demonstrate things which children couldn't view from their seats.

In a demonstration of geometrical construction, Elms showed how TV is a valuable visual tool in the mathematics classroom. He bisected an angle using a flat surface and standard instruments instead of the blackboard and clumsy oversize instruments. The techniques of manipulating the instruments were clearly visible.

THE LARGEST use put to closed circuit TV by Miner School teachers is as described by Montgomery, the presentation of material not normally included in the curriculum. Examples of such materials are:

—A current series of careers in science programs where several students discuss the professions with a biologist, a meteorologist, a chemist, etc. in the projection room while other students watch on receivers in the classrooms;

—A program on the development and use of drama followed by the telecasting of a one-act play put on by students;

—A series of programs on mathematics beginning with the history and development of numerals and finishing with a program on computers.

FOLLOWING THE closed circuit TV presentation, the use of listening stations in the classrooms was demonstrated. Listening stations have outlets for earphones so students can hear tapes and records at their seats.

Miner School now has nine TV receivers which can be used in 24 rooms. Each of those rooms has two outlets—one for the closed circuit and the other for outside reception. The school is equipped to pick up all channels, including UHF.

DESPITE ITS great advantages, the use of classroom TV has its limitations. Robert Campbell, assistant district superintendent, said that one of them is the enormous amount of teacher time it takes to produce a program. It has been estimated that it takes one hour of planning time for each minute of TV time because every second must be accounted for and the teacher can't make mistakes.

Another drawback is the expense of the equipment. Campbell said the system at Miner School cost a minimum of $10,000.

Classroom TV also requires tremendous art skill for animation and layout, as was shown Monday by the split-second maneuvers in the projection room as teachers worked with cameras and unveiled and covered props.

AFTER HIS performance, Elms said that teaching to a camera is cold compared to working in the classroom where the teacher can sense the reaction of the kids.

"With TV," he said, "you have to prepare more. In the classroom, you can throw an idea out and see how they react to it. But you soon get used to teaching with TV and after you've done it several times, there's no difference." (A

An Antique Shop Comes to Arlington

IN THE LIGHT of a Victorian period stained glass lamp, antique dealer Paul A. Johnson arranges a display on a white marble desk at Castlewood Antiques. Lovers of the simplicity of old things will find the surroundings congenial at Castlewood Antiques, opened recently in the basement of the Van Deusen Building, 11 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

Paul A. Johnson, proprietor, said that he is the only dealer in Arlington Heights devoted exclusively to all phases of antiques. He carries items of interest to all kinds of collectors, including those of glass, furniture, clocks, lamps and guns.

Johnson is 27 — surprisingly young for an antique dealer. His interest in antiques comes naturally, he says, because he was "born and raised with them."

JOHNSON COMES from Canby Minn., a farm community with a population of 3,000. His family there used all old furniture and until he was 18 there was no electricity in his home. Thus he grew up with such has-beens as kerosene lamps, wood stove and dry sink.

In Chicago, Johnson has attended the Chicago Art Institute, where he studied interior decorating. He has also done freelance art work in interior designs.

Most of his past experience with antiques has been as a "picker" who buys and sells for other dealers. This experience is particularly useful now that he has his own shop.

An antique dealer, Johnson says, must be always looking for items to keep a large collection in stock. He buys many items at antique auctions and from wholesale dealers in Chicago.

BUT HE OBTAINS most antiques on a consignment basis from individual parties and displays them in his shop. Some people, he says, advertise in the papers, and others he just bumps into by chance.

Asked how he happened to locate in Arlington Heights, Johnson said, "I had a shop in Long Grove last summer but got tired of running a museum. I was hunting for an old Victorian style house to rent when we found this one here."

He is enthusiastic about being in the Van Deusen building, which is an antique in itself. It was built in 1891 by Henry Meyer, local Blatz beer distributor. In back was an ice pond and pavilion which served as a beer garden until prohibition days. The pond was filled when State Road was widened in 1934.

Atlhough everyone was happy to say goodbye to January, no one gave a farewell party in honor of the occasion, no doubt feeling that one cold shoulder deserves another. Colder than most of us at month's end were Arlington Heighters just home from southern vacations. Thus far the new month hasn't been conducive to much celebrating, either—except for a few hung-over groundhogs who whooped it up on their day yesterday.

Local residents may take Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Boman's word for it — coming home to sub-zero temperatures after a week of summery weather is a distinct shock. Shock tolerance at 107 S. Kennicott was almost as low as the mercury Thursday, when the Bomans returned from Mexico City, although memories of the fine, relaxing vacation have since somewhat warmed the returnees.

Mrs. Rick Robbins, 130 N. Gibbons, endorses all unkind things said about Thursday's weather. She, too, came home just in time for the sharp freeze treatment, having had four days of West Coast warmth in Palos Verdes, Calif., with a longtime friend. The friend, a former Midwesterner, mentioned one day that she missed the changing of the seasons. This opinion Mrs. Robbins does not endorse.

IT'S THE OPINION of Mr. and Mrs. E. Alan Kurzka that the loss of their tanned complexions was only partly due to the fact that they were in the car and out of the sun for three days last week, as they motored home from a four-week stay in Florida. They turned even paler when they noted the outdoor temperature at 207 S. Fernandez. Thursday was their homecoming day, too, and they've since wondered why the fates arranged to welcome them back with the coldest weekend of the year.

In keeping with the local trend to choose Thursday as the most logical day to come home and wish they hadn't, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schmidt also ended a Florida vacation then. They'd had two lovely, lazy weeks visiting and sightseeing in the Sunshine State, and returned to 1209 N. Dunton in a most reluctant state.

Not in keeping with the local trend to return Thursday from a vacation in the south was the James Bucks' daughter, Mrs. John Chesterfield, who came home Wednesday from a week in Indianapolis. She didn't notice the change in climate as much as the others, either. Her week's vacation was spent enjoying reunions with four sorority sisters, a fine, warm way to interrupt the January doldrums.

Mrs. Chesterfield will be making her home with her parents at 705 S. Vail for the duration of her Navy-ensign husband's tour of duty with the fleet off Viet Nam. He sailed last month.

AMONG LOCAL birthday kids keeping the social life alive in Arlington Heights was Eric Plontke, 424 W. Sigwalt, who celebrated Saturday night. His birthday party was like his wife's in December in that they shared it with the David Sarvers, 305 S. Walnut. Mrs. Plontke and Sarver have almost-mutual birth dates that required dual congratulations and a mutual exchange of sympathy just before Christmas; last week Plontke and Mrs. Sarver swapped birthday best wishes.

Deborah Thomas celebrated her seventh birthday a few days early in order to use a Saturday for the gala occasion, and still have last Wednesday free for on-the-day family congratulations. The "real" party included eight schoolmates and followed a ballerina motif that delighted the guests — all girls, of course. Deborah is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, 1111 W. Euclid.

Mr. and Mrs. Wier Swanson, 901 S. Highland, hosted a dinner party for 10 Saturday evening in recognition of the fact it was time to lift the mid-winter doldrums. Cocktails, dinner and dancing totally fulfilled the "just for fun of it" purpose of the party.

THE SWANSONS' daughter, Mrs. Robert Hodum, further added to the weekend activity with her Sunday graduation from Bradley University in Peoria. The whole family was there, of course, to share the pride of the occasion with the graduate's husband.

A weekend visit with her grandparents climaxed Carol Ball's birthday celebration this year, and although Mayville, Wis., was in the deep freeze area, Carol's reception was warm. She began her partying Thursday, on her birth date proper, hostessing 12 neighborhood friends at an afternoon games 'n' giggles session in her home, 1207 N. Walnut.

Carol took mom, brother and sister with her Friday when she motored to Mayville for the weekend with Grandpa and Grandma Allan, and part two of her celebration. Carol is 4.

POLITICS livened the weekend for Mr. and Mrs. Allan McDonald, 515 Belmont, when they attended the State Republican Convention in Springfield. Keep we the people in government was the theme of the main speech by Sen. Everett Dirkson, and according to Virginia McDonald his talk was right to the point and most interesting.

The W. H. Carns of 106 Stratford had her mother, Mrs. O. W. Eldridge, for a two-week visit in their home recently. Mrs. Eldridge is from Los Angeles.

"It's really wonderful to go to school in Hawaii," laughed Mrs. Lyle Ewing of 110 Stratford, "Especially when it gives other members of the family a chance to visit."

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fahlberg of Meinah, Wis., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Norman, 634 Dryden. The visit gave both Bruce and Judy a chance to celebrate their birthdays here, as their birth dates are only a few days apart.

There was quite a family gathering last weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Miller, 411 Fairview, when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Firestone of Manchester, Mo., were guests. Mrs. Firestone is Mary Miller's twin sister. To help round out the family, Ray Miller and his wife, Nancy Beth, were home from school to relax between semesters at Indiana University, and daughter, Nancy, and her husband, Jim Tippy, managed to come for the weekend from Aurora.

GRANDMA and Grandpa took over to give their son, Franz, and his wife a chance at some skiing last weekend. The young guests were Lisa and Franz Jr. and the grandparents who enjoyed this holiday with the children are Mr. and Mrs. August Burnier, 516 Fairview.

"What fascinated me was old San Juan," declared Mrs. James Peery in talking about a recent trip she made with her husband to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where the streets are narrow and paved with blue bricks. There is also fancy grillwork, much like the French Quarter in New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. James Peery, 504 Beverly, attended the National Association of Wholesalers convention there.

They visited the old fort, El Morro, which was fascinating to the Peerys, and the temperatures were in the 80's all the time they were there. Quite a difference from what they returned to here. They also stayed at Palm Beach, Fla. for several days, visiting Mr. Peery's mother, Mrs. L. M. Gilman.

"I HAVEN'T had a chance to relax since we've been back," she laughed. "My daughter, Sharon Lee, is being married Feb. 5, so I'm really busy."

There will be a full house of wedding guests, including Mrs. L. M. Gilman, the Peery's son, Jim, and his family, another son, William, will be home for the event from Buena Vista College at Storm Lake, Iowa, and Miss Gerrie Olsen, a former resident of Scarsdale and bridesmaid for her once college roommate will be here from San Francisco.

Gail Shuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Shuart of 214 Stratford, was the hostess for some girls in her immediate neighborhood at a slumber party recently. The party was a farewell for Kathy Dwyer, a neighbor who is moving soon.

William Paine and his son, Bill, of 519 Pine went on a short ski trip to Indian Head in the upper peninsula of Michigan. "It was really cold up there, but my husband and son are real die hards when it comes to skiing," said Mrs. Paine who stayed home with the rest of the children. (A

The league leaders pounded home another high scoring win, 96-92, against the 755th Radar Squadron, while the second place Arlington Oilers edged out Pure Oil 48-43.

Chas. Klehm's Nursery, who previously had only two defeats, both from Krause and Kehe, was upset by Sellergren Sports 64-62. Klehm's went into the final quarter eleven points down. They put on a 26-point scoring spree which fell two points short of victory.

Arlington Park Sinclair climbed back on the winning trail by topping the 45th Artillery Brigade 73-55. Anderson led the Sinclair attack with 27 points.

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

Notes from Arlington Acres

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. James Brady, 508 S. Forrest, are anxious to see her home from the hospital. Fawn has been undergoing tests in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, for more than a week, but is expected home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Ashbrook, 416 S. Forrest, were hosts Saturday evening at the monthly get-together of a small group to which they belong. Six guests joined them for dinner followed by an evening of bridge.

Barbara Schmidt, daughter of the Carl Schmidts, 515 S. Gibbons, celebrated her 11th birthday Jan. 25 by giving a bowling party at Beverly Lanes on Saturday. Guests for lunch and two lines of bowling were Nancy Marshall, Susie Wolontek, Susie Ashbrook, Bev Schroeder, Donna Thuerk and Toni Ulan.

KATHY EHLEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ehlen, 437 S. Gbbons, another area 11-year-old, celebrated her Jan. 30 birthday by giving a slumber party. It started early Friday evening, lasted through a long night of usual slumber party activities and ended with a pancake breakfast Saturday morning, with Kathy's dad acting as chef. Guests were Bobby Finch, Laurie Evanger, Margaret Kane, Cathy Ebel, Kathy Kreusch, Nancy Watruba, Mariann Radcliffe and Patty Gardner.

Jessie Bruce's ninth birthday Jan. 30 was celebrated Sunday afternoon at a party for school friends, Beth Ann Briscoe, Cheri Pasco, Ellen Prince, Kathy Czech and Cindy Brazeau. Jessie is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce, 441 S. Gibbons.

Bruce Alvin, 513 S. Phelps, marked his seventh birthday Saturday. Guests invited to come early for lunch with Bruce and his brother, Kenny, were Gary McCammon, Ricky Wagner, Jimmy McDonald and Keith Moller. Party games followed lunch and the afternoon ended in a wave of high spirits with the showing of movie cartoons to the group.

A party was given Sunday by Bruce's parents, Arvid and Jan, for aunts, uncles and cousins and the perfect touch to a happy birthday came in the form of a phone call from his grandmothers, Mrs. Fred Kennedy and Mrs. M. Shelton, from Clearwater, Fla.

RANDY FRITZ, 5-year-old son of the Ray Fritzes, shares a Jan. 29 birthday with an older cousin, and this year, as is the custom, shared the dinner that marks the birthdays, not only with his cousin Kevin Manning, but with Neal Manning as well, whose birthday is close to the date. The Fritzes were hosts for the dinner at their home, 420 S. Phelps, and guests, in addition to the James Mannings, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wurst of Chicago.

Among the many January birthdays being celebrated in Arlington Acres is that of Laurie Cain, who was 6 on Tuesday of last week. Her parents, Jack and Barbara, sister, Cathy, and brother, Steven, serenaded her at dinner that evening at the Cain home, 536 S. Waterman. On Saturday, the event was again celebrated at a party for Karen Brocato, Cathy Cadigan, Brenda Willis, Susie Gryzik, Gail Runge, Larry Carmody, Doug Hoffman and Steven Cain.

Karen Kucera, 408 S. Forrest, enjoyed her 12th birthday Jan. 25 with a quiet family party. On hand to congratulate her were her parents, the William Bayuks, brothers, David and Mark, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Niemz of Edgebrook.

For Paul Travosek, 533 S. Phelps, the family dinner in honor of his 16th birthday Saturday was all the more enjoyable because his girl was invited to share it with them. After dinner the two young people attended the movies.

BECAUSE KARI Knutsen's eighth birthday Jan. 26 fell in the middle of the week, the celebration on the day itself was strictly family, with a festive dinner at which she was congratulated by her parents, Ken and Lynne, and sisters, Margi, Kristi and Konni. On Saturday, five of Kari's friends were invited to join her and her sisters at an afternoon party at the Knutsen home, 432 S. Prindle.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holt, 421 S. Prindle, celebrated their 14th wedding anniversary Jan. 26 by having dinner at El Greco, in Chicago, with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Virta of Mount Prospect.

Congratulations and best wishes also go to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koenen, 529 S. Prindle, and to Mr. and Mrs. James Massey, 509 S. Gibbons, who both marked their 10th wedding anniversaries Jan. 28. (A

Eastwood Events

"Neither rain nor snow"... doesn't apply to this reporter. Last week found her so busy nursing sick sons, sick car and a snow filled driveway that the news didn't get delivered on time.

Eastwooders happy with the snow covered world were the Carlos Thuts of 215 N. Hickory. Carlos, Nellie, Patty and Jeff spent two recent weekends skiing. First was spent on Chestnut Mountain in Galena; then second they skiied at Indian Head in upper Michigan.

Recent houseguest at the Thut home was Nellie's brother-in-law, Michael Ward. who flew in from their home in Hawaii. After a few days in Eastwood, he flew on to Temuco, Chile, to join his wife, Ruth, and their three daughters who had been visiting the women's parents. The Wards plan to return to Eastwood en route back to Hawaii.

TOM AND JO ANN Houser spent a week in Vail, Colo., and enjoyed much fine skiing. By happy coincidence, their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Percy of Kenilworth, were also vacationing at the same resort, so the couples spent much time together.

Meanwhile, back in Eastwood, Grandmother Houser of Chicago spent the week at 219 N. Hickory with Debbie, Deneen and David.

Ronna Griffin and children, Jay and Gary, of 415 Beverly Lane, spent a happy weekend recently visiting at the home of the grandparents, the Jett Alexanders, in Madison, Wis. While there, the boys received added thrill as they accompanied their grandfather to his farm to help care for two horses.

Recently, Winny Crockett entertained with an open-house at her home, 638 N. Hickory, for her daughter, Kitty's fiance, Don Schaller of Fort Dodge, Iowa. Both Kitty and Don are students at Iowa State University, where they are to receive their degrees in June. A June wedding is also planned.

LAST THURSDAY Vi Corcoron was hostess for an afternoon coffee party at her home at 507 N. Hickory. The party was a Christmas party that had been cancelled because of illness.

Recent evening guests of the Albrecht Kochs were the Jud Rosses and the Hal Maertzes for a viewing of slides of Germany.

Friday found Kelli and Kerri Maertz, 502 N. Hickory, and their neighbors, Peter and Frank Koch, 420 N. Hickory, and their mothers enjoying the marionette show of "Pinocchio" at Windsor School. Following the performance they had a hot chocolate party at the Kochs'.

Eastwood wishes John Mutti a speedy recovery, now that he is home at 314 Beverly Lane after a five-day stay in the hospital. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. James Brady, 508 S. Forrest, are anxious to see her home from the hospital. Fawn has been undergoing tests in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, for more than a week, but is expected home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Ashbrook, 416 S. Forrest, were hosts Saturday evening at the monthly get-together of a small group to which they belong. Six guests joined them for dinner followed by an evening of bridge.

Barbara Schmidt, daughter of the Carl Schmidts, 515 S. Gibbons, celebrated her 11th birthday Jan. 25 by giving a bowling party at Beverly Lanes on Saturday. Guests for lunch and two lines of bowling were Nancy Marshall, Susie Wolontek, Susie Ashbrook, Bev Schroeder, Donna Thuerk and Toni Ulan.

KATHY EHLEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ehlen, 437 S. Gibbons, another area 11-year-old, celebrated her Jan. 30 birthday by giving a slumber party. It started early Friday evening, lasted through a long night of usual slumber party activities and ended with a pancake breakfast Saturday morning, with Kathy's dad acting as chef. Guests were Bobby Finch, Laurie Evanger, Margaret Kane, Cathy Ebel, Kathy Kreusch, Nancy Watruba, Mariann Radcliffe and Patty Gardner.

Jessie Bruce's ninth birthday Jan. 30 was celebrated Sunday afternoon at a party for school friends, Beth Ann Briscoe, Cheri Pasco, Ellen Prince, Kathy Czech and Cindy Brazeau. Jessie is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce, 441 S. Gibbons.

Bruce Alvin, 513 S. Phelps, marked his seventh birthday Saturday. Guests invited to come early for lunch with Bruce and his brother, Kenny, were Gary McCammon, Ricky Wagner, Jimmy McDonald and Keith Moller. HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS

Each week pick up your Free Bingo Cards from any of the sponsors (adults only, please). Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. You may, however, make as many visits as you wish. The more cards you play the better your chances of winning!

HOW TO PLAY

To play, merely check the ads in the Sunday Suburbanite on Sunday, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. Different set of numbers each Sunday and each Thursday means two different games with the same card. Many ads contain one or more "Newspaper Bingo" numbers in the Bingo Bug (shown above). Other numbers, most of them in this symbol, will be scattered throughout the paper. On the want ad pages the numbers will be included in special type with the notation of "Newspaper Bingo Bug Sez." If you can match all 24 numbers on any one of your Bingo cards (see example of a winning card) with those appearing in either the Sunday Suburbanite, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications (but not both), you have a "Bingo" and you are a winner.

$100 WEEKLY!!

Winners will share a weekly cash prize of $100. If there is only one winner, he gets all $100. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share equally. If there are no winners any week, the $100 weekly prize money will be added to the following week's prize fund!

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER

Each Sunday Suburbanite game is complete within one issue of the Sunday Suburbanite; each Paddock Thursday game is complete within one issue of the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. You cannot use numbers from both issues for the same game. A new set of numbers will appear in the Sunday Suburbanite each Sunday, plus another new set of numbers in the Paddock Thursday editions. A new color Bingo card will be available each week at the participating stores. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week's games. The color card for each week's games will be announced each week in the newspaper.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER . . .

If you nave a winning Bingo Card, all 24 numbers of which appear in either the Sunday Suburbanite or your Thursday edition of Paddock Publications, write your name, address, phone number and from which store you procured the card on the back, and drop in the mail to Paddock office. Envelope must be postmarked by Friday of that week; or bring your card in to the office of Paddock Publications at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights by 9 a.m. of the following Monday morning.

RULES OF THE GAME:

NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY

There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at office of Paddock Publications as well as public libraries and at sponsors' stores. You can play as many cards as you wish — they're free. Get additional cards, one at a time, from the friendly sponsors listed below. (Adults only, please.)

DIFFERENT COLORED CARDS EACH WEEK

The color of the cards changes each week. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week. Mutilated cards will not be honored. All 24 numbers must be covered to win.

CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS

Bingo numbers will be drawn at random from a Bingo Number cage at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

Some duplication of Bingo Numbers may exist in certain sponsors' ads due to a newspaper production problem. This duplication in No Way affects the total number of Bingo numbers drawn. All numbers Drawn at Random from our Bingo Cage Appear Somewhere In Each Issue Of the Newspapers.

Employees of Paddock Publications and their families are not eligible to win any cash prizes.

If you can match all 24 numbers on any one of your Bingo cards (see example of a winning card) with those appearing in either the Sunday Suburbanite, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications (but not both), you have a "Bingo" and you are a winner.

You cannot use numbers from both issues for the same game. A new set of numbers will appear in the Sunday Suburbanite each Sunday, plus another new set of numbers in the Paddock Thursday editions. A new color Bingo card will be available each week at the participating stores. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week's games. The color card for each week's games will be announced each week in the newspaper.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER . . .

The York Story: A Best-Seller . . .

JIM DAWSON
Part of Tradition

The prospect of York High School crashing the Elite Eight of Illinois high school basketball for the second time in five years is no longer just a wild dream for head coach Dick Campbell.

With each passing week, as the start of the perilous journey to Champaign and the Assembly Hall approaches, Campbell becomes more convinced that his club has the tools of a state finalist.

"We expect to make it to Champaign," says Campbell, who took York to the Elite Eight in his first year as head man in 1961-62.

Campbell offers some refreshing frankness in his evaluation of this 1965-66 York entry, admitting that "you have to look at the positive side and we feel we can play with anybody."

The personable coach has already seen Thornton and East Leyden play, two touted clubs that could cross paths with the Dukes in tourney warfare leading to Champaign, and his confidence wasn't shaken.

Campbell, who will bring his York five into the Arlington High School gymnasium Friday evening, doesn't like to draw comparisons with his last Elite Eight finalist but admits that "things come easier" for this current club.

"That 1961-62 team (25-4 for the season) had to work so hard during the year," Campbell recalled. "We didn't overpower too many teams because we didn't have a great deal of height, but the kids hustled. This group has more power, can do it a lot easier. And there's also more depth."

York didn't win the West-Suburban Conference flag the year they gained an Elite Eight berth (second at 11-3) but ran off eleven straight victories to reach Champaign. McLeansboro, sparked by Jimmy Burns (Northwestern University's leading scorer), dumped the Dukes in a first round game in Huff Gym.

Campbell started Don Anderman (6-1), George Johnson (6-3) and Bob Rudolph (6-5) in the front-line in 1961-62 and Jimmy Dawson (5-11) and Al Malecha (5-9) at the guards. Dawson, the only junior on that club, went on to earn All-State honors the following season and today is a starter for the University of Illinois.

"There will always be only one Jim Dawson in my mind," Campbell praised. "There may be others who do things comparable to Jim, but he was such a dedicated player, a hard worker. He has a little brother on our freshman team now who is almost a carbon copy."

York's success in basketball in recent years is no surprise. The Dukes have enjoyed some profitable hardwood campaigns since the 1930s, and Campbell can see some of the tradition sprouting under the direction of Forrest Birks.

"Back in the late 1930s and early 1940s, York won something like five conference titles in six years under Birks," Campbell pointed out.

"And Dave Koch had a club in 1957-58 (Wayne Millies, Len Mahoney among others that played some great ball during the year and then got whipped by Hinsdale by one point in the sectional. Even today they still talk with disappointment about the loss to Hinsdale, and our kids in 1961-62 remembered quite vividly some of the great moments of that season. It seemed to stimulate them."

Campbell also points to an exceptional grade school basketball program in Elmhurst as instrumental in developing players. "People have said we offer one of the best grade school basketball programs in the state," Campbell added, "and I can believe it."

Twelve public schools, two Catholic schools, and an Immanuel Lutheran group have organized basketball starting as early as the fifth grade. They feed into two junior highs which play regular schedules of about 15 games for each team.

"There's an open-door program on Saturdays for the grade schools," Campbell continued, "with variety in the recreation field, not necessarily just basketball."

The seniors on York's state-ranked club didn't make a big splash as freshmen, winning five and losing eight, but improved to a 10-10 standard as sophs. Last winter they added Ned Reese, a fine guard who started at Immaculate Conception in Elmhurst, and showed a 17-7 record.

"This team has been put together in a rather unusual fashion," Campbell admitted. "Saunders (6-8 Larry), Fiene (6-1 Scott), and Ramsey (6-3 Cam, the top reserve) played together as freshmen, but then we picked up Reese from I.C. Now we have a sophomore (6-6 Chris Schweer) and two juniors (guards Derrick Grove and Bill Strauch) on our top seven so there's a mixture from three classes."

Campbell, who played five years of minor league baseball in the Philadelphia Phillies' farm system, reaching Class B status before going into the service, coached at three Illinois high schools (Noble, Charleston, and Newton) following his discharge.

He moved to York as an assistant in 1959 and took the head job in 1961, striking gold in his first year with an Elite Eight finalist.

Campbell is optimistic about a return trip to Champaign. So are the York players. There's excitement in Elnhurst as "March Madness" approaches.

The York basketball story is a best-seller once again.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

LaGrange and Glenbard toppled Arlington High School's varsity basketball team despite an impressive weekend by Cardinal guard Johnny Sujack . . . Sujack had 22 in a 64-60 loss to LaGrange and 21 in a 72-59 loss to Glenbard . . . The Arlington wrestlers whipped Hinsdale 27-17 but lost to Maine 24-20.

In New Trier Swim District

St. Viator, Arlington, Prospect, and Forest View high schools will join 10 other squads in the Winnetka (New Trier East) District swimming meet, the Illinois High School Association announced this week.

Joining the Paddock area schools at New Trier will be New Trier East and New Trier West, Deerfield, Glenbrook South, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Glenbrook North, Prairie View, Niles North, and Waukegan.

Prospect 4-0, Palatine 3-1 in M-SL

Knights' Quintet Hosts Pirates In Tilt for League's Top Spot

by MICHAEL HESS

The chase has begun. . .

After only four Mid-Suburban League contests Prospect cagers are all alone in first place. Now they'll have to be caught.

First to attempt overtaking the conference leaders will be a quintet from Palatine. Knights host Pirates tomorrow (Friday) evening.

At present Prospect is undefeated, at 4-0, in M-SL action. The Knights, 13-3 overall and owners of a 10 game winning streak, moved on top by beating Maine West 47-36.

PALATINE, 8-8 for the season and winners of four in its last five outings, was knocked from the front - running league position by Forest View. FV beat the Pirates 63-55 to make them both second, with 3-1 marks, in Mid-Suburban standings.

If anyone is to catch Prospect they'll have to start now. The way the Knights have been playing it would be difficult to imagine them losing more than one conference game, if that. This situation puts Palatine, with one loss already, on the spot in tomorrow's battle.

At Prospect

6-3	Willy	C	Beard	6-3
6-0	McWilliams	G	Thorne	6-0
5-8	Ferguson	G	Kulasa	5-11

TIME:
Junior varsity preliminary at 7:00 p.m.; varsity game at 8:15 p.m.
PLACE:
Prospect High School.
COACHES:
Palatine, Bud Mueller; Prospect, Dick Kinneman.

Hopes of the Pirates rest with starters Jerry McCormick, Paul Kozlicki, Dave Willy, Randy McWilliams and Mike Ferguson. They've displayed balance, good defense and a tremendous scrambling, scrapping ability plus continual improvement in games to date.

McCormick, a 6-1 forward, is a regular from last year who had a slow start but has come on strong. He's one of three Palatine entries among the best five M-SL scorers. He has 64 points in four league outings. His good shooting and nice moves around the key brought him 23 points in one game, his high for the season.

AT THE OTHER forward spot, 6-2 Kozlicki, is second in season scoring for the Pirates with an 11.8 average. He is fifth best in the conference with 56 points and has shown potential underneath. Kozlicki has had Here Pomplun takes the ball away from St. Ignatius' Frank Stankiewicz (32) in Saturday's game. Looking on are Dan Collins (14), Tom Rice (13), and Emille Bataille (11). St. Viator won, 55-49.

Host Meteors Saturday

Lions Travel Friday To Meet Holy Cross

by BOB FRISK

Paul Pomplun is moving . . . not away from St. Viator High School but toward the basket.

And that's why Lion coach Larry Nomellini was smiling early this week despite a split last weekend in Chicagoland Prep League basketball.

Pomplun is St. Viator's 6-7 senior center, the squad's second leading scorer as a junior, and his overall play in the latest conference doubleheader has lifted the hopes of the Lions for the stretch run.

"That's the best Paul has played in his varsity career," praised Nomellini as he looked back on the weekend split and looked ahead to another Chicagoland twin-bill.

St. Viator will journey to Holy Cross Friday evening and come home to host state-ranked DeLaSalle Saturday.

POMPLUN scored 50 points and hauled down 30 rebounds in the bouts with St. Mel and St. Ignatius. He hiked his scoring average to 13.9 and now has 188 reboonds in 16 games, 144 on the defensive boards.

"What really pleased me was the way he moved toward the basket," Nomellini said. "He was doing what we knew he could do all the time. He scored on a variety of shots and was getting good position."

One weekend — two games—doesn't make a season, but Nomellini is anxious to see how his outfit performs in the doubleheader with Holy Cross and DeLaSalle.

NOMELLINI received good news Monday evening when he learned that the injury that kept 6-4 forward Paul Dumke on the sidelines Saturday was only a mild ankle sprain. "Paul definitely should be okay for Holy Cross and DeLaSalle," Larry

Cards to Host Unbeaten York

Arlington Five Travels Saturday to Test Devils

by Bob Frisk

This is the one they've been waiting for . . .

Arlington's Cardinals get another crack at unbeaten and state-ranked York Friday evening.

And this time Ted Wissen's outfit catches the Dukes, No. 3 team in Illinois ranks, on the Arlington floor.

York has 17 victories in 17 games and is a commanding leader in the West Suburban Conference. The Dukes have not lost a varsity basketbal contest since March 5, 1965.

Arlington owns a fine 13-3 record and a string of eight straight victories. The Cards, a strong second in the West Suburban, haven't lost since Dec. 27, 1965.

The bell should sound around 8:30 Friday evening for what could be one of the most interesting battles ever staged at the Arlington High gymnasium.

ARLINGTON ALSO has a trip to Hinsdale Saturday evening to conclude its final double weekend of the 1965-66 season.

The last time Arlington and York got together Dick Campbell's Dukes rode off with an 80-61 victory, exploding for a 21-7 advantage in one of their now famous first period assaults.

That opening stanza could hold the key to the outcome of Friday's game.

Keep the Dukes from burying you in those opening eight minutes and you just may be able to stay with them the rest of the way. Even then it's no easy task keeping up with this classy York entry.

At Arlington

	ARLINGTON		YORK
6-6	Hubbard	F	Fiene	6-1
6-4	Jorgensen	F	Schweer	6-6
6-6	Donchess	C	Saunders	6-8
6-3	Allen	G	Reese	6-0
5-11	Townley	G	Grove	5-10

TIME:
Preliminary, 7 p.m., Friday.

CAMPBELL has respect for Arlington and realizes this isn't the same Cardinal team that played in Elmhurst in December.

"We're expecting a rough game," he admitted. "Ted's (Wissen) kids have come on fast and look tougher every week.

The unbeaten string hasn't bothered the Dukes. "Our kids love to play," Campbell says, "and everyone has a lot of confidence. There hasn't been any noticeable pressure despite the winning streak."

York Now Third

York High School was ranked no. 3 in Illinois ranks in both the Associated Press and United Press International prep basketball polls released Tuesday. Unbeaten Benton was first and once-beaten Thornton was second in both rankings. York had been ranked No. 2 the previous week.

CAMPBELL, who has guided York teams to 52 victories in 65 conference games since taking over the varsity helm, starts three seniors, a junior, and sophomore.

He worked in 6-6 soph Chris Schweer at a starting forward slot in the DeKalb Holiday tourney with 6-3 Cam Ramsey, who had been a regular, now the No. 1 front-line reserve.

"Schweer has shown noticeable improvement," Campbell said. "He plays a strong game on defense and also helps under the boards."

LARRY SAUNDERS, a 6-8 senior center, gives York an excellent big man who can score, rebound, and play defense with the best. Saunders, who is averaging 19 points per game in league play, blocked the incredible total of 25 shots in one conference doubleheader this season.

Rounding out the York alignment are senior forward Scott Fiene (6-1), junior guard Derrick Grove (5-10) and senior guard Ned Reese (6-0).

Fiene is an exceptional jumper who is the Dukes' second best scorer in West Suburban play with a 16.3 average. Grove, an excellent out-shooter and defensive performer, has been in double figures in the last three York games to push his average to 10.4.

Reese quarterbacks the club from his guard slot and also scores at a 13.6 clip in the West Suburban.

York is averaging 82.8 points

After 14 Years . . .

Ellis Quits As Pirate Coach

The man who fathered the wrestling tradition at Palatine High School and who guided one of the school's greatest football teams is putting his coaching hat on the shelf.

John Ellis of Carpentersville, who for 14 years has been an integral member of the Palatine coaching staff, said Saturday that he is drawing the curtain on that portion of his duties with the Dist. 211 school. His coaching activities will terminate with the conclusion of the current varsity wrestling season.

Palatine Athletic Director J. E. Stutzman, who first reported Ellis' decision, revealed at the same time that Arv Herstedt has accepted the school's offer to succeed Ellis as varsity football coach. Herstedt, currently the sophomore wrestling coach, had been one of Ellis' varsity football assistants for the past two seasons.

STUTZMAN said no one has yet been chosen to assume the varsity wrestling position also being vacated by Ellis. A decision on that may be forthcoming soon.

Ellis, in discussing his decision, said he would remain as an instructor in the science department at Palatine. It is, he indicated, primarily because of those teaching duties that he was motivated to surrender his athletic responsibilities.

"I had been in sports at Palatine for a long time," he said, "and felt I had reached the point where I wanted to devote myself to straight teaching. I feel I can't divide myself anymore."

ELLIS' TEACHING responsibilities are to get a little more burdensome in the 1966-67 academic year, when a laboratory-oriented biology program is to be instituted. This, Ellis said, would involve more of his time, more advance preparation, and that helped bring about his decision.

He did not close the door on coaching absolutely, indicating he might want to return to it sometime in the future. But for at least the forseeable future, he has closed his sports journal at Palatine.

The Ellis career became one of the athletic legends at Palatine, sprouting from the moment he arrived at the school from a variety of coaching jobs at the Henry, Ill., junior high school 14 years ago.

HE INSTITUTED wrestling as a sport at the high school, and has been the coach since that inception. Under his tutelage, Palatine athletes commanded several conference wrestling championships and frequently finished high in state tournament competition, while four individual wrestlers won state titles.

But Ellis may be remembered most for the 1965 football team. It was his second, after succeeding Charles Feutz—now Conant High School's athletic director—as varsity football coach. Under Ellis, the team went undefeated with an 8-0 mark, and won the Mid-Suburban League championship.

Campbell offers some refreshing frankness in his evaluation of this 1965-66 York entry, admitting that "you have to look at the positive side and we feel we can play with anybody."

The personable coach has already seen Thornton and East Leyden play, two touted clubs that could cross paths with the Dukes in tourney warfare leading to Champaign, and his confidence wasn't shaken.

Campbell, who will bring his York five into the Arlington High School gymnasium Friday evening, doesn't like to draw comparisons with his last Elite Eight finalist but admits that "things come easier" for this current club.

"That 1961-62 team (25-4 for the season) had to work so hard during the year," Campbell recalled. "We didn't overpower too many teams because we didn't have a great deal of height, but the kids hustled. This group has more power, can do it a lot easier. And there's also more depth."

York didn't win the West-Suburban Conference flag the year they gained an Elite Eight berth (second at 11-3) but ran off eleven straight victories to reach Champaign. McLeansboro, sparked by Jimmy Burns (Northwestern University's leading scorer), dumped the Dukes in a first round game in Huff Gym.

Campbell started Don Anderman (6-1), George Johnson (6-3) and Bob Rudolph (6-5) in the front-line in 1961-62 and Jimmy Dawson (5-11) and Al Malecha (5-9) at the guards. Dawson, the only junior on that club, went on to earn All-State honors the following season and today is a starter for the University of Illinois.

"There will always be only one Jim Dawson in my mind," Campbell praised. "There may be others who do things comparable to Jim, but he was such a dedicated player, a hard worker. He has a little brother on our freshman team now who is almost a carbon copy."

York's success in basketball in recent years is no surprise. The Dukes have enjoyed some profitable hardwood campaigns since the 1930s, and Campbell can see some of the tradition sprouting under the direction of Forrest Birks.

"Back in the late 1930s and early 1940s, York won something like five conference titles in six years under Birks," Campbell pointed out.

"And Dave Koch had a club in 1957-58 (Wayne Millies, Len Mahoney among others that played some great ball during the year and then got whipped by Hinsdale by one point in the sectional. Even today they still talk with disappointment about the loss to Hinsdale, and our kids in 1961-62 remembered quite vividly some of the great moments of that season. It seemed to stimulate them."

Campbell also points to an exceptional grade school basketball program in Elmhurst as instrumental in developing players. "People have said we offer one of the best grade school basketball programs in the state," Campbell added, "and I can believe it."

Twelve public schools, two Catholic schools, and an Immanuel Lutheran group have organized basketball starting as early as the fifth grade. They feed into two junior highs which play regular schedules of about 15 games for each team.

"There's an open-door program on Saturdays for the grade schools," Campbell continued, "with variety in the recreation field, not necessarily just basketball."

The seniors on York's state-ranked club didn't make a big splash as freshmen, winning five and losing eight, but improved to a 10-10 standard as sophs. Last winter they added Ned Reese, a fine guard who started at Immaculate Conception in Elmhurst, and showed a 17-7 record.

"This team has been put together in a rather unusual fashion," Campbell admitted. "Saunders (6-8 Larry), Fiene (6-1 Scott), and Ramsey (6-3 Cam, the top reserve) played together as freshmen, but then we picked up Reese from I.C. Now we have a sophomore (6-6 Chris Schweer) and two juniors (guards Derrick Grove and Bill Strauch) on our top seven so there's a mixture from three classes."

Campbell, who played five years of minor league baseball in the Philadelphia Phillies' farm system, reaching Class B status before going into the service, coached at three Illinois high schools (Noble, Charleston, and Newton) following his discharge.

He moved to York as an assistant in 1959 and took the head job in 1961, striking gold in his first year with an Elite Eight finalist.

Campbell is optimistic about a return trip to Champaign. So are the York players. There's excitement in Elnhurst as "March Madness" approaches.

The York basketball story is a best-seller once again.

Prospect 4-0, Palatine 3-1 in M-SL

Knights' Quintet Hosts Pirates In Tilt for League's Top Spot

by MICHAEL HESS

The chase has begun. . .

After only four Mid-Suburban League contests Prospect cagers are all alone in first place. Now they'll have to be caught.

First to attempt overtaking the conference leaders will be a quintet from Palatine. Knights host Pirates tomorrow (Friday) evening.

At present Prospect is undefeated, at 4-0, in M-SL action. The Knights, 13-3 overall and owners of a 10 game winning streak, moved on top by beating Maine West 47-36.

PALATINE, 8-8 for the season and winners of four in its last five outings, was knocked from the front - running league position by Forest View. FV beat the Pirates 63-55 to make them both second, with 3-1 marks, in Mid-Suburban standings.

If anyone is to catch Prospect they'll have to start now. The way the Knights have been playing it would be difficult to imagine them losing more than one conference game, if that. This situation puts Palatine, with one loss already, on the spot in tomorrow's battle.

COACHES:

Hopes of the Pirates rest with starters Jerry McCormick, Paul Kozlicki, Dave Willy, Randy McWilliams and Mike Ferguson. They've displayed balance, good defense and a tremendous scrambling, scrapping ability plus continual improvement in games to date.

McCormick, a 6-1 forward, is a regular from last year who had a slow start but has come on strong. He's one of three Palatine entries among the best five M-SL scorers. He has 64 points in four league outings. His good shooting and nice moves around the key brought him 23 points in one game, his high for the season.

AT THE OTHER forward spot, 6-2 Kozlicki, is second in season scoring for the Pirates with an 11.8 average. He is fifth best in the conference with 56 points and has shown potential underneath. Kozlicki has had

A FAMILIAR SCENE last weekend for St. Viator High School basketball fans was Lion center Paul Pomplun pulling down rebounds. Pomplun had 16 rebounds Friday and 14 Saturday as St. Viator posted a split in Chicagoland Prep League play. Here Pomplun takes the ball away from St. Ignatius' Frank Stankiewicz (32) in Saturday's game. Looking on are Dan Collins (14), Tom Rice (13), and Emille Bataille (11). St. Viator won, 55-49.

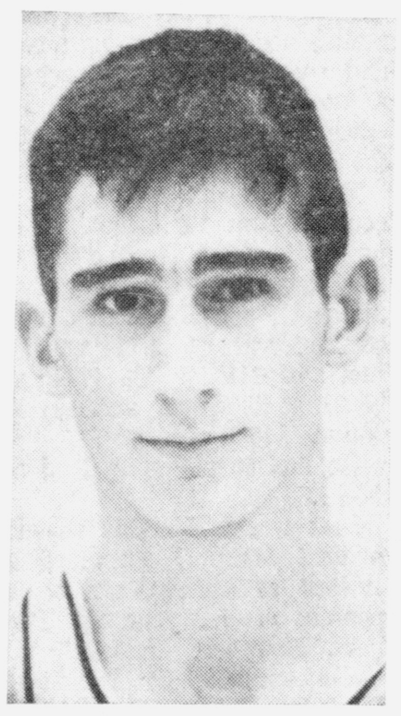
Lions Travel Friday To Meet Holy Cross

by BOB FRISK



PAUL POMPLUN

Paul Pomplun is moving . . . not away from St. Viator High School but toward the basket.

And that's why Lion coach Larry Nomellini was smiling early this week despite a split last weekend in Chicagoland Prep League basketball.

Pomplun is St. Viator's 6-7 senior center, the squad's second leading scorer as a junior, and his overall play in the latest conference doubleheader has lifted the hopes of the Lions for the stretch run.

"That's the best Paul has played in his varsity career," praised Nomellini as he looked back on the weekend split and looked ahead to another Chicagoland twin-bill.

St. Viator will journey to Holy Cross Friday evening and come home to host state-ranked DeLaSalle Saturday.

POMPLUN scored 50 points and hauled down 30 rebounds in the bouts with St. Mel and St. Ignatius. He hiked his scoring average to 13.9 and now has 188 rebounds in 16 games, 144 on the defensive boards.

"What really pleased me was the way he moved toward the basket," Nomellini said. "He was doing what we knew he could do all the time. He scored on a variety of shots and was getting good position."

One weekend — two games—doesn't make a season, but Nomellini is anxious to see how his outfit performs in the doubleheader with Holy Cross and DeLaSalle.

NOMELLINI received good news Monday evening when he learned that the injury that kept 6-4 forward Paul Dumke on the sidelines Saturday was only a mild ankle sprain. "Paul definitely should be okay for Holy Cross and DeLaSalle," Larry

Arlington Five Travels Saturday to Test Devils

by Bob Frisk

This is the one they've been waiting for . . .

Arlington's Cardinals get another crack at unbeaten and state-ranked York Friday evening.

And this time Ted Wissen's outfit catches the Dukes, No. 3 team in Illinois ranks, on the Arlington floor.

York has 17 victories in 17 games and is a commanding leader in the West Suburban Conference. The Dukes have not lost a varsity basketbal contest since March 5, 1965.

Arlington owns a fine 13-3 record and a string of eight straight victories. The Cards, a strong second in the West Suburban, haven't lost since Dec. 27, 1965.

The bell should sound around 8:30 Friday evening for what could be one of the most interesting battles ever staged at the Arlington High gymnasium.

ARLINGTON ALSO has a trip to Hinsdale Saturday evening to conclude its final double weekend of the 1965-66 season.

The last time Arlington and York got together Dick Campbell's Dukes rode off with an 80-61 victory, exploding for a 21-7 advantage in one of their now famous first period assaults.

That opening stanza could hold the key to the outcome of Friday's game.

Keep the Dukes from burying you in those opening eight minutes and you just may be able to stay with them the rest of the way. Even then it's no easy task keeping up with this classy York entry.

At Arlington

ARLINGTON			YORK
6-6	Hubbard	F	Fiene	6-1
6-4	Jorgensen	F	Schweer	6-6
6-6	Donchess	C	Saunders	6-8
6-3	Allen	G	Reese	6-0
5-11	Townley	G	Grove	5-10

TIME:
Preliminary, 7 p.m., Friday.

CAMPBELL has respect for Arlington and realizes this isn't the same Cardinal team that played in Elmhurst in December.

"We're expecting a rough game," he admitted. "Ted's (Wissen) kids have come on fast and look tougher every week.

The unbeaten string hasn't bothered the Dukes. "Our kids love to play," Campbell says, "and everyone has a lot of confidence. There hasn't been any noticeable pressure despite the winning streak."

York Now Third

York High School was ranked no. 3 in Illinois ranks in both the Associated Press and United Press International prep basketball polls released Tuesday. Unbeaten Benton was first and once-beaten Thornton was second in both rankings. York had been ranked No. 2 the previous week.

CAMPBELL, who has guided York teams to 52 victories in 65 conference games since taking over the varsity helm, starts three seniors, a junior, and sophomore.

He worked in 6-6 soph Chris Schweer at a starting forward slot in the DeKalb Holiday tourney with 6-3 Cam Ramsey, who had been a regular, now the No. 1 front-line reserve.

"Schweer has shown noticeable improvement," Campbell said. "He plays a strong game on defense and also helps under the boards."

LARRY SAUNDERS, a 6-8 senior center, gives York an excellent big man who can score, rebound, and play defense with the best. Saunders, who is averaging 19 points per game in league play, blocked the incredible total of 25 shots in one conference doubleheader this season.

Rounding out the York alignment are senior forward Scott Fiene (6-1), junior guard Derrick Grove (5-10) and senior guard Ned Reese (6-0).

Fiene is an exceptional jumper who is the Dukes' second best scorer in West Suburban play with a 16.3 average. Grove, an excellent out-shooter and defensive performer, has been in double figures in the last three York games to push his average to 10.4.

Reese quarterbacks the club from his guard slot and also scores at a 13.6 clip in the West Suburban.

York is averaging 82.8 points

After 14 Years . . .

Ellis Quits As Pirate Coach

The man who fathered the wrestling tradition at Palatine High School and who guided one of the school's greatest football teams is putting his coaching hat on the shelf.

John Ellis of Carpentersville, who for 14 years has been an integral member of the Palatine coaching staff, said Saturday that he is drawing the curtain on that portion of his duties with the Dist. 211 school. His coaching activities will terminate with the conclusion of the current varsity wrestling season.

Palatine Athletic Director J. E. Stutzman, who first reported Ellis' decision, revealed at the same time that Arv Herstedt has accepted the school's offer to succeed Ellis as varsity football coach. Herstedt, currently the sophomore wrestling coach, had been one of Ellis' varsity football assistants for the past two seasons.

STUTZMAN said no one has yet been chosen to assume the varsity wrestling position also being vacated by Ellis. A decision on that may be forthcoming soon.

Ellis, in discussing his decision, said he would remain as an instructor in the science department at Palatine. It is, he indicated, primarily because of those teaching duties that he was motivated to surrender his athletic responsibilities.

"I had been in sports at Palatine for a long time," he said, "and felt I had reached the point where I wanted to devote myself to straight teaching. I feel I can't divide myself anymore."

ELLIS' TEACHING responsibilities are to get a little more burdensome in the 1966-67 academic year, when a laboratory-oriented biology program is to be instituted. This, Ellis said, would involve more of his time, more advance preparation, and that helped bring about his decision.

He did not close the door on coaching absolutely, indicating he might want to return to it sometime in the future. But for at least the forseeable future, he has closed his sports journal at Palatine.

The Ellis career became one of the athletic legends at Palatine, sprouting from the moment he arrived at the school from a variety of coaching jobs at the Henry, Ill., junior high school 14 years ago.

HE INSTITUTED wrestling as a sport at the high school, and has been the coach since that inception. Under his tutelage, Palatine athletes commanded several conference wrestling championships and frequently finished high in state tournament competition, while four individual wrestlers won state titles.

But Ellis may be remembered most for the 1965 football team. It was his second, after succeeding Charles Feutz—now Conant High School's athletic director—as varsity football coach. Under Ellis, the team went undefeated with an 8-0 mark, and won the Mid-Suburban League championship.

Seek Escape From Cellar

Maine West Quintet To Host Cat Cagers

by MICHAEL HESS

"Room At the Top" does not concern Wheeling or Maine West but present interests of each are centered on "Room at the Bottom."

Wildcats and Warriors cagers are currently knotted in the Mid-Suburban League cellar. Both quintets possess 0-4 conference marks.

Escape from those lower depths will be the winner's prize when the two meet tomorrow (Friday). The loser will have gained only plenty of room at the bottom.

For the season Wheeling owns a 3-12 mark and has lost five in a row. Maine, loser in seven straight, is 1-13 for the year. Naturally, coaches Mike Owens and Gaston Freeman are searching for any winning combination and thus there are gaps in the tentative line-ups of each club.

A PAIR OF openings remain among starting forces for coach Owens, Wildcats while a single slot is vacant in headman Freeman's Warriors camp. A forward and guard are missing at Wheeling, a forward is Maine's missing man.

"Only Bischoff, Neuckranz and Peterson are sure starters for us," offered 'Cats mentor Owens. "Anyone else on the team might be at the other two positions against Maine."

Bischoff, Scott, is Wheeling's 6-0 center. He has provided the majority of the Wildcats scoring punch in the past eight games during which he has put in 115 points. He has 172 markers for the year, an 11.5 average. Bischoff tallied 16 in a 63-39 loss to Conant last week in addition to grabbing 12 rebounds.

	WHEELING		MAINE WEST

	OPEN	F	OPEN
6-0	Bischoff	C	Fritz	6-1
5-10	Peterson	G	Manny	5-10
	OPEN	G	Mueller	5-8

TIME:
Junior varsity preliminary at 7:00 p.m.; varsity game at 8:15 p.m.
PLACE:
Maine East High School, corner of Dempster St. and Potter Road, Park Ridge.

Recent scoring troubles have plagued forward Tom Neuckranz. Once he carried an average of 16 points a game but his totals have slipped to 11.9 (178 points) each time out. He has had only 17 points in the last four games and had two, with nine rebounds and and three assists, against Conant.

GUARD REX PETERSON is a playmaker for the 'Cats. He helps make the offense move with his passes and general floor play. This year he has 132 points, an 8.8 average, including four in the Conant contest.

That Conant struggle was one of the poorest showings of the season for Wheeling. The Owens' charges shot 18 per cent from the floor (11 of 60), 52 per cent at the line (17 for 33) and committed 29 turnovers. "We're making too many mistakes," said Owens. "It was just a bad game."

Maine West's sure starters are guards Ken Mueller and Dick Manny, center Al Fritz and forward Dale Haase.

Mueller has 223 points this season which gives him an average of 15.9. He collected 16 points last week as his team fell before M-SL leader Prospect 47-36. Mueller was the leader for MW against the Knights as he hit seven of 10 goal tries and two for two foul shots for his markers.

A season total of 76 points belongs to Fritz. He had only two against Prospect though his team gave the Knights a tough struggle before finally falling behind late in the game.

MANNY AND HAASE are recent members of the starting alignment for the Warriors. Manny has 36 points in his varsity career including 21 in his first start two weeks ago. Haase saw initial varsity action against Prospect and had three points.

"I hope Haase will give us more scoring underneath," said Maine headman Freeman. "If he can be of help there we'll do some improving."

For Wheeling those most likely to fill out the opening five are Al Gibbon, Mark Newman and Jerry Kerr. Newman has 110 points this season as a starter and sub while Gibbon has 35 and Kerr 22. Kerr put in seven in the loss to Conant.

Skip Grandt, a former 'Cats regular, has a bad ankle and will not play this week according to Owens. If he's sidelined, his scoring and rebounding will be missed. Grandt has 92 points in limited action thus far.

THREE CANDIDATES may be at the empty forward spot for Maine. They are soph Harry Tistle and seniors Pete Kulik and Paul Moehling. Tistle has 16 points in varsity games while Kulik has 101 this year and Moehling 104. Moehling drew the opening nod against Prospect and responded with a five point showing.

The game, as is usual for Maine "home" games, will be contested on the court at Maine East High School.

Knights to Host Pirates' Quintet

Best point producer for Palatine is Willy. The 6-3 center has 201 markers this year, a 12.5 average overall. His 66 points put him second in the conference. Last week he collected 24 against Forest View including eight for 13 from the floor and eight of 11 at the line. Willy also pulled down 11 rebounds.

In McWilliams and Ferguson the Pirates have a strong defensive pair to fill backcourt slots. Their value has been in holding down and hampering other scorers, and ball-stealing is a specialty of both. On offense McWilliams, 6-0, has an 8.6 season average, 35 points in league, while 5-8 Ferguson, only junior among Palatine openers, has 60 points for the year and 4.0 average in the M-SL.

Prospect presents a much different picture.

THUS FAR THERE has been little balance in the Knights attack and whether they've improved during the last quartet of games is definitely open to question. However, they have maintained their winning streak and solid defense and perhaps a one-sided offense will be enough to carry them through the campaign.

That Prospect offense is, of course, Tom Lundstedt. A 6-3 junior forward, Lundstedt has 359 points this year (22.4 average), a goal shooting mark of 124 for 216 (57.2 per cent), a mark of 111 for 156 (71.2 per cent) at the line, and 165 rebounds (10.3 average).

He has 66 points to lead the M-SL.

Last week's Knights showing against Maine West must be classed as shoddy, one of the poorest of the year for Prospect. However, Lundstedt was the exception which brought victory. He had 27 of his team's 47 points and eight of 18 rebounds collected by the winners.

Behind Lundstedt the highest average this year for the Knights belongs to 6-0 guard J. D. Thorne. Mainly from the outside Thorne has 141 points, 8.8 a game. He was shut out against Maine for the first time in 16 contests.

Others of the seven who do almost all Knights playing and scoring are Dan Agard, Dave Kingman, Tom Beard, Tony Kulasa, and Craig Wolf. Kingman and Wolf fill reserve roles.

AGARD AND Kingman, both forwards, have 104 and 115 points this season. Center Beard, who makes rebounding and defense his specialties, has 101 points. Guards Kulasa and Wolf are playmakers, sharp passers who keep Prospect moving. They've totaled 141 points between them.

"I look for this game against Palatine to be a tough one," said Prospect coach Dick Kinneman. "We didn't play well at Maine and we'll have to wake up when we play on Friday. I think we learned something last week and I just hope it shows against Palatine."

Commented Pirates headman Bud Mueller: "Prospect is certainly one of the best teams on our schedule. They have a lot of momentum going. Our players were unhappy with themselves after losing to Forest View and felt they could have done better. So, they should be coming back against Prospect."

Lions' Wrestlers Drop Five Duals; Forston Now 10-1

Heavyweight Denny Forston and Don Rich, working at 120 pounds, combined for eight of St. Viator's 15 individual victories in five varsity wrestling duals.

The performances of Forston and Rich highlighted the meets with the Lions dropping five decisions.

St. Procopius (49-5), St. Patrick (39-11), St. George (41-6) and St. Mel (40-12 and 31-20) scored victories over the Lion varsity.

Forston, who has only one setback this season, registered three pins and two decisions in running his personal record to 10-1.

Rich posted decisions at 120 against St. George, St. Patrick, and St. Mel.

OTHER LION winners on a varsity level were Jim McDonald at 154 against St. Patrick; and Craig Gripentrog (145), John Browning (154), and John Krebsbach (145) against St. Mel.

Gripentrog and Browning wrapped up victories in both meetings with St. Mel.

On a frosh-soph level St. Viator gained a 28-22 victory over St. Procopius but dropped decisions to St. Patrick (35-11) and St. George (29-23).

JIM HOWARD (112), Rod Ayres (120), Mike Mulcahy (127), Dave Church (133), Jim Spellen (138), and Jim Wojcik (165) picked up the victories against St. Procopius. Browning at 154 and Mike Harth at heavyweight were involved in ties.

Ayres, Church, and Bob Shay (180) scored with wins against St. Patrick although Harth suffered his first loss of the season at heavyweight.

In the six-point loss to St. George, Mulcahy (127), Spellen (138), Gripentrog (145), Browning (154), and Harth (heavyweight) collected the Lion points.

Coach John Zid's St. Viator wrestlers will entertain St. Patrick this Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the final dual meet of the season.

per game in the conference, topping 90 on three occasions. The Dukes are holding opponents to 62 points per game.

When Arlington's Cards journey to Hinsdale Saturday, they'll be engaging a club that is dangerous despite its so-so record. The Red Devils will carry a 2-7 loop record into the weekend twin-bill but four losses were by three or less points.

Parker Wellington, a 6-2 junior center, is the key man for the Red Devils with a 19.4 conference average. Wellington had 25 against the Cards in a December meeting which Arlington won, 69-57.

Hinsdale is always tough in its own gym and could afford some problems Saturday.

ARLINGTON'S latest conquest of 1966, a nine-point win over Riverside last Friday evening, had its good and bad points although the Cards were always ready to meet any Bulldog challenge.

Wissen's crew hiked its conference scoring average to the 70 mark with the 76-67 victory, and 6-3 junior Steve Allen shot into second place in league scoring with a 21-point night.

Allen now has 176 points in West Suburban play, one-point behind Bud Bocker of Downers Grove. Parker Wellington of Hinsdale is third in the torrid scramble with 175, and Saun-

ALLEN, WHO looks better every week, has a 17.1 average for the season thanks to four straight 20 or better nights. Terry Townley is next in line at an even 12.0.

The Cards had five boys in double figures agains Riverside, and 6-6 forward Bruce Hubbard, a rugged rebounder, had 12 valuable points for his best night on offense since the holiday tourney win over Glenbard East when he bagged 13.

Jim Jorgensen chipped in 12, hitting double figures for the second straight game to increase the threat from that one forward slot. Pete Barker came off the bench to toss in 10, and as a sub Barker now has scored 59 points in the six games of the new year.

Bocker, Allen 1-2 in Scoring

Confusion surrounding the West Suburban Conference individual scoring race was cleared up Tuesday. Errors in the scoring totals released through the City News Bureau involved the conference leaders.

Bud Bocker of Downers is the scoring leader with 177 points. He had been credited with only 175 markers but had 25 in a game with LaGrange rather than the 23 announced.

Steve Allen of Arlington is in second with 176 points. Allen had been credited with only 24 points against LaGrange when he had scored 27.

ders of York has 171.

said, "unless something unexpected comes up."

Even without Dumke the Lions got by St. Ignatius, 55-49, to snap a three-game losing streak and reach the .500 level again in the Chicagoland Prep League. The victory was especially encouraging because Dumke had hit St. Ignatius for 27 points in an earlier meeting.

"We moved Dan Collins back to forward and had Johnny Gregory at the one guard," Nomellini explained. "John didn't do a bad job. He handled the ball well and scored a couple baskets."

But Collins will be back at guard Friday when the Lions journey to Holy Cross. The scrappy 5-10 junior saw some backcourt action Monday afternoon in a jayvee game to become more accustomed to the position and he popped in 18 points.

HOLY CROSS, the Lions' opponent Friday, didn't create any problem in the first bout as St. Viator coasted to a 71-47 victory, but Nomellini expects a rugged engagement this week as the Crusaders play on their own floor.

Joe Gac, a 6-3 forward, is the top league scorer for Don Halverson's Holy Cross unit. Gac has 109 points in eight games with a high of 21 against St. George.

Guard Joe Sanchez, a former St. Viator player, is next in line for Holy Cross thanks to some hot nights in recent weeks. Sanchez has 92 points in league play, 77 in the six games since he visited St. Viator in January.

Holy Cross is 1-7 in the league with his only victory a 79-56 conquest of St. George.

AND THEN there's DeLaSalle. The Meteors have droptd only one game this season, a six-point decision to Springfield Griffin, and belted St. Viator in an earlier get-together, 56-41.

FV Meeting Conant In Friday Loop Tilt

by KEN KNOX

Of the six varsity basketball coaches in the Mid-Suburban League, two may be permitted a certain mellow feeling for at least a few hours more.

The two are Ken Arneson and Rel Berg, the coaches—respectively—of Forest View's Falcons and Conant's Cougars. The feeling, in whatever degree it may be possessed, was injected as a by-product of especially satisfying basketball victories last Friday night.

Rare enough an emotion for a coach of the frantic sport, the feeling is going to flee with a suddenness from one of the men this Friday night. For the Falcons and the Cougars will meet in direct conflict on Forest View's floor, and mellowness can't be expected to remain with defeat.

Arneson, if indeed he can allow himself a relaxed moment during the frenzied and close-quartered MSL campaign, would have had his best justification for it after the game just past.

IN A MUST game with Palatine's Pirates, Arneson's forces played with accomplished fury during a key portion of the contest and etched a 63-55 settlement. The victory pulled Forest View even with the Pirates at 3-1 in the MSL, just a step behind pacemaking Prospect. It kept the Falcons free of what would be a costly second loss at this stage of the league chase, and more importantly, it represented a worthy team achievement.

But Berg, whose Cougars had begun the 1965-66 season on horrendous terms, must have felt as much mellowness from his hour of triumph. The Cougars, presumably rankled that they had lost two of three games to Wheeling in two seasons, combined for a 63-39 humiliation of the Wildcats that was their best effort of this season. And though Conant's 5-10 record isn't up to FV's 10-6 overall, the Cougars are now 2-2 in the MSL, and a solid fourth.

Arneson remains mindful that MSL title aspirations can't permit a loss other than that already inflicted by Prospect, and he'll send into the Conant fray the same alignment that began the Palatine contest.

THE RANGY five has a front three that averages 6-4, with Pat Dunnigan and Howie Brasch at the forwards, and Jim Baumgardt at center. Jim Buckholz and Byron Borgardt, whom Arneson specially cited for their work against Palatine, will be at the guards.

Dunnigan, with 19 points against Palatine, increased his FV career record total to 745 points, while he's been averaging just under 17 points a game this season. The swift operator remains a leading rebounder, with 13 against the Pirates.

Brasch, a solid performer who doesn't score much, and Baumgardt, slowed by injury and lately by early foul trouble, will both be needed for their rebounding, and that could be a crucial factor against Conant.

Top reserve for the front three will again be Jeff Grismer, a 6-3 performer who played a good sub role against Palatine, and can score as well as jump as well as anyone on the team.

IT WAS OF HIS guards that Arneson had the most praise after the Pirate game, because they combined for one of their best outputs of the year. Borgardt's 11 points represented the first time in eight games that he's hit double figures, and he did some good outside shooting. Buckholz totaled 17 points, twice his average, and complemented Borgardt in moving the ball against Palatine.

Even more optimistic for Arneson, his forces committed only nine turnovers in the Pirate game, with five of those movement violations.

Those kinds of mistakes are the sort of thing Conant's Berg knows his charges must avoid against FV, and he concedes it will take a good job from the Cougars to beat the Falcons.

BUT CONANT is coming off that good game, in which it shot 45 per cent from the floor, kept Wheeling to only 11 field goals and dominated the rebounding. It put the Cougars in a good mood, and coupled with the memory of a close loss to a substantially-alike FV team in the Fenton tourney a year ago, it should keep them in a good enough mood to make the Friday faceoff fiery.

Conant is now getting good scoring out of two players, with 6-1 forward Bill Lunebach hitting for 37 points, in his last two games and 5-10 guard John Glasshof cashing in 28. Glasshof, the outside threat, remains the team leader with a 13.3 average overall, while he's fourth in the MSL with a 14.5 average.

Dick Helmer has taken a firm grip on the other forward job, especially after dazzling against Wheeling with his defensive play and his assists, heretofore a Conant trouble area. In one stretch against Wheeling he set up three straight Cougar baskets, though he had only six points of his own.

One thing Berg will be looking to is more of an offensive contribution from Larry Powell. The 6-7 center was one of the dominant forces against Wheeling in rebounding and on defense, slapping down a half-dozen shots. But he tallied only three points of his own, cutting his league average to 7.5 a game. Berg said he's expecting more scoring from him against FV.

The other guard job will remain the possession of Walt Riley, a scrappy 5-8 performer whose own scoring has tailed off, but who's still good for an average of close to 10 points a game.

Somewhere in the blend of those players there is victory and defeat, mellowness and bitterness. Someone — tomorrow night — will continue to savor the best of both.

Palatine Takes Soph Hoop Win

Palatine picked up its third straight win in Mid-Suburban League sophomore basketball play last Saturday morning, stopping Forest View 43-34 on the Palatine floor.

Al Eck's Pirates used superior height and speed to good advantage in being outscored in only one period. The winners also capitalized on poor FV shooting, only nine for 38 from the floor.

The victory put Palatine 3-0 in MSL play, while Rog Steingraber's Falcons dipped to 1-2, with a 6-5 mark for the year.

High point man in the game was Palatine's Don Spence with 10, while FV's Fred Lauing had nine. Kevin Grismer led the Falcons in rebounding, pulling down seven.

Falcons' Wrestlers Take Third in Quad

Third place in a four team meet was as high as Forest View wrestlers could go last Saturday.

In a mat quadrangular hosted by FV, the winner was Rockford West with 90 points, Barrington was second with 70, and the Falcons number three with 62 points. Last was Rockford East with 60 points.

Only first in the meet for Forest View went to Brian Lampert. He took honors at 165 pounds, winning his first bout by a 2-1 margin and then gaining a referee's decision in his second bout. Other than Lampert's victory, four seconds, four thirds and three fourths went to Forest View.

SECONDS, WITH A win and lost, went to Ken Andrews, Pete Phillips, Mike Severns and Al Gildemeister. Andrews won a forfeit and lost 4-3 at 138 pounds; Phillips won at 154 on a 2-1 overtime decision but was pinned in his second match. Severns, at 180, scored a pin in 5:29 but lost 4-2 while heavyweight Gildemeister blanked his opponent 1-0 and then lost by the same totals.

Thirds, meaning a loss and then a win, went to Tom Mann, Mark Beatty, George Taylor and Jim Kubik. All dropped decisions in their first bouts but came back as Mann registered a pin at 95 pounds, while Beatty, 103, Taylor, 120, and Kubik, 145, got decision triumphs.

Steve Dehaven, Ron McKisic and Larry McKisic ended with fourths. Each lost two bouts for coach Hal Henson's Forest View crew.

Seek Escape From Cellar

Maine West Quintet To Host Cat Cagers

by MICHAEL HESS

"Room At the Top" does not concern Wheeling or Maine West but present interests of each are centered on "Room at the Bottom."

Wildcats and Warriors cagers are currently knotted in the Mid-Suburban League cellar. Both quintets possess 0-4 conference marks.

Escape from those lower depths will be the winner's prize when the two meet tomorrow (Friday). The loser will have gained only plenty of room at the bottom.

For the season Wheeling owns a 3-12 mark and has lost five in a row. Maine, loser in seven straight, is 1-13 for the year. Naturally, coaches Mike Owens and Gaston Freeman are searching for any winning combination and thus there are gaps in the tentative line-ups of each club.

A PAIR OF openings remain among starting forces for coach Owens, Wildcats while a single slot is vacant in headman Freeman's Warriors camp. A forward and guard are missing at Wheeling, a forward is Maine's missing man.

"Only Bischoff, Neuckranz and Peterson are sure starters for us," offered 'Cats mentor Owens. "Anyone else on the team might be at the other two positions against Maine."

Bischoff, Scott, is Wheeling's 6-0 center. He has provided the majority of the Wildcats scoring punch in the past eight games during which he has put in 115 points. He has 172 markers for the year, an 11.5 average. Bischoff tallied 16 in a 63-39 loss to Conant last week in addition to grabbing 12 rebounds.

Recent scoring troubles have plagued forward Tom Neuckranz. Once he carried an average of 16 points a game but his totals have slipped to 11.9 (178 points) each time out. He has had only 17 points in the last four games and had two, with nine rebounds and and three assists, against Conant.

GUARD REX PETERSON is a playmaker for the 'Cats. He helps make the offense move with his passes and general floor play. This year he has 132 points, an 8.8 average, including four in the Conant contest.

That Conant struggle was one of the poorest showings of the season for Wheeling. The Owens' charges shot 18 per cent from the floor (11 of 60), 52 per cent at the line (17 for 33) and committed 29 turnovers. "We're making too many mistakes," said Owens. "It was just a bad game."

Maine West's sure starters are guards Ken Mueller and Dick Manny, center Al Fritz and forward Dale Haase.

Mueller has 223 points this season which gives him an average of 15.9. He collected 16 points last week as his team fell before M-SL leader Prospect 47-36. Mueller was the leader for MW against the Knights as he hit seven of 10 goal tries and two for two foul shots for his markers.

A season total of 76 points belongs to Fritz. He had only two against Prospect though his team gave the Knights a tough struggle before finally falling behind late in the game.

MANNY AND HAASE are recent members of the starting alignment for the Warriors. Manny has 36 points in his varsity career including 21 in his first start two weeks ago. Haase saw initial varsity action against Prospect and had three points.

"I hope Haase will give us more scoring underneath," said Maine headman Freeman. "If he can be of help there we'll do some improving."

For Wheeling those most likely to fill out the opening five are Al Gibbon, Mark Newman and Jerry Kerr. Newman has 110 points this season as a starter and sub while Gibbon has 35 and Kerr 22. Kerr put in seven in the loss to Conant.

Skip Grandt, a former 'Cats regular, has a bad ankle and will not play this week according to Owens. If he's sidelined, his scoring and rebounding will be missed. Grandt has 92 points in limited action thus far.

THREE CANDIDATES may be at the empty forward spot for Maine. They are soph Harry Tistle and seniors Pete Kulik and Paul Moehling. Tistle has 16 points in varsity games while Kulik has 101 this year and Moehling 104. Moehling drew the opening nod against Prospect and responded with a five point showing.

The game, as is usual for Maine "home" games, will be contested on the court at Maine East High School.

trouble from outside.

Best point producer for Palatine is Willy. The 6-3 center has 201 markers this year, a 12.5 average overall. His 66 points put him second in the conference. Last week he collected 24 against Forest View including eight for 13 from the floor and eight of 11 at the line. Willy also pulled down 11 rebounds.

In McWilliams and Ferguson the Pirates have a strong defensive pair to fill backcourt slots. Their value has been in holding down and hampering other scorers, and ball-stealing is a specialty of both. On offense McWilliams, 6-0, has an 8.6 season average, 35 points in league, while 5-8 Ferguson, only junior among Palatine openers, has 60 points for the year and 4.0 average in the M-SL.

Prospect presents a much different picture.

THUS FAR THERE has been little balance in the Knights attack and whether they've improved during the last quartet of games is definitely open to question. However, they have maintained their winning streak and solid defense and perhaps a one-sided offense will be enough to carry them through the campaign.

That Prospect offense is, of course, Tom Lundstedt. A 6-3 junior forward, Lundstedt has 359 points this year (22.4 average), a goal shooting mark of 124 for 216 (57.2 per cent), a mark of 111 for 156 (71.2 per cent) at the line, and 165 rebounds (10.3 average).

He has 66 points to lead the M-SL.

Last week's Knights showing against Maine West must be classed as shoddy, one of the poorest of the year for Prospect. However, Lundstedt was the exception which brought victory. He had 27 of his team's 47 points and eight of 18 rebounds collected by the winners.

Behind Lundstedt the highest average this year for the Knights belongs to 6-0 guard J. D. Thorne. Mainly from the outside Thorne has 141 points, 8.8 a game. He was shut out against Maine for the first time in 16 contests.

Others of the seven who do almost all Knights playing and scoring are Dan Agard, Dave Kingman, Tom Beard, Tony Kulasa, and Craig Wolf. Kingman and Wolf fill reserve roles.

AGARD AND Kingman, both forwards, have 104 and 115 points this season. Center Beard, who makes rebounding and defense his specialties, has 101 points. Guards Kulasa and Wolf are playmakers, sharp passers who keep Prospect moving. They've totaled 141 points between them.

"I look for this game against Palatine to be a tough one," said Prospect coach Dick Kinneman. "We didn't play well at Maine and we'll have to wake up when we play on Friday. I think we learned something last week and I just hope it shows against Palatine."

Commented Pirates headman Bud Mueller: "Prospect is certainly one of the best teams on our schedule. They have a lot of momentum going. Our players were unhappy with themselves after losing to Forest View and felt they could have done better. So, they should be coming back against Prospect."

The chase has begun. . .

Lions' Wrestlers Drop Five Duals; Forston Now 10-1

Heavyweight Denny Forston and Don Rich, working at 120 pounds, combined for eight of St. Viator's 15 individual victories in five varsity wrestling duals.

The performances of Forston and Rich highlighted the meets with the Lions dropping five decisions.

St. Procopius (49-5), St. Patrick (39-11), St. George (41-6) and St. Mel (40-12 and 31-20) scored victories over the Lion varsity.

Forston, who has only one setback this season, registered three pins and two decisions in running his personal record to 10-1.

Rich posted decisions at 120 against St. George, St. Patrick, and St. Mel.

OTHER LION winners on a varsity level were Jim McDonald at 154 against St. Patrick; and Craig Gripentrog (145), John Browning (154), and John Krebsbach (145) against St. Mel.

Gripentrog and Browning wrapped up victories in both meetings with St. Mel.

On a frosh-soph level St. Viator gained a 28-22 victory over St. Procopius but dropped decisions to St. Patrick (35-11) and St. George (29-23).

JIM HOWARD (112), Rod Ayres (120), Mike Mulcahy (127), Dave Church (133), Jim Spellen (138), and Jim Wojcik (165) picked up the victories against St. Procopius. Browning at 154 and Mike Harth at heavyweight were involved in ties.

Ayres, Church, and Bob Shay (180) scored with wins against St. Patrick although Harth suffered his first loss of the season at heavyweight.

In the six-point loss to St. George, Mulcahy (127), Spellen (138), Gripentrog (145), Browning (154), and Harth (heavyweight) collected the Lion points.

Coach John Zid's St. Viator wrestlers will entertain St. Patrick this Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the final dual meet of the season.

York Visits Cards Friday

per game in the conference, topping 90 on three occasions. The Dukes are holding opponents to 62 points per game.

When Arlington's Cards journey to Hinsdale Saturday, they'll be engaging a club that is dangerous despite its so-so record. The Red Devils will carry a 2-7 loop record into the weekend twin-bill but four losses were by three or less points.

Parker Wellington, a 6-2 junior center, is the key man for the Red Devils with a 19.4 conference average. Wellington had 25 against the Cards in a December meeting which Arlington won, 69-57.

Hinsdale is always tough in its own gym and could afford some problems Saturday.

ARLINGTON'S latest conquest of 1966, a nine-point win over Riverside last Friday evening, had its good and bad points although the Cards were always ready to meet any Bulldog challenge.

Wissen's crew hiked its conference scoring average to the 70 mark with the 76-67 victory, and 6-3 junior Steve Allen shot into second place in league scoring with a 21-point night.

Allen now has 176 points in West Suburban play, one-point behind Bud Bocker of Downers Grove. Parker Wellington of Hinsdale is third in the torrid scramble with 175, and Saunders of York has 171.

ALLEN, WHO looks better every week, has a 17.1 average for the season thanks to four straight 20 or better nights. Terry Townley is next in line at an even 12.0.

The Cards had five boys in double figures agains Riverside, and 6-6 forward Bruce Hubbard, a rugged rebounder, had 12 valuable points for his best night on offense since the holiday tourney win over Glenbard East when he bagged 13.

Jim Jorgensen chipped in 12, hitting double figures for the second straight game to increase the threat from that one forward slot. Pete Barker came off the bench to toss in 10, and as a sub Barker now has scored 59 points in the six games of the new year.

Bocker, Allen 1-2 in Scoring

Confusion surrounding the West Suburban Conference individual scoring race was cleared up Tuesday. Errors in the scoring totals released through the City News Bureau involved the conference leaders.

Bud Bocker of Downers is the scoring leader with 177 points. He had been credited with only 175 markers but had 25 in a game with LaGrange rather than the 23 announced.

Steve Allen of Arlington is in second with 176 points. Allen had been credited with only 24 points against LaGrange when he had scored 27.

Lions to Travel

said, "unless something unexpected comes up."

Even without Dumke the Lions got by St. Ignatius, 55-49, to snap a three-game losing streak and reach the .500 level again in the Chicagoland Prep League. The victory was especially encooraging because Dumke had hit St. Ignatius for 27 points in an earlier meeting.

"We moved Dan Collins back to forward and had Johnny Gregory at the one guard," Nomellini explained. "John didn't do a bad job. He handled the ball well and scored a couple baskets."

But Collins will be back at guard Friday when the Lions journey to Holy Cross. The scrappy 5-10 junior saw some backcourt action Monday afternoon in a jayvee game to become more accustomed to the position and he popped in 18 points.

HOLY CROSS, the Lions' opponent Friday, didn't create any problem in the first bout as St. Viator coasted to a 71-47 victory, but Nomellini expects a rugged engagement this week as the Crusaders play on their own floor.

Joe Gac, a 6-3 forward, is the top league scorer for Don Halverson's Holy Cross unit. Gac has 109 points in eight games with a high of 21 against St. George.

Guard Joe Sanchez, a former St. Viator player, is next in line for Holy Cross thanks to some hot nights in recent weeks.Sanchez has 92 points in league play, 77 in the six games since he visited St. Viator in January.

Holy Cross is 1-7 in the league with his only victory a 79-56 conquest of St. George.

AND THEN there's DeLaSalle. The Meteors have dropptd only one game this season, a six-point decision to Springfield Griffin, and belted St. Viator in an earlier get-together, 56-41.

But the Lions will be home this time and would like nothing better than to shock the high-flying Meteors.

It won't be easy. DeLaSalle has good size and they hit the boards with aothority. In 6-5 Tommy Hunter they have a youngster whom Northwestern frosh coach Jim Bragiel has called "one of the outstanding college prospects in the state."

Although Hunter is the most highly - publicized Meteor, coach Jerry Tokars also has an able supporting cast. Sevira Brown (6-5) and Dennis O'Toole (6-3) own league scoring averages of 18.1 and 13.1 respectively while Hunter stands at 15.3.

DeLaSalle is unbeaten in the league, knocking off St. Patrick 61-48 in the big game of the first round.

Falcons' Wrestlers Take Third in Quad

Third place in a four team meet was as high as Forest View wrestlers could go last Saturday.

In a mat quadrangular hosted by FV, the winner was Rockford West with 90 points, Barrington was second with 70, and the Falcons number three with 62 points. Last was Rockford East with 60 points.

Only first in the meet for Forest View went to Brian Lampert. He took honors at 165 pounds, winning his first bout by a 2-1 margin and then gaining a referee's decision in his second bout. Other than Lampert's victory, four seconds, four thirds and three fourths went to Forest View.

SECONDS, WITH A win and lost, went to Ken Andrews, Pete Phillips, Mike Severns and Al Gildemeister. Andrews won a forfeit and lost 4-3 at 138 pounds; Phillips won at 154 on a 2-1 overtime decision but was pinned in his second match. Severns, at 180, scored a pin in 5:29 but lost 4-2 while heavyweight Gildemeister blanked his opponent 1-0 and then lost by the same totals.

Thirds, meaning a loss and then a win, went to Tom Mann, Mark Beatty, George Taylor and Jim Kubik. All dropped decisions in their first bouts but came back as Mann registered a pin at 95 pounds, while Beatty, 103, Taylor, 120, and Kubik, 145, got decision triumphs.

Steve Dehaven, Ron McKisic and Larry McKisic ended with fourths. Each lost two bouts for coach Hal Henson's Forest View crew.

Palatine Takes Soph Hoop Win

Palatine picked up its third straight win in Mid-Suburban League sophomore basketball play last Saturday morning, stopping Forest View 43-34 on the Palatine floor.

Al Eck's Pirates used superior height and speed to good advantage in being outscored in only one period. The winners also capitalized on poor FV shooting, only nine for 38 from the floor.

The victory put Palatine 3-0 in MSL play, while Rog Steingraber's Falcons dipped to 1-2, with a 6-5 mark for the year.

High point man in the game was Palatine's Don Spence with 10, while FV's Fred Lauing had nine. Kevin Grismer led the Falcons in rebounding, pulling down seven.

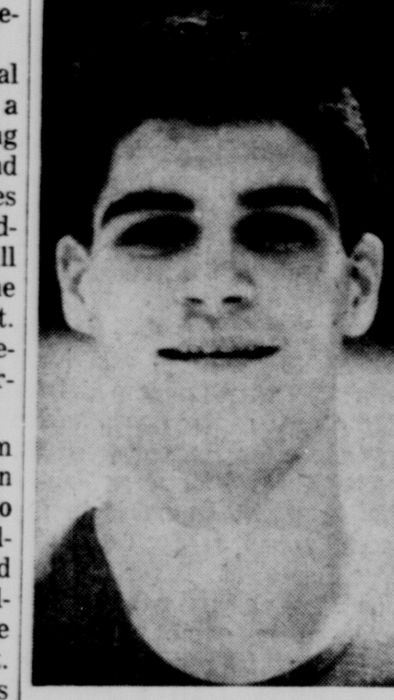
Second Period Hurricane . . .

Falcons' Detonation Stuns Pirates 63-55

by KEN KNOX

If they get as far as "F" in dubbing hurricanes this summer, they might designate one "Falcon."

A furious force by that name, blowing out of Forest View High School, almost whipped Palatine's Pirates off their own floor Friday night. And though the howling menace subsided—almost to the point of a retreating breeze—the damage it had wroutht in eight minutes of action proved to be beyond reclamation.



DAVE WILLY
Leads Pirates

It started, as the tropical behemoths regularly do, with a mildness. Palatine, recognizing the intruders as an ill wind that meant to blow the Pirates from their perch atop the Mid-Suburban League basketball standings, prevailed for the first one-fourth of the event. After period one, the scorekeepers had it Palatine 13, Forest View 9.

THEN IT BEGAN. From zephyr to gale to cyclone, Ken Arneson's Falcons began to whirl with fury before the Palatine bastion. With quick and snappy ball-handling, the Falcons rotated the ball before the basket until they could shoot. And when they did shoot, it was with a fury equal to their running assault.

They shot 17 times in the second quarter, and they converted 11 times. The average was 64.7 per cent, and that represents winning basketball, particularly when the opponents are cashing in three for 12 from the floor. Forest View scored 26 points in period two to Palatine's 14, and that — linked to a 17-11 storm's backlash in period three — swept the Falcons to victory.

Bud Mueller's Pirates provided noble heroics in the last stanza, and there was a moment when it seemed they might achieve the near-impossible. But they did not, and at game's end Forest View led 63-55. It made them 3-1 in the MSL and left Palatine the same, the two of them tied for the league's second place behind unbeaten Prospect.

TWO THINGS KEPT Palatine running with the Falcons early, before that frenzied shooting assault. One was Dave Willy, the most valiant of the Pirates for the evening, compiler of 24 points, 15 of Palatine's first 19. The other was a dazzling free throw demonstration, a siege where Palatine — normally troubled at the foul line — converted 10 straight charity efforts.

But nothing, not even Palatine's obvious desire to stay with Forest View, could counterbalance that scorching offensive flurry.

The principal forces were forward Pat Dunnigan and guard Jim Buckholz. They each totaled eight points in the stretch, and Buckholz especially had the aura of a man who couldn't miss. They were high for FV in the game, with 19 and 17 points.

The key moments in the key second quarter occurred between 7:07 and 5:00. In that time, Forest View went from a 17-13 deficit to a 19-17 lead. Dunnigan had a pair of field goals and Byron Borgardt bombed in a long set shot. Two of those goals followed Palatine turnovers, some of the few turnovers in a game marred only by some officiating rated highly unpopular by both sides.

THE FALCONS never trailed after that, and they weren't menaced again until the fourth quarter, when the Pirates created a wave of zeal among their admirers by charging back into contention.

The period opened with Palatine down 52-38 and presumably dead. But five minutes and 35 seconds later, the Pirates were down only 57-53. It was accomplished with some good shooting of their own — seven for 12 in the period — a pressing defense, and a Forest View fade. The entire starting lineup contributed for Mueller's Pirates in the surge, but forward Paul Kozlicki — with eight points in the period — contributed most.

It turned again at 1:20, when foul-plagued Palatine guard Randy McWilliams committed his last and Howie Brasch turned it into a pair of free throws. Moments after that, Willy fouled out on Borgardt, and his free throw gave FV a 60-53 advantage. It was really the end then, and Forest View — with Palatine — remained prominent on the MSL's list of contenders.

Knight JV's In Mat Win

Wins at 154 and 165 pounds gave Prospect JV wrestlers a 20-19 victory over Maine West last Friday.

Entering the crucial action the Knights were up by one, at 14-13. Then Gary Cobe won 4-2 at 154 and John Jantac won 10-9 at 165 to supply all the points needed for the triumph.

Others won for Prospect in action against Maine were Bick Basch (95), Dick Gewartowski (112), Mike Herod (120) and Mike Rutkowski (138). All took decisions. Joe Koza (145) picked up two points for the Knights by getting a draw.

With that win Prospect's junior varsity record was lifted above .500. The Knights are now 5-4 overall under coach Tom Porter and 3-1 in Mid-Suburban League action.

Knights Beat Maine 5 For 10th Win in Row

by MICHAEL HESS

Gigantic dividends were collected on a tiny investment of talent by Prospect cagers last weekend.

On Friday evening the Knights were hosted by Maine West. Coach Dick Kinneman's quintet captured that contest by a 47-36 count.

Dividends? In triumph Prospect pushed its over-all record to 13-3. It was the 10th win in a row for the Knights and left them alone atop Mid-Suburban League standings with a 4-0 mark.

Investment? Prospect played a poor game, looked inept, did nothing with much skill. Bad shots, unnecessary fouls, erratic passes and fumbled rebounds plagued the Knights throughout but . . . But, they still gained victory.

VICTORY CAME only because Prospect happened to be up against a team, one of the few, which could be topped with a sub-par performance. The Knights faced a Maine outfit which carried a 1-12 season record, 0-3 M-SL mark, six game losing streak and offense which averaged just 46 points a game.

"We looked lousy," offered headman Kinneman after it was over. "We weren't up for the game and our performance showed it. We underestimated them and they played well, though they lacked our size and experience. We just played a bad game."

One exception to this lackluster showing by Prospect, the exception which won the battle, was junior forward Tom Lundstedt.

Lundstedt made nine of 12 goal attempts and nine of 12 tries at the line. His 27 points were 58 per cent of his team's total output. He made 22 of the Knights' 28 markers in the second half. Lundstedt also pulled down eight of Prospect's total of 18 rebounds.

WITH THAT performance the 6-3 standout set another school record for the Knights. His nine foul shots gave him 111 for the year, one more than the old record of 110 set by George Pomey during 1960-61 action. It was the fourth standard Lundstedt has broken or tied this season.

Prospect began the struggle with Maine West as if there would never be any doubt about the outcome. After five minutes of first quarter play the Knights led 8-6 but a 12-footer by Craig Wolf and a hook and lay-up by Lundstedt made it 14-6 as the period ended.

During quarter two Prospect made just two of eight from the floor, one of five at the line, made three turnovers and were out-rebounded by shorter Maine forces. Totals for the period had the Knights with five, lowest figure for any eight minutes this season, while the Warriors, with Ken Mueller making four of five bucket attempts, had 10.

At the intermission Prospect led by only three, 19-16.

Through the third quarter the Knights played on even terms with Maine, primarily due to their eight turnovers. Lundstedt put in 10 of Prospect's 12 points, the other two coming on Wolf's last second jumper from 15 feet.

PROSPECT HAD increased its half time margin from three to four, at 31-27, as the closing period got underway.

Lundstedt opened scoring in the last quarter with a foul shot. However Mueller made one from 20 feet and Dick Manny chipped in a free throw making the tally 32-30 with five minutes remaining. Maine never got closer.

Lundstedt's three point play offset Manny's goal. Then Lundstedt tied and broke the free throw mark with two from the line which offset a goal by Harry Tistle. At that juncture, with 2:47 left, the score was 37-34.

OPENING THE final margin, Lundstedt flipped in a rebound, Wolf hit from the corner and Lundstedt completed his 27 point production with goals from three and six feet. Tom Beard's lay-up gave the Knights their last scoring and Mueller, whose 16 points made him the only other scorer beside Lundstedt to hit double figures, set closing Maine figures with two free tosses.

Game statistics showed Prospect with a narrow 18-13 edge in rebounds, a 17-11 edge in turnovers and a 50 per cent (18 of 36) to 48 per cent (13 of 27) edge in field goal shooting. Their point total of 47 was the lowest this season for the winning Knights.

Tom Hillesheim's frosh now have two wins and a tie in the MSL and are 5-3-1 overall. For Forest View, John Wallenburg's Falcons slipped to 1-3 in the MSL and 3-7-1 overall.

Jensen and Kaiser won on pins, while Karst, Wilson and Bracken won on forfeits. Bob Gill had an 8-8 draw with Steve Lohrman at 154.

Forest View took forfeit victories at 95 and 138, had a pin from Don Winkelman at 127 and a decision win from Harold Busch at 103.

Cards Whip Riverside

Hot Second Quarter Keys Arlington Win

by BOB FRISK

Twenty-eight points in eight minutes, Arlington's hottest single quarter of the season, ripped open a tight game Friday evening and carried the varsity Cardinals past Riverside-Brookfield, 76-67.

Drilling 12 baskets in only 18 shots and controlling both boards, Arlington outscored the host Bulldogs 28-16 in that second stanza to vault into a lead it never relinquished in the West Subban Conference battle.

Arlington's previous high for a single period was 27 in the waltz past LaGrange.

THE METHODICAL Cardinals, experiencing some anxious moments in the final half but never breaking under the pressure, made Riverside its eighth straight victim in a torrid streak that started in December.

A balanced attack highlighted the win as five Cardinals reached double figures and a sixth, 6-6 junior Jim Donchess, missed only because of foul problems.

The victory, achieved on Arlington's final visit to the Riverside gymnasium, was the first for the Cardinals at R-B since a 72-46 shocker in 1963.

ALTHOUGH THE host Bulldogs kept things interesting in the first period Friday, they couldn't keep pace in the second stanza as Ted Wissen's outfit scorched the nets with some dazzling marksmanship.

Riverside was on top 18-16 heading into the second quarter but was down 37-22 five minutes later. The Cards hit eight of their first 11 shots in the second period with Steve Allen and Donchess the main Bulldog tormenters.

Allen, the 6-3 junior who topped 20 points for the fourth straight game, had eight in the second period Friday, rifling in a jumper from the side, drive, shot from the top of the key, and 10-footer.

Donchess had seven in that second quarter before retiring to the sidelines with three personal fouls. Jim returned in the third quarter but fouled out early in the final segment.

RIVERSIDE GOT back within five (51-46) with 2:14 remaining in the third quarter, but the pressure eased when Pete Barker, coming up with another strong relief chore, popped in a 10-foot jumper, Donchess hit a free throw, and Allen connected from the corner.

Arlington pulled out to a 12-point cushion in the concluding quarter when Riverside launched another rally. The hosts cut the Cardinal lead to six points (67-61) with 4:08 remaining, and both Arlington big men, 6-6 Bruce Hubbard and 6-6 Donchess, were shelved by five fouls.

Barker contributed some clutch work at this stage. He hit a 10-footer to give Arlington a 69-61 lead and one minute later, after R-B had failed to dent the scoreboard again, the steady senior guard pushed in two free throws.

R-B CONTINUED TO peck away until they were back within six again with 1:23 left. A steal gave the Bulldogs a chance to climb even closer, but a shot went off and Jim Jorgensen cleared for Arlington.

Jorgensen, who had seven of the Cards' first nine points in the game, hit two free throws with 44 seconds left to give Arlington a 73-65 lead. Terry Townley and Allen also scored from the line for the final Cardinal points.

Riverside scored at the buzzer for its final basket. The Bulldogs hit four shots at the buzzer in the game.

Allen was high for the Cards with 21 points. Townley collected 13, seven from the line, and Hubbard and Jorgensen had 12 each. Barker added 10 after coming off the bench.

St. Viator Sophs Record Cage Split

St. Viator's sophomore basketball team split a Chicagoland Prep League doubleheader last weekend by topping St. Mel of Chicago, 45-42, Friday night and dropping a 56-41 decision to St. Ignatius the following evening.

The young Lions got off to a slow start in Friday night's encounter at St. Mel and found themselves on the short end of an 8-6 score at the end of the first quarter.

But the locals came rushing back in the next two periods. With 5'7 guard Pat Zeller leading the way with some fine outside shooting, Viator opened up a 37-27 lead after three quarters.

Zeller was high scorer in the game with 23 points on nine baskets and five free throws.

A one point second quarter spelled defeat for the Lions in Saturday night's home game against St. Ignatius.

The score was 11-9 with the visitors on top at the end of one period, but the only point Viators could muster in the second stanza was a free throw by Gary Berg and the half ended with Ignatius out in front 26-10.

Although the Lions rallied to score 20 points in the final period it wasn't enough to make the outcome close.

Wildcat Jayvees Grab Mat Victory

Wheeling's junior varsity wrestlers sent their season record to 6-5-1 with a 32-16 victory over Fenton last Saturday.

The 'Cats JV mat squad, coached by Charles Stuber, lost only four bouts. Wheeling won five decisions, two forfeits and one pin to establish its winning total.

Taking decisions for the 'Cats were Chuck Nute (95 pounds), Bill Henne (127), Eric Meisenheimer (133), Phil Peet (138) and Dan Devito (165). Winning on forfeits were Jim Boscamp (120) and Ken Halliday (154) while heavyweight Frank Abboreno picked up the lone

But nothing, not even Palatine's obvious desire to stay with Forest View, could counterbalance that scorching offensive flurry.

The principal forces were forward Pat Dunnigan and guard Jim Buckholz. They each totaled eight points in the stretch, and Buckholz especially had the aura of a man who couldn't miss. They were high for FV in the game, with 19 and 17 points.

The key moments in the key second quarter occurred between 7:07 and 5:00. In that time, Forest View went from a 17-13 deficit to a 19-17 lead. Dunnigan had a pair of field goals and Byron Borgardt bombed in a long set shot. Two of those goals followed Palatine turnovers, some of the few turnovers in a game marred only by some officiating rated highly unpopular by both sides.

THE FALCONS never trailed after that, and they weren't menaced again until the fourth quarter, when the Pirates created a wave of zeal among their admirers by charging back into contention.

The period opened with Palatine down 52-38 and presumably dead. But five minutes and 35 seconds later, the Pirates were down only 57-53. It was accomplished with some good shooting of their own — seven for 12 in the period — a pressing defense, and a Forest View fade. The entire starting lineup contributed for Mueller's Pirates in the surge, but forward Paul Kozlicki — with eight points in the period — contributed most.

It turned again at 1:20, when foul-plagued Palatine guard Randy McWilliams committed his last and Howie Brasch turned it into a pair of free throws. Moments after that, Willy fouled out on Borgardt, and his free throw gave FV a 60-53 advantage. It was really the end then, and Forest View — with Palatine — remained prominent on the MSL's list of contenders.

Knight JV's In Mat Win

Wins at 154 and 165 pounds gave Prospect JV wrestlers a 20-19 victory over Maine West last Friday.

Entering the crucial action the Knights were up by one, at 14-13. Then Gary Cobe won 4-2 at 154 and John Jantac won 10-9 at 165 to supply all the points needed for the triumph.

Others won for Prospect in action against Maine were Bick Basch (95), Dick Gewartowski (112), Mike Herod (120) and Mike Rutkowski (138). All took decisions. Joe Koza (145) picked up two points for the Knights by getting a draw.

With that win Prospect's junior varsity record was lifted above .500. The Knights are now 5-4 overall under coach Tom Porter and 3-1 in Mid-Suburban League action.

Take M-SL Top Spot

Knights Beat Maine 5 For 10th Win in Row

by MICHAEL HESS

Gigantic dividends were collected on a tiny investment of talent by Prospect cagers last weekend.

On Friday evening the Knights were hosted by Maine West. Coach Dick Kinneman's quintet captured that contest by a 47-36 count.

Dividends? In triumph Prospect pushed its over-all record to 13-3. It was the 10th win in a row for the Knights and left them alone atop Mid-Suburban League standings with a 4-0 mark.

Investment? Prospect played a poor game, looked inept, did nothing with much skill. Bad shots, unnecessary fouls, erratic passes and fumbled rebounds plagued the Knights throughout but . . . But, they still gained victory.

VICTORY CAME only because Prospect happened to be up against a team, one of the few, which could be topped with a sub-par performance. The Knights faced a Maine outfit which carried a 1-12 season record, 0-3 M-SL mark, six game losing streak and offense which averaged just 46 points a game.

"We looked lousy," offered headman Kinneman after it was over. "We weren't up for the game and our performance showed it. We underestimated them and they played well, though they lacked our size and experience. We just played a bad game."

One exception to this lackluster showing by Prospect, the exception which won the battle, was junior forward Tom Lundstedt.

Lundstedt made nine of 12 goal attempts and nine of 12 tries at the line. His 27 points were 58 per cent of his team's total output. He made 22 of the Knights' 28 markers in the second half. Lundstedt also pulled down eight of Prospect's total of 18 rebounds.

WITH THAT performance the 6-3 standout set another school record for the Knights. His nine foul shots gave him 111 for the year, one more than the old record of 110 set by George Pomey during 1960-61 action. It was the fourth standard Lundstedt has broken or tied this season.

Prospect began the struggle with Maine West as if there would never be any doubt about the outcome. After five minutes of first quarter play the Knights led 8-6 but a 12-footer by Craig Wolf and a hook and lay-up by Lundstedt made it 14-6 as the period ended.

During quarter two Prospect made just two of eight from the floor, one of five at the line, made three turnovers and were out-rebounded by shorter Maine forces. Totals for the period had the Knights with five, lowest figure for any eight minutes this season, while the Warriors, with Ken Mueller making four of five bucket attempts, had 10.

At the intermission Prospect led by only three, 19-16.

Through the third quarter the Knights played on even terms with Maine, primarily due to their eight turnovers. Lundstedt put in 10 of Prospect's 12 points, the other two coming on Wolf's last second jumper from 15 feet.

PROSPECT HAD increased its half time margin from three to four, at 31-27, as the closing period got underway.

Lundstedt opened scoring in the last quarter with a foul shot. However Mueller made one from 20 feet and Dick Manny chipped in a free throw making the tally 32-30 with five minutes remaining. Maine never got closer.

Lundstedt's three point play offset Manny's goal. Then Lundstedt tied and broke the free throw mark with two from the line which offset a goal by Harry Tistle. At that juncture, with 2:47 left, the score was 37-34.

OPENING THE final margin, Lundstedt flipped in a rebound, Wolf hit from the corner and Lundstedt completed his 27 point production with goals from three and six feet. Tom Beard's lay-up gave the Knights their last scoring and Mueller, whose 16 points made him the only other scorer beside Lundstedt to hit double figures, set closing Maine figures with two free tosses.

Game statistics showed Prospect with a narrow 18-13 edge in rebounds, a 17-11 edge in turnovers and a 50 per cent (18 of 36) to 48 per cent (13 of 27) edge in field goal shooting. Their point total of 47 was the lowest this season for the winning Knights.

Cards Whip Riverside

Hot Second Quarter Keys Arlington Win

by BOB FRISK

Twenty-eight points in eight minutes, Arlington's hottest single quarter of the season, ripped open a tight game Friday evening and carried the varsity Cardinals past Riverside-Brookfield, 76-67.

Drilling 12 baskets in only 18 shots and controlling both boards, Arlington outscored the host Bulldogs 28-16 in that second stanza to vault into a lead it never relinquished in the West Suban Conference battle.

Arlington's previous high for a single period was 27 in the waltz past LaGrange.

THE METHODICAL Cardinals, experiencing some anxious moments in the final half but never breaking under the pressure, made Riverside its eighth straight victim in a torrid streak that started in December.

A balanced attack highlighted the win as five Cardinals reached double figures and a sixth, 6-6 junior Jim Donchess, missed only because of foul problems.

The victory, achieved on Arlington's final visit to the Riverside gymnasium, was the first for the Cardinals at R-B since a 72-46 shocker in 1963.

ALTHOUGH THE host Bulldogs kept things interesting in the first period Friday, they couldn't keep pace in the second stanza as Ted Wissen's outfit scorched the nets with some dazzling marksmanship.

Riverside was on top 18-16 heading into the second quarter but was down 37-22 five minutes later. The Cards hit eight of their first 11 shots in the second period with Steve Allen and Donchess the main Bulldog tormenters.

Allen, the 6-3 junior who topped 20 points for the fourth straight game, had eight in the second period Friday, rifling in a jumper from the side, drive, shot from the top of the key, and 10-footer.

Donchess had seven in that second quarter before retiring to the sidelines with three personal fouls. Jim returned in the third quarter but fouled out early in the final segment.

RIVERSIDE GOT back within five (51-46) with 2:14 remaining in the third quarter, but the pressure eased when Pete Barker, coming up with another strong relief chore, popped in a 10-foot jumper, Donchess hit a free throw, and Allen connected from the corner.

Arlington pulled out to a 12-point cushion in the concluding quarter when Riverside launched another rally. The hosts cut the Cardinal lead to six points (67-61) with 4:08 remaining, and both Arlington big men, 6-6 Bruce Hubbard and 6-6 Donchess, were shelved by five fouls.

Barker contributed some clutch work at this stage. He hit a 10-footer to give Arlington a 69-61 lead and one minute later, after R-B had failed to dent the scoreboard again, the steady senior guard pushed in two free throws.

R-B CONTINUED TO peck away until they were back within six again with 1:23 left. A steal gave the Bulldogs a chance to climb even closer, but a shot went off and Jim Jorgensen cleared for Arlington.

Jorgensen, who had seven of the Cards' first nine points in the game, hit two free throws with 44 seconds left to give Arlington a 73-65 lead. Terry Townley and Allen also scored from the line for the final Cardinal points.

Riverside scored at the buzzer for its final basket. The Bulldogs hit four shots at the buzzer in the game.

Allen was high for the Cards with 21 points. Townley collected 13, seven from the line, and Hubbard and Jorgensen had 12 each. Barker added 10 after coming off the bench.

Wildcat Jayvees Grab Mat Victory

Wheeling's junior varsity wrestlers sent their season record to 6-5-1 with a 32-16 victory over Fenton last Saturday.

The 'Cats JV mat squad, coached by Charles Stuber, lost only four bouts. Wheeling won five decisions, two forfeits and one pin to establish its winning total.

Taking decisions for the 'Cats were Chuck Nute (95 pounds), Bill Henne (127), Eric Meisenheimer (133), Phil Peet (138) and Dan Devito (165). Winning on forfeits were Jim Boscamp (120) and Ken Halliday (154) while heavyweight Frank Aboreno picked up the lone

St. Viator Sophs Record Cage Split

St. Viator's sophomore basketball team split a Chicagoland Prep League doubleheader last weekend by topping St. Mel of Chicago, 45-42, Friday night and dropping a 56-41 decision to St. Ignatius the following evening.

The young Lions got off to a slow start in Friday night's encounter at St. Mel and found themselves on the short end of an 8-6 score at the end of the first quarter.

But the locals came rushing back in the next two periods. With 5'7 guard Pat Zeller leading the way with some fine outside shooting, Viator opened up a 37-27 lead after three quarters.

Zeller was high scorer in the game with 23 points on nine baskets and five free throws.

A one point second quarter spelled defeat for the Lions in Saturday night's home game against St. Ignatius.

The score was 11-9 with the visitors on top at the end of one period, but the only point Viators could muster in the second stanza was a free throw by Gary Berg and the half ended with Ignatius out in front 26-10.

Although the Lions rallied to score 20 points in the final period it wasn't enough to make the outcome close.

But Not By Much

Steve's Back In Lead Role

It wasn't much of a lead, but there was Steve's Restaurant on top of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League, all alone.

Last year's champions of rounds one and two nudged into a solo lead on the third evening of action in the league's second round, bumping River Rand Bowl 3-1 to do it last Saturday.

The other teams remained flocked behind Steve's, with Striking Lanes knotting Morton Pontiac 2-2 and Lattof Chevrolet — the team that deposed Steve's in round one — bumping Rolling Meadows Bowl 3-1.

STEVE'S DID nothing spectacular to pick up its three points, but it did pick up River Rand on a chilly night. After falling badly in the first game, Steve's came back to win two and three and take the point for pins.

A 571 series was tops for Steve's, the work of Ann Neumann. River Rand's Ethel Juenger had 583, but none of her teammates got over 500, so the way was clear for some Steve's profiting.

The Striking Lanes-Morton Pontiac split saw a lot of individual profiting by Joan Lindahl, who almost single-handedly made it possible for Morton to win the first two games. She started with a 226 and a 203, adding 210 for an ultimate 639 series, better than any series rolled in the PWCTL this season.

Striking, with a balanced performance in the third game, came back big to not only win that stanza, but to clinch the pinfall point. Tops for Striking was Anne Cadelina with 535.

LATTOF HAD balance all around in taking the measure of Rolling Meadows Bowl, with the five team series ranging from Vi Douglas' 500 to Donna Reinhardt's 549.

RMB had balance too, but the cluster of scores was lower, topped by Marlene Smith's 526. The win kept Lattof — with Striking Lanes — one point back of Steve's.

The leaders will collide with fourth place Morton Pontiac in this Saturday's action at Rolling Meadows Bowl. The hosts — in contention as much as any team in the league right now — will get Striking, and Lattof will meet River Rand Bowl.

'Cats JVs In Mat Win With Conant

The first victory in Mid-Suburban league competition came for Wheeling's junior varsity wrestlers at the expense of Conant last Friday. The Wildcats triumphed 27-16 on their own mats.

For Charles Stuber's JVs, it was the first MSL win after three losses, and it moved the victors to a 5-5-1 dual record over-all. Ron Rio's Cougars also ended the day at 1-3 in the MSL, with a 6-4 mark over-all.

AFTER WHEELING'S Chuck Nute won 3-1 at 95, Conant went into an early lead. Martin Ramirez of the Cougars won 7-0 at 103 and Clark Ellithorpe triumphed 4-1 at 112. Jim Boscamp evened it for Wheeling with a 14-7 win at 120, but Bill Lee — with a 2-0 win at 127 — put the Cougars ahead again.

After that, it was almost all Wheeling. Victories went to Eric Meisenheimer (133) on a 2-0 decision, Tom Paturlski on a 13-9 decision at 138; Dan DeVito (165) on a 7-0 decision and Larry Knaack (180) and Frank Abboreno (Heavyweight) on pins. Phil Peet and Conant's Dick Robertson tied 8-8 at 145, while Conant's only other victory came from George Reedy, who pinned Bill Link at 154.

Doug Sanderson was involved in a 6-6 tie at 154 pounds in the battle with Riverside.

Also scoring wins against Hinsdlae were Al Oates at 103 pounds, Chuck Schini at 112, and Paul Douglas at 13.

After Blanking Karlsen 7-0

Sports Chalet Stands Alone At PCTL Top

It sometimes takes a little while to prove it, but there's still evidence to demonstrate that he who works steadily toward his goal will achieve it.

Concourse Sports Chalet, which began a gradual ascent toward the top of the Paddock Classic Traveling League midway through the PCTL's first round, finally made it last Saturday night.

The Sports did it with a spurt, blanking Karlsen Pharmacy 7-0 to dramatically break free of the tie they had achieved first last week.

The third of three teams that had been tied for the pinnacle — Brim's Pioneer Lanes —took a 5-2 bouncing from Bill Cook Buick, which moved up to a tie for third. And with Jeffery Lanes and Morton Pontiac both winning big — over The Brass Rail and City Welding Sales and Service — the league suddenly took on a profile of Sports Chalet alone at the top and five others struggling to be runner-up.

NONE OF THIS, of course, necessarily represents anything final about the PCTL's rankings, because the second round is still in its infancy. But it was at least the moment that the Sports did what they had indicated they intended to do some time ago.

One of the primary men of the moment was young Bob Gill. His 235-189-198—622 represented one of the best games and series of the evening and contributed largely to Chalet's best team game of 1047 and best team series of 2940. But Tom Kouros also did some impressive pin-piling, with 220-212-177—609.

As a team, Sports Chalet had three such healthy games that Karlsen never had a chance. The Pharmacy team was further hurt by the absence of league high-average man Joe Simonis, but his presence probably wouldn't have made much difference. As it was, Herm Simonis was high for Karlsen with 581.

BILL COOK Buick stayed with the important pack by clipping Pioneer Lanes on the losers' alleys. It was a closely-fought series, with all the games fairly close.

Paul Borvig's 600 — including a 238 game — and Norb Leja's 599 were instrumental for Bill Cook, while Ron Sheldon was alone for Pioneer with 601.

The Brass Rail absorbed its third straight bouncing in the second round, falling 5-2 to Jeffery Lanes at River Rand Bowl. The points for the Railers, achieved in game one, were their first in the new play.

JEFFERY HAD a balanced team performance, getting its best from Don Christensen (a 607) and Whitey Hefferan (604). The Brass Rail gained a 606 from Harvey Randolph.

One of the rare ties popped up in the Morton-City Welding meeting, and it gave the welders their only point in a 6-1 Morton final. The two teams deadlocked 1014-1014 in game two, with Morton's Les Zikes' 239 the offering that prevented a City Welding game victory. Morton had little trouble in the other games.

Zikes ended with a 613 series, but Bob Glaser was high for Morton with 620. High for City Welding — and the PCTL — was Bob Hurwitz, who fashioned a 624 series.

Sports Chalet will get a good test this Saturday, meeting Bill Cook Buick at Rolling Meadows Bowl. Brim's will host Karlsen in a struggle of runners-up, while Morton and Jeffery will try to break their fifth-place deadlock and City Welding and The Brass Rail slash it out at the bottom.

St. Viator Wins Jayvee Contest

St. Viator's jayvee basketball team, bolstered by the appearance of two varsity performers, toppled Elmwood Park Monday afternoon, 68-58.

The Lions jumped out to a 17-8 lead after one period and after a poor second quarter settled down to seal the decision.

Dan Collins, a varsity regular who was working in the jayvee tilt to get more experience at guard, collected 18 points for the winners. Bill Reising had 15.

St. Viator coach Larry Nomellini also used varsity forward Emille Bataille.

THE MEISTER BRAU TEAM of Chicago will battle the Paddock Classic All-Stars this Sunday afternoon, Feb. 6, at 2:30 in a special exhibition match at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights. Bowling for the Chicago entry will be (kneeling, l. to r.) Ches Dziedzina and Carl Carlson and (standing) Frank Purpura, Paul Krumske, and Adam Kmak.

Beverly Hosts Bowling Stars

Bowling enthusiasts should plan now to spend some time at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights Sunday afternoon.

A special exhibition match will unfold at 2:30 p.m. at Beverly with a select group of bowlers from the Paddock Classic Traveling League tangling with the highly regarded Chicago Meister Brau Classic squad.

Paul Krumske, the choice of newspapermen as bowler of the half century, is sports director for the Peter Hand Brewery of Chicago, and he paced his team to the city championship last year.

Other members of the Meister Braus are Carl Carlson, holder of a 210 average in league play last season; Ches Cziedzina, another 210-average bowler; Frank Purpura (202 average); and Adam Kmak (202).

George Schmidt of Addison will captain the Paddock Classic All-Stars with the rest of the lineup to be selected from among Les Zikes of Palatine, Joe Simonis of Des Plaines, Don Christensen of Arlington Heights, Al Jordan of Arlington, Bob Gill of Mount Prospect, Ted Zimmerman of Des Plaines, and Paul Borvig of Palatine.

Beverly Lanes is located at 8 S. Beverly Lane in Arlington Heights, two blocks east of the water tower.

But Not By Much

Steve's Back In Lead Role

It wasn't much of a lead, but there was Steve's Restaurant on top of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League, all alone.

Last year's champions of rounds one and two nudged into a solo lead on the third evening of action in the league's second round, bumping River Rand Bowl 3-1 to do it last Saturday.

The other teams remained flocked behind Steve's, with Striking Lanes knotting Morton Pontiac 2-2 and Lattof Chevrolet — the team that deposed Steve's in round one — bumping Rolling Meadows Bowl 3-1.

STEVE'S DID nothing spectacular to pick up its three points, but it did pick up River Rand on a chilly night. After falling badly in the first game, Steve's came back to win two and three and take the point for pins.

A 571 series was tops for Steve's, the work of Ann Neumann. River Rand's Ethel Juenger had 583, but none of her teammates got over 500, so the way was clear for some Steve's profiting.

The Striking Lanes-Morton Pontiac split saw a lot of individual profiting by Joan Lindahl, who almost single-handedly made it possible for Morton to win the first two games. She started with a 226 and a 203, adding 210 for an ultimate 639 series, better than any series rolled in the PWCTL this season.

Striking, with a balanced performance in the third game, came back big to not only win that stanza, but to clinch the pinfall point. Tops for Striking was Anne Cadelina with 535.

LATTOF HAD balance all around in taking the measure of Rolling Meadows Bowl, with the five team series ranging from Vi Douglas' 500 to Donna Reinhardt's 549.

RMB had balance too, but the cluster of scores was lower, topped by Marlene Smith's 526. The win kept Lattof — with Striking Lanes — one point back of Steve's.

The leaders will collide with fourth place Morton Pontiac in this Saturday's action at Rolling Meadows Bowl. The hosts — in contention as much as any team in the league right now — will get Striking, and Lattof will meet River Rand Bowl.

The first victory in Mid-Suburban league competition came for Wheeling's junior varsity wrestlers at the expense of Conant last Friday. The Wildcats triumphed 27-16 on their own mats.

For Charles Stuber's JVs, it was the first MSL win after three losses, and it moved the victors to a 5-5-1 dual record over-all. Ron Rio's Cougars also ended the day at 1-3 in the MSL, with a 6-4 mark over-all.

AFTER WHEELING'S Chuck Nute won 3-1 at 95, Conant went into an early lead. Martin Ramirez of the Cougars won 7-0 at 103 and Clark Ellithorpe triumphed 4-1 at 112. Jim Boscamp evened it for Wheeling with a 14-7 win at 120, but Bill Lee — with a 2-0 win at 127 — put the Cougars ahead again.

After that, it was almost all Wheeling. After Blanking Karlsen 7-0

Sports Chalet Stands Alone At PCTL Top

It sometimes takes a little while to prove it, but there's still evidence to demonstrate that he who works steadily toward his goal will achieve it.

Concourse Sports Chalet, which began a gradual ascent toward the top of the Paddock Classic Traveling League midway through the PCTL's first round, finally made it last Saturday night.

The Sports did it with a spurt, blanking Karlsen Pharmacy 7-0 to dramatically break free of the tie they had achieved first last week.

The third of three teams that had been tied for the pinnacle — Brim's Pioneer Lanes —took a 5-2 bouncing from Bill Cook Buick, which moved up to a tie for third. And with Jeffery Lanes and Morton Pontiac both winning big — over The Brass Rail and City Welding Sales and Service — the league suddenly took on a profile of Sports Chalet alone at the top and five others struggling to be runner-up.

NONE OF THIS, of course, necessarily represents anything final about the PCTL's rankings, because the second round is still in its infancy. But it was at least the moment that the Sports did what they had indicated they intended to do some time ago.

One of the primary men of the moment was young Bob Gill. His 235-189-198—622 represented one of the best games and series of the evening and contributed largely to Chalet's best team game of 1047 and best team series of 2940. But Tom Kouros also did some impressive pin-piling, with 220-212-177—609.

As a team, Sports Chalet had three such healthy games that Karlsen never had a chance. The Pharmacy team was further hurt by the absence of league high-average man Joe Simonis, but his presence probably wouldn't have made much difference. As it was, Herm Simonis was high for Karlsen with 581.

BILL COOK Buick stayed with the important pack by clipping Pioneer Lanes on the losers' alleys. It was a closely-fought series, with all the games fairly close.

Paul Borvig's 600 — including a 238 game — and Norb Leja's 599 were instrumental for Bill Cook, while Ron Sheldon was alone for Pioneer with 601.

The Brass Rail absorbed its third straight bouncing in the second round, falling 5-2 to Jeffery Lanes at River Rand Bowl. The points for the Railers, achieved in game one, were their first in the new play.

JEFFERY HAD a balanced team performance, getting its best from Don Christensen (a 607) and Whitey Hefferan (604). The Brass Rail gained a 606 from Harvey Randolph.

One of the rare ties popped up in the Morton-City Welding meeting, and it gave the welders their only point in a 6-1 Morton final. The two teams deadlocked 1014-1014 in game two, with Morton's Les Zikes' 239 the offering that prevented a City Welding game victory. Morton had little trouble in the other games.

Zikes ended with a 613 series, but Bob Glaser was high for Morton with 620. High for City Welding — and the PCTL — was Bob Hurwitz, who fashioned a 624 series.

Sports Chalet will get a good test this Saturday, meeting Bill Cook Buick at Rolling Meadows Bowl. Brim's will host Karlsen in a struggle of runners-up, while Morton and Jeffery will try to break their fifth-place deadlock and City Welding and The Brass Rail slash it out at the bottom.

St. Viator Wins Jayvee Contest

St. Viator's jayvee basketball team, bolstered by the appearance of two varsity performers, toppled Elmwood Park Monday afternoon, 68-58.

The Lions jumped out to a 17-8 lead after one period and after a poor second quarter settled down to seal the decision.

Dan Collins, a varsity regular who was working in the jayvee tilt to get more experience at guard, collected 18 points for the winners. Bill Reising had 15.

St. Viator coach Larry Nomellini also used varsity forward Emille Bataille.

THE MEISTER BRAU TEAM of Chicago will battle the Paddock Classic All-Stars this Sunday afternoon, Feb. 6, at 2:30 in a special exhibition match at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights. Bowling for the Chicago entry will be (kneeling, l. to r.) Ches Dziedzina and Carl Carlson and (standing) Frank Purpura, Paul Krumske, and Adam Kmak.

Lions Split; Handle St. Ignatius, 55-49

by FRED BOEDEKER

Win a little, lose a little. That pretty well sums up St. Viator's basketball fortunes thus far this season.

The Lions split another Chicagoland Prep League doubleheader last weekend, losing to St. Mel of Chicago Friday night and rebounding to defeat St. Ignatius, 55-49, the following evening on their home court.

Head coach Larry Nomellini's cagers have been a hot and cold quintet most of the season and although they've had some prolific nights offensively, they have not been able to get a successful winning streak underway.

THE LOCALS opened up a 13-9 first quarter lead but were unable to keep the pace in the second stanza against St. Mel. The Knights, led by their sharp shooting guard John Ryan, put together an 18-point second period to gain a four point advantage, 27-23, at intermission.

The locals came out scrapping in the third quarter. With 6-7 center Paul Pomplun leading the way, the Lions fought back to within one point 40-39 at the end of three periods.

It was a nip and tuck battle with the score tied on three different occasions in the final quarter, but the Knights were able to open up a three point lead midway through the quarter and stretch it out to eight with just two minutes remaining in the game.

POMPLUN TURNED in his finest performance of the season in this game, collecting 30 points on 13 baskets and four free throws as well as leading all players in the rebounding department with fourteen. Paul contributed 22 of his counters in the second half while Viator was making its bid for victory.

Lion forward Paul Dumke contributed 14 points while Ryan led the Commandos with eighteen counters. Dumke left the game early in the last quarter with a foot injury that caused him to miss the following night's game.

A Lion Record

Paul Pomplun of St. Viator established a new school record last Friday evening when he collected 13 baskets against St. Mel. Pomplun had shared the previous record of 12 in a single game with Chuck Grandt.

NOMELLINI'S boys parlayed a scrappy offense and stingy defense into a victory over St. Ignatius, 55-49, Saturday night.

The Lions opened a six point lead 23-17 at half time and although the game remained close, they clung to the slim lead to claim their second victory of the season over the Chicago team.

Junior guard Frank Hogan led the locals offensively with nine field goals and four charity tosses for a total of 22 points. Pomplun completed his finest weekend of basketball by contributing 20 points and 16 rebounds to the Viator cause.

Scoring honors for the evening went to Frank Stankiewicz, St. Ignatius' high scoring forward, with 25 counters.

St. Viator resumes C.P.L. play with another doubleheader this weekend. The Lions, who now are in fourth place in the conference with a 4-4 mark will travel to River Grove to meet Holy Cross Friday night and return home to host undefeated DeLaSalle the following evening.

FV JV's Win 10th On Mats

Number 10 was one of the easiest. . .

Forest View JV wrestlers won their tenth straight meet without defeat this season by stomping Downers Grove North 42-6 last Saturday.

In addition to making their record 10-0 that triumph also upped the other season totals of the Falcons junior varsity. Thus far FV, under coach Maury Levy, has:

Run up a 367-111 margin in meet points over all opponents; Registered a 31-6 edge in pin victories; and compiled an 88-31-2 record for individual bouts.

There is one meet left for Forest View. That's this Friday (tomorrow) against Conant. A triumph for FV there would mean an undefeated season, an undisputed Mid-Suburban League crown and the best record of any Falcons team on any level in school history.

Against Downers, Forest View lost only two bouts. The Falcons took four matches with pins, five on decisions and one by forfeit.

Pirate Frosh In 47-43 OT Win Over FV Quint

Palatine's freshman basketball players evened out their season record last Saturday, using a 47-43 overtime effort over Forest View to do it.

The Pirates leveled out at a 5-5 mark with the victory, while Forest View also ended the game at .500, at 7-7. In Mid-Suburban League play, Palatine is 3-1, Forest View 0-3.

The game was tied 41-41 at the end of regulation play, and Leon Kasuboske's Pirates put it away with a 6-2 overtime edge. Scott Smith—the team's scoring leader with a 9.9 average — tied teammate Jerry Grybash for scoring honors with 11 points. Jerry Hoffman added nine with 11 rebounds, while Jim Weyhenmeyer and Bill Mazanet had eight rebounds apiece.

'Cats Sophs Finish First

For the second year in a row Wheeling sophomore wrestlers won a special quadrangular meet held at Prospect.

A total of 106 points was good enough to give the 'Cat sophs first place in the four school mat action. Host Knights grapplers were second with 99 points, Maine South was third with 95 and Conant, last, had 0.

To capture honors in the meet Wheeling gained five firsts, four seconds and three thirds.

Firsts for the 'Cats went to Israel Lopez (112 pounds), Ted Milbrat (120), Steve Strom (165), Pat McGuire (180) and Clay Aarhans (heavyweight). Seconds went to Rich Schachner (95), Thad Mikols (127), Pat Goin (138) and Dan Stavros (154) while Rick Abrams (103), Tom Russell (133) and Paul Harris (145) were third.

For the Knights, Jim Amoroso (95), Terry Holshauser (127) and Bob Link (138) were first. There were also five seconds and four thirds for second place Prospect. Conant had no one who won a bout and ended with fourths in every weight class.

R-B Sophs Top Cards

Riverside - Brookfield shot out to an 11-point lead in the first period Friday evening and breezed to a 52-27 frosh-soph basketball victory over visiting Arlington.

The hosts were on top 30-16 at halftime and added four more points to their advantage in a 12-8 third quarter.

Doug Somers was high for the losing Cardinals with four baskets for eight points. John Theroux, Chuck McGuffey, and R. J. Collins tossed in four markers each.

Arlington will host York Friday evening and journey to Hinsdale Saturday in a West Suburban Conference doubleheader.

Arlington Mat Squad Records Two Victories

Arlington's varsity wrestlers, assured of at least a .500 record in West Suburban Conference action this season, will shoot for their fourth league victory this Saturday afternoon in the finale.

Coach Julius Fliehler's Cardinals could push their conference record to 4-2-1 with a victory over visiting York in action that will get under way at 1:45 p.m.

Arlington enjoyed its biggest weekend of the mat season last Friday and Saturday with victories over conference rivals, Riverside-Brookfield and Hinsdale.

Fliehler's outfit nipped Riverside-Brookfield 22-19 despite losing the last two matches and came back the next day with a 20-19 win over Hinsdale.

ARLINGTON BUILT up a 22-13 lead after ten bouts against Riverside.

Jim Whitnell gave the Cards two points with a 3-3 tie at 95 pounds, but R-B rebounded thanks to a pin by Tom Ruzicka at 103 pounds and decision by Pete Campbell at 112.

Ruzicka was the state champ at 95 pounds last winter.

Arlington then ran off three straight victories to climb into a 13-6 advantage.

TOM MacCARTHY posted a 6-2 win at 120 pounds, and Mike Mills flattened his 127-pound foe in 5:37. Chip Douglas completed the rush with a 4-3 victory over highly regarded Roger Zeman at 133.

Dave Gooding lost a tough 4-3 decision at 138, but Kirk Wolter Mike Jones (165) put the Cards back on the board with easy victories.

Arlington lost the final two bouts but still had enough cushion for the win.

RON THOMPSON was the hero against Hinsdale, coming up with a near-fall in the final 30 seconds at heavyweight to gain a 5-2 win and give Arlington a 20-19 triumph.

Whitnell had started things off with a 6-0 win at 95 pounds and after two setbacks MacCarthy claimed a 10-0 victory at 120. Mills put the Cards in the lead with a 5-0 win at 127, and Douglas fashioned a 6-4 decision at 133.

Gooding tied at 138 for two more points, but Lindmark's 3-0 victory at 154 was the final Card win until Thompson came up with his heroics.

Wildcat Frosh Top Grenadiers

Carl Fricke scored 22 points, 10 from the free throw line, to lead Wheeling's frosh 'A' basketball team to a 59-42 victory over Elk Grove last week.

The Wildcats held a 35-24 lead at halftime and coasted to their sixth victory in nine games.

Joe Kalisz scored 18 points and Gregg Peterson 16 for the Grenadiers who now show a 2-8 mark.

Wheeling won the 'B' struggle, 50-20, to hike its season mark to 8-1. Ken St. Onge scored 21 points for the winners.

Ties for First

Knights JV Quintet Edges Maine West

A missed free throw with one second left brought double dividends to Prospect junior varsity cagers last Friday.

First of all that errant try from the line gave the Knights JV's a victory over Maine West. Final tally in that contest was 44-43.

Secondly, the triumph moved Prospect into a tie with MW atop Mid-Suburban League standings. The Warriors had been unbeaten in M-SL play but now both clubs own 3-1 conference marks.

THE KNIGHTS and Maine had played even-up through most of the first half. An 8-6 first quarter margin belonged to Prospect which moved ahead 10-7 after two minutes of period two. MW jumped in front 17-12 before Mike Mueller put in nine straight points to lift the Knights to a 21-19 advantage at the half.

In the third quarter Prospect outscored the Warriors 10-3. Pacing the Knights was Mike Anderson, who had four points which helped put his team into a 31-22 lead as the final period began. Prospect maintained its margin and had a 10 point bulge, at 44-34, with 1:01 remaining.

Then Maine West made its move.

Two buckets by Phil Murdock made the score 44-38 with 21 seconds left. Ken Mach made a pair of foul throws and Larry Kahler a 12-footer to whittle the gap to two, 44-42, as the clock read :09. A bad Knights pass in the last seconds gave the Warriors ownership at midcourt.

The pass in went to Mach, who dribbled around the key and shot. He missed but was fouled after shooting and went to the line with a one and one opportunity and chance to tie it up. Just a single second was left as Mach made the first foul attempt. However he missed the second, time ran out and Prospect had won its 10th game of the season against only two losses.

HIGH IN THE battle was the Knights' Mueller with 20 points. Murdock canned 18 for Maine and both MW's Mach and Prospect's Anderson chipped in 10 markers.

Shooting percentages were as close as the final score. The Knights hit 17 of 47 from the floor (36.2 per cent) and 10 for 18 from the line (55.5 per cent). Of their goal tries the Warriors connected on 13 of 40 (32.5 per cent) while making 17 of 31 (54.8 per cent) at the line. Prospect had 17 turnovers and Maine 11.

Losers Frigid From Floor

Cougars Crush 'Cats With 63-39 Domination

by MARV PRELLBERG JR.

The Conant High varsity cagers earned a measure of revenge against Wheeling High last Friday night by downing the visiting Wildcats in a convincing 63-39 fashion.

Wheeling, in two seasons of varsity competition, has managed to win only four games, and two of these victories have come at the expense of the Cougar five. These two squads squared off In the Fenton Holiday Cage Tournament late last December, and Coach Mike Owens' Wildcats came off with a 58-54 overtime triumph.

However, judging by the results of last Friday night's action, there has been an abrupt change in the caliber of play of these two Mid-Suburban League entries.

Especially prominent in the Conant High face lifting is the presence of 6-7 Larry Powell. He had not been available for action in previous Conant-Wheeling tussles, and his presence in this game was an important factor in the final outcome.

POWELL'S importance does not show up in the box score statistics, which indicates only a three point performance, but rather in the defensive and rebounding role played in this contest. Wheeling had nobody that could challenge Powell in the rebounding department, and the 'Cats also found it almost impossible to penetrate the middle of the Conant zone when the lanky center was patroling the free throw lane on defense. Five times Wheeling cagers had their shots blocked by Powell as they tried to get a shot off in his defensive area.

For Wheeling, this certainly must rank among its poorest performances this season. The Wildcats were noticeably inept in being able to crack the Conant zone defense for any close-in shots, and therefore had to rely primarily on a barrage of long range field goal attempts. In this effort, the Cats were as cold as the frigid winter air that surrounded the Conant High fieldhouse that evening.

Wheeling managed to fire up a few more field goal attempts than did Conant, but the percentage of effectiveness was heavily in the favor of the Cougars. The Wildcats tried 60 times to score from the field and could only connect on 11. This registered them in at a frigid 18.3 per cent shooting average for the night.

CONANT, ON THE other hand, had a 45.3 per cent success ratio, hitting 24 baskets in 54 attempts.

Even at the free throw slot Wheeling had a poor night, hitting barely over 50 per cent, 17 for 33. The Cougars recorded 15 if 25 from the charity stripe.

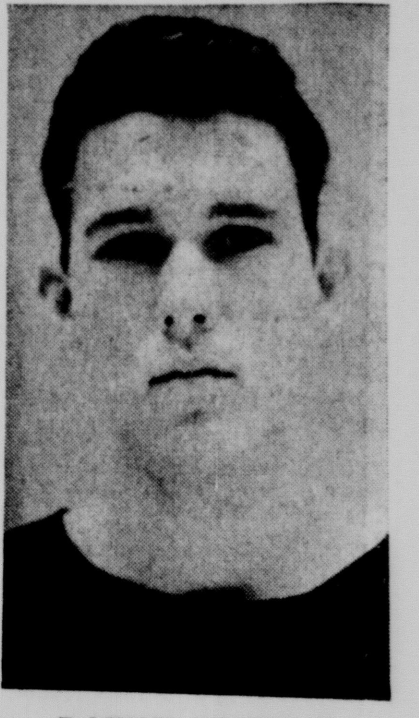
Wheeling's cold field goal shooting performance was especially noticeable in the first half. The Wildcats went the whole eight-minute first quarter without tallying a field goal. Finally, with the second period two-and-one-half minutes old, Scott Bischoff scored on a corner jump shot to end the Wheeling field goal famine. Bischoff's successful shot was the twentieth field goal attempt of the game by Wheeling.

IN SPITE OF this inability to score from the field, Wheeling managed to stay close to the Cougars in the first quarter. The Cats tallied 11 free throws in this quarter and were behind only 15-11 going into the second period.

However, with Bill Lunebach and John Glasshof leading the way, the Cougars spurted out to a 32-13 lead with 2:15 left in the half.

Wheeling closed the gap somewhat before the first half ended, but Conant stretched its lead in the third quarter to 22 points, 50-28 and continued its dominance in the final period for the 63-39 win.

Lunebach and Glasshof were the leading scorers for the victors with 20 and 16 points respectively. Bischoff with 16 paced Wheeling.



LARRY POWELL
Keeping Them Away

The victory gave Coach Rol Berg's Conant quintet a season record of 5-10, and a MSL record of 2-2.

For Wheeling it was loss number 12 of the season against three victories. The Cats now stand 0-4 in the MSL race.

FV JV's Win 10th On Mats

Number 10 was one of the easiest. . .

Forest View JV wrestlers won their tenth straight meet without defeat this season by stomping Downers Grove North 42-6 last Saturday.

In addition to making their record 10-0 that triumph also upped the other season totals of the Falcons junior varsity. Thus far FV, under coach Maury Levy, has:

Run up a 367-111 margin in meet points over all opponents; Registered a 31-6 edge in pin victories; and compiled ar 88-31-2 record for individual bouts.

There is one meet left for Forest View. That's this Friday (tomorrow) against Conant. A triumph for FV there would mean an undefeated season, an undisputed Mid-Suburban League crown and the best record of any Falcons team on any level in school history.

Against Downers, Forest View lost only two bouts. The Falcons took four matches with pins, five on decisions and one by forfeit.

Pirate Frosh In 47-43 OT Win Over FV Quint

Palatine's freshman basketball players evened out their season record last Saturday, using a 47-43 overtime effort over Forest View to do it.

The Pirates leveled out at a 5-5 mark with the victory, while Forest View also ended the game at .500, at 7-7. In Mid-Suburban League play, Palatine is 3-1, Forest View 0-3.

The game was tied 41-41 at the end of regulation play, and Leon Kasuboske's Pirates put it away with a 6-2 overtime edge. Scott Smith—the team's scoring leader with a 9.9 average — tied teammate Jerry Grybash for scoring honors with 11 points. Jerry Hoffman added nine with 11 rebounds, while Jim Weyhenmeyer and Bill Mazanet had eight rebounds apiece.

'Cats Sophs Finish First

For the second year in a row Wheeling sophomore wrestlers won a special quadrangular meet held at Prospect.

A total of 106 points was good enough to give the 'Cat sophs first place in the four school mat action. Host Knights grapplers were second with 99 points, Maine South was third with 95 and Conant, last, had 0.

To capture honors in the meet Wheeling gained five firsts, four seconds and three thirds.

Firsts for the 'Cats went to Israel Lopez (112 pounds), Ted Milbrat (120), Steve Strom (165), Pat McGuire (180) and Clay Aarhans (heavyweight). Seconds went to Rich Schachner (95), Thad Mikols (127), Pat Goin (138) and Dan Stavros (154) while Rick Abrams (103), Tom Russell (133) and Paul Harris (145) were third.

For the Knights, Jim Amoroso (95), Terry Holshauser (127) and Bob Link (138) were first. There were also five seconds and four thirds for second place Prospect. Conant had no one who won a bout and ended with fourths in every weight class.

R-B Sophs Top Cards

Riverside - Brookfield shot out to an 11-point lead in the first period Friday evening and breezed to a 52-27 frosh-soph basketball victory over visiting Arlington.

The hosts were on top 30-16 at halftime and added four more points to their advantage in a 12-8 third quarter.

Doug Somers was high for the losing Cardinals with four baskets for eight points. John Theroux, Chuck McGuffey, and R. J. Collins tossed in four markers each.

Arlington will host York Friday evening and journey to Hinsdale Saturday in a West Suburban Conference doubleheader.

Arlington Mat Squad Records Two Victories

Arlington's varsity wrestlers, assured of at least a .500 record in West Suburban Conference action this season, will shoot for their fourth league victory this Saturday afternoon in the finale.

Coach Julius Fliehler's Cardinals could push their conference record to 4-2-1 with a victory over visiting York in action that will get under way at 1:45 p.m.

Arlington enjoyed its biggest weekend of the mat season last Friday and Saturday with victories over conference rivals, Riverside-Brookfield and Hinsdale.

Fliehler's outfit nipped Riverside-Brookfield 22-19 despite losing the last two matches and came back the next day with a 20-19 win over Hinsdale.

ARLINGTON BUILT up a 22-13 lead after ten bouts against Riverside.

Jim Whitnell gave the Cards two points with a 3-3 tie at 95 pounds, but R-B rebounded thanks to a pin by Tom Ruzicka at 103 pounds and decision by Pete Campbell at 112.

Ruzicka was the state champ at 95 pounds last winter.

Arlington then ran off three straight victories to climb into a 13-6 advantage.

TOM MacCARTHY posted a 6-2 win at 120 pounds, and Mike Mills flattened his 127-pound foe in 5:37. Chip Douglas completed the rush with a 4-3 victory over highly regarded Roger Zeman at 133.

Dave Gooding lost a tough 4-3 decision at 138, but Kirk Wolter Mike Jones (165) put the Cards back on the board with easy victories.

Arlington lost the final two bouts but still had enough cushion for the win.

RON THOMPSON was the hero against Hinsdale, coming up with a near-fall in the final 30 seconds at heavyweight to gain a 5-2 win and give Arlington a 20-19 triumph.

Whitnell had started things off with a 6-0 win at 95 pounds and after two setbacks MacCarthy claimed a 10-0 victory at 120. Mills put the Cards in the lead with a 5-0 win at 127, and Douglas fashioned a 6-4 decision at 133.

Gooding tied at 138 for two more points, but Lindmark's 3-0 victory at 154 was the final Card win until Thompson came up with his heroics.

Wildcat Frosh Top Grenadiers

Carl Fricke scored 22 points, 10 from the free throw line, to lead Wheeling's frosh 'A' basketball team to a 59-42 victory over Elk Grove last week.

The Wildcats held a 35-24 lead at halftime and coasted to their sixth victory in nine games.

Joe Kalisz scored 18 points and Gregg Peterson 16 for the Grenadiers who now show a 2-8 mark.

Wheeling won the 'B' struggle, 50-20, to hike its season mark to 8-1. Ken St. Onge scored 21 points for the winners.

Ties for First

Knights JV Quintet Edges Maine West

A missed free throw with one second left brought double dividends to Prospect junior varsity cagers last Friday.

First of all that errant try from the line gave the Knights JV's a victory over Maine West. Final tally in that contest was 44-43.

Secondly, the triumph moved Prospect into a tie with MW atop Mid-Suburban League standings. The Warriors had been unbeaten in M-SL play but now both clubs own 3-1 conference marks.

THE KNIGHTS and Maine had played even-up through most of the first half. An 8-6 first quarter margin belonged to Prospect which moved ahead 10-7 after two minutes of period two. MW jumped in front 17-12 before Mike Mueller put in nine straight points to lift the Knights to a 21-19 advantage at the half.

In the third quarter Prospect outscored the Warriors 10-3. Pacing the Knights was Mike Anderson, who had four points which helped put his team into a 31-22 lead as the final period began. Prospect maintained its margin and had a 10 point bulge, at 44-34, with 1:01 remaining.

Then Maine West made its move.

Two buckets by Phil Murdock made the score 44-38 with 21 seconds left. Ken Mach made a pair of foul throws and Larry Kahler a 12-footer to whittle the gap to two, 44-42, as the clock read :09. A bad Knights pass in the last seconds gave the Warriors ownership at midcourt.

The pass in went to Mach, who dribbled around the key and shot. He missed but was fouled after shooting and went to the line with a one and one opportunity and chance to tie it up. Just a single second was left as Mach made the first foul attempt. However he missed the second, time ran out and Prospect had won its 10th game of the season against only two losses.

HIGH IN THE battle was the Knights' Mueller with 20 points. Murdock canned 18 for Maine and both MW's Mach and Prospect's Anderson chipped in 10 markers.

Shooting percentages were as close as the final score. The Knights hit 17 of 47 from the floor (36.2 per cent) and 10 for 18 from the line (55.5 per cent). Of their goal tries the Warriors connected on 13 of 40 (32.5 per cent) while making 17 of 31 (54.8 per cent) at the line. Prospect had 17 turnovers and Maine 11.

Losers Frigid From Floor

Cougars Crush 'Cats With 63-39 Domination

by MARV PRELLBERG JR.

The Conant High varsity cagers earned a measure of revenge against Wheeling High last Friday night by downing the visiting Wildcats in a convincing 63-39 fashion.

Wheeling, in two seasons of varsity competition, has managed to win only four games, and two of these victories have come at the expense of the Cougar five. These two squads squared off In the Fenton Holiday Cage Tournament late last December, and Coach Mike Owens' Wildcats came off with a 58-54 overtime triumph.

However, judging by the results of last Friday night's action, there has been an abrupt change in the caliber of play of these two Mid-Suburban League entries.

Especially prominent in the Conant High face lifting is the presence of 6-7 Larry Powell. He had not been available for action in previous Conant-Wheeling tussles, and his presence in this game was an important factor in the final outcome.

POWELL'S importance does not show up in the box score statistics, which indicates only a three point performance, but rather in the defensive and rebounding role played in this contest. Wheeling had nobody that could challenge Powell in the rebounding department, and the 'Cats also found it almost impossible to penetrate the middle of the Conant zone when the lanky center was patroling the free throw lane on defense. Five times Wheeling cagers had their shots blocked by Powell as they tried to get a shot off in his defensive area.

For Wheeling, this certainly must rank among its poorest performances this season. The Wildcats were noticeably inept in being able to crack the Conant zone defense for any close-in shots, and therefore had to rely primarily on a barrage of long range field goal attempts. In this effort, the Cats were as cold as the frigid winter air that surrounded the Conant High fieldhouse that evening.

Wheeling managed to fire up a few more field goal attempts than did Conant, but the percentage of effectiveness was heavily in the favor of the Cougars. The Wildcats tried 60 times to score from the field and could only connect on 11. This registered them in at a frigid 18.3 per cent shooting average for the night.

CONANT, ON THE other hand, had a 45.3 per cent success ratio, hitting 24 baskets in 54 attempts.

Even at the free throw slot Wheeling had a poor night, hitting barely over 50 per cent, 17 for 33. The Cougars recorded 15 if 25 from the charity stripe.

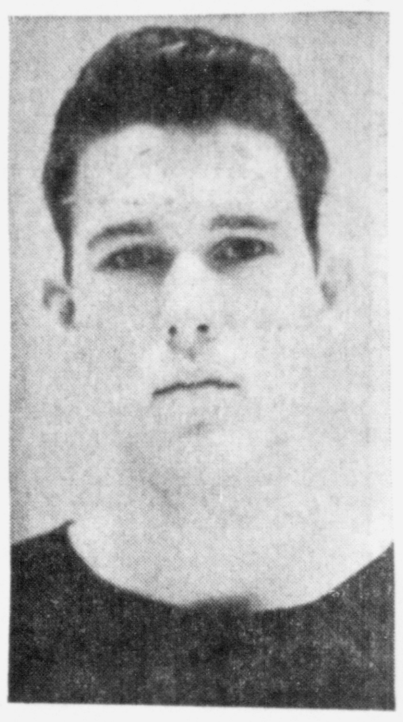
Wheeling's cold field goal shooting performance was especially noticeable in the first half. The Wildcats went the whole eight-minute first quarter without tallying a field goal. Finally, with the second period two-and-one-half minutes old, Scott Bischoff scored on a corner jump shot to end the Wheeling field goal famine. Bischoff's successful shot was the twentieth field goal attempt of the game by Wheeling.

IN SPITE OF this inability to score from the field, Wheeling managed to stay close to the Cougars in the first quarter. The Cats tallied 11 free throws in this quarter and were behind only 15-11 going into the second period.

However, with Bill Lunebach and John Glasshof leading the way, the Cougars spurted out to a 32-13 lead with 2:15 left in the half.

Wheeling closed the gap somewhat before the first half ended, but Conant stretched its lead in the third quarter to 22 points, 50-28 and continued its dominance in the final period for the 63-39 win.

Lunebach and Glasshof were the leading scorers for the victors with 20 and 16 points respectively. Bischoff with 16 paced Wheeling.



LARRY POWELL
Keeping Them Away

The victory gave Coach Rol Berg's Conant quintet a season record of 5-10, and a MSL record of 2-2.

For Wheeling it was loss number 12 of the season against three victories. The Cats now stand 0-4 in the MSL race.

2854 Total Earns Title For Eye Openers Entry

The pins were falling Sunday as they've never fallen before in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap bowling tournament for women.

A record-shattering performance carried the Stewed Tomatoes of the Thursday Morning Eye Openers league at Rolling Meadows Bowl to an impressive team title in the tourney at Striking Lanes in Mount Prospect.

But the champs weren't alone in their spectacular bowling.

Twelve temas cracked the money list in the women's event and each of the 12 topped the effort that earned Four Roses the Paddock championship in the 1965 headliner.

Four Roses posted a 2676 total pinfall with handicap in ruling the 1965 tourney. The Comets of the Wednesday Afternoon Alley Cats loop had a 2677 last Sunday and finished 12th.

THE STEWED Tomatoes earned 1966 laurels with a 2854 total, 84 pins better than the Paddock tourney record established in 1960 by the Tire Terminal entry.

Even the second place team, Bartlett Home Supply of the St. Hubert's league at Hoffman Lanes, eclipsed the previous tourney standard. Bartlett had a 2816 pinfall with handicap.

Third place Village News Agency of the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Bensenville Bowl was only six pins shy of the former record.

THE TOURNEY championship was worth a large traveling trophy, five individual trophies, and $200 for the Stewed Tomatoes team.

Esther Soukup, who carries a 155 average, topped the champs with a 526 series. Grace Lisching had a 500 and Sophie Topp bagged a 498. Claire Bakowski

Baumgartner's Basket Gives Cards Victory

A basket by Jim Baumgartner with nine seconds remaining gave Arlington High School's frosh 'A' Cardinals a 35-33 victory over Riverside - Brookfield last Saturday morning.

Baumgartner's basket came after Tom Pitchford's outfit had maintained possession in the closing minutes of the plebe cliff - hanger.

Balanced scoring paid off for the Cardinal five.

Arlington trailed by three points at halftime but rallied with a 13-4 third period.

Arlington also won the 'B' game, 62-33.

The Cardinal frosh will journey to York Saturday morning.

THE CHAMPS. The Stewed Tomatoes of the Thursday Morning Eye Openers league at Rolling Meadows Bowl captured the team title Sunday in the Paddock Publications bowling tournament for women at Striking Lanes.

2854 Total Earns Title For Eye Openers Entry

The pins were falling Sunday as they've never fallen before in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap bowling tournament for women.

A record-shattering performance carried the Stewed Tomatoes of the Thursday Morning Eye Openers league at Rolling Meadows Bowl to an impressive team title in the tourney at Striking Lanes in Mount Prospect.

But the champs weren't alone in their spectacular bowling.

Twelve temas cracked the money list in the women's event and each of the 12 topped the effort that earned Four Roses the Paddock championship in the 1965 headliner.

Four Roses posted a 2676 total pinfall with handicap in ruling the 1965 tourney. The Comets of the Wednesday Afternoon Alley Cats loop had a 2677 last Sunday and finished 12th.

THE STEWED Tomatoes earned 1966 laurels with a 2854 total, 84 pins better than the Paddock tourney record established in 1960 by the Tire Terminal entry.

Even the second place team, Bartlett Home Supply of the St. Hubert's league at Hoffman Lanes, eclipsed the previous tourney standard. Bartlett had a 2816 pinfall with handicap.

Third place Village News Agency of the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Bensenville Bowl was only six pins shy of the former record.

THE TOURNEY championship was worth a large traveling trophy, five individual trophies, and $200 for the Stewed Tomatoes team.

Esther Soukup, who carries a 155 average, topped the champs with a 526 series. Grace Lisching had a 500 and Sophie Topp bagged a 498. Claire Bakowski

Cardinal Tankers Post 3rd Victory

Trips to Elgin have been profitable for Arlington High School's varsity swimmers this winter.

Coach John Gardner's Cardinals only have three victories in nine dual meets, but two of those triumphs came against Elgin schools.

Arlington bumped Elgin Larkin in a December trip and last Friday scored a 51-43 victory over Elgin High.

Gardner's outfit will swim at Niles West Friday at 7:30 p.m. and at West Leyden next Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the final action before the district.

THE VARSITY Cards picked up five firsts at Elgin, sweeping both relays for 14 valuable markers.

Cary Oliver, Russ Larson, Bill Sayre, and Dick Robinson worked on the victorious medley relay with the Cards clicking off 1:57.9.

Greg Stafford, Scott Guilfoil, Dick Witcher, and Robinson teamed up for a 4:02.5 clocking in the freestyle relay.

DICK TUCKER gave Arlington a first in the 50 freestyle with a snappy 23.7, and John Erickson topped the breaststroke in 1:12.5. Dick Witcher ruled the diving alignment.

Elgin did gain a split for the day with a 57-38 victory in a junior-varsity battle.

The Cards managed to record four firsts although their victorious medley relay team was disqualified.

Bill Elsner posted a 27.3 clocking for a first in the 50 freestyle, and Jim Sarbaugh won the butterfly in 31.6. Bob Miller, Chuck Linsey, Randy Oppelt and Ray Peale swam on the winning freestyle relay.

A SPECIAL AWARD for his many years of service to the sport of bowling was presented to Robert Paddock (left), vice president of Paddock Publications, last Sunday at Striking Lanes. Mount Prospect Village President Daniel Congreve made the presentation which was part of the special tourney ceremonies set up by Marty Weber (right), owner of Striking Lanes.

The victory was worth a team trophy, five individual trophies and $67.37 in cash prizes for the championship Culligan entry of Pat Sauter, Irene Paice, Jerry Sauter, Ernest Neal, and Les Paice.

LES PAICE was the pacesetter for the winners with a 587 series, but Neal bagged a 573. Rounding out the team scores were Pat Sauter with a 455, Jerry Sauter with a 453, and Irene Paice with a 369.

Cards Bow in Frosh Wrestling

Riverside - Brookfield and Hinsdale walloped Arlington's frosh wrestlers last weekend.

Riverside scored in seven weight classes to post a 30-19 victory, and Hinsdale triumphed, 37-15.

McCoy was the individual standout for the Cards with a 6-5 decision at 154 against Riverside. He came back with a pin Saturday.

Wally Bednarz posted two wins at 180, one on forfeit against Hinsdale, and Gary Prochaska triumphed at 95 in the Hinsdale meet.

Cardinal Tankers Post 3rd Victory

Trips to Elgin have been profitable for Arlington High School's varsity swimmers this winter.

Coach John Gardner's Cardinals only have three victories in nine dual meets, but two of those triumphs came against Elgin schools.

Arlington bumped Elgin Larkin in a December trip and last Friday scored a 51-43 victory over Elgin High.

Gardner's outfit will swim at Niles West Friday at 7:30 p.m. and at West Leyden next Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the final action before the district.

THE VARSITY Cards picked up five firsts at Elgin, sweeping both relays for 14 valuable markers.

Cary Oliver, Russ Larson, Bill Sayre, and Dick Robinson worked on the victorious medley relay with the Cards clicking off 1:57.9.

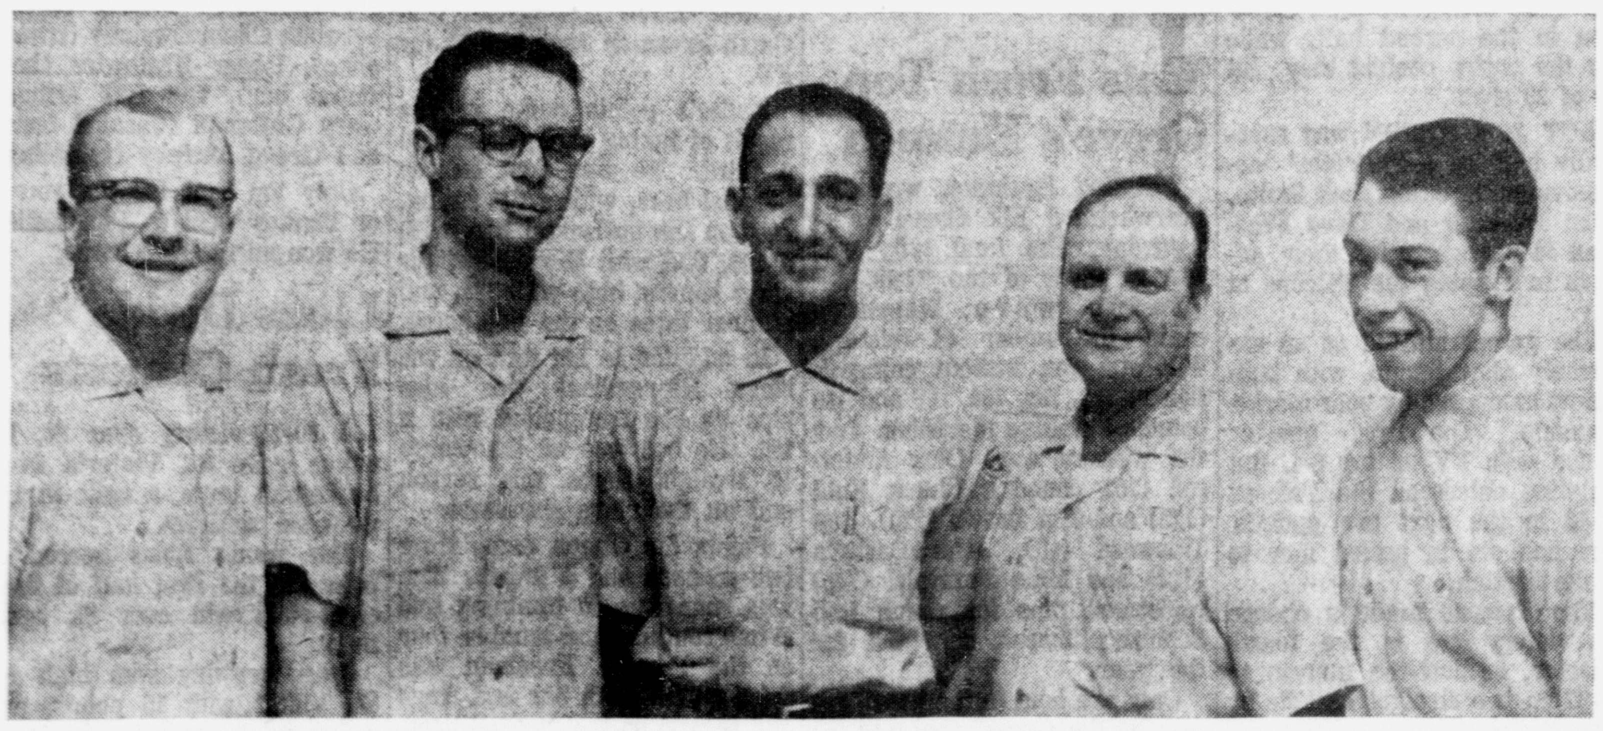
Greg Stafford, Scott Guilfoil, Dick Witcher, and Robinson teamed up for a 4:02.5 clocking in the freestyle relay.

DICK TUCKER gave Arlington a first in the 50 freestyle with a snappy 23.7, and John Erickson topped the breaststroke in 1:12.5. Dick Witcher ruled the diving alignment.

Elgin did gain a split for the day with a 57-38 victory in a junior-varsity battle.

The Cards managed to record four firsts although their victorious medley relay team was disqualified.

Bill Elsner posted a 27.3 clocking for a first in the 50 freestyle, and Jim Sarbaugh won the butterfly in 31.6. Bob Miller, Chuck Linsey, Randy Oppelt and Ray Peale swam on the winning freestyle relay.



GAINING A TIE FOR second place in the recent Paddock Publications' Inter-League Handicap tournament for men at Hofman Lanes in Hoffman Estates was the Casters entry of the Martin Metals league at Rose Bowl. Left to right, Tom Cowan, Dick Schweczyk, Frank Rincon, Fred Moloznik, and Neil Berndt.

Powerful Glenbrook South was tagged the team to beat in the Second Annual Titan Invitational Swimming Relays, and the bost school didn't disappoint its followers last Saturday.

The Titans didn't finish lower than second in ten events, grabbing six firsts, as they piled up 134 points for a 27-point advantage over runnerup St. Viator in the six-team affair.

Frosh-Sophs Win Two

Split to Knight Gymnastic Unit

A Maine draw is what Prospect varsity gymnasts had last weekend.

On Friday the Knights' gym squad met and beat Maine West 85-47. However, a 70-62 tally sent the Knights to defeat before Maine East on Saturday.

As a result of that double action Prospect's over-all gymnastics record became 6-3. Under headman Rick Farris the Knights are 3-0 in Mid-Suburban league action.

At the frosh-soph level Prospect got two victories by topping MW 70-52 and clipping ME 79-53. The younger Knights are now 6-2-1 over-all and 3-0 in the M-SL for coach Fred Gaines.

IN THE VARSITY action against Maine West the Prospect forces took all six firsts.

Rick Carr took the top trampoline spot for the Knights. He received 81 and 80 ratings for a 161 total, the highest in the meet. Bill Wendling, second, and Bill Nendel, third, completed a Prospect sweep on the tramp.

On the side horse Bruce Cole tied for first with a 142. Teammate Ken Barr was third. First on the horizontal bar was Bruce Boult, at 121, and he was backed by a second from Dane Jennings. Stu Bedford, with a 132, and Vince Franzone, with a 117, were best on the parallel bars and rings.

Another one, two, three sweep was scored by Prospect in tumbling. Bob Goffinski, at 148, was first while Rick Burger and Mike Coughland were second and third. Other high places in the meet for the Knights went to Bob Destafanis, second in rings action, and Neil Wells, third on the P-bars.

When competing against Maine East the only first for Prospect's varsity went to Goffinski, who repeated in tumbling. Goffinski was judged at 160 and was again followed by Burger and Coughland in second and third.

CARR, COLE and Jeff Long took runner-up positions when facing ME. Carr, with a 90-84—174, was second on the tramp while Cole's 154 and Long's 138 were next best on horse and parallel bars. Thirds for the Knights went to Boult, on the high bar, and Jim Anderson, on the horse.

At the frosh-soph level Roy Hardin was the lone double winner for Prospect. He was first on the H-bar against both Maine West and Maine East.

Other top spots for the younger Knights in their double triumph went to John Hall, Jim Mattson, Jim Ehrhardt, Doug Olsen and Bruce Bernard against MW and to Nick Peneff, Bill Van Sky and Steve Bang against ME.

Frosh-Soph Wins Big

Wheeling Gymnasts Out-Point Cougars

With five different individual winners, Wheeling's gymnastics team worked out a 74-58 decision over Conant last Friday, outscoring the Cougars on the Wildcat equipment.

The victory was the fifth for Wayne Selvig's gymnasts in 12 varsity meets, while Bob Ferguson's Cougars now stand 6-5. Both teams are 2-1 in the Mid-Suburban League as a result of the meeting.

The Wildcats had much the easier time of it in the frosh-soph half of the competition, triumphing 84½ to 48½, prompting coach Dave Donaldson to commend his boys on improving performances, and to speak optimistically of the conference meet. The Wildcat sophs are now 9-3-1-over-all and 3-0 in the MSL. Conant has an 0-3 MSL mark, and is 4-6 over-all.

WINNING FOR Wheeling in the varsity events were Wayne Coats, with a 122-point performance on the side horse; Bob Johnson, with a 125 total on the horizontal bar; Jim Bowker, a 147 score on the rings; Jerry Fontecchio, a 148 total in tumbling; and Mike Bangs, who with a two-judge rating of 142 tied Conant's Gary Funke on the parallel bars.

Funke was the highest individual scorer, getting 20 team points, with seconds on the rings and high bar and a third on the side horse to go with his first.

Conant had one undisputed winner, with Rod Tison triumphing again on the trampoline. He had a score of 130, two better than Wheeling's Fontecchio.

Dick Dyson was another high scorer for Wheeling, getting a second in tumbling and a third on the trampoline. Other high placers for Wheeling were Mike Allen, second on the side horse; Fred Hudson, third on the high bar; Greg Shornden, third on the parallel bars; and Craig Ovesky, third on rings.

AFTER FUNKE and Tison, Randy Griggs did the best for Conant, taking third in tumbling and fourth on the tramp.

Steve Geiger led Wheeling in the soph competition, where Wheeling won all six events. Geiger himself had a first on the side horse and the Parallel bars, and with second on the rings had 19 team points.

John Whittington won for the Wildcats on the high bar, while Rich Orna on the rings, John Grund on the trampoline and Jim Kniskern in tumbling had the other victories.

Conant's best was Greg Nelsen, with a second on the high bar, a third on rings and a tie for third with Wheeling's Jeff Shornden on the parallel bars. Lloyd Powell on the tramp and Tom Reif in tumbling also had seconds for Conant.

Wheeling Wins Frosh Gym Test

Ed Hawkinson scored 16 points Monday afternoon to lead Wheeling's frosh gymnasts to a 74-59 victory over Forest View.

Hawkinson picked up a first on the parallel bars, second on the rings, and third on the high bar.

Other individual victors for the Wildcats were Cliff Hoffman on the side horse, Stu Oakley on rings, and Mike Hughes on the trampoline.

Grove Rallies For Soph Win

Elk Grove rallied in the final period Saturday to pull out a 50-48 sophomore basketball victory over Wheeling.

The Grenadiers trailed 36-33 heading into the final period but showed an 18-12 advantage over the final seven minutes.

Robin Melzer was high for the losers with 12 points. Grove details were unavailable.

Falcons Top Palatine On Jayvee Mats

Palatine JV wrestlers became the ninth straight victims of Forest View last Friday.

The Falcons, unbeaten this season, ran up a lop-sided 33-9 tally against the Pirates junior varsity matmen. FV is 9-0 this season and 4-0 in Mid-Suburban League action while Palatine is 6-4 overall and 3-1 in the M-SL.

Forest View used six decisions, two pins and one forfeit to establish its winning total. The Pirates won three decisions for their nine points.

Taking decisions for FV were Don Capplan (95 pounds), Bob Urban (120), Clay Hadick (133), Ray Vitha (138), George Bergan (145) and Mark Frankel (154). Spencer Driescharf (165) and Phil Reder (heavyweight) pinned their opponents while John Martin (103) won on a forfeit for headman Maury Levy's JV's.

Rusty Mason (112), Dirk Fuqua (127) and John Jensen (180) took decisions for Palatine JV coach Mike Emmons.

Knight Matmen Top Maine W.

A first place Mid-Suburban League tie was gained by Prospect wrestlers last Friday when they whipped Maine West 21-15.

The Knights, under coach Dick Mudge, were moved into the conference top spot with MW and Wheeling as a result of the meet. All three carry 3-1 M-SL records.

Only one league meet remains for each of the first place squads. Prospect takes on Palatine and Maine will test Wheeling tomorrow (Friday) in action to decide the champion.

The meet against Maine started with Prospect running up a 9-0 lead. Gary McMorrow edged his 95 pound opponent 4-3 and Dave Holmes followed with a 6-2 decision at 103. At 112 Mike Mohr pounded the MW entry 8-1. McMorrow is 7-6-1 for the season while Holmes is 9-4-2 and Mohr 8-7.

MAINE'S MATMEN captured three of the next four bouts. Bill Kalvog was beaten 4-2 at 120 and saw his record reduced to 8-4-1. Marty Krause was topped 5-4 at 127 before the Knights next win, a 6-2 decision for Jim Herod at 133. Herod is 10-6 in this year's bouts.

At 138 Prospect's Vince Curry was toppled 4-1 and the meet score was 12-9.

Rick Bertoglio, back in the Knights line-up after missing two meets, won his 13th bout of the year at 145. He shut out Maine's Steve Ryden, a star football halfback for the Warriors. The score was 4-0 at 145 and Bertoglio's season standard became 13-1.

Ryden's brother, Bob, got a shutout at 154. He blanked Prospect's Pete Smith 2-0 and the meet margin remained at three with totals of 15-12. After Jim Kautz, another MW gridiron standout, stopped Marty Destafanis 10-6 at 165 the meet tally was knotted at 15 apiece.

PROSPECT DIDN'T lose another bout.

Kim Schier won for the Knights at 180. He registered a 4-1 decision and Dave Chapman, heavyweight, whitewashed his Warriors opponent 4-0 to set the final meet totals and give headman Mudge's forces an overall dual meet mark of 6-3-1.

Palatine JVs Stop Forest View 43-37

Palatine's junior varsity basketball players, putting forth one of their best efforts of the season, stunned Forest View's JVs 43-37 Friday night.

The victory by Chuck Johannson's five pulled them to 2-2 in Mid-Suburban League play, 4-7 overall. Bob Rees' Falcons also ended the game at 2-2 in the MSL, but they're 8-4 overall.

Potent second half shooting and some solid defensive work were the keys to the win for Palatine. The Pirates shot 63 per cent from the floor and 83 per cent from the free throw line in the second half, while for the entire contest they hit 14 of 28 shots.

BUT JOHANNSON was especially high on the Pirates' defensive work, citing Dick Smith, John Ekeberg and Dave Freeman in particular for their efforts in keeping the Falcons at bay.

The games started at an extremely slow tempo, with both teams hampered by poor marksmanship. The first quarter ended with FV on top 6-4. But Palatine outscored the Falcons 29-19 in the next two periods, and held on in period four to make it stick.

The Falcons made a charge for victory late in the fourth quarter, cutting the margin to 39-37 on two straight baskets by Frank Calvello.

That was with two minutes left, and the Pirates tried to stall after that. They did for a minute, when both teams missed shots. But the Pirates put it away moments later, when Smith was fouled and dropped in two free throws. FV missed two more shots, and with seven seconds left, Palatine center Fred Sanborn was fouled. He dropped in a pair of shots and the FV challenge was ended.

For the game, the Pirates had fine scoring balance with Smith hitting for 13, Freeman for 11, Ekeberg for 10 and Sanborn for nine. Forest View's Ted Lambert had 12 and Calvello 10.

'Cats Frosh Top Grove's Matmen

Wheeling freshmen wrestlers overwhelmed Elk Grove last Saturday. The final tally was 49-3 in favor of the 'Cats.

Forfeits were Wheeling's main instrument of victory. Wildcats won without competition at 133, 138, 154, 165 and 180 pounds. Taking decisions for the winners were Dick Anderson (103 pounds), Chuck Kuhl (112) and Jim Brown (120). Bob Tipsword (95), John Castella (127) and Mike Patarolzi (145) registered pins for coach Bob Schulze's forces, now 5-5 for the year.

Only one bout in the meet was won by the Grove, now 0-10 for the season. That match went to heavyweight Pete Hagen who took a 7-2 decision for coach Bob Walther's squad.

Gary Jonland Gains National Skate Title

Gary Jonland comes from a skating family.

His father and mother skated in the Ice Follies and his uncle was an Olympic speed skater.

Gary is only 13 years old but he already has established himself as a skater with a bright future.

Last weekend in St. Paul, Minn., Jonland brought to the Mount Prospect Speed Skating Club its most important achievement in history when he skated to the national championship in the Juvenile Boys class.

Jonland won the 440 and 880 yard events from a rugged field but fell in the 220.

TEAMMATE BOBBY Knight came through a second in the Juvenile 440, third in the 220, and fourth in the half-mile for a third place in the overall Junior division standings.

While Jonland and Knight were successful in their efforts at St. Paul, other members of the Mount Prospect Club didn't fare as well.

Tom Tagney, John Audo and Bobby Haenisch skated hard but just fell short in their bids. Theresa Griffin and Mary Cunningham were beaten but were not outclassed.

IN OTHER action last weekend a group of Mount Prospect skaters braved the sub-zero blasts to participate in the Northern Indiana Winter Carnival in Gary.

Rich Vehe, skating in the Bantam class, copped both his events, and teammate Jim Tagney took a second in the 110 yard sprint.

In the Juvenile Boys division Bill Grady skated both finals and picked up a fourth place trophy in the quarter-mile event. Bob Vehe followed Jeanne Cunningham and Melanie Stoddard.

This Saturday the Mount Prospect Club will travel to neighboring Des Plaines to compete on Lake Opeka at Lee and Howard. The meet will begin at 12 noon.

Grady.

Falcon, Pirate Gymnasts Tie

No one wins a tie, but no one loses either and that fact must have provided some consolation for Forest View and Palatine gymnasts.

The Falcons and Pirates gym squads met last Friday. When it was over the squads of coaches Gay Hughes and Joe Toth had knotted at 66 each.

For the Falcons and mentor Hughes that draw meant a 4-5-1 record for the season and 0-2-1 Mid-Suburban League mark. Toth's Palatine crew is now 2-4-1 overall and also 0-2-1 in the M-SL.

At the frosh soph level Forest View took five firsts and topped the Pirates 82-50. That gives the younger Falcons a 7-2 season mark for coach Hal Sprele and 3-0 conference standard.

Walthouse still sees room for improvement on his varsity squad. "We've got to get our routines down," he pointed out. "We're still not hitting well and there are some tough meets coming up."

THERE WAS nothing unusual about the double victory last weekend. Jim Johannesen, as usual, was the top point-getter with 40 over the two meets. Jim had three firsts for 21 against Glenbard West and two firsts and a second against Niles.

On Friday the Knights' gym squad met and beat Maine West 85-47. However, a 70-62 tally sent the Knights to defeat before Maine East on Saturday.

As a result of that double action Prospect's over-all gymnastics record became 6-3. Under headman Rick Farris the Knights are 3-0 in Mid-Suburban league action.

At the frosh-soph level Prospect got two victories by topping MW 70-52 and clipping ME 79-53. The younger Knights are now 6-2-1 over-all and 3-0 in the M-SL for coach Fred Gaines.

Palatine JVs Stop Forest View 43-37

Palatine's junior varsity basketball players, putting forth one of their best efforts of the season, stunned Forest View's JVs 43-37 Friday night.

The victory by Chuck Johannson's five pulled them to 2-2 in Mid-Suburban League play, 4-7 overall. Bob Rees' Falcons also ended the game at 2-2 in the MSL, but they're 8-4 overall.

Potent second half shooting and some solid defensive work were the keys to the win for Palatine. The Pirates shot 63 per cent from the floor and 83 per cent from the free throw line in the second half, while for the entire contest they hit 14 of 28 shots.

BUT JOHANNSON was especially high on the Pirates' defensive work, citing Dick Smith, John Ekeberg and Dave Freeman in particular for their efforts in keeping the Falcons at bay.

The games started at an extremely slow tempo, with both teams hampered by poor marksmanship. The first quarter ended with FV on top 6-4. But Palatine outscored the Falcons 29-19 in the next two periods, and held on in period four to make it stick.

The Falcons made a charge for victory late in the fourth quarter, cutting the margin to 39-37 on two straight baskets by Frank Calvello.

That was with two minutes left, and the Pirates tried to stall after that. They did for a minute, when both teams missed shots. But the Pirates put it away moments later, when Smith was fouled and dropped in two free throws. FV missed two more shots, and with seven seconds left, Palatine center Fred Sanborn was fouled. He dropped in a pair of shots and the FV challenge was ended.

For the game, the Pirates had fine scoring balance with Smith hitting for 13, Freeman for 11, Ekeberg for 10 and Sanborn for nine. Forest View's Ted Lambert had 12 and Calvello 10.

Ryden's brother, Bob, got a shutout at 154. He blanked Prospect's Pete Smith 2-0 and the meet margin remained at three with totals of 15-12. After Jim Kautz, another MW gridiron standout, stopped Marty Destafanis 10-6 at 165 the meet tally was knotted at 15 apiece.

PROSPECT DIDN'T lose another bout.

Johannesen scored with routines of 83 (only one judge) on the high bar and 90 on the parallel bars against Niles East. He finished second in tumbling.

Steve LeVan gave Arlington a first on the side horse in the Niles meet with a 75 routine, and Roy Rettburg topped the rings with a sharp 83.

Bert Schmitt returned to action with a second on the parallel bars and third on the high bar. Tom Riesing posted a second on the tramp and third in tumbling.

JOHANNESEN topped the high bar, parallel bars, and tumbling events against Glenbard West. Doug Dattilo showed a first on the rings alignment, Riesing headed the tramp, and LeVan won the side horse again.

Johannesen's 21 points led the Cardinals. Schmitt chipped in with 10 with a second on the high bar and second on the parallel bars.

Wayne Crockett continued his impressive efforts in frosh-soph ranks. He scored 18 points in the 82-50 win over Niles East with firsts on the side horse (41) and rings (48) and third on the parallel bars.

CROCKETT CAME back with 15 against Glenbard West. He topped the side horse (51) and rings (47) and was sixth on the parallel bars.

Jim Brousseau (horizontal bar) and Bill St. John (tumbling) also scored wins against Niles East. Jack Finch and Guy Jessogne each had two seconds.

Brousseau topped the high bar against Glenbard with a 46 routine, and Jessogne had a 40 in ruling the tramp. Brousseau worked three events and collected 12 points with a first on the high bar and fourths on the side horse and parallel bars.

Jessogne added a second in tumbling to his win on the tramp.

'Cats Stop Fenton With 33-15 Mat Win

Won-lost totals evened at .500 as a result of last Saturday's wrestling meet between Wheeling and Fenton.

The Wildcats whipped the Bisons in that mat battle by a 33-15 margin. Season record for the winners became 6-6 while the losers became 8-8.

THE MEET STARTED with the 'Cats Rex Meisenheimer pinning his 95 pound opponent. Meisenheimer's time was 1:50. Then Fenton won two straight bouts by decisions to take a 6-3 lead in the meet.

Wheeling's Ray Weidner lost 9-3 to Bob Aguilar at 103 pounds and Dennis Kneip followed with a 9-1 setback to Clar Giltner. Aguilar has established an 18-2 individual record for the Bisons this season. After those two defeats the Wildcats lost only one other bout.

Karl Meisenheimer, at 120, tied his opponent Rich Caleb 4-4 and another draw resulted when Al Eisenstein ended even up with Mike Vigon at 1-1 in a 127 pound match. The meet score then was 10-7 with Fenton still in the lead.

Jerry Hawkinson gave the 'Cats an 11-10 advantage with a pin at 133. Hawkinson's time was 5:42. After Mike Fluegel took an 8-1 decision at 138 Wheeling was on top 14-10. However the Bisons went in front once more on a pin by Chuck McArthur over Matt Porzell at 145.

Finally, Rich Haddock put the Wildcats ahead to stay. Haddock won 13-7 at 154 pounds making the score 17-15 and Wheeling was never in danger again.

Taking the last three matches for coach Art Kraft's Wildcats were Paul Berwanger, Ray Pace and Ted Armstrong. Berwanger won a lop-sided 11-1 decision at 165 while Pace, 180, and heavyweight Armstrong both registered pins. That set the final 33-15 totals.

Falcon Wrestlers Stop Palatine 33-8

Victory number eight came to Forest View's varsity wrestlers last Friday, as they out-grappled Palatine 33-8 on the Falcon mats.

Hal Henson's matmen moved to an 8-3 overall dual mark with the trimph, while they stand 2-2 in the Mid-Suburban League. John Ellis' Pirates remained without victory in the 1965-66 season, sliding to an 0-11 overall mark, 0-4 in the MSL.

Only two of the bouts were decided on pins, with the Falcons' Pete Phillips stopping Dick Biddle at 4:58 of their 154 pound match, and Mike Severn putting down Paul Dolik at 4:48 in the 180 joust. Palatine heavyweight John Reed, who had pinned three straight MSL opponents, was held to a standoff by Al Gildemeister. They tied 3-3.

THE PIRATES were even with the Falcons only once during the meet. After FV's Tom Mann beat Jim Lynch 4-0 at 95, Palatine's Mike Lewis came back with an 8-1 decision over Mark Beatty at 103. Then it was almost all Forest View.

Steve DeHaven (112) won 4-2 over Dave Bettinger; George Taylor (120) won 7-0 over Bob Ross; Ron McKisic (127) made it 6-2 over Charles Grayson; Ken Andrews (138) decisioned Bill Schroeder 4-1; Jim Kubik did the same 7-1 to Bob Angleson at 145; and Brian Lampert (165) made it 3-0 over Bill Peterman at 165.

The only other Palatine victory came from Howie Tuttle, who stopped Larry McKisic 7-4 at 133.

Forest View will wrap up its dual season this Friday night at Conant, while Palatine will close out hosting Prospect, also on Friday night.

Check Your New Home For Adequate Piping

Are you looking forward to building your dream house this year? If so, here's an important tip from the Illinois Assn. of Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Contractors:

Make sure the piping is big enough to provide for your immediate and future water needs.

Since pipe is largely hidden behind walls and beneath floors, some prospective homeowners tend to minimize its importance and concentrate on the modern plumbed-in equipment they can see and expect to enjoy in the kitchen, bathroom and laundry. This can be a serious mistake, since the size and quality of the piping system will determine whether you'll get all the water you need from all your water-connected equipment at all times. If you have to take turns using such equipment now because water at some fixture is reduced to a mere dribble, you know what a nuisance this can be, and you certainly won't want to put yourself in the same situation in your new home.

KEEP IN mind, too that you'll undoubtedly want to continue adding more water-using equipment to your new home. The use of water in the average American home more than doubled in the last 10 years. Predictions are that they will again double in the next five. That's why it's a good idea to discuss your piping needs while your home is in the blueprint stage with a qualified plumbing contractor.

Even if your new home is selected from a builder's models, your plumbing contractor can increase the diameter of the pipe going in if he deems it advisable. You'll be more than compensated for the small additional cost in terms of future conveniences.

This has been rightly called the age of water, because so many modern comforts, conveniences and luxuries depend upon it. If you should ever want to sell your new home at some future date, a good piping system behind the walls will be one of its chief attractions to prospective home buyers. (RE

Walgreen Predicts Big Year

Banner sales during Walgreen Drug Stores' first quarter of its fiscal 1966 year indicate a substantial increase in first quarter profits, predicted C. R. Walgreen Jr., board chairman as he addressed the firm's annual shareowners meeting at its Chicago headquarters.

Walgreen also told shareowners that his firm looks forward to a very good year.

Pointing out that Walgreens had $137,575,000 in sales during its first 1966 fiscal quarter (Oct. Nov. Dec.), he said this was a 13.5 per cent increase over the corresponding quarter in fiscal 1965. He added that the firm looks forward to continued rising sales with an expectation of at least $480 million for fiscal 1966.

A record Walgreen year in store openings is also foreseen with 48 new stores opening in fiscal '66 including three giant Globe Discount Department stores. This should result in an increase of 561,000 square feet in net sales area, a 15 per cent increase over fiscal '65.

Home Ec Students Tour Plum Grove Village Homes

In order that the students would have a better understanding of housing and home furnishings, Mrs. Karen Crooke, the home economics teacher at the school, selected Plum Grove Village for the tour because of its unique concept and styling.

Howard Johnson, sales manager, pointed out to the students the various features that give Plum Grove Village its distinctive qualities. These included the concept, which is adult, designed for families whose children are over 13 years old. The entire area is surrounded by protective walls for complete privacy with an imposing gate to welcome residents and guests. Landscaping and exterior maintenance is completely cared for, leaving residents free to pursue other interests.

The selection of Old English architecture, Johnson pointed out, completes the charming atmosphere essential to this "Village Green" type of living.

THE STUDENTS were shown features within that enhance the luxurious quality of the homes; these include large rooms, parquet floors, skylight-like fixtures in kitchens, beautifully styled kitchen cabinets, large closets, two and three bedrooms, dramatic staircase in the two-story homes, and completely enclosed patio terrace for absolute privacy.

The students expressed their delight in the selection of interior decorating and charm conveyed within the homes, and left with a better understanding of the concept of "Village Green Living" at Plum Grove Village.

In order that the students would have a better understanding of housing and home furnishings, Mrs. Karen Crooke, the home economics teacher at the school, selected Plum Grove Village for the tour because of its unique concept and styling.

Howard Johnson, sales manager, pointed out to the students the various features that give Plum Grove Village its distinctive qualities. These included the concept, which is adult, designed for families whose children are over 13 years old. The entire area is surrounded by protective walls for complete privacy with an imposing gate to welcome residents and guests. Landscaping and exterior maintenance is completely cared for, leaving residents free to pursue other interests.

The selection of Old English architecture, Johnson pointed out, completes the charming atmosphere essential to this "Village Green" type of living.

THE STUDENTS were shown features within that enhance the luxurious quality of the homes; these include large rooms, parquet floors, skylight-like fixtures in kitchens, beautifully styled kitchen cabinets, large closets, two and three bedrooms, dramatic staircase in the two-story homes, and completely enclosed patio terrace for absolute privacy.

The students expressed their delight in the selection of interior decorating and charm conveyed within the homes, and left with a better understanding of the concept of "Village Green Living" at Plum Grove Village.

Taylor Graduates From Hamburger U.

Fred Taylor of Mount Prospect was graduated from the world's most unusual university — Hamburger University — in Elk Grove, Ill. Taylor is from the McDonald's hamburger restaurant at 100 W. Rand Road in Mount Prospect.

He received his M.H. (Master of Hamburgerology) degree in formal commencement exercises at the unique university—where everybody majors in hamburgerology with a minor in French Fries.

Hamburger U., which boasts the meatiest courses of any university, is operated by the McDonald's chain of self-service hamburger restaurants as a training school for the men who run its units. The local McDonald's is part of the big nationwide chain which now numbers over 735 units in 44 states and the District of Columbia.

HAMBURGER U. was born when McDonald's got the preparation of serving hamburgers down to a science—and decided that a university-style approach was the best way to pass that science along to its operators and managers.

Although telling the laboratory apart from the lunchroom is one Hamburger U. problem that doesn't come up in other universities, Hamburger U. for the most part is operated like more orthodox institutions of higher learning — with classroom lectures and laboratory courses. Hamburger U. students, however, are apt to be more literal about cramming for exams.

Besides the actual preparation of hamburgers — Applied Hamburgerology 101—students learn the fine points of restaurant management and details of the unique McDonald's system of operation which has been responsible for the chain's phenomenal growth. (15BB

ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

WHAT IS A TITLE ABSTRACT

Have you ever wondered what a lawyer or Realtor means when he speaks of an "abstract of title"? Generally stated, an abstract of title is a summary of all the transactions, such as sales or mortgages, which have taken place concerning a particular piece of land since it has been privately owned.

The history of a given piece of land can be studied by looking at the entries in the abstract. Many of these entries describe deeds conveying the land or any part of it, together with a reference to the book and page in the County Recorder's office where a copy of the actual deed can be found.

The abstract will also contain a note of the death of any owner of the land and a reference to the proceedings in the deceased's estate. It concisely explains any provision of the deceased's will involving the land, or if there is no will, the names of known heirs are listed.

Similarly, the abstract shows mortgage or tax foreclosure proceedings relating to the property, and the bankruptcy of an owner. All proceedings having to do with that particular piece of land, since it was first ceded from the United States government, are listed in an unbroken chain in the abstract.

Who Compiles Abstracts?

Almost all information in an abstract is obtained from local records. The law requires that deeds and mortgages be filed for record in the County Recorder's Office and all estate, foreclosure and bankruptcy proceedings are similarly written in county records.

But when you want to buy a certain lot of land and the seller wants to show you he can give a good title, instead of spending several days floundering through old county records he goes to the local abstractor. He continues the old abstract or prepares a new one from the beginning if the seller does not have one. For a fee based on the number of items involved, the abstractor will review the county records and furnish the seller with an up-to-date "book" or abstract showing the history of the title to the property in question.

Evaluation of Abstracts

Buyers must realize, however, that merely because the seller has a current abstract which shows a transfer to him, this is far from adequate proof of clear title. The important and technical task of evaluating abstract entries must be done by legal counsel, who is able to decide whether the seller's "title" is good and free from defects.

100 Businessmen Plan Lobbying Trip

Answering labor's challenge on the right-to-work laws, a task force of 100 Illinois businessmen will fly to Washington Feb. 6, to help bolster Senator Everett M. Dirksen's efforts against repeal of Section 14-b of the Taft-Hartley Act.

While the Dirksen forces continue to block a Senate vote on the repeal bill with a filibuster, his fellow Illinoisans, representing all types and sizes of companies from all parts of the state, will spend four days on capitol hill. Here they will buttonhole congressmen, explaining how a closed shop and other critical labor issues could affect their businesses.

THE DELEGATION, organized by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, also will attempt to bolster opposition to HR 8282, an unemployment compensation bill that will cost employers additional billions and encroach on the state's traditional control.

Another aim of the group is to push for the Dirksen remap amendment that would allow states to reapportion on a basis other than population.

The delegation will depart via United Air Lines chartered jet from Chicago's O'Hare Airport at 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6. Return is set for Thursday afternoon, Feb. 10. (15BB

Mortgage Loans Up At Baird & Warner

Baird & Warner's dollar volume in mortgage loans increased approximately 60 per cent during 1965 over the previous year, according to Laurence H. Cleland, vice president and head of the 111-year-old real estate firm's mortgage department, who reports that production totaled just under $25,000,000.

In addition to permanent financing, Baird & Warner in a number of instances also handled the construction payouts.

The most significant gain was noted in loans involving apartment buildings totaling $12,700,000 for a 170 per cent growth over 1964. Next in line were commercial and office buildings for which $8,500,000 in loans were made, reflecting a 50 per cent increase during 1965 over the prior 12-month period.

LOANS IN industrial properties tallied $1,240,000 for a 120 per cent growth during the past year. On miscellaneous properties, financing arranged by Baird & Warner reached $1,760,000, and included mortgages for homes.

The company's mortgage loan business was conducted in Chicago and the suburban area as well as out-of-town locations including Joliet, Moline and Rock Island, Illinois; Rochester, Minnesota, and Dayton, Ohio. Baird & Warner is currently expending its Wisconsin mortgage operation headed by Richard Krause in Sheboygan, Milwaukee and Madison.

Activity is continuing into the new year, according to Mr. Cleland, who predicts good availability of mortgage funds in 1966, but with some tighter underwriting. (RE

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

Most new plant varieties are produced by carefully planned breeding and pollinization programs. With such methods we work with familiar plants to produce new colors shapes, and sizes.

However, when almost every possible cross is made, then plant breeders search for new plant germ plasm. This calls for plant exploration. One such modern plant explorer is Dr. Edward Corbett, Research Horticulturist from the U.S. Plant Introduction Station at Glenn Dale Maryland. In a talk at the recent Illinois State Nurserymen's Association Convention, Dr. Corbett described his most recent exploring trip to West Bengal, India.

The trip was the ninth in a series of ornamental plant explorations jointly sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Longwood Foundation of Kennett Square Pa. During last April and May the party set out from Darjeeling, home of the famous tea, and traveled a circle route to Mt. Singalila and back.

The hardy group consisted of a total of 18 persons. The professional staff included Dr. Corbett, Dr. Francis de Vos, Assistant Director of the National Arboretum, a plant collector from the Lloyd Botanic Garden in Darjeeling and an Indian botanist.

Dr. Corbett related that although the Indian botanist could talk very little English, he knew thoroughly the scientific names of the local plants. Thus through scientific Latin an excellent working relationship was achieved.

Carrying scientific supplies in and plant materials out was quite a problem, since a major portion of the trip was on foot. Twelve porters with a sherpa sirdar (foreman) handled the 80 pound packs.

The collecting region maintains weather of almost under greenhouse conditions. Rainfall ranged from 150 to 200 inches from May to September in the West Bengal side of the Singalila Range. Such conditions produced almost continual rainfall and heavy morning fogs throughout the trip. The ability of the Sherpa foreman to find his way was phenomenal. Never once, even in the heaviest fog did they become lost.

Many plants that were observed under such conditions were outstanding. One slide exhibited by Dr. Corbett showed a yew that had attained the size of an oak tree. Still other pictures showed entire thickets of glowing tree high rhododendrons. Rhododendrons are so common in the area that they are used by the natives for firewood.

One of the objectives of the expedition was to collect cuttings, seeds and plants from as many different types of these rhododendrons as possible. It is hoped, for example, to find some plants at the 11,000 foot level that will prove to be hardy here in the midwest. Other plant famililies that they concentrated on were Magnolia Gautheria Potentilla and Viburnum.

The expedition according to Dr. Corbett was remarkedly free of dramatic incidents. No wild animals were observed and no serious injuries were received.

Problems of altitude . . .9,000 to 11,000 feet. . .and frequent heavy mists did slow the collecting somewhat. However, the rugged condition of the explorers is borne out by the extent of walking involved . . .200 miles! They established base camps about every 8 to 12 miles over a circular route that extended from Darjeeling to Mt. Singalila and back.

It may be some years before the results of this trip are evaluated. Seeds that were collected must be grown and observed and cuttings from the expedition have to be rooted or grafted.

Examples of outstanding plants collected on previous expeditions include the Callery pear and a new Euonymus fortunei selection that is suitable for use as a ground cover. Longwood the name of this new Euonymus ground cover should be on the retail market in 1967 or 1968. (15BB.

Still other pictures showed entire thickets of glowing tree high rhododendrons. Rhododendrons are so common in the area that they are used by the natives for firewood.

One of the objectives of the expedition was to collect cuttings, seeds and plants from as many different types of these rhododendrons as possible. It is hoped, for example, to find some plants at the 11,000 foot level that will prove to be hardy here in the midwest. Other plant families that they concentrated on were Magnolia Gautheria Potentilla and Viburnum.

The expedition according to Dr. Corbett was remarkedly free of dramatic incidents. No wild animals were observed and no serious injuries were received.

Problems of altitude . . .9,000 to 11,000 feet. . .and frequent heavy mists did slow the collecting somewhat. However, the rugged condition of the explorers is borne out by the extent of walking involved . . .200 miles! They established base camps about every 8 to 12 miles over a circular route that extended from Darjeeling to Mt. Singalila and back.

It may be some years before the results of this trip are evaluated. Seeds that were collected must be grown and observed and cuttings from the expedition have to be rooted or grafted.

Examples of outstanding plants collected on previous expeditions include the Callery pear and a new Euonymus fortunei selection that is suitable for use as a ground cover. Longwood the name of this new Euonymus ground cover should be on the retail market in 1967 or 1968. (15BB.

At the world's present rate of growth, food output will need to be doubled by the year 2000 to feed more than 6 billion people.

RFC Names Kemmerly An Agent

Jack L. Kemmerly of Palatine has been appointed agent of the Relocation Finance Corp., for the Arlington-Palatine area, it was announced today by Ron W. Cooney, vice president of RFC.

Relocation Finance Corp., the nation's first complete service for arranging and financing inter-city transfers of employees by industry and business, operates through a network of more than 1,300 selected real estate agents from coast to coast.

According to Cooney, the RFC service can be tailored to the relocation needs of any business enterprise, regardless of the number of personnel it transfers annually.

A company using the service pays only a fixed fee for each employee actually transferred under the RFC program. This service has been designed to save companies valuable "down time" when hiring or transferring employees and is currently being effectively used by leading corporations in food processing, retailing, electronics, aircraft, transportation, and other fields.

THE RELOCATION services available under the RFC program include accurate appraisal and merchandising of a transferee's origin home and the assistance of an RFC Agent in the destination city to find new housing and provide whatever conveniences which may be needed by the new arrivals. These services are designed to give an employer "automation in relocation" for their personnel, and at the same time to avoid the pitfalls of engaging in the real estate business.

Meanwhile, an interim interest-free loan can be made to the employee so that his family has the availability of funds for the purchase of a home in the destination city. This allows the family to relocate as a unit, without having to wait for the origin home to be sold, prior to receiving their equity.

Some experts argue that the population of China may be overestimated. Could be only 400 million, they say, instead of 650 million.

At the world's present rate of growth, food output will need to be doubled by the year 2000 to feed more than 6 billion people.

RFC Names Kemmerly An Agent

Jack L. Kemmerly of Palatine has been appointed agent of the Relocation Finance Corp., for the Arlington-Palatine area, it was announced today by Ron W. Cooney, vice president of RFC.

Relocation Finance Corp., the nation's first complete service for arranging and financing inter-city transfers of employees by industry and business, operates through a network of more than 1,300 selected real estate agents from coast to coast.

According to Cooney, the RFC service can be tailored to the relocation needs of any business enterprise, regardless of the number of personnel it transfers annually.

A company using the service pays only a fixed fee for each employee actually transferred under the RFC program. This service has been designed to save companies valuable "down time" when hiring or transferring employees and is currently being effectively used by leading corporations in food processing, retailing, electronics, aircraft, transportation, and other fields.

THE RELOCATION services available under the RFC program include accurate appraisal and merchandising of a transferee's origin home and the assistance of an RFC Agent in the destination city to find new housing and provide whatever conveniences which may be needed by the new arrivals. These services are designed to give an employer "automation in relocation" for their personnel, and at the same time to avoid the pitfalls of engaging in the real estate business.

Meanwhile, an interim interest-free loan can be made to the employee so that his family has the availability of funds for the purchase of a home in the destination city. This allows the family to relocate as a unit, without having to wait for the origin home to be sold, prior to receiving their equity.

Regent Park Offers Choice to Home Buyers

A limited number of home sites town-and-garden homes, and condominiums remain available in the 45-acre Regent Park area of Arlington Heights, according to Fred Peterman, director of sales for United Development Co., developer of the project.

Situated almost equidistant between the nearby Northwest and Tri-State tollways, this self-contained community is a project of a "blue ribbon" development and investment group which includes such principals as:

Philip M. Klutznick, one of the developers of Park Forest, Oak Brook shopping center, and a former U. S. ambassador to the United Nations; Lester Crown, vice president of General Dynamics Corp. and its Materials Service Division; Jerrold Loebl, head of the internationally known architectural firm of Loebl, Schlossman, Bennett and Dart, Norman Cohn, president of Inland Construction Co., and Fred Kramer, president of Draper and Kramer, realtors and mortgage bankers.

UNITED'S exclusive Regent Park, nestled in a heavily landscaped area and ringed around its own seven-acre lake, is aimed primarily at attracting persons seeking escape from maintenance chores with the added recreational facilities.

Single family homes are on the development's periphery, with townhouses and condominiums tucked inside and intermingled with shade malls, winding walks, tennis courts and a swimming pool. Just a short walk away are public and parochial schools, churches, and public transportation, and the Randhurst shopping center is only a half a mile from Regent Park.

Three home models, ranging from $34,800 to $37,250 are available. They include Cape Cod, split level and ranch styles, have four bedrooms and are built on lots 78 by 120 feet.

Five, three-story condominiums are now being built. These, too, have two and three bedrooms and range from $26,500 to $34,000.

Townhouse and condominium owners will enjoy carefree living through a complete maintenance program paid for by a small monthly charge. The service includes grass-cutting, tree and shrub trimming, exterior home painting and snow plowing of walks and driveways.

"THIS IS not a retirement community," Peterman emphasizes. "We're catering primarily to buyers in the executive class and offering them an area which is country club-like in atmosphere."

Peterman, who describes sales in Regent Park as "extremely good," asserts:

"This planned unit development idea is gaining nationwide acceptance by big and small builder alike. It's really cluster planning taking full advantage of special green areas."

Regent Park fronts on Kensington Road, ½ mile west of Elmhurst and Rand Roads in Arlington Heights.

A TYPICALLY LANDSCPAED garden and patio home in Regent Park Arlington Heights. All landscaping is included in purchase price and maintained completely as part of the program which includes grass cutting, watering, trimming, snow removal and exterior painting for a small monthly charge. (15BB

THE MARCHAND, a four-bedroom French Provincial with over 2,700 square feet of living area plus a full basement and an oversized attached two car garage.

Elsinore Opens in Sherwood Estates

The grand opening of Elsinore, a community of 45 distinctive custom residences in the Sherwood section of Arlington Heights, will be held this weekend.

The new community, designed in keeping with the fine homes traditionally found in the Sherwood area, was created and developed by Mor-Well Builders, a firm with wide experience in the custom residence field, having previously built in Arlington Heights, Lincolnwood, and Highland Park.

The homes in Elsinore will be in the $40,000 price range with three furnished models, in Colonial, Cape Cod and French Provincial architectural design, open for inspection.

ACCORDING TO Art LaVallie of the building firm, Elsinore was designed to allow the incorporation of the homebuyer's ideas for the ideal home.

"Our homes have a great deal of flexibility in plan and design," said LaVallie. "It would be impossible to build models for every plan available. We have numerous plans available and if the buyer has a specific house he wants, we can build it for him in Elsinore.

"The primary purpose of our models is to show the degree of quality and features we feel should be found in a home of this stature. Our homesites are fully improved and are some of the largest in Arlington Heights. Our smallest site is 75 feet by 150 feet with some sites being as much as 135 feet by 150 feet or larger. The Sherwood section is well known for fine homes and we feel Elsinore will add greatly to the prestige of the area."

ESTABLISHED schools, churches, shopping facilities, and recreational areas are extremely convenient to Elsinore. The Chicago and North Western commuter service, with trains going to downtown Chicago in 34 minutes, is 1½ miles away in downtown Arlington Heights. The multi-million dollar Randhurst Shopping Center is less than a 10 minute drive.

The homes in Elsinore have four or five bedrooms, multiple ceramic baths, wood-paneled family rooms with natural wood-burning brick fireplaces, main floor laundry-sewing rooms, full basements, fully equipped kitchens with custom cabinetry, and oversized attached two-car garages.

The finished living area of the Colonial model is over 2,600 square feet, and the French Provincial is over 2,700 square feet not including the basement or two car garage.

The furnished models will be open daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. or at other times by appointment. They are located on Salem in Arlington Heights and can be reached by going northwest on Route 14 from State Road (Arlington Heights Road) exactly one mile to Harvard Avenue, north on Harvard six blocks to Watling and right on Watling into Salem to the models. Chief Cites Doctor's Response At Cave-In, Airplane Crash

In a recent Elk Grove Herald front page story, which described the continued investigation of a fire fatal to two small children, criticism was made of the availability of doctors — and particularly of Dr. R. E. Fox, M.D., who has offices in Elk Grove Village. Unidentified police officers were quoted in expressing displeasure, and stating that in the future they would call for the ambulance first and get the person to a hospital.

First of all, a patrolman should not make public criticism to newspaper reporters.

Secondly, it is our standard procedure to get any injured or ill person to the hospital.

Thirdly, in the incident in point, the two babies were dead. A doctor was desired to administer a sedative to the mother. The mother did not want to leave the farm until she could contact her husband. She was in no physical condition which would prevent her from being taken to the doctor's office — and she was not an emergency case.

Fourth, and a point of major importance, no one should criticize Doctor Fox — the first doctor to serve in the Village of Elk Grove Village, and a man who has given much of his time and talent to the citizens of this community.

Doctor Fox has answered many emergency calls, at all hours, at his office, at the police station, and at various homes in the Village — as well as at the scene of an accident or emergency — and sometimes at great personal danger. He has not asked if the sick or injured have insurance or are otherwise able to pay. Even during the year when he asked not to be called out at night, he was called and he came.

In November of 1964, when the two workers were trapped in a cave-in, in Elk Grove Village, Doctor Fox went to their aid — to the bottom of the pit and at great personal danger—and administered to them until the second cave-in placed them out of reach and prevented rescue.

In May of 1964, when two men were trapped in their airplane which had crashed in Hoffman Estates, Doctor Fox responded to the call; and, at great peril to himself — with the threat of explosion and fire—he administered to the pilot, who survived the crash.

Doctors are a good deal like policemen, in the criticism they are subjected to: "you can't find one when you want one." But before we subject either doctor or policeman to criticism, let us consider their total involvement in the community.

For over six and a half years, Doctor Fox has served the Village of Elk Grove Village faithfully, and above the call of duty. He did not deserve the criticism he received in the newspaper article. I can only say that I am sorry and ashamed that this police department was a party to it.

Harry P. Jenkins
Chief of Police
Elk Grove Village

Horrified by Safety Lack Around Schools

I am horrified by the lack of safety around our schools.

I live near Westgate, Park, and Wayside schools, and sometimes have to drive by at dismissal time to get to my home. There are crossing guards, but they are busy at their posts. I see mothers stopping in the middle of the streets to let children out in front of traffic or waving them over to their cars in front of oncoming cars.

Some mothers stop in the middle of the street and won't move even though the children they are looking for are not ready. Sometimes there is a jam with no traffic moving.

It seems to me that it is the responsibility of each school to handle this. I would hate to see a child hurt. I have moved from a school district where it was managed by the schools by both parent and child education.

'Favoring' Referendum Not Enough

A great number of High School District 100 residents appear to favor passage of the referendum this Saturday that will provide a sorely needed increase in Fenton's tax rate. But favoring it is not enough. These residents must get to the polls and cast their votes in order to assure continuation of the fine program Fenton now offers.

Parents of younger children must realize that they can't wait till their own children are ready for high school to vote for an increase. By then, Fenton's excellent program will have deteriorated to a point where rebuilding it would take years if, indeed, it could be done at all.

So "think positive" and vote yes this Saturday.

Questions Asked On Migrants Not 'Hostile'

In your article "Shack Evictions Delayed" your reporter wrote, "Carol Hertz, 14 Evergreen, Elk Grove Village, raised the only hostile questioning about the families circumstances and reasons for having financial problems."

Had your reporter been present at the Jan. 17 meeting of the Elk Grove Human Relations Council (which I, incidentally, was covering for Focus Publications of Elk Grove) when I began my questioning, she might have chosen a less unfriendly adjective. That, however, is unimportant.

People—their dignity and independence — are important. What I hoped to do, through my questioning, was dig through the usual platitudinous generalities to the plain, hard facts unique to this particular issue. Too many people seem to feel:

1. Different living standards are inferior standards.

2. Poverty is unsanitary slovenliness.

3. Lack of material possessions comparable to theirs is "want."

4. Lack of formal education is ignorance.

5. Fires, with or without resultant loss of life, confine themselves only to "migrant" housing.

6. A situation that has existed about 40 years cannot be tolerated even 40 days more.

7. Destroying homes and a way of life is "correcting the situation."

8. The solution is for some welfare agency to build nice, new living quarters for "Migrants." Of course, they would be given a choice between a few small, or one large Mexican ghetto. And, at least, this low-cost housing would be new.

Well, I do not agree with these feelings. I do not agree this makes me "hostile" either to the Spanish-speaking members of the community or to anyone else. But, I am becoming annoyed with those who brand as "hostile" (or "prejudiced" or whatever) others who question methods, means, motives and ends. I will continue to raise questions, however. Please, in future, try to be more accurate in reporting what it is I am "hostile" to.

Calls Comment On Housewives Contradictory

Housewives of Suburbia beware! Geraldine Walsh's expose' of your "ignorance and complacency" in racial affairs will undoubtedly cause complete disavowal by your mates and subsequent expulsion from your peaceful suburban homes. I was quite shocked to learn that I had been entrusting the care and upbringing of my three children to an ignoramus who is incapable of understanding the plight of some of this nation's Negroes.

In a more serious vein, I heartily agree with Mrs. Walsh's praise of Mr. Jones' accomplishments against normally insurmountable odds for a person of his environmental background and race.

HOWEVER, I do feel that her comments against the "complacency and ignorance" of the housewives at the meeting were quite contradictory. Their attendance at the meeting was a repudiation of her complacency charge, although I am sure that she was referring to all suburban housewives in general.

I also question Mrs. Walsh's ability to interpret the feeling of ignorance which the guest speaker may have conveyed to certain members of the audience.

After due deliberation, I have decided to retain my ignorant wife on a trial basis in the hope that some of Mrs. Walsh's intellectual insight may appear at a later date — about a century from now, I hope.

'Saturday Is Important Day For Fenton'

Saturday, Feb. 5 is a very important date in high school District 100. On this day the citizens of this community will decide the fate of their educational system. The decision is one which will determine whether your children will continue to receive a high level, well-rounded high school education or be denied because of a 15-year-old tax rate.

This project is one of the most worthy causes that this community can support. On behalf of the students and faculty who are looking for a green light to uphold the high standards of this educational system I strongly urge a yes vote for the future of your children.

Chief Cites Doctor's Response At Cave-In, Airplane Crash

In a recent Elk Grove Herald front page story, which described the continued investigation of a fire fatal to two small children, criticism was made of the availability of doctors — and particularly of Dr. R. E. Fox, M.D., who has offices in Elk Grove Village. Unidentified police officers were quoted in expressing displeasure, and stating that in the future they would call for the ambulance first and get the person to a hospital.

First of all, a patrolman should not make public criticism to newspaper reporters.

Secondly, it is our standard procedure to get any injured or ill person to the hospital.

Thirdly, in the incident in point, the two babies were dead. A doctor was desired to adminster a sedative to the mother. The mother did not want to leave the farm until she could contact her husband. She was in no physical condition which would prevent her from being taken to the doctor's office — and she was not an emergency case.

Fourth, and a point of major importance, no one should criticize Doctor Fox — the first doctor to serve in the Village of Elk Grove Village, and a man who has given much of his time and talent to the citizens of this community.

Doctor Fox has answered many emergency calls, at all hours, at his office, at the police station, and at various homes in the Village — as well as at the scene of an accident or emergency — and sometimes at great personal danger. He has not asked if the sick or injured have insurance or are otherwise able to pay. Even during the year when he asked not to be called out at night, he was called and he came.

In November of 1964, when the two workers were trapped in a cave-in, in Elk Grove Village, Doctor Fox went to their aid — to the bottom of the pit and at great personal danger—and administered to them until the second cave-in placed them out of reach and prevented rescue.

In May of 1964, when two men were trapped in their airplane which had crashed in Hoffman Estates, Doctor Fox responded to the call; and, at great peril to himself — with the threat of explosion and fire —he administered to the pilot, who survived the crash.

Doctors are a good deal like policemen, in the criticism they are subjected to: "you can't find one when you want one." But before we subject either doctor or policeman to criticism, let us consider their total involvement in the community.

For over six and a half years, Doctor Fox has served the Village of Elk Grove Village faithfully, and above the call of duty. He did not deserve the criticism he received in the newspaper article. I can only say that I am sorry and ashamed that this police department was a party to it.

Lady Drivers Have Problems All Their Own

Accident Rate Is Rising for Women

by Pat Adam
Suburban Living Editor

When the female of the species decides it's time she learned to drive a car, there is lots to learn besides how to operate the vehicle.

One of the most important lessons is that while she may reign as queen in her own kitchen, behind the wheel she's definitely not "queen of the road."

Young, old and in-between, women generally make good students when it comes to learning to drive. They listen well, and they want to do the right thing. However, they do have their problems.

John Bush, teacher at Arlington High School who instructs in both the District 214 adult driver education program and the high school driving classes, finds teenage girls are without fear and need to develop a proper respect for the responsibilities involved in operating an automobile.

WITH MATURE women, the problem is quite the reverse, according to Bush. Fully aware of the responsibilities, they may experience a "learning block" out of fear of doing the wrong thing. He usually devotes the first session to helping erase this fear.

Ruddie Bippes, instructor for North Shore Driving School who has taught many northwest suburban women to drive, says generally the older the woman, the longer it takes her to learn. It's a long time since she's had to listen to instructions, and she's used to making her own decisions.

Both Bush and Bippes, however, believe women can be and often are just as good rivers as men.

THE ADULT woman who decides to take driving lessons probably has been forced to it. Hubby is too busy making a livelihood to tote her around any more, so she has to assume the family chauffeuring duties. Or driving becomes a necessity if she's to see her family and friends after she's moved to the suburbs. She may live too far to walk to the store. Or maybe she just wants the freedom that comes with being able to hop into the car and go, particularly if the man of the house has begun to gripe about driving her around.

Once she has that much desired license, what kind of problems does a woman driver face?

Most of the driving women do is in familiar areas within a few miles of their homes, and they do it mainly in daylight hours and in non-rush traffic. Sounds safe enough; yet statistics from the National Safety Council show the accident rate for women drivers is on the rise.

FROM 1958 to 1964, the most recent year for which figures are available, the rate of women drivers involved in fatal accidents increased from 29 for every one billion miles driven to 38, and in the same period, the rate of female drivers involved in all accidents went up from 178 to 212 for every 10 million miles driven.

Her very nature as a female plays an important part in the matter of safe driving, says Margaret Johnson, driver education director at Glenbrook High School and member of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety.

In an article written for a publication of the Allstate Insurance Co., Miss Johnson notes that the modern woman experiences some conflicts about her role in modern society.

"THESE SAME conflicts show up (in women) when they drive their cars," she states. "The individual woman driver, half-aggressive and half-passive, wants to travel fast and far, yet have the rule of 'ladies first' apply at intersections, bottlenecks and in crises. As a result she neither reacts nor adjusts as quickly as necessary."

This addiction of "ladies first" may account for their failure to yield the right-of-way, a leading traffic offense of women drivers.

Another of their driving faults, especially when they are learning to drive, is failing to signal.

TEACHER BUSH says, "I have to remind the women that they're not in the kitchen and that there are other drivers to consider."

Women are often on their worst behavior driving hubby to catch the commuter train. "Get him to the train on time" is their theme song. Bush reports that his high school student drivers often are shocked at the unladylike way womenfolk drive at that time of day, with slight regard for anyone else on the street.

One strictly female angle that can be troublesome for a woman driver is how she dresses.

FOR SAFE driving garments should be comfortable and non-restricting. Bush advises his pupils to wear slacks while they're learning to drive. Tugging at a short skirt can create a problem a lot worse than bare knees, he says.

High-heeled shoes are another hazard. Miss Johnson suggests flat or low-heeled shoes for driving and recommends carrying a spare pair in the car, along with some driving gloves, for those dress-up occasions when the lady still has to do the driving. Besides arriving safely, says Miss Johnson, she'll be sure her shoes are unscuffed and her gloves still white.

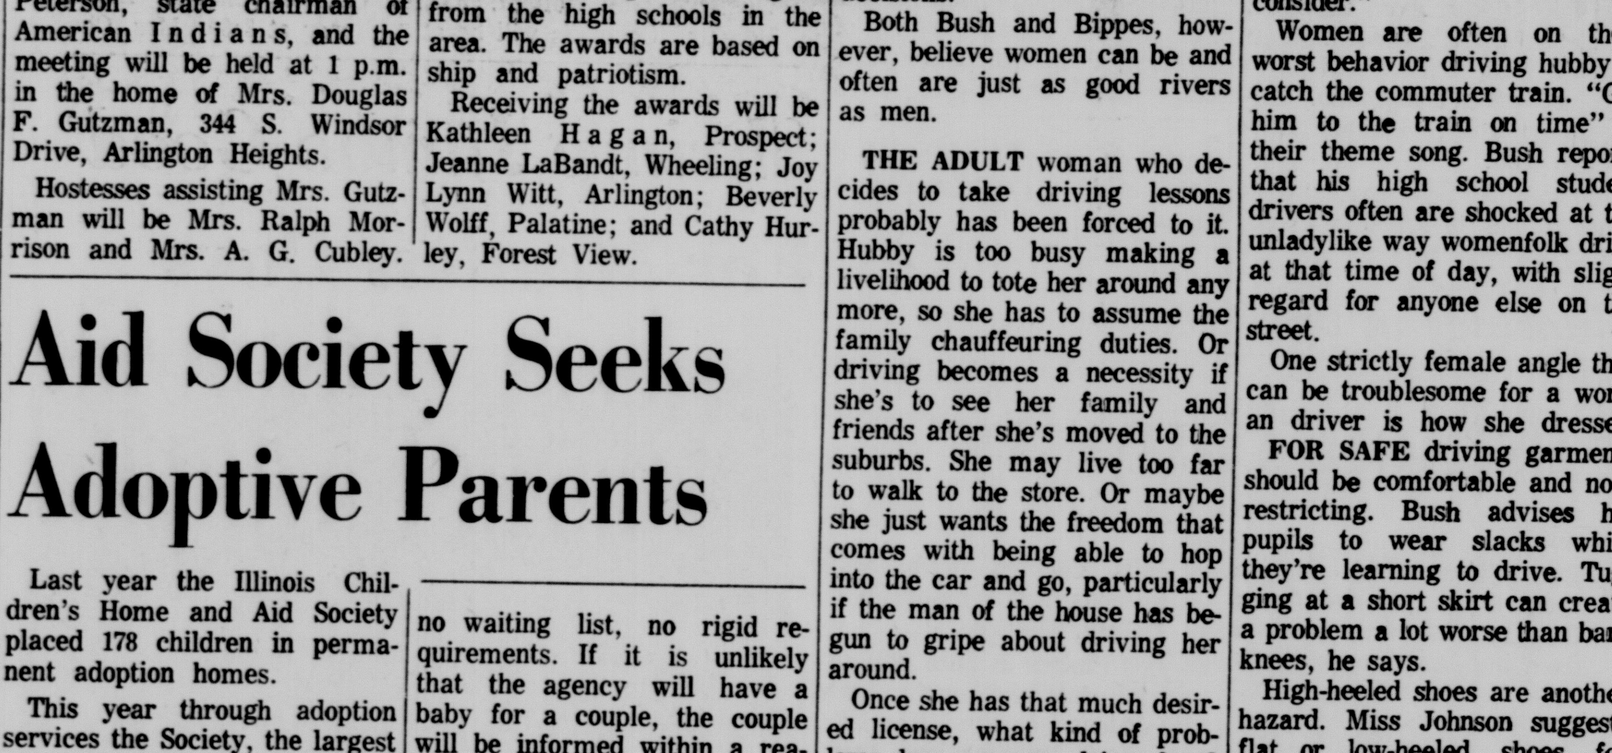
Bush warns that dangling bracelets and bulky coats also can be hazardous. A bracelet can catch on clothing or the gear shift lever, and a heavy coat can interfere with driving.

THERE ARE occasions when a woman ought not even get into the driver's seat. One explanation of the rising number of accidents involving women drivers is the psychological stresses and hormonal changes associated with the menstrual cycle and menopause. At these times some women are easily upset by noise, children and other distractions.

These women ought not to drive at such times, but if they can't avoid it, they should be aware of their feelings and make a special effort to control their emotions.

Some other potential troublemakers for the woman driver are a too chatty passenger, an overly loud car radio, attractive shop windows and the temptation to dab on lipstick or comb hair while stopped at a traffic light.

THE WISE WOMAN DRIVER wears low-heeled shoes while driving her car, even when she's all dressed up and bound for a club meeting, like Mrs. Daniel Wallner, of Arlington Heights, first vice president of the 7th District Juniors. Carrying her high heels with her, she can change quickly to dress shoes when she arrives at her destination.



"LADIES FIRST" does not apply to the woman behind the wheel of an automobile. One of the most frequent traffic offenses committed by women drivers is failure to yield the right-of-way. With the accident rate among women drivers on the increase, obeying the rules of the road, especially those regarding who has the right-of-way, takes on added importance. (Staff photo)

Dry Air Produces Health Problems

If you're a frequent victim of dry nose, scratchy throat or recurrent colds, the solution to your problem may be no further away than your heating system.

Central heating units in homes frequently bake inside air to tinder-dryness, reducing humidity in many instances to absolute zero and inviting a number of health problems. For example:

Dry air increases your chance of getting a cold by drying out the moist secretions in your nose and throat — secretions which protect your body from invasion of infectious germs.

IF YOU ALREADY have a cold, the dry atmosphere may prolong it by preventing the production of additional secretions needed to provide a protective coating of the infected area and wash away infectious germs. Result? Your nose and throat remain congested and susceptible to reinfection.

An overly-dry room can also add discomfort to people with asthma or chronic respiratory diseases, irritate certain conditions of the skin and produce a dry, itchy nose and throat.

Dry air also can produce those electric shocks you experience after walking across a carpet. When the humidity is high, the static electricity is grounded as it forms. When it is low, however, the static is not grounded but rather discharged against the object you touch.

HOW CAN YOU prevent "dry heat?"

The most effective way is with a commercial humidifying unit that attaches to your furnace blower and controls the relative humidity throughout your entire home. Humidifiers are regulated by the outside temperature according to safe relative humidity levels established by the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association.

If you don't wish to install a humidifier, small room steamers or even water boiled on an electric plate in every room throughout the house can offer relief. (S

Aid Society Seeks Adoptive Parents

Last year the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society placed 178 children in permanent adoption homes.

This year through adoption services the Society, the largest voluntary non-sectarian child welfare agency in the state of Illinois, will continue to make it possible for more children to experience the love and security of a permanent family and home of their own.

"Although there are more couples applying to adopt a child than there are children available for adoption, we must encourage interested couples to contact the Society because there are more children needing adoption than there were in former years," said Mrs. Lela Boerner, supervisor in adoption services at the agency.

THE SOCIETY has an uncomplicated adoption process which does not, however, sacrifice good service to either children or adoptive parents, said Mrs. Boerner. The Society has no waiting list, no rigid requirements. If it is unlikely that the agency will have a baby for a couple, the couple will be informed within a reasonable length of time so that they can make other plans.

Adoptive parents should be of an appropriate age for the parents of an infant and they should have been married long enough to be adjusted to each other. Income must be sufficient for a child's care, although parents do not have to be rich or own their own home to adopt a child. The Society often places children with people who already have children, either natural or adopted, and want more.

For more information, interested couples may call the Society's adoption intake caseworker at WHitehall 4-3313, or write the Adoption Division, 1122 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, 60610. (S

'Education an Antidote To Poverty' for AAUW

The second of two programs dealing with the American Association of University Women's Program Topic, "Education—An Antidote to Poverty" will feature guest speaker, Mrs. Gordon L. Munson, at the Arlington Heights AAUW branch's Thursday, Feb. 10 meeting. The meeting will be held at 7:45 in the Arlington Heights Savings and Loan Building.

Mrs. Munson, of Barrington, is a member of the Illinois Youth Commission, which supervises all the state training, reform and diagnostic schools throughout Illinois. In discussing the Illinois Youth Commission, Mrs. Munson will explain how a community such as Arlington Heights can prevent the need of this agency's services.

DURING THE business meeting a branch financial opinion poll, drawn up by the executive committee and mailed to members for analysis and completion, will be collected and discussed. The opinion poll details current branch disbursements and proposed state budgetary changes, as well as presenting a tentative proposed branch budget based on a possible raise in next year's dues. It also solicites members' opinions on various related subjects.

According to Mrs. Paul F. Davis, president, the 6-year-old Arlington Heights branch is now in a transitional stage, having tripled its membership within the last three years. Expansion indicates that changes in the financial structure of the branch are long over-due, she pointed out.

THE NOMINATING committee for the branch, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Parsons, met in January and drew up the following slate of candidates which will be presented to the general membership at the Feb. 10 meeting: first vice president in charge of program development, Mrs. Howard H. Rice; second vice president in charge of membership, Mrs. James L. Andrew; and treasurer, Mrs. Fred J. Riedl. Nominations from the floor will also be received at the February meeting.

Also on the agenda for the business meeting will be preliminary reports on, and discussion of, the forthcoming convention of the AAUW Illinois State Division, which will be held May 7 at the Sherman House in Chicago. (S

Accident Rate Is Rising for Women

by Pat Adam
Suburban Living Editor

When the female of the species decides it's time she learned to drive a car, there is lots to learn besides how to operate the vehicle.

One of the most important lessons is that while she may reign as queen in her own kitchen, behind the wheel she's definitely not "queen of the road."

Young, old and in-between, women generally make good students when it comes to learning to drive. They listen well, and they want to do the right thing. However, they do have their problems.

John Bush, teacher at Arlington High School who instructs in both the District 214 adult driver education program and the high school driving classes, finds teenage girls are without fear and need to develop a proper respect for the responsibilities involved in operating an automobile.

WITH MATURE women, the problem is quite the reverse, according to Bush. Fully aware of the responsibilities, they may experience a "learning block" out of fear of doing the wrong thing. He usually devotes the first session to helping erase this fear.

Ruddie Bippes, instructor for North Shore Driving School who has taught many northwest suburban women to drive, says generally the older the woman, the longer it takes her to learn. It's a long time since she's had to listen to instructions, and she's used to making her own decisions.

Both Bush and Bippes, however, believe women can be and often are just as good rivers as men.

THE ADULT woman who decides to take driving lessons probably has been forced to it. Hubby is too busy making a livelihood to tote her around any more, so she has to assume the family chauffeuring duties. Or driving becomes a necessity if she's to see her family and friends after she's moved to the suburbs. She may live too far to walk to the store. Or maybe she just wants the freedom that comes with being able to hop into the car and go, particularly if the man of the house has begun to gripe about driving her around.

Once she has that much desired license, what kind of problems does a woman driver face?

Most of the driving women do is in familiar areas within a few miles of their homes, and they do it mainly in daylight hours and in non-rush traffic. Sounds safe enough; yet statistics from the National Safety Council show the accident rate for women drivers is on the rise.

FROM 1958 to 1964, the most recent year for which figures are available, the rate of women drivers involved in fatal accidents increased from 29 for every one billion miles driven to 38, and in the same period, the rate of female drivers involved in all accidents went up from 178 to 212 for every 10 million miles driven.

Her very nature as a female plays an important part in the matter of safe driving, says Margaret Johnson, driver education director at Glenbrook High School and member of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety.

In an article written for a publication of the Allstate Insurance Co., Miss Johnson notes that the modern woman experiences some conflicts about her role in modern society.

"THESE SAME conflicts show up (in women) when they drive their cars," she states. "The individual woman driver, half-aggressive and half-passive, wants to travel fast and far, yet have the rule of 'ladies first' apply at intersections, bottlenecks and in crises. As a result she neither reacts nor adjusts as quickly as necessary."

This addiction of "ladies first" may account for their failure to yield the right-of-way, a leading traffic offense of women drivers.

Another of their driving faults, especially when they are learning to drive, is failing to signal.

TEACHER BUSH says, "I have to remind the women that they're not in the kitchen and that there are other drivers to consider."

Women are often on their worst behavior driving hubby to catch the commuter train. "Get him to the train on time" is their theme song. Bush reports that his high school student drivers often are shocked at the unladylike way womenfolk drive at that time of day, with slight regard for anyone else on the street.

One strictly female angle that can be troublesome for a woman driver is how she dresses.

FOR SAFE driving garments should be comfortable and nonrestricting. Bush advises his pupils to wear slacks while they're learning to drive. Tugging at a short skirt can create a problem a lot worse than bare knees, he says.

High-heeled shoes are another hazard. Miss Johnson suggests flat or low-heeled shoes for driving and recommends carrying a spare pair in the car, along with some driving gloves, for those dress-up occasions when the lady still has to do the driving. Besides arriving safely, says Miss Johnson, she'll be sure her shoes are unscuffed and her gloves still white.

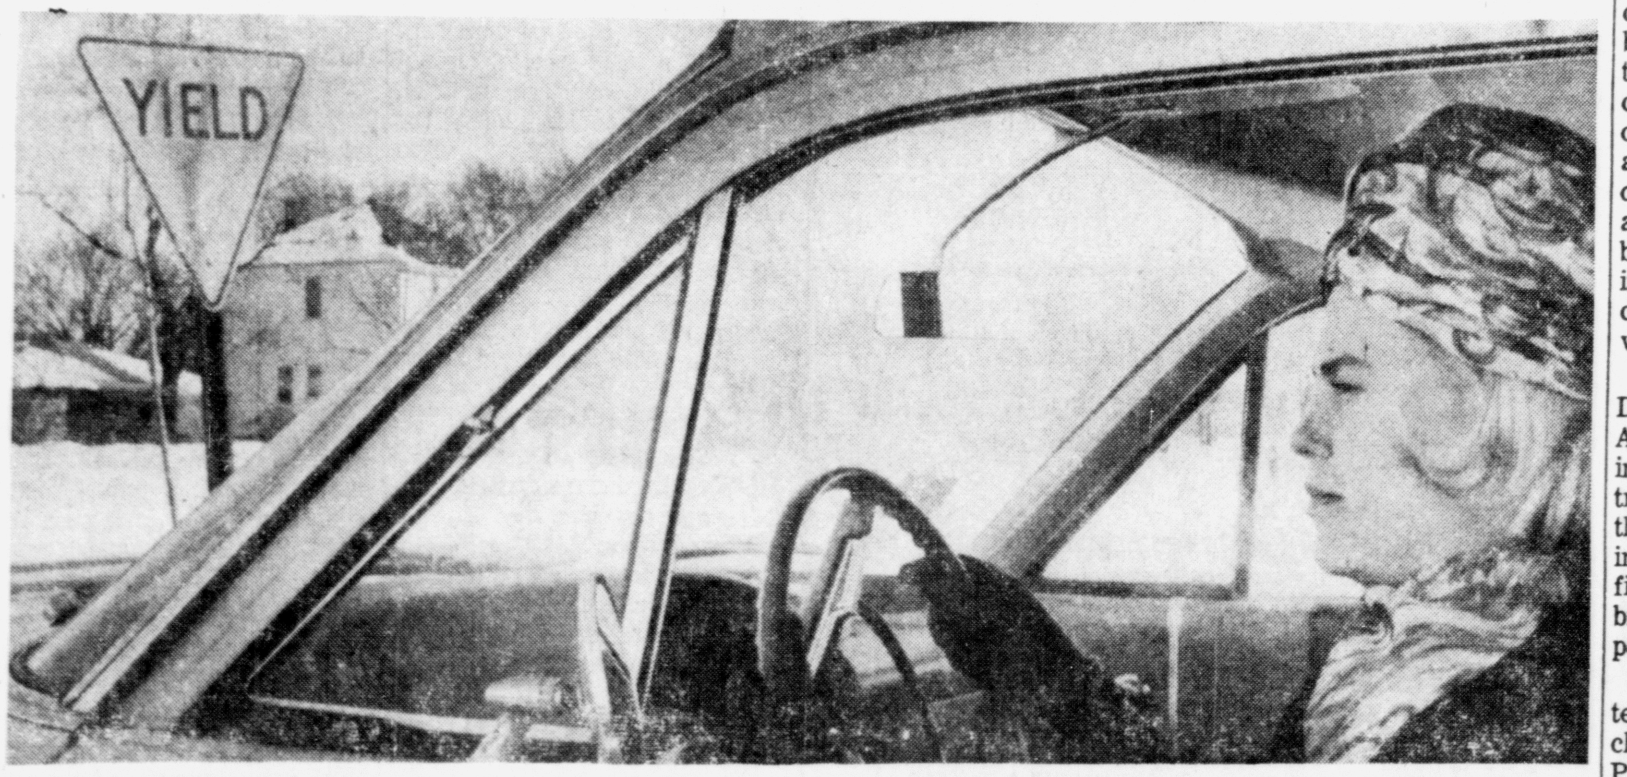
Bush warns that dangling bracelets and bulky coats also can be hazardous. A bracelet can catch on clothing or the gear shift lever, and a heavy coat can interfere with driving.

THERE ARE occasions when a woman ought not even get into the driver's seat. One explanation of the rising number of accidents involving women drivers is the psychological stresses and hormonal changes associated with the menstrual cycle and menopause. At these times some women are easily upset by noise, children and other distractions.

These women ought not to drive at such times, but if they can't avoid it, they should be aware of their feelings and make a special effort to control their emotions.

Some other potential troublemakers for the woman driver are a too chatty passenger, an overly loud car radio, attractive shop windows and the temptation to dab on lipstick or comb hair while stopped at a traffic light.

THE WISE WOMAN DRIVER wears low-heeled shoes while driving her car, even when she's all dressed up and bound for a club meeting, like Mrs. Daniel Wallner, of Arlington Heights, first vice president of the 7th District Juniors. Carrying her high heels with her, she can change quickly to dress shoes when she arrives at her destination.



"LADIES FIRST" does not apply to the woman behind the wheel of an automobile. One of the most frequent traffic offenses committed by women drivers is failure to yield the right-of-way. With the accident rate among women drivers on the increase, obeying the rules of the road, especially those regarding who has the right-of-way, takes on added importance. (Staff photo) (SF

Mom Still Gets the Jitters When Report Cards Are Due

by BETTY AINSLIE

Final report card season is here again. The time when all parents get excuses like: "Gee, even the brightest kids in the class only got C's" or "The teacher just grades low, that's all."

It's the season of conferences with the teacher when you discover first hand that Susie, Bill or Tom isn't really doing work to the best of capacity and possibly a little more home study would be in order.

It's the time when Pop again lays down the law about longer home work sessions and less TV. Depending, of course, upon the report card at hand.

THE TIME when the younger brother or sister hears again how excellent were the report cards of older brother and sister.

Somehow parents never get over that fluttery feeling upon seeing the latest report card presented by son or daughter.

High school grades we view with more trepidation and fear than grade school reports. If that son or daughter doesn't stand in the upper third of his class the college of his choice may not be within reach, and competition for entering the better colleges is keen. It isn't just the money for tuition these days; it's also the high school report in back of your youngster.

"I GOT MY report card today," Son no. 2 will announce, casually flinging down a sheaf of high school grades.

With older children ahead of him, I should be prepared for report cards, but I'm not—I still cross my fingers before I look. Now Son no. 2 following in the honor roll footsteps of his brother has it a trifle tougher.

"Your brother got an A out of this course. Seems like you could do better than a C," a teacher will say as though ambition and brains should run automatically in the family.

"NO ONE IN this family ever brought home a failing grade and you're not going to spoil the record," Pop will declare, frowning at a mid-semester "D."

"Heck, you have more brains then any of us," says sister. "Just use them."

"Learn to study now, kid," points out older brother. "Because, believe me, college is plenty tough."

So you schedule a parent's conference, hoping that between teacher and parent you'll come up with the magic formula that will guarantee good grades. Something that will open that high school freshman's eyes to the fact that "life is real and life is earnest"—that the easy slide of grade school is over.

EVERYTHING from a money bribe for good grades to no shows or TV is tried to get the teenager to bring home a good report card.

Bill's first report card was strictly average—he's a typical average boy that's all. A few check marks here and there for conduct which could be improved, but no failures and he was delighted to present this first report card to us.

"Does a 72 mean I get a dime?" he asks Pop, anxious to add a bit more to the money he carefully hoards.

"Will I have to do homework for three hours?" he asks, remembering the new rule in effect for his brother.

HOWEVER, AT Bill's age, parents are more interested in the child's behavior—how he fits in with the group and how he pays attention. We're not thinking about college yet.

Son no. 1 beats the mailman to the box as he waits his mailed college grades.

"Boy," he'll say as he rips open the envelope and holds the sheet with his grades in trembling fingers. "A 'B' in chemistry and I thought sure I flunked the final."

Now I was always a little shakey on finals myself, according to some old report cards I've kept hidden from the kids. Grade school? A breeze? High school? Well, algebra and physics just weren't my dish. College? By golly, I made it—enough said.

Anyway I can say, "Why when I was in school—" Well, maybe on second thought, we'd better hold up Pop's grades as an example.

Women Organizing B'nai B'rith Group

A group of women from the northwest suburbs have been in the process of organizing a B'nai B'rith chapter, and with temporary officers appointed, hope to meet this month to sign a charter and plan programs for the coming months.

Mrs. Lawrence S. Graff of Hoffman Estates was named temporary chairman at a meeting held in her home Jan. 20. Mrs. Joseph Hirschbein, Hoffman Estates, is acting secretary and Mrs. Sherwin Spector, Elk Grove, is acting treasurer.

AT THE JANUARY meeting Mrs. Kelman Sadur, vice president and membership retention chairman of B'nai B'rith Women, North Suburban Council, and Mrs. Harold Shulman, District 6 board member, gave a resume of services rendered by B'nai B'rith women and acted as advisors for the new group.

A program concerning the Anti-Defamation League of B'nair B'rith is planned, its purpose to promote equality of opportunity and better understanding among all religions and racial groups.

Any women interested in membership may call Mrs. Hirschbein, 529-9698, or Mrs. Graff, 529-4778. (SSD

"THE FOUR CASUALS," fourth place medalists in quartet competition at the recent international convention of Sweet Adelines, Inc., in Denver, have been invited to perform at the next meeting of Region 3, Sweet Adelines, being held Saturday in Springfield. Mrs. Kerbis holds degrees from the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin, Harvard University and the Illinois Institute of Technology, not only in design but in structural engineering.

HER TOPIC will be "Woman in a Man's World." This is an appropriate subject, for Mrs. Kerbis has won many awards for architectural design, among them the Skokie Library, Glass House Restaurant building at O'Hare Field and the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. Another of her projects is the Don Kerbis Tennis Club of Highland Park which is operated by her husband. (S

Shrimp Jumbo Good For Meatless Days

This delectable Sprout and Shrimp Jumbo casserole is faintly reminiscent of Louisiana Jambalya. Whole shrimp, rice and crunchy bean sprouts are baked in a tasty sauce of tomato soup and hearty cream. Crisp chow mein noodles glorify the top of this casserole.

Created as a meatless day entree, this luncheon or dinner casserole is complete with a gelatin salad, hot buttered rolls and steaming hot coffee. Fix this casserole in the morning and then bake it an hour before dinner.

SPROUT AND SHRIMP "JUMBO"

1½ pounds shrimp, peeled and deveined
2 bay leaves
3 strips lemon peel
3 to 5 whole cloves
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ cup chopped green onion and tops
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon ground bay leaves
Dash cayenne
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
Pinch of sugar
½ cup rice, cooked according to package directions and drained
1 1-pound can (2 cups) bean sprouts, rinsed and drained
1 can condensed cream of tomato soup
¾ cup heavy cream
1 cup sliced almonds
½ cup chow mein noodles

Boil shrimp in enough water to cover. Add bay leaves, lemon peel, cloves and salt. Boil 5 minutes or until tender. Saute onion and garlic in butter. Add herbs and spices and seasonings.

Place cooked shrimp in 2-quart casserole. Add onion mixture, cooked rice and bean sprouts. Pour soup and cream over mixture. Add almonds. Mix well. Sprinkle chow mein noodles on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until lightly browned and bubbly. (SH

Wooden Bowls Best for Salad

Wooden salad bowls are the nicest for salads dressed at table but the trouble with most wooden bowls is that the oil used in the dressing permeates the wood and finally turns rancid. Once this happens even using the best and freshest Spanish olive oil can't save the salad. The rancid flavor embedded in the wood of the bowl permeates the entire salad.

A new process for finishing wooden salad bowls called Vitrolac completely seals the pores of the wood so that no oil can penetrate and the bowl can also safely be washed with warm water without affecting the finish. (SH

Mom Still Gets the Jitters When Report Cards Are Due

by BETTY AINSLIE

Final report card season is here again. The time when all parents get excuses like: "Gee, even the brightest kids in the class only got C's" or "The teacher just grades low, that's all."

It's the season of conferences with the teacher when you discover first hand that Susie, Bill or Tom isn't really doing work to the best of capacity and possibly a little more home study would be in order.

It's the time when Pop again lays down the law about longer home work sessions and less TV. Depending, of course, upon the report card at hand.

THE TIME when the younger brother or sister hears again how excellent were the report cards of older brother and sister.

Somehow parents never get over that fluttery feeling upon seeing the latest report card presented by son or daughter.

High school grades we view with more trepidation and fear than grade school reports. If that son or daughter doesn't stand in the upper third of his class the college of his choice may not be within reach, and competition for entering the better colleges is keen. It isn't just the money for tuition these days; it's also the high school report in back of your youngster.

"I GOT MY report card today," Son no. 2 will announce, casually flinging down a sheaf of high school grades.

With older children ahead of him, I should be prepared for report cards, but I'm not—I still cross my fingers before I look. Now Son no. 2 following in the honor roll footsteps of his brother has it a trifle tougher.

"Your brother got an A out of this course. Seems like you could do better than a C," a teacher will say as though ambition and brains should run automatically in the family.

"NO ONE IN this family ever brought home a failing grade and you're not going to spoil the record," Pop will declare, frowning at a mid-semester "D."

"Heck, you have more brains then any of us," says sister. "Just use them."

"Learn to study now, kid," points out older brother. "Because, believe me, college is plenty tough."

So you schedule a parent's conference, hoping that between teacher and parent you'll come up with the magic formula that will guarantee good grades. Something that will open that high school freshman's eyes to the fact that "life is real and life is earnest"—that the easy slide of grade school is over.

EVERYTHING from a money bribe for good grades to no shows or TV is tried to get the teenager to bring home a good report card.

Bill's first report card was strictly average—he's a typical average boy that's all. A few check marks here and there for conduct which could be improved, but no failures and he was delighted to present this first report card to us.

"Does a 72 mean I get a dime?" he asks Pop, anxious to add a bit more to the money he carefully hoards.

"Will I have to do homework for three hours?" he asks, remembering the new rule in effect for his brother.

HOWEVER, AT Bill's age, parents are more interested in the child's behavior—how he fits in with the group and how he pays attention. We're not thinking about college yet.

Son no. 1 beats the mailman to the box as he waits his mailed college grades.

"Boy," he'll say as he rips open the envelope and holds the sheet with his grades in trembling fingers. "A 'B' in chemistry and I thought sure I flunked the final."

Now I was always a little shakey on finals myself, according to some old report cards I've kept hidden from the kids. Grade school? A breeze? High school? Well, algebra and physics just weren't my dish. College? By golly, I made it—enough said.

Anyway I can say, "Why when I was in school—" Well, maybe on second thought, we'd better hold up Pop's grades as an example.

Women Organizing B'nai B'rith Group

A group of women from the northwest suburbs have been in the process of organizing a B'nai B'rith chapter, and with temporary officers appointed, hope to meet this month to sign a charter and plan programs for the coming months.

Mrs. Lawrence S. Graff of Hoffman Estates was named temporary chairman at a meeting held in her home Jan. 20. Mrs. Joseph Hirschbein, Hoffman Estates, is acting secretary and Mrs. Sherwin Spector, Elk Grove, is acting treasurer.

AT THE JANUARY meeting Mrs. Kelman Sadur, vice president and membership retention chairman of B'nai B'rith Women, North Suburban Council, and Mrs. Harold Shulman, District 6 board member, gave a resume of services rendered by B'nai B'rith women and acted as advisors for the new group.

A program concerning the Anti-Defamation League of B'nair B'rith is planned, its purpose to promote equality of opportunity and better understanding among all religions and racial groups.

Any women interested in membership may call Mrs. Hirschbein, 529-9698, or Mrs. Graff, 529-4778. (SSD

Architect Is Club Speaker

Mrs. Gertrude Kerbis, an architect with the firm of C. F. Murphy, Chicago, will be guest speaker for the Monday noon meeting of the Woman's Club of Inverness. It takes place at Inverness Community House, with Mrs. R. G. Adams as hostess.

Mrs. Kerbis holds degrees from the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin, Harvard University and the Illinois Institute of Technology, not only in design but in structural engineering.

HER TOPIC will be "Woman in a Man's World." This is an appropriate subject, for Mrs. Kerbis has won many awards for architectural design, among them the Skokie Library, Glass House Restaurant building at O'Hare Field and the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. Another of her projects is the Don Kerbis Tennis Club of Highland Park which is operated by her husband. (S

Leftover Ham Can Be Made into Elegant Loaf

MRS. JOHN J. SHIELDS of Arlington Heights spoons a nippy Hot Mustard Sauce over an elegant Glazed Ham Loaf, which is one of her favorites for company fare. With this appealing meat she likes to serve a tasty Cinnamon Apple Jello Mold (pictured in foreground) and a high and handsome dill-flavored casserole bread.

Cinnamon Candies Spark Jello Mold

by LOIS SEILER

Leftover ham can be transformed into elegant dinner fare with today's intriguing recipe for a Glazed Ham Loaf.

It belongs to Mrs. John J. Shields of Arlington Heights and is the featured entree on one of her favorite menus for dinner parties.

"I clipped this recipe from Better Homes and Gardens about eight years ago," said Mrs. Shields, "and we've enjoyed it ever since."

To make this loaf, ham is ground with fresh pork and mixed with bread crumbs, onion, eggs and milk. Baked in the shape of a ring or loaves, it is basted several times with a nippy sweet-sour glaze.

When serving, Mrs. Shields places sprigs of parsley or endive in the center of the ham ring to add color and interest and accompanies the meat with a hot mustard sauce. The sauce has a bitey flavor that gives extra zest to the ham .

AS ACCOMPANIMENTS, this good cook suggests twice-baked or scalloped potatoes, green peas, a cinnamon-apple Jello mold and Dilly Bread.

Red hots (cinnamon candies) are used to flavor the cherry Jello used for the salad mold. Chopped apples, celery and nuts give additional flavor and texture. Mrs. Shields serves a pink cream cheese dressing with this tasty salad.

The Dilly Casserole Bread brings additional interest to this meal and complements the flavor of the ham.

This unusual yeast bread, which requires no kneading, includes cottage cheese, minced onion and dill seed among its ingredients. Baked in a casserole, it rises to a beautiful height and is cut in wedges to serve.

"THIS WAS one of Pillsbury's Bake-Off winners several years ago," said Iva Mae Shields, "and it is better than any homemade bread recipe I've ever tried."

"It has a nice, moist texture," she continued, "and the dill gives it a unique flavor."

The onion and dill may be omitted for a plain bread, which is appealing, too. The bread can be made in advance, wrapped in foil and re-heated before serving, as it is especially delicious served warm.

This dinner is a great favorite with her family, which includes three children: Melani, 18, a freshman at Illinois State University; Mark, 15, a sophomore at Prospect High, and Melissa, 11, a sixth grader at Miner Junior High.

THE SHIELDS family moved from Denver four years ago to their home at 308 N. Drury Lane in Arlington Heights. Active in the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Shields teaches Sunday School and is spiritual life secretary for the Women's Society of Christian Service.

GLAZED HAM LOAF

1½ pounds ground ham
1¼ pounds ground fresh pork
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup chopped onion
2 beaten eggs
½ cup milk
1 recipe sweet-sour glaze
1 recipe mustard hot sauce

Thoroughly combine meats, crumbs, onion, eggs and milk. Mold by pressing mixture into a lightly-oiled 6½-cup ring mold or a loaf pan. Invert onto a shallow baking pan remove mold. (You can shape the meat mixture into loaves with hands or bake in a pan and remove when cooked.) Bake at 350 degrees for 1¼ hours. At the end of 45 minutes baking time, brush loaf with the following Sweet-Sour Glaze:

½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon water

Blend together brown sugar and mustard. Stir in vinegar and water. Continue baking loaf until done, basting with glaze 3 or 4 times. Serve with the following Hot Mustard Sauce:

½ cup dry mustard
½ cup vinegar
1 egg
½ cup sugar
Dash of salt
Mayonnaise

In a jar, mix together the mustard and vinegar. Cover and let stand overnight.

In the top of a double boiler, beat the egg. Stir in sugar and salt and mustard mixture. Cook over hot, not boiling water. Stir constantly until mixture thickens and slightly coats a spoon. Cool before serving and add mayonnaise in an equal proportion to the mustard mixture. More mayonnaise can be added if desired. Ham Loaf serves 6 to 8.

CINNAMON APPLE JELLO MOLD

1 package cherry jello
1 cup hot water
¼ cup red hots (cinnamon candies)
½ cup boiling water
1 cup shredded apples (with skins, if desired)
1 cup diced celery
½ cup chopped nuts

Dissolve cherry jello in 1 cup hot water.

Dissolve red hots in ½ cup boiling water. Add enough water to make 1 cup liquid. Add red hot liquid to jello and let partially cool. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into an oiled ring mold and place in refrigerator until set. Serves 6 to 8. Serve with the following dressing:

1 small package cream cheese
1 tablespoon cream
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
Maraschino cherry juice

Beat cream cheese with mayonnaise and cream, adding cherry juice for color and to make the dressing the desired consistency.

DILLY CASSEROLE BREAD

1 package dry yeast or 1 cake yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese, heated to lukewarm
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons dill seed
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
1 egg, unbeaten
2¼ to 2½ cups flour

Dissolve yeast in water.

Combine in mixing bowl cottage cheese, sugar, onion, butter, dill seed, salt, soda, egg and yeast mix. Add flour to form a stiff dough, beating well after each addition.

Cover and let rise in warm place until light and double in bulk. Punch down dough. Turn into a well-greased 8-inch round 1½ to 2-quart casserole. Let rise until double.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven, brush top with butter and sprinkle with salt. Let cool in casserole.

Remove from casserole and cut in wedges to serve.

Leftover Ham Can Be Made into Elegant Loaf

Cinnamon Candies Spark Jello Mold

by LOIS SEILER

Leftover ham can be transformed into elegant dinner fare with today's intriguing recipe for a Glazed Ham Loaf.

It belongs to Mrs. John J. Shields of Arlington Heights and is the featured entree on one of her favorite menus for dinner parties.

"I clipped this recipe from Better Homes and Gardens about eight years ago," said Mrs. Shields, "and we've enjoyed it ever since."

To make this loaf, ham is ground with fresh pork and mixed with bread crumbs, onion, eggs and milk. Baked in the shape of a ring or loaves, it is basted several times with a nippy sweet-sour glaze.

When serving, Mrs. Shields places sprigs of parsley or endive in the center of the ham ring to add color and interest and accompanies the meat with a hot mustard sauce. The sauce has a bitey flavor that gives extra zest to the ham .

AS ACCOMPANIMENTS, this good cook suggests twice-baked or scalloped potatoes, green peas, a cinnamon-apple Jello mold and Dilly Bread.

Red hots (cinnamon candies) are used to flavor the cherry Jello used for the salad mold. Chopped apples, celery and nuts give additional flavor and texture. Mrs. Shields serves a pink cream cheese dressing with this tasty salad.

The Dilly Casserole Bread brings additional interest to this meal and complements the flavor of the ham.

This unusual yeast bread, which requires no kneading, includes cottage cheese, minced onion and dill seed among its ingredients. Baked in a casserole, it rises to a beautiful height and is cut in wedges to serve.

"THIS WAS one of Pillsbury's Bake-Off winners several years ago," said Iva Mae Shields, "and it is better than any homemade bread recipe I've ever tried."

"It has a nice, moist texture," she continued, "and the dill gives it a unique flavor."

The onion and dill may be omitted for a plain bread, which is appealing, too. The bread can be made in advance, wrapped in foil and re-heated before serving, as it is especially delicious served warm.

This dinner is a great favorite with her family, which includes three children: Melani, 18, a freshman at Illinois State University; Mark, 15, a sophomore at Prospect High, and Melissa, 11, a sixth grader at Miner Junior High.

THE SHIELDS family moved from Denver four years ago to their home at 308 N. Drury Lane in Arlington Heights. Active in the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Shields teaches Sunday School and is spiritual life secretary for the Women's Society of Christian Service.

MRS. JOHN J. SHIELDS of Arlington Heights spoons a nippy Hot Mustard Sauce over an elegant Glazed Ham Loaf, which is one of her favorites for company fare. With this appealing meat she likes to serve a tasty Cinnamon Apple Jello Mold (pictured in foreground) and a high and handsome dill-flavored casserole bread.

GLAZED HAM LOAF

1½ pounds ground ham
1¼ pounds ground fresh pork
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup chopped onion
2 beaten eggs
½ cup milk
1 recipe sweet-sour glaze
1 recipe mustard hot sauce

Thoroughly combine meats, crumbs, onion, eggs and milk. Mold by pressing mixture into a lightly-oiled 6½-cup ring mold or a loaf pan. Invert onto a shallow baking pan remove mold. (You can shape the meat mixture into loaves with hands or bake in a pan and remove when cooked.) Bake at 350 degrees for 1¼ hours. At the end of 45 minutes baking time, brush loaf with the following Sweet-Sour Glaze:

½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon water

Blend together brown sugar and mustard. Stir in vinegar and water. Continue baking loaf until done, basting with glaze 3 or 4 times. Serve with the following Hot Mustard Sauce:

½ cup dry mustard
½ cup vinegar
1 egg
½ cup sugar
Dash of salt
Mayonnaise

In a jar, mix together the mustard and vinegar. Cover and let stand overnight.

In the top of a double boiler, beat the egg. Stir in sugar and salt and mustard mixture. Cook over hot, not boiling water. Stir constantly until mixture thickens and slightly coats a spoon. Cool before serving and add mayonnaise in an equal proportion to the mustard mixture. More mayonnaise can be added if desired. Ham Loaf serves 6 to 8.

CINNAMON APPLE JELLO MOLD

1 package cherry jello
1 cup hot water
¼ cup red hots (cinnamon candies)
½ cup boiling water
1 cup shredded apples (with skins, if desired)
1 cup diced celery
½ cup chopped nuts

Dissolve cherry jello in 1 cup hot water.

Dissolve red hots in ½ cup boiling water. Add enough water to make 1 cup liquid. Add red hot liquid to jello and let partially cool. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into an oiled ring mold and place in refrigerator until set. Serves 6 to 8. Serve with the following dressing:

1 small package cream cheese
1 tablespoon cream
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
Maraschino cherry juice

Beat cream cheese with mayonnaise and cream, adding cherry juice for color and to make the dressing the desired consistency.

DILLY CASSEROLE BREAD

1 package dry yeast or 1 cake yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese, heated to lukewarm
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons dill seed
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
1 egg, unbeaten
2¼ to 2½ cups flour

Dissolve yeast in water.

Combine in mixing bowl cottage cheese, sugar, onion, butter, dill seed, salt, soda, egg and yeast mix. Add flour to form a stiff dough, beating well after each addition.

Cover and let rise in warm place until light and double in bulk. Punch down dough. Turn into a well-greased 8-inch round 1½ to 2-quart casserole. Let rise until double.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven, brush top with butter and sprinkle with salt. Let cool in casserole.

Remove from casserole and cut in wedges to serve.

Jane Wilson Becomes Mrs. George Macdonald

In a Jan. 22 ceremony with only close friends and families of the bridal couple in attendance, Miss Jane Leslie Wilson, daughter of the Robert Wayne Wilsons, 1522 W. Thomas, Arlington Heights, became the bride of George Richard Macdonald, son of the Alexander J. Macdonalds of St. Louis. The service took place at noon in St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling.

White glads, carnations and lemon leaves decorated the altar as the bridal party stood be-before Fr. Raymond Yadron, officiating clergyman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore an ecru satin gown with full train. The gown featured a lace Queen Anne collar, and her shoulder-length veil was fastened to a pearl coronet. Her bouquet was of white phalaenopsis and tube roses with English ivy.

MRS. GEORGE MacDONALD

ATTENDING THE bride as maid of honor was Miss Cynthia Bertrand of Wheeling and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Miss Margaret Macdonald of St. Louis, and the bride's cousin, Susan Webster Klein, also of St. Louis. Their empire gowns were of pale blue chiffon, and they also wore matching blue veils. Old fashioned bouquets of deep pink roses and white carnations with pink streamers completed their ensembles.

Flower girl was the bride's 9-year-old cousin, Jane Crockett Klein of St. Louis, who wore a full-length dress of pink and white organza and carried a nosegay of pink and white roses.

Altar boys were the groom's brother, Michael Macdonald and Marty Bertrand, brother of the maid of honor. John Macke of St. Louis was best man and ushers were Gerald Osborne, David Bommarito, Kenneth Foushee and Phil Caltagirone, all of St. Louis.

The buffet reception was held in Old Orchard Country Club where Mrs. Wilson received in a champagne lace dress with satin trim. The groom's mother was in a pale blue brocade dress and coat ensemble.

AMONG THE guests were the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. R. M. C. Ormrod and Mrs. James Barrow of Clayton, Mo., her aunt, Mrs. L. E. Klein, also of Clayton, and her four brothers, Robert Jr., Steven, James and William.

The new Mrs. Macdonald attended the Fine Arts Academy in Chicago and her bridegroom is now attending St. Louis University where he is majoring in electrical engineering. He has spent four years overseas with the Air Force.

Since Feb. 1, the newlyweds have been residing at 3912 Jamison, St. Louis. (S

Plum Grovers See Tree Demonstration

Shaping, pruning and wiring of bonsai trees was demonstrated by Gay Laubsch of Hills Nursery in Dundee at the recent monthly meeting of the Plum Grove Garden Club of Palatine.

Laubsch donned his "happiness" coat, denoting an artist specialist in designing trees, and proceeded to shape a dwarf Japanese juniper tree while explaining the history of bonsai. The art of bonsai was introduced to this area in 1902, and 1,200 semi-finished trees are still in training at Hills Nursery. Laubsh noted that it takes 85 years of growth before a bonsai has any great monetary value. Since the 11th century, these trees have been passed down from generation to generation, many reaching the age of 300 years.

The tree shaped by Laubsch was won by Mrs. E. P. Rielley.

HOSTESS FOR THE evening meeting was Mrs. Herman Dengler with Mrs. Robert Cromar as co-hostess. Members answered roll call with the name of a bird seen in their gardens.

Mrs. Walter Dreyfus made an arrangement for constructive criticism. At each meeting, various members bring arrangements in order to enable others to benefit by their mistakes.

The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Robert Cromar, Mrs. Jack Evans, and Mrs. E. P. Rielley, recommended the following slate of officers for the year, starting April 1:

PRESIDENT, Mrs. Charles Pease; vice president, Mrs. George Orbin; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Conforti; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ronald Emmons, and treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Golterman.

The next board meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 21, at the Palatine home of Mrs. Walter Dreyfus, 613 Burno Drive.

CCW Plans Luncheon, Hat Sale

A variety of several hundred salads prepared in the kitchens of the members of St. Theresa Council of Catholic Women will make up the menu of the council's salad buffet luncheon and hat sale.

Being offered for sale will be an assortment of late winter and spring hats in a variety of styles and colors. Assisting chairman Mrs. Arthur in the selection and sale of the chapeaux will be Mrs. Norbert Bruns and Mrs. Robert Kumpf.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore an ecru satin gown with full train. The gown featured a lace Queen Anne collar, and her shoulder-length veil was fastened to a pearl coronet. Her bouquet was of white phalaenopsis and tube roses with English ivy.

MRS. GEORGE MacDONALD

ATTENDING THE bride as maid of honor was Miss Cynthia Bertrand of Wheeling and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Miss Margaret Macdonald of St. Louis, and the bride's cousin, Susan Webster Klein, also of St. Louis. Their empire gowns were of pale blue chiffon, and they also wore matching blue veils. Old fashioned bouquets of deep pink roses and white carnations with pink streamers completed their ensembles.

Flower girl was the bride's 9-year-old cousin, Jane Crockett Klein of St. Louis, who wore a full-length dress of pink and white organza and carried a nosegay of pink and white roses.

Altar boys were the groom's brother, Michael Macdonald and Marty Bertrand, brother of the maid of honor. John Macke of St. Louis was best man and ushers were Gerald Osborne, David Bommarito, Kenneth Foushee and Phil Caltagirone, all of St. Louis.

The buffet reception was held in Old Orchard Country Club where Mrs. Wilson received in a champagne lace dress with satin trim. The groom's mother was in a pale blue brocade dress and coat ensemble.

AMONG THE guests were the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. R. M. C. Ormrod and Mrs. James Barrow of Clayton, Mo., her aunt, Mrs. L. E. Klein, also of Clayton, and her four brothers, Robert Jr., Steven, James and William.

The new Mrs. Macdonald attended the Fine Arts Academy in Chicago and her bridegroom is now attending St. Louis University where he is majoring in electrical engineering. He has spent four years overseas with the Air Force.

Since Feb. 1, the newlyweds have been residing at 3912 Jamison, St. Louis. (S

Plum Grovers See Tree Demonstration

Shaping, pruning and wiring of bonsai trees was demonstrated by Gay Laubsch of Hills Nursery in Dundee at the recent monthly meeting of the Plum Grove Garden Club of Palatine.

Laubsch donned his "happiness" coat, denoting an artist specialist in designing trees, and proceeded to shape a dwarf Japanese juniper tree while explaining the history of bonsai. The art of bonsai was introduced to this area in 1902, and 1,200 semi-finished trees are still in training at Hills Nursery. Laubsh noted that it takes 85 years of growth before a bonsai has any great monetary value. Since the 11th century, these trees have been passed down from generation to generation, many reaching the age of 300 years.

The tree shaped by Laubsch was won by Mrs. E. P. Rielley.

HOSTESS FOR THE evening meeting was Mrs. Herman Dengler with Mrs. Robert Cromar as co-hostess. Members answered roll call with the name of a bird seen in their gardens.

Mrs. Walter Dreyfus made an arrangement for constructive criticism. At each meeting, various members bring arrangements in order to enable others to benefit by their mistakes.

The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Robert Cromar, Mrs. Jack Evans, and Mrs. E. P. Rielley, recommended the following slate of officers for the year, starting April 1:

PRESIDENT, Mrs. Charles Pease; vice president, Mrs. George Orbin; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Conforti; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ronald Emmons, and treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Golterman.

The next board meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 21, at the Palatine home of Mrs. Walter Dreyfus, 613 Burno Drive.

CCW Plans Luncheon, Hat Sale

A variety of several hundred salads prepared in the kitchens of the members of St. Theresa Council of Catholic Women will make up the menu of the council's salad buffet luncheon and hat sale.

The event is planned for Saturday, Feb. 12, at St. Theresa School hall, 445 N. Benton, Palatine, from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Being offered for sale will be an assortment of late winter and spring hats in a variety of styles and colors. Assisting chairman Mrs. Arthur in the selection and sale of the chapeaux will be Mrs. Norbert Bruns and Mrs. Robert Kumpf.

Ticket information may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Farris, 709 N. Wren, Palatine, 358-6878. (S

Lorraine Van Dyke Weds Jan. 8 in Home Ceremony

The fireplace of the Richard Van Dyke home at 22 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, became the setting for the Jan. 8 wedding ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Van Dyke's daughter, Lorraine Jean, and James Walter Brown, whose home is in Blountville, Tenn.

A large arrangement of white glads, white mums and red roses was centered on the mantel, with 7-branch candelabra on each side of the fireplace and a white oval rug before it. A pair of 3-branch candelabra on the piano also illuminated the living room as the bridal pair were joined in marriage at 4:30 in the afternoon. Performing the double ring nuptials was Rev. Donald Keith.

JUST BEFORE the ceremony the bride's brother, Roger Van Dyke, played "I Love You Truly" on the trombone, accompanied at the piano by Betty Clayton of Munster, Ind. Roger also played the wedding march on the piano as his sister approached the fireplace setting.

Her only attendant was her sister, 8-year-old Melodie Ann, who was a junior bridesmaid, attired in a white velvet dress with a red sash and carrying a nosegay of miniature red roses.

Her brother, Nick Van Dyke, served as best man.

FOR HER WEDDING day, the bride was attired in a white brocaded satin street-length dress embroidered in silver. She wore a shoulder-length veil attached to a small beaded crown and carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Thirty-eight guests witnessed the home ceremony, and then all attended a dinner at Evans Restaurant in Mount Prospect. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of Blountville, were not able to be present for the day's festivities.

THE BRIDE and groom have both been associated with Letterman's General Hospital in San Francisco, the bride completing graduate work there this past December. The groom is serving two years in the army, stationed at the west coast hospital.

The new Mrs. Brown was graduated from the University of Iowa at Iowa City before doing graduate work and has taken a position as occupational therapist at Ireland Army Hospital, Fort Knox, Ky.

The groom plans to return to Eastern Tennessee State University after military service.

Maternity Center Team Is Lunching at Casino

With all arrangements completed for their benefit cocktail dance and dinner, 15 enthusiastic members of the northwest area fund-raising team for the Chicago Maternity Center are among the 350 women expected to attend the Center's 22nd annual enrollment drive luncheon.

The luncheon is being held today (Thursday) at the Casino in Chicago, where the 15 area women will be table chatting about their annual fund-raiser to be held Saturday, Feb. 12 in Itasca Country Club. Since the date is also Lincoln's birthday, the women have chosen appropriate decorations such as a huge replica of a Lincoln penny, stove pipe hats and other black and copper ornamentations.

TODAY THE WOMEN are guests of Mrs. John Andrews King, honorary chairman of the Maternity Center, who has been hostess to this traditional kick-off luncheon for more than 20 years. Following the luncheon guests will hear Gordon Bent, vice president for finance of the Maternity Center, and Dr. Beatrice E. Tucker, its medical director, report on the accomplishments of the past year.

"Deliver a healthy baby to a healthy mother" was the motto of the late Dr. Joseph B. DeLee who founded the Maternity Center 71 years ago. This is still the purpose of the Center as its medical teams deliver babies at home for families who cannot afford hospitals or private physicians.

The Center also gives practical training in obstetrics and gynecology to doctors, nurses and medical students including 200 students a year from Northwestern Medical School and the Chicago Medical School, while its pediatric department gives specialized care to newborn infants delivered by its teams. Staff members carry out significant research, sharing results with the medical profession everywhere.

To support this work about one-third of the $358,697 budget is raised through donations. For several years the northwest area group of 30 women has been the leading fund-raising team in the Chicago area. They look forward to an even more successful benefit party this year. (S

United Church Is Topic at Trinity

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Trinity Methodist Church, Mount Prospect, has invited all church members and persons interested in church union to its meeting Tuesday evening, Feb. 8, 8 o'clock. The church is located at 605 W. Golf Road.

"Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren (EUB) - Where Are We" is the title of the program which is of church-wide interest. Under consideration are theological issues, youth movements, missions and racial problems.

F. PAIGE Carlin, managing editor of the Methodists' "Together" magazine, will be present to lead the discussion. He is a specialist in covering and reporting new and significant developments in a proposed union of the two denominations, and because of his close study of the EUB's, historically and contemporarily, he speaks with authority.

After his presentation, the meeting will be open to relevant questions, which he and Rev. Claude Dotson, Trinity pastor, will attempt to answer.

Christmas Weekend Includes Wedding in Homeyer Family

(Stephany (S

The recent Christmas holiday weekend caused a double celebration in the Edwin A. Homeyer household at 2304 Sigwalt St., Rolling Meadows, as the daughter, Shirley Mae, chose Dec. 26 as her wedding day. At 3 in the afternoon that Sunday she became Mrs. Terry Wilson Wittekiend in Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church, Des Plaines.

The bride and her groom have both attended Illinois State University, with her graduation closely following her wedding day. She received her degree in January, and the newlyweds are making their home in Havana, Ill., while Mr. Wittekiend is teaching in the Balyki school system. He is a '64 graduate of Illinois State U.

His parents are the Woodrow Wittekiends of Manito, Ill.

THE BRIDE designed and sewed her wedding gown with the help of a friend, Mrs. Roger Allen of Normal, Ill. The floor-length satin dress had a lace empire bodice with long sleeves and a detachable lace train. An elbow-length silk illusion veil was secured with a pearl crown, and the bride's bouquet was composed of white starburst pompons with ivy, carried on a white Bible.

Christmas greens and red and white poinsettias adorned the altar as Rev. R. K. Wobbe united the couple in double ring rites. To complement the setting, the bride's attendants came down the aisle in Christmas green velvet dresses, floor-length, and carrying white pompons, holly and berries tied with a wide red velvet ribbon.

MISS CAROLYN SENG of Arlington Heights was maid of honor, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Patricia Rippey of Tucson, Ariz., and Connie Seifert of Quincy, Ill., were bridesmaids.

Mrs. Rippey's husband, Charles, was best man, while the bride's three brothers, Leroy, Tom and Ted Homeyer, seated the guests, as did Gary Elser of Bloomington, a cousin of the groom. Leroy Homeyer serves with the U. S. Army, Tom lives in Des Plaines and Ted in Rolling Meadows.

IN KEEPING with the Christmas setting, the bride's mother had a corsage of white pompons with holly berries and Mrs. Wittekiend had white and red carnations with holly in hers. Mrs. Homeyer wore a royal blue silk ribbon knit ensemble for the ceremony and reception, and Mrs. Wittekiend wore a black brocade with white accessories.

The 120 wedding guests attended a buffet supper in the church hall immediately after the ceremony, before the newlyweds left for a week's honeymoon at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton.

Their address in Havana is 419½ N. Broadway.

Deanne Schild Wears Sister's Bridal Gown for Dec. 23 Rites

The date of Dec. 23 added another significant occasion during the holiday season for the Edwin F. Schild family of 1683 Beaver Pond Road, Inverness. That evening Deanne Carol Schild became the bride of Donald Norcross Robinson of North Aurora, and the ceremony was performed just six years and one day after that of the bride's sister Marlene, who now resides in Arlington Heights as Mrs. John Holmes.

The bride wore her sister's wedding gown of pure white peau de soie and alencon lace and was complemented by five attendants, all attired in Christmas red chiffon and satin and carrying snowballs of white carnations accented with holly berries.

MRS. MARLENE Holmes was her sister's matron of honor, and Mr. Holmes was best man. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Robinson of North Aurora.

For the 7 o'clock ceremony performed in Elmwood Park Presbyterian Church, former "home" church of the bride's family, the altar was decked with white poinsettias and Christmas greens.

THE BRIDE'S attendants came down the aisle wearing floor-length red chiffon sheaths with red satin midriffs and matching red satin bow hats with blusher veils.

Besides Mrs. Holmes as matron of honor, the four bridesmaids were Bonnie Bratnober of Evanston; the groom's sister, Mrs. Julianne Pompa of Troy, Mich., and two sorority sisters of the bride, Marje Rackow of Oak Park and Sherry Keaton of Olympia Fields.

The bride, Miss Rackow and Miss Keaton all attended DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., together and were affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. The groom is also a DePauw graduate and was a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity.

ENTERING THE sanctuary on the arm of her father, the bride wore her sister's princess-styled gown of white peau and alencon lace with long sleeves, scooped neckline and a very full skirt which flowed into a cathedral train. The bodice and front panel of the skirt were overlaid in the lace which was outlined in pearls.

A contoured alencon lace cappette encrusted with pearls and peau petals held her silk illusion veil in place, and she carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Rev. Simon Jepson united the couple by candlelight, as the groom's fraternity brother, Kip Weldon, sang appropriately.

SEATING THE guests were Wayne Schild, the bride's brother; James Pompa of Troy, Mich., Jeff Lortz of Mount Prospect and Don Voss of North Aurora.

For the wedding and dinner reception which followed at Medinah Country Club for 200 guests, the bride's mother wore a seafoam silk embroidered dress, and the groom's mother chose a deep green raw silk jacket dress. Mrs. Schild had a pink cymbidium orchid corsage and Mrs. Robinson, green cymbidiums.

The newlyweds were both graduated in 1965 from DePauw University and will make their home at 1100 Geneva Road, St. Charles. The bride teaches second grade there at Wayne Elementary School, and the groom is associated with Francis I. du Pont in Aurora.

Their honeymoon was a 10-day trip to Jamaica. (S

Deanne Schild Wears Sister's Bridal Gown for Dec. 23 Rites

The date of Dec. 23 added another significant occasion during the holiday season for the Edwin F. Schild family of 1683 Beaver Pond Road, Inverness. That evening Deanne Carol Schild became the bride of Donald Norcross Robinson of North Aurora, and the ceremony was performed just six years and one day after that of the bride's sister Marlene, who now resides in Arlington Heights as Mrs. John Holmes.

The bride wore her sister's wedding gown of pure white peau de soie and alencon lace and was complemented by five attendants, all attired in Christmas red chiffon and satin and carrying snowballs of white carnations accented with holly berries.

MRS. MARLENE Holmes was her sister's matron of honor, and Mr. Holmes was best man. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Robinson of North Aurora.

For the 7 o'clock ceremony performed in Elmwood Park Presbyterian Church, former "home" church of the bride's family, the altar was decked with white poinsettias and Christmas greens.

THE BRIDE'S attendants came down the aisle wearing floor-length red chiffon sheaths with red satin midriffs and matching red satin bow hats with blusher veils.

Besides Mrs. Holmes as matron of honor, the four bridesmaids were Bonnie Bratnober of Evanston; the groom's sister, Mrs. Julianne Pompa of Troy, Mich., and two sorority sisters of the bride, Marje Rackow of Oak Park and Sherry Keaton of Olympia Fields.

The bride, Miss Rackow and Miss Keaton all attended DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., together and were affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. The groom is also a DePauw graduate and was a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity.

ENTERING THE sanctuary on the arm of her father, the bride wore her sister's princess-styled gown of white peau and alencon lace with long sleeves, scooped neckline and a very full skirt which flowed into a cathedral train. The bodice and front panel of the skirt were overlaid in the lace which was outlined in pearls.

A contoured alencon lace cappette encrusted with pearls and peau petals held her silk illusion veil in place, and she carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Rev. Simon Jepson united the couple by candlelight, as the groom's fraternity brother, Kip Weldon, sang appropriately.

SEATING THE guests were Wayne Schild, the bride's brother; James Pompa of Troy, Mich., Jeff Lortz of Mount Prospect and Don Voss of North Aurora.

For the wedding and dinner reception which followed at Medinah Country Club for 200 guests, the bride's mother wore a seafoam silk embroidered dress, and the groom's mother chose a deep green raw silk jacket dress. Mrs. Schild had a pink cymbidium orchid corsage and Mrs. Robinson, green cymbidiums.

The newlyweds were both graduated in 1965 from DePauw University and will make their home at 1100 Geneva Road, St. Charles. The bride teaches second grade there at Wayne Elementary School, and the groom is associated with Francis I. du Pont in Aurora.

Their honeymoon was a 10-day trip to Jamaica. (S

Set Benefit Dance For Mental Health

Feb. 19 is the date of the annual benefit dance sponsored by Mount Prospect Chapter of the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association. This year's event will be a dinner dance at the Sheraton-O'Hare, according to Mrs. William Radtke, general chairman.

All proceeds from the benefit dance will help support the association-sponsored Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Clinic, the only facility of its kind in this area. Located in Arlington Heights, the clinic serves not only that city and Mount Prospect, but the towns of Elk Grove, Hoffman-Schaumburg, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove and surrounding areas.

Tickets to the dinner dance may be obtained from Mrs. Reinhardt, CL 5-1235, or Mrs. Radtke, CL 5-1519. (S

Refinishing Is On Homemakers Coming Agenda

The date has not yet been set, but area members of the Homemakers Extension Association are already collecting furniture for refinishing. Mrs. J. A. Reitzel, Algonquin Road, and a member of the Elk Grove Unit, has offered one of the buildings on her property for this all-unit project.

The Elk Grove Unit heard a lesson on "How to Plan Nutritious Meals" when they met Jan. 26 in Mrs. Reitzel's home. The lesson was given by the Cook County Home Advisor, Miss Evelyn Augustin.

Sixteen members of the Elk Grove unit attended the 25th annual meeting of the Cook County Homemakers Extension Service held recently at Mangam's Chateau in Lyons. The group included seven active charter members, six regular members and three charter members now retired from the (S

The Way We See It

Charities Must Be Held Answerable

We applaud the Bensenville Village Board for its forthright action in refusing a permit for a charitable solicitation recently.

Trustees refused the Hemophilia Foundation because an income statement submitted with its application showed only $12,000 of $35,000 collected the last two years was spent for national and local grants, while $20,000 went for administration and $3,000 for miscellaneous purposes.

This is a mediocre record, at best, but dozens of other so-called charity organizations have done even worse, studies have shown. The American public is "taken" for millions of dollars yearly in the name of charity.

The typical suburbanite is solicited for donations many times each year—at his home, while shopping, and at his place of work. Each citizen should be free to give to agencies of his own choosing, but he should also be given the facts on the different charities' performances.

Village officials would do a service for the public by requiring each applicant for a charitable fund-raising permit to submit a detailed, verified statement of its income and how it was spent. No statement, no permit.

And if the statement showed an unreasonable share of funds collected going for "administration" or other overhead expenses, village officials should not hesitate to say "No!"

Two Important Decisions

Two recent decisions by the Illinois Supreme Court are particularly important to suburbanites.

One of them strongly reaffirmed the right of the press to report local government activities fully and frankly. The other upheld firm regulation of coin-operated laundries and dry cleaning establishments.

The laundry case involved the strong Chicago ordinance, which was enacted after the boom in coin-operated laundries began several years ago. Among other things, Chicago required that attendants be present at self-service laundries during night-time operations, and that they close between 11:30 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Soon after, many suburbs passed similar laws.

At that time, police blotters provided much evidence that unattended all-night laundries offered temptation and opportunities for vandalism, mischief, theft, assault and other crimes.

True, trouble could be suppressed if the police departments stationed men at the trouble spots, but the police have other things to do.

Running an orderly business is the responsibility of the proprietor. It was gratifying that the court ruled municipalities can rightfully enact laws guaranteeing this.

The freedom of information case involved a libel judgment against the Peoria Journal-Star, which had given its readers detailed information on a prolonged dispute between the Peoria market and the city health department, which had prepared a report critical of the market's health standards.

A lower court had ruled that, by printing the report, the Journal-Star became liable for proving the accuracy of every word it contained.

Such a requirement would result in stifling complete and accurate reporting of government affairs.

The threat of costly lawsuits would be used to deter the press from reporting debates, pleadings, investigations and reports which are characteristic of the government process.

The Illinois Supreme Court's decision was in line with recent rulings by the U.S. Supreme Court in the same field. The courts have ruled wisely that under a system of representative self-government, the citizen's right to know must be paramount.

Retain Popular Control

Attention has been focused on the role of Congress as the result of President Johnson's proposal to elect U.S. Representatives for four-year terms, the election to take place during presidential election years.

The chief argument for the change is that it would free Congressmen from frequent re-election campaigns and therefore give them the time and peace of mind needed to become more effective legislators.

This sounds good in a text-bookish sort of way. But a second look at the proposal reveals it would do more harm than good.

Men who are good legislators will be good no matter how long their terms, and those who are bad won't be cured by giving them longer tenure. Perhaps they would become even worse.

The aim of freeing Congressmen for legislative activity can be achieved just as well by giving them greater clerical and research help.

The fatal flaw in the President's proposal is that it would remove federal government even farther from popular control. Congressmen find it difficult enough now to assert their independence of the White House. If Congressmen were elected only in Presidential election years, they would be still more beholden to the President.

A popular check on the federal administration every two years is not too often in these days of fast-moving events. Four years would be too long an interval.

The effective Congressman does not fear going to the voters frequently. Part of his job is to know what his constituents are thinking and to inform them how he is voting and why. This activity is not a waste of time, but rather is a positive good.

Two-year terms for U.S. Representatives should be retained.

Tips to Card Burners

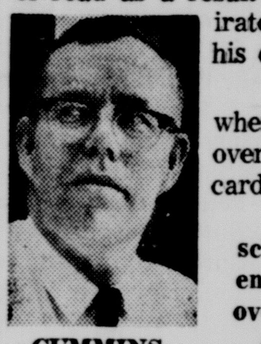
by BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

A fad for burning draft cards has developed among young war protesters.

I am a little curious about some of the implications of this.

It could be catching. Persons with grievances other than against war could very well take up card burning.

I can visualize an automobile stranded on a lonely stretch of road as a result of a flat tire or broken fan belt, with its irate driver standing by the open hood, burning his oil company credit card.



CUMMINS

I can imagine myself in a restaurant where a patron who has just been served an overdone steak sets fire to his Diners Club card and stalks from the place.

I can picture the scene at a crowded school playground the day the semester ends. Report cards going up in flames all over the place.

Although we are anxious to maintain basic American freedoms, we must caution young draftees from going too far. The right to protest does not extend to setting your draft card on fire in a crowded theatre.

Draft card burning, like other innovations, opens up new avenues for distinction and profit.

I was particularly impressed by the report that a draftee burned his card without using a match or cigarette lighter. He used some dry moss and a pointed stick. Seems he used to be a Boy Scout.

Looking at draft card burning from the point of view of the national economy, I am searching for some way it can be used to build up our gross national product (GNP). At present, I am busy in the lab, trying to develop a Draft Card Starter Fluid and hope to patent the formula and license it to some big chemical company, which will market the product in chain stores.

All the fire departments are busy drawing up a set of draft card burning precautions to publicize during Fire Prevention Week.

Some of the important rules are:

—Don't burn your draft card while standing next to a can containing gasoline or naphtha.

—Don't burn your draft card in a tightly enclosed area; the fumes could be lethal.

—Don't leave a burning draft card unattended.

—Keep draft cards out of the reach of children, especially children who have matches in their pockets.

Finally, this very important admonition from Smoky the Bear: "If you are in a national forest when you burn your draft card, please don't carelessly toss it among dry leaves. It is best to wait until the fire is out, then cover the ashes with dirt."

Congressional Terms

by KATHY GOSNELL
Staff Writer

The country stands to benefit from President Johnson's proposal to lengthen the term of office of Congressional representatives, according to most of the suburban residents called for this column.

Under the present system, the congressman has just about enough time to learn his job during his first term, when he must return to his home to run for reelection.

Both the Congressman and the country would benefit if elections were held every four years, instead of every two, according to supporters of the change.

BOTH MONEY and politics enter into consideration of the change, many of those called said.

The candidate and the country can both save money if elections are held less frequently, and perhaps the government will be more smoothly run.

Many of the people called, however, had no opinion of Johnson's proposal, either because they had not read about it or, as one woman said, because she forgot what her husband had told her.

It "makes sense" to change the term of office to four years, said Mrs. Donald Bramlett, 2918 Cardinal, Rolling Meadows, because representatives could then run for election the same time as saving money.

CONGRESSMEN "can accomplish a lot more in a four-year term than a two-year term," she said.

It is rough for a Congressman to have to come home to run again just when he is learning to do his job, said Mrs. Grant Watson, 690 Grosvener Lane, Elk Grove Village.

"If we elect a good man he deserves to stay in office instead of coming home to run again," she said.

Mrs. Watson said she would like to think Johnson "has the man in mind" rather than the cost of elections in proposing the change.

"IT PROBABLY is a very good idea," said Mrs. Betty Steger, 136 S. Park, Roselle. "There are entirely too many elections" she said, adding that it takes two years to learn the job. The country itself might gain if experienced men were holding four-year terms of office, she said.

"I'm all for it," said Mrs. Frank Marshall, 427 Hiawatha, Buffalo Grove. There are too many elections now, she said, and Congressmen should be allowed long enough terms to get used to the job.

Mrs. Peter Newkirk, 1036 E. Algonquin, Arlington Heights, said she can "sympathize" with changing the term of office, but added that she did not expect the change to come about.

PEOPLE ARE used to the system the way it is and will be slow to change, she said. She also said the amount of legislation passed in the last session of Congress may cause the next session to move more slowly.

But she would favor the change because Congressmen are now spending half their time running for office instead of running the government, she said.

Mrs. Edward K. Lack, 70 Woodcrest, Elk Grove Village, disagreed with the view presented by the others.

"I would just as soon see a two-year period of office," she said. A fast turn-over and new ideas caused by two-year terms will "keep it stimulating," she said. (FP

Talk Shows: 'Just Guff'

By NANCY ANDERSON
Staff Writer

One of the brightest ideas in radio's history is the "talk show," where a moderator and perhaps a guest or two preside behind the mike and take questions and comments over the phone from listeners.

This is radio's element, the conversational give and take which can't be duplicated by the written media, and for which the pictures of television aren't necessary.

The idea behind this sort of show has been developed fairly recently and adapted widely. Stations across the country have worked out a variety of formats, logging in time periods running from 15 minutes to several hours.

ANDERSON

Now, all you have to do is turn the knob, and you may hear:

—Weighty political discussion.

—Light, entertaining features about topics such as "The Sun-Tanned Truth Behind the Fence of a Nudist Colony."

—Answers to such vital everyday questions such as "What's wrong with my four-month-old child who won't talk yet?" "Will this marriage last another three days?" "Is it really true there's only one Beatle who isn't married yet?"

THERE'S SOMETHING for everyone. And if you have any more questions, just dial QS 3-4795, and you can talk to the great man / woman / character yourself.

It's great. The idea, that is.

Unfortunately, in all the conversational give and take, there's too much giving of nonsense and taking of guff.

The nonsense can almost be tolerated. After all, the radio audience (and who listens? just 160 million people, that's all) has learned to live with disc jockeys.

BUT SOME OF the stuff given out by the radio interviewers isn't just nonsense. Some of the commentators are rude, disgusting and intolerant. Those who suffer first are the people being interviewed, at the station as major participants in the show, or by telephone when they call in. Those who suffer second, and perhaps the most, are the listeners.

Granted, the "hot" and potentially the most interesting shows, are those featuring controversial people, but they're invited to express their views, and too frequently they don't even get a chance.

One reason they don't, of course, is the guff coming in from callers.

Most shows apparently don't require callers to identify themselves, contrary to the practice of any responsible newspaper or magazine, which insists on knowing the identity of any writer. Thoughts which people would think twice about putting their name to are given free rein over the airwaves. Bigotry, prejudice, petty grievances against the whole world clash as voices rise in angry insistent shouting.

OR THERE'S THE dull, determined reading of a woman who calls in every evening to share with all her personal 30-minute message of salvation. It doesn't matter what the program is; she's just called because she has another chance to get on the air. If the station's lucky, the operators will recognize her voice and screen her out. If not, perhaps other callers will clog the lines and she can be cut off shortly.

Then there's the monotonous repetition of inane question after question, but they're all about the same. They start, "You don't really think such-and-such, since..." and launch into a five-minute commentary which may or may not be related to the subject under discussion.

Talk show? "Confessional of the Air" would be a better title. Though confession may not be the object, the caller's comments may reveal him more clearly than any deliberate listing.

Some shows are designed for such a purpose, to aid through conversation people who may have reached their wits' end. Those I'll avoid, hoping that radio producers can tighten up the open-ended format of their other talk shows and come up with something worthy of the promise.

—Weighty political discussion.

—Light, entertaining features about topics such as "The Sun-Tanned Truth Behind the Fence of a Nudist Colony."

—Answers to such vital everyday questions such as "What's wrong with my four-month-old child who won't talk yet?" "Will this marriage last another three days?" "Is it really true there's only one Beatle who isn't married yet?"

THERE'S SOMETHING for everyone. And if you have any more questions, just dial QS 3-4795, and you can talk to the great man / woman / character yourself.

It's great. The idea, that is.

Unfortunately, in all the conversational give and take, there's too much giving of nonsense and taking of guff.

The nonsense can almost be tolerated. After all, the radio audience (and who listens? just 160 million people, that's all) has learned to live with disc jockeys.

BUT SOME OF the stuff given out by the radio interviewers isn't just nonsense. Some of the commentators are rude, disgusting and intolerant. Those who suffer first are the people being interviewed, at the station as major participants in the show, or by telephone when they call in. Those who suffer second, and perhaps the most, are the listeners.

Granted, the "hot" and potentially the most interesting shows, are those featuring controversial people, but they're invited to express their views, and too frequently they don't even get a chance.

One reason they don't, of course, is the guff coming in from callers.

Most shows apparently don't require callers to identify themselves, contrary to the practice of any responsible newspaper or magazine, which insists on knowing the identity of any writer. Thoughts which people would think twice about putting their name to are given free rein over the airwaves. Bigotry, prejudice, petty grievances against the whole world clash as voices rise in angry insistent shouting.

OR THERE'S THE dull, determined reading of a woman who calls in every evening to share with all her personal 30-minute message of salvation. It doesn't matter what the program is; she's just called because she has another chance to get on the air. If the station's lucky, the operators will recognize her voice and screen her out. If not, perhaps other callers will clog the lines and she can be cut off shortly.

Then there's the monotonous repetition of inane question after question, but they're all about the same. They start, "You don't really think such-and-such, since..." and launch into a five-minute commentary which may or may not be related to the subject under discussion.

Talk show? "Confessional of the Air" would be a better title. Though confession may not be the object, the caller's comments may reveal him more clearly than any deliberate listing.

Some shows are designed for such a purpose, to aid through conversation people who may have reached their wits' end. Those I'll avoid, hoping that radio producers can tighten up the open-ended format of their other talk shows and come up with something worthy of the promise.

Bake Dessert Along With Oven Dinner

Warm desserts for cold-nipped appetites will surely call for seconds. At least that will be true when the dessert contains cranberry sauce in combination with the nutlike flavor contributed by oats, sugar and coconut.

It's easy to use lard in this recipe even when it comes right out of the refrigerator. Cut with a pastry blender into the dry ingredients for the top and bottom of this square.

This kind of sweet talk works readily into menus since Cranberry Crunch Squares bake in a moderate oven for approximately half an hour. They can frequently be baked with a casserole as part of an oven dinner.

Less rich than most desserts, these fruity crunch squares are also ideal when entertaining at bridge, afternoon or evening coffee. If desired warm, especially when contrasted with ice cream, bake in advance but leave them in the baking dish and let heat for five minutes.

CRANBERRY CRUNCH SQUARES

1 cup quick cooking oats
2/3 cup brown sugar, packed
½ cup sifted enriched flour
½ cup shredded coconut
¼ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup lard
1 can (16 ounces) whole cranberry sauce
1 tablespoon orange juice
2 teaspoons orange rind

Mix oats, sugar, flour, coconut and salt. Cut lard into dry ingredients. Place half the crumb mixture in an 8x8x2-inch greased baking dish. Combine cranberry sauce, orange juice and rind. Spread evenly over crumb mixture. Top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cut, while warm, into 9 squares. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired. Yield: 9 servings. (SH

Stuffed Onions Make Hearty Meal

Cold, winter days just naturally call for hearty, "stick to the ribs" meals. More often than not, a casserole dish will be favored.

Here is a delectable casserole that combines the tasty merits of a stuffed vegetable. Large white onions are stuffed with budget-priced ground beef and flavored with grated cheese. A speck of chili powder gives pep to the stuffing and a flavorful, easy-to-prepare sauce regales the Stuffed Onions. If desired, this casserole can be made ahead of time.

STUFFED ONIONS
(Serves 6)

6 medium onions
¾ pound ground lean beef
½ cup chopped mushrooms
¼ teaspoon chili powder
Salt
Pepper
Pinch of sugar
½ cup grated cheese
1 can condensed cheese soup
½ soup can water
¼ teaspoon chili powder

Peel onions and parboil about 30 minutes or until almost tender. Slice off end of onion and remove all but ¾ inch of outside shell. Chop pulp of onion.

Saute chopped onion with beef, mushrooms and seasoning until lightly browned. Mix cheese with beef mixture. Fill onion cases with beef and cheese mixture.

Place stuffed onions in casserole. Add a little water to prevent scorching. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until tender. Pour soup mixture over onions and bake until heated through. (SH

Pristine Look Makes Bow At Fashion Show Feb. 12

Not a button, bead or sequin will appear in the showing of Designer George Stavropoulos' 1966 spring collection which will be shown Saturday, Feb. 12, at O'Hare Inn. Presenting the luncheon-showing at the O'Hare Inn is the St. John Philoptochos Society of Des Plaines which includes women from the entire northwest area.

Collars, belts and fastenings have also been omitted from the designer's collection. His gowns follow a pristine line with indented or tied waists, floating lace and chiffon, fluid texture in wools or silk which seem utterly seamless. Colors in his collection play more with light than with contrast. Suits have boneless, hip-length jackets, and skirts that wrap and flare. One of the most beguiling dresses is a flowered silk chiffon finely pleated like the costumes seen on a Greek vase.

The short, spare and often bare little chiffon evening gowns cling and float at the back, held by minute ties. One is a mysterious affair in shell pink organza, all in one piece yet full of circular movement.

The chiffons, which this designer has loved, are rivalled in his affections this season by a series of exquisite laces from Spain, Italy and France.

The showing is open to all area women, who may obtain tickets by calling 827-5519. (S

Social Ministry Is Topic of Lutherans

The women of the Lutheran Church of the Cross, Arlington Heights, are presenting a program entitled "Our Community - Our Calling, Through the Lutheran Church in America" on Tuesday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. in the church, 2025 S. Goebbert Road.

Guest speaker will be Miss Irene Werner, director of the Division of Child and Family Care of the Lutheran Welfare Agency, Chicago. She will explain how people in our community can help others in the important areas of social ministry.

THE churchwomen's theme for the year is "Our Community - Our Calling." Throughout the year they are led to understand their role as Christians in their community. To emphasize this calling, the women sponsored a study series for the church in January, beginning with a book review of "The Secular City" by Harvey Cox. Rev. Larry Cartford did the review.

The second session was a panel of Mrs. Richard Vande Vegte, Mrs. Kenneth Wall and Mrs. Sam Johnson discussing the Christian's role in a secular society, and the final session featured Rev. Richard Winsor, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Chicago, who spoke on "The Negro Challenges the Church." (S

Mrs. Melvin I. Levers, club president, comments that the club has come a long way in broadening its scope of civic duties and philanthropic responsibilities.

The presiding president and Mrs. Edward Wegner, membership chairman, initiated 23 new members at the January club meeting. Those interested in the group may call Mrs. Shepard at 259-3784. (S

THE GOLDEN YEARS

WANT A RETIREMENT SPOT? TAKE A SQUINT AT THIS ONE

"I was very surprised to see the Golden Years column tell retired people there is no place in the U.S. where violent weather hasn't hit or won't hit if you wait long enough.

"Did you ever hear of Sequim, Wash.?"

Well, no. And it's doubtful that most readers of this column ever did. But they are about to hear now . . . and it certainly will be a shame if a flood or a tornado sweeps through there next week.

The surprised man with the query is Mr. Alexander Lindsay, a retired analytical chemist who moved to Sequim. He is now the Sequim observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau. He should know whereof he speaks. So here goes:

"Sequim is an Indian name (pronounced SKWIM) which means bountiful creature comforts," says Mr. Lindsay. "It is a pleasant town of 1,325 people on the Olympic Peninsula, five miles from the sea and 70 miles northwest of Seattle. It is known as 'The Paradise of the Northwest.'

"The climate, in a few words, is mild winters and comfortable summers."

The details, as Mr. Lindsay describes them:

"In January the average maximum temperature is 45 degrees, the minimum averages 31. In July the average maximum is 72, the minimum 49. A day above 80 degrees is rare, and blankets are used every night, even in July and August.

"Electrical storms are rare and mild. Tornadoes and hurricanes are unknown. The snow, which doesn't remain around long, averages 5.9 inches a year. Oppressive humidity is unknown.

"On the Pacific Coast north of Los Angeles, Sequim is the driest spot there is, with an average rainfall as low as 16.81 inches.

"The fogs are infrequent and light," Mr. Lindsay continues. "Mountains protect us from excess rain and from Pacific Ocean storms. We are on level ground, and floods and landslides are unknown . . . Our sunshine is dazzling."

Mr. Lindsay now gets down to the crass business of money:

"Houses, mostly frame, range from $4,000 to $25,000, with the average between $8,000 and $12,000, Taxes are based on the real value of property and are 0.75 per cent, which includes state, county, town, roads, schools, etc. Water, sewers, and garbage collection are $5.75 monthly. The average electric bill for a six-room house would be $9 a month. Heating by oil would run $9 a month. A one-bedroom home heated by electricity would have a bill of $16 monthly."

From Sequim it is a long way to grandchildren in the Midwest or in the East and South . . . a long way from anywhere except the Pacific Coast. But the jets are fast and frequent these days.

Bake Dessert Along With Oven Dinner

Warm desserts for cold-nipped appetites will surely call for seconds. At least that will be true when the dessert contains cranberry sauce in combination with the nutlike flavor contributed by oats, sugar and coconut.

It's easy to use lard in this recipe even when it comes right out of the refrigerator. Cut with a pastry blender into the dry ingredients for the top and bottom of this square.

This kind of sweet talk works readily into menus since Cranberry Crunch Squares bake in a moderate oven for approximately half an hour. They can frequently be baked with a casserole as part of an oven dinner.

Less rich than most desserts, these fruity crunch squares are also ideal when entertaining at bridge, afternoon or evening coffee. If desired warm, especially when contrasted with ice cream, bake in advance but leave them in the baking dish and let heat for five minutes.

CRANBERRY CRUNCH SQUARES

1 cup quick cooking oats
2/3 cup brown sugar, packed
½ cup sifted enriched flour
½ cup shredded coconut
¼ teaspoon salt
1/3 cup lard
1 can (16 ounces) whole cranberry sauce
1 tablespoon orange juice
2 teaspoons orange rind

Mix oats, sugar, flour, coconut and salt. Cut lard into dry ingredients. Place half the crumb mixture in an 8x8x2-inch greased baking dish. Combine cranberry sauce, orange juice and rind. Spread evenly over crumb mixture. Top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cut, while warm, into 9 squares. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired. Yield: 9 servings. (SH

Peek-a-Boo Balls

Mix equal portions of crumbled American blue cheese and cream cheese. Chill through. Form cheese mixture into small balls, about size of marbles. Place cheese balls between two pecan or walnut halves. Press nuts into cheese. Chill until serving time.

Stuffed Onions Make Hearty Meal

Cold, winter days just naturally call for hearty, "stick to the ribs" meals. More often than not, a casserole dish will be favored.

Here is a delectable casserole that combines the tasty merits of a stuffed vegetable. Large white onions are stuffed with budget-priced ground beef and flavored with grated cheese. A speck of chili powder gives pep to the stuffing and a flavorful, easy-to-prepare sauce regales the Stuffed Onions. If desired, this casserole can be made ahead of time.

STUFFED ONIONS
(Serves 6)

6 medium onions
¾ pound ground lean beef
½ cup chopped mushrooms
¼ teaspoon chili powder
Salt
Pepper
Pinch of sugar
½ cup grated cheese
1 can condensed cheese soup
½ soup can water
¼ teaspoon chili powder

Peel onions and parboil about 30 minutes or until almost tender. Slice off end of onion and remove all but ¾ inch of outside shell. Chop pulp of onion.

Saute chopped onion with beef, mushrooms and seasoning until lightly browned. Mix cheese with beef mixture. Fill onion cases with beef and cheese mixture.

Place stuffed onions in casserole. Add a little water to prevent scorching. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until tender. Pour soup mixture over onions and bake until heated through. (SH

Biscuit Making

To bake biscuits with soft, creamy-white sides, place the cut pieces of dough close together in pan or on baking sheet; for biscuits with crisper, lightly browned sides, place at least ½ to ¾-inch apart.

Pristine Look Makes Bow At Fashion Show Feb. 12

Not a button, bead or sequin will appear in the showing of Designer George Stavropoulos' 1966 spring collection which will be shown Saturday, Feb. 12, at O'Hare Inn. Presenting the luncheon-showing at the O'Hare Inn is the St. John Philoptochos Society of Des Plaines which includes women from the entire northwest area.

Collars, belts and fastenings have also been omitted from the designer's collection. His gowns follow a pristine line with indented or tied waists, floating lace and chiffon, fluid texture in wools or silk which seem utterly seamless. Colors in his collection play more with light than with contrast. Suits have boneless, hip-length jackets, and skirts that wrap and flare. One of the most beguiling dresses is a flowered silk chiffon finely pleated like the costumes seen on a Greek vase.

The short, spare and often bare little chiffon evening gowns cling and float at the back, held by minute ties. One is a mysterious affair in shell pink organza, all in one piece yet full of circular movement.

The chiffons, which this designer has loved, are rivalled in his affections this season by a series of exquisite laces from Spain, Italy and France.

The showing is open to all area women, who may obtain tickets by calling 827-5519. (S

Social Ministry Is Topic of Lutherans

The women of the Lutheran Church of the Cross, Arlington Heights, are presenting a program entitled "Our Community - Our Calling, Through the Lutheran Church in America" on Tuesday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. in the church, 2025 S. Goebbert Road.

Guest speaker will be Miss Irene Werner, director of the Division of Child and Family Care of the Lutheran Welfare Agency, Chicago. She will explain how people in our community can help others in the important areas of social ministry.

THE churchwomen's theme for the year is "Our Community - Our Calling." Throughout the year they are led to understand their role as Christians in their community. To emphasize this calling, the women sponsored a study series for the church in January, beginning with a book review of "The Secular City" by Harvey Cox. Rev. Larry Cartford did the review.

The second session was a panel of Mrs. Richard Vande Vegte, Mrs. Kenneth Wall and Mrs. Sam Johnson discussing the Christian's role in a secular society, and the final session featured Rev. Richard Winsor, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Chicago, who spoke on "The Negro Challenges the Church." (S

Dinner Dance Marks 10th Anniversary of Juniors

Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club will celebrate its 10th anniversary with a dinner dance Saturday, Feb. 5, at Henrici's O'Hare Inn. Cocktails will be served to members and friends at 7:30 p.m. and dinner at 8:30 p.m. Dress is optional.

Mrs. Melvin I. Levers, club president, comments that the club has come a long way in broadening its scope of civic duties and philanthropic responsibilities.

"Through ever expanding budgets, the ways and means committees have worked diligently to provide funds for many new and diversified charities. Numerous scholarships have been provided each year through the efforts of Mount Prospect Junior club women," she said.

PAST PRESIDENTS of the Mount Prospect Juniors include: Mrs. William Smith, 1955-1957; Mrs. Leonard Willis, 1957-1959; Mrs. Robert McCullagh, 1959-1961; Mrs. Kenneth Odmark, 1961-1963; and Mrs. Jack Bornhoeft, 1963-1965.

The presiding president and Mrs. Edward Wegner, membership chairman, initiated 23 new members at the January club meeting. This year's projects have included a November theatre party, and a Christmas card sale. A salad luncheon-card party is planned for April. Proceeds from all functions go to local and IFWC philanthropies.

La Leche's 2nd In Series, Feb. 8

The second in a series of four monthly meetings on "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding" will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the Arlington Heights home of Mrs. Thomas Kientzle, 820 N. Douglas. Specific subject for the meeting will be "The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties."

It is not necessary to be a nursing mother to attend the meeting, according to Mrs. Roland Shepard, leader of the group. Any woman interested in nursing is invited and those who missed the first of the series will have a chance to hear this information in May when another series will begin.

Those interested in the group may call Mrs. Shepard at 259-3784. (S

THE GOLDEN YEARS

WANT A RETIREMENT SPOT? TAKE A SQUINT AT THIS ONE

"I was very surprised to see the Golden Years column tell retired people there is no place in the U.S. where violent weather hasn't hit or won't hit if you wait long enough.

"Did you ever hear of Sequim, Wash.?"

Well, no. And it's doubtful that most readers of this column ever did. But they are about to hear now . . . and it certainly will be a shame if a flood or a tornado sweeps through there next week.

The surprised man with the query is Mr. Alexander Lindsay, a retired analytical chemist who moved to Sequim. He is now the Sequim observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau. He should know whereof he speaks. So here goes:

"Sequim is an Indian name (pronounced SKWIM) which means bountiful creature comforts," says Mr. Lindsay. "It is a pleasant town of 1,325 people on the Olympic Peninsula, five miles from the sea and 70 miles northwest of Seattle. It is known as 'The Paradise of the Northwest.'

"The climate, in a few words, is mild winters and comfortable summers."

The details, as Mr. Lindsay describes them:

"In January the average maximum temperature is 45 degrees, the minimum average 31. In July the average maximum is 72, the minimum 49. A day above 80 degrees is rare, and blankets are used every night, even in July and August.

"Electrical storms are rare and mild. Tornadoes and hurricanes are unknown. The snow, which doesn't remain around long, averages 5.9 inches a year. Oppressive humidity is unknown.

"On the Pacific Coast north of Los Angeles, Sequim is the driest spot there is, with an average rainfall as low as 16.81 inches.

"The fogs are infrequent and light," Mr. Lindsay continues. "Mountains protect us from excess rain and from Pacific Ocean storms. We are on level ground, and floods and landslides are unknown . . . Our sunshine is dazzling."

Mr. Lindsay now gets down to the crass business of money:

"Houses, mostly frame, range from $4,000 to $25,000, with the average between $8,000 and $12,000. Taxes are based on the real value of property and are 0.75 per cent, which includes state, county, town, roads, schools, etc. Water, sewers, and garbage collection are $5.75 monthly. The average electric bill for a six-room house would be $9 a month. Heating by oil would run $9 a month. A one-bedroom home heated by electricity would have a bill of $16 monthly."

From Sequim it is a long way to grandchildren in the Midwest or in the East and South . . . a long way from anywhere except the Pacific Coast. But the jets are fast and frequent these days.

New GOLDEN YEARS 36-page booklet now ready. Send 50c in coin to Dept. [illegible], care of this newspaper, to Box 1672, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N.Y.

Choreography, Script Best Parts of St. Theresa Debut

by JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

The Spring thaw set in early last Friday night.

Local weathermen obviously didn't count on the St. Theresa Variety Players' anti-freeze: a musical variety concoction entitled "Please, Open the Door." The warming trend began in St. Viator's auditorium, a gigantic structure which could be billed as the undergraduate answer to Radio City Music Hall.

Of course, when you're confronted with such a tremendous stage-theater facility, there are problems. And St. Theresa's troupe had them. The audio system, though appearing to be built upon an adequate technical foundation, had a few cracks in its "pick-up" cement. Mikes hanging from the proscenium, directly or near-directly over the heads of the performers, don't always assure the hearing of lyrics and lines.

AS A DIRECT contrast, the auditorium's excellent organ was beautifully-boosted in volume, by amplification and pedal, although there were moments when chords were a bit too loud. However, you have to face up to such mountains, then try to climb them.

Since "Please, Open the Door" listed a cast and production staff which would make the Ed Sullivan show seem like a 15-minute panel discussion, I won't go into individual performances.

The basic idea of the presentation was "center the plot around a little Viet Nam orphan getting her first taste of the United States." A simple, obvious and not necessarily original story line.

BUT, SIMPLICITY was a courageous captain for the St. Theresa dramatic squad. Sets were uncomplicated, yet colorful; make-up was well handled; musically, the show was above the usual church-school variety scramble. Direction by James Stamm showed stiffness at times, but at least he kept his scenes moving easily, if not his characters.

The most noticeable lull came at an inappropriate time: between scenes 3 and 4 (the Fall to Winter change). This was not the time for lost moments and a large-scale set change because the audience was itching to get into the final 10 per cent of the show.

Choreography again pointed to the common sense of not getting involved in all kinds of "cleverly complicated" steps — just to impress the audience. The dancing and dancers were a delight. Musically speaking, the voices of the chorus, beginning with the nuns' opening number needed much more volume, and frankly, I could not figure out why the nuns were placed far stage right when they could have been positioned closer to the musical accompaniment. (The "orchestra" — all three of them — was aware of the importance of keeping volume up or down, and their concern for the singers complimented the production.)

THE SET DECOR team and behind-the-scenes scramblers showed remarkable talent in changing sets rapidly. This isn't easy when you have a "basketball court" for a stage area. Use of props like beach umbrellas, ice cream cones which were cleverly "enlarged," a simple Christmas tree and small red bike was effective.

General staging of masses of people could have been improved. The opening carousel scene needed happier expression from the on-stagers. The carnival atmosphere must be conveyed to the audience by face and movement. The "June Is Bustin' " number suffered by too many people "standing there and reciting the lyrics to musical accompaniment." More pep in the gesture department would have sold the song. The various soloists were in good voice, but needed to throw that voice to the audience.

Probably the most satisfying aspect of "Please, Open" was the script. Or what there was of it. And that was the advantage! Most school-church offerings are much too long simply because the authors of the show write themselves right out of the picture. They write, write, write until a 3½ hour monstrosity evolves from what should be a pleasant, hardly-time-consuming written presentation. What is worse: many productions are the work of a committee of writers. This means different people with different ideas, different writing talents, and in many cases, no writing talent at all! The result is usually similar to the old adage, "A camel is a racehorse designed by a committee."

HOW GEORGE Dionesotes, Rudolph Liska, Donald Heyden and James Stamm came out with a racehorse is a feat to be admired. They kept dialogue at a minimum, introduced their plot in the first eight-or-so lines of the show and then let the music carry the nag to the finish line. There were moments when more lines could have been inserted between numbers to give reason for a selection's being there in the first place. In particular, dialogue between the Fall and Winter scenes would have helped keep the audience's attention while the set switch was being made.

Scriptwise, "Please, Open" was an achievement for amateur theatre. In fact, the St. Theresa show was a pleasant surprise to this reviewer. It might even be worth freezing a gas line or two to show up for another such warming trend.

How to Succeed in Show Biz

Audience Appeal Is Secret

BY JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

During the past few seasons new community theatre groups have been popping out of the suburban woodwork like termites in search of the nearest lumber yard. But this is par for the course. After all, the suburbs are growing, too. Now, the only thing the myriad of existing Paddockland stage organizations has to worry about: how long will the stay be?

The pressure is constantly on—to entertain, to make a little money to continue to entertain, to build an audience as well as a faithfully-active collection of onstage, offstage, backstage workers. Look at the roster of Paddockland drama companies: Village Theatre Inc., Capri Players, Des Plaines Theatre Guild, Best Off Broadway Players, Winston Little Theatre, St. James Theatre Group, St. Theresa Variety Players Music-On-Stage, Masque and Staff and Cameo Players

Fortunately the fight for survival in local theater doesn't have to be as violent as on Broadway. So far the season has proved to be Broadway's worst. But not all failures come from the big time. There have been a few right under our noses—in amateur, semi-pro and yes, even pro circuits. What's happening? What makes this year or last year any different? Should community drama groups worry about their futures any more than they have already? Can they learn from mistakes made by others?

ONCE UPON a time there was Mill Run Theater, a large-scale endeavor designed to present plays and musicals. Hoping to make a bundle by placing "names" on their marquee and a jazzy atmosphere about their new theater the promoters of Mill Run overlooked an important facet of trying to make it like Milwaukee - Golf - Greenin a store-studded area wood: you are attempting a theatrically-citified atmosphere within a suburban shopping center location. Somehow the ingredients just don't seem right

And in the case of Mill Run they weren't. The producers got so excited about their enterprise that they tried to push the baby in the buggy before the wheels were attached. Their theatre wasn't physically ready for the first show. Granted they had a success or two but "a success or two" doesn't pay all the bills.

Another point: you have to take a serious look at your audience. What is their taste? In the case of Mill Run someone neglected to take into consideration "the psychology of the shopping center crowd." Yeh, you heard me right—shopping center crowd. No matter how you dress 'em, they're still average stay-at-homers—a grandiose-scale night out at the theatre usually means "Let's go downtown, honey, and live it up big."

SO MA AND PA get out. But if you're going to live it up big on Saturday night, with dinner and the theatre, do you take your wife into shopping center surroundings? The very place she just returned from hours ago (and usually can be found four days out of seven)?

Now what about community theatre in the Paddock area? Variety continues to be a natural springboard for success. Usually the more theatre groups in an area the more variety in programming looked forward to by the audience.

Of course there continue to be dangers in a theater group "going along with the competition" as far as programming plays is concerned. All of a sudden you wake up, look at the Billboard page and find everybody and his brother doing "Under the Yum Yum Tree." The challenge for all groups this season and last: "What will we do that some other outfit hasn't already done recently?" The theatrical Robin Hoods and their merry men and women who successfully manage to give variety to the poor usually end up rich. The coming seasons will continue to challenge the inventiveness of new drama organizations.

AS TO THE suburban ticket-buyers, you can't accurately predict what's going to excite them. On the pro circuit, Pheasant Run Playhouse continues to draw with Hollywoodies like June Allyson and positively-awful pre-Broadway plays like "Good-bye Ghost." Occasionally they'll slip in a Monique Van Vooren on you just for the sex of it all. Audiences, some of them, don't mind such antics. But it's my guess that locale and atmosphere of Pheasant Run is a greater percentage of the appeal.

In our area, we have a similar operation. Country Club Theatre at Old Orchard Country Club, but in this case, the set-up seems ideal for the "get 'em for dinner and a show" crowd. With proper atmosphere, good food and none of the "big name star" routines being thrown in your face, the chances for a pleasant evening are pleasant. All you need is a well-conditioned collection of performers which C.C.T. has, plus a variety in play selection.

Community theaters continue to be offered a challenge by their audiences. The typical suburban "let's go see a show tonighters" are there to be entertained, not constantly bombed with deeply-psychological messages via scripts heavy with neurotics, psychotics, love-starved monologue-spouting characters and the like. By and large, the members of the Friday-Saturday-Sunday wolfpack look forward to licking their chops on a little relaxation, a little fun and an opportunity to see whether the guy down the block has as much talent on stage as he has shoveling snow off his driveway.

YOU CAN'T toss a regular entree of Tennessee Williams or Edward Albee into the suburban dramatic diet any more than you'd expect local church Thespians to swing out with a rampantly-raw "Maid in the Ozarks." What has happened to other big city suburbs can happen here: an epidemic of too many message dramas and sex comedies. And when a theatregoer gets the flu, just how long does he want it hanging around?

The message for the Paddockland drama season at hand, as well as seasons to come, is a profound one. New community theater organizations will continue to pop into view, but their ability to remain on a profit level will depend largely upon their concern for the feelings of the most important people in their world: the ticket-buyers.

On Stage at WIU

Eugene Kozlowski, 1108 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, will have a leading role on the stage at Western Illinois University. He will appear in "A Man for all Seasons" in the Fine Arts Theatre, a recent Broadway production.

And in the case of Mill Run they weren't. The producers got so excited about their enterprise that they tried to push the baby in the buggy before the wheels were attached. Their theatre wasn't physically ready for the first show. Granted they had a success or two but "a success or two" doesn't pay all the bills.

Another point: you have to take a serious look at your audience. What is their taste? In the case of Mill Run someone neglected to take into consideration "the psychology of the shopping center crowd." Yeh, you heard me right—shopping center crowd. No matter how you dress 'em, they're still average stay-at-homers—a grandiose-scale night out at the theatre usually means "Let's go downtown, honey, and live it up big."

SO MA AND PA get out. But if you're going to live it up big on Saturday night, with dinner and the theatre, do you take your wife into shopping center surroundings? The very place she just returned from hours ago (and usually can be found four days out of seven)?

Now what about community theatre in the Paddock area? Variety continues to be a natural springboard for success. Usually the more theatre groups in an area the more variety in programming looked forward to by the audience.

Of course there continue to be dangers in a theater group "going along with the competition" as far as programming plays is concerned. All of a sudden you wake up, look at the Billboard page and find everybody and his brother doing "Under the Yum Yum Tree." The challenge for all groups this season and last: "What will we do that some other outfit hasn't already done recently?" The theatrical Robin Hoods and their merry men and women who successfully manage to give variety to the poor usually end up rich. The coming seasons will continue to challenge the inventiveness of new drama organizations.

AS TO THE suburban ticket-buyers, you can't accurately predict what's going to excite them. On the pro circuit, Pheasant Run Playhouse continues to draw with Hollywoodies like June Allyson and positively-awful pre-Broadway plays like "Good-bye Ghost." Occasionally they'll slip in a Monique Van Vooren on you just for the sex of it all. Audiences, some of them, don't mind such antics. But it's my guess that locale and atmosphere of Pheasant Run is a greater percentage of the appeal.

In our area, we have a similar operation. Country Club Theatre at Old Orchard Country Club, but in this case, the set-up seems ideal for the "get 'em for dinner and a show" crowd. With proper atmosphere, good food and none of the "big name star" routines being thrown in your face, the chances for a pleasant evening are pleasant. All you need is a well-conditioned collection of performers which C.C.T. has, plus a variety in play selection.

Community theaters continue to be offered a challenge by their audiences. The typical suburban "let's go see a show tonighters" are there to be entertained, not constantly bombed with deeply-psychological messages via scripts heavy with neurotics, psychotics, love-starved monologue-spouting characters and the like. By and large, the members of the Friday-Saturday-Sunday wolfpack look forward to licking their chops on a little relaxation, a little fun and an opportunity to see whether the guy down the block has as much talent on stage as he has shoveling snow off his driveway.

YOU CAN'T toss a regular entree of Tennessee Williams or Edward Albee into the suburban dramatic diet any more than you'd expect local church Thespians to swing out with a rampantly-raw "Maid in the Ozarks." What has happened to other big city suburbs can happen here: an epidemic of too many message dramas and sex comedies. And when a theatregoer gets the flu, just how long does he want it hanging around?

The message for the Paddockland drama season at hand, as well as seasons to come, is a profound one. New community theater organizations will continue to pop into view, but their ability to remain on a profit level will depend largely upon their concern for the feelings of the most important people in their world: the ticket-buyers.

On Stage at WIU

Eugene Kozlowski, 1108 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, will have a leading role on the stage at Western Illinois University. He will appear in "A Man for all Seasons" in the Fine Arts Theatre, a recent Broadway production.

Also in the cast is Carol Weidmann, 300 Addison Road, Wood Dale, who is also stage manager. Diane DeFranco, 1310 Hazel Court, Des Plaiens, is in charge of properties on the production staff. (15CC

Arlingtones Will Sing For Benefit

The 60 members of the Arlingtones, who represent the Arlington Heights chapter of the SPEBSQSA, the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, will blend their voices again Sunday Feb. 13, at 2:30 p.m. in the Wheeling High School Little Theatre.

The performance is a benefit for the Northwest Suburban Council for Exceptional Children.

The Arlingtones, who won the Illinois district chorus championship for the third consecutive year, last Oct. 2 are men ranging in age from the early 20's to the 70's. They represent all walks of life: plumbers, carpenters, salesmen, teachers, doctors, tool and die makers, bankers, lawyers and ministers, among others, and they come from towns as scattered as Cary, Wilmette, Bensenville and Wheeling.

THEY HAVE performed, under the direction of Earle Auge, orchestral and choral music teacher at Niles East High School, before approximately 50,000 persons in a single year.

Profits from their benefit performance Feb. 13 will be used for scholarships, teacher recruitment and educational programs of the Council for Exceptional Children.

Mrs. Phebe Hager, president of the local chapter, announced that tickets are available by calling Mrs. Vernon R. Boman, CL 3-5625. (Bill

MEMO FROM BILL COOK

Our Used Car Creed

"When we sell NEW automobiles we act chiefly as a retailer, selling merchandise that bears another's name and reputation.

"But when we sell USED cars, we take on some of the responsibility of a manufacturer.

"The various USED cars that we sell are no longer warranted by the original makers. In effect, they bear OUR name.

"We have succeeded as a merchant of re-conditioned automobiles with the honesty of our products and our methods.

"We can't afford to jeopardize our reputation by selling merchandise we cannot offer with pride and confidence.

"Our USED cars must be honestly re-conditioned to give us the benefit of a product that will create the right kind of word-of-mouth advertising."

MEMO FROM BILL COOK

Our Used Car Creed

"When we sell NEW automobiles we act chiefly as a retailer, selling merchandise that bears another's name and reputation.

"But when we sell USED cars, we take on some of the responsibility of a manufacturer.

"The various USED cars that we sell are no longer warranted by the original makers. In effect, they bear OUR name.

"We have succeeded as a merchant of re-conditioned automobiles with the honesty of our products and our methods.

"We can't afford to jeopardize our reputation by selling merchandise we cannot offer with pride and confidence.

"Our USED cars must be honestly re-conditioned to give us the benefit of a product that will create the right kind of word-of-mouth advertising."

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it proper to phone one's acknowledgment of a gift?

A. This is, of course, better than no acknowledgment at all. But still, a nice, personally-written note of thanks seems to convey more interest and more sincere appreciation of the gift.

Q. What is considered the "proper" kind of personal stationery for a man?

A. A large white single sheet measuring approximately 8 by 10 inches, folded twice to insert into an envelope, is considered in best taste for all social correspondence, including the most formal.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it proper to phone one's acknowledgment of a gift?

A. This is, of course, better than no acknowledgment at all. But still, a nice, personally-written note of thanks seems to convey more interest and more sincere appreciation of the gift.

Q. What is considered the "proper" kind of personal stationery for a man?

A. A large white single sheet measuring approximately 8 by 10 inches, folded twice to insert into an envelope, is considered in best taste for all social correspondence, including the most formal.
